Mrs. C. Vail and Mrs. G. L. Perry were hostesses Monday for the annual picnic dinner of the Garden club, at the home of Mrs. Vail on Little Cedar Lake.

Seventeen members of the club, in response to roll call, told of the changes they would like to make in their garden. The dinner was served at noon.

Mrs. H. W. Schabacker read a most interesting paper on "Autumn Planting" following the dinner.

The family reports two weddings and four births. No deaths were reported.

The reunion next year will be held at the same place. Marshall Miller was elected president for 1956 and Perry Fairfield was elected vice-president; Mrs. Schinbeckler, secretary-treasurer. Mary Helen Miller will be in charge of games and contests.

Doctors Cannot Trust Patients To Take Pills

SCIENCE TODAY
By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — Penicillin can be taken by mouth, thereby avoiding rump-puncturing, but can people be trusted to take their pills like the doctor ordered?

Three doctors have looked into that question and the answer seems to be that people can't be trusted. From a doctor's viewpoint the reaction could be — puncture 'em and take no chances.

Out of 245 persons the doctors checked up on, 84 had failed to follow orders. Of the 245, 217 were acting — or not acting — in behalf of sick children 15 years old or younger.

Whether the penicillin pills were taken or not taken was a matter of grave importance because the patients were suffering from streptococcus infections of the throat or the ear.

Medical science has shown that such infections can lead to rheumatic fever and its dangers to the heart unless the streptococcal bacteria are completely wiped out. Penicillin pills will wipe them out provided they are taken faithfully for seven to ten days.

Seniors Do Prescribing

The 245 patients were treated by the Home Medical Service of the Massachusetts General Hospitals in Boston. The prescribing was done by seniors of Boston University medical school under the supervision of their superiors. The check - ups were made by Drs. Daniel N. Mohler, David G. Wallin, and Edward G. Dreyfus.

Of the 84 who stopped taking the penicillin before they should have, 31 stopped because the patient felt better, 23 stopped out of carelessness, 14 stopped on the plea that they didn't have the money to buy the pills, 9 stopped because the child refused to take any more pills, and 7 stopped because they hadn't understood what the doctor meant.

All 245 were of low income, and 80 were getting public welfare assistance. The three doctors, in their report in the New England Journal of Medicine,said of these 80 that although they got their pills without charge, they "did not differ in performance from the rest of the group."

Six - Month Study

The study was carried out over a six month period. During the first three months, the medical seniors didn't know it was going on, and so the orders they gave to the patients were no more than ordinarily emphatic.

But during the last three months the seniors "emphasized" to patients the importance of taking the pills for seven days. This helped, but not nearly enough. During the first three months, 60.1 per cent took the pills as ordered; during the last three months, the percentage was 70..9 "Although this represented a desirable trend the increase was not statistically significant," the three doctors remarked.

They added that their findings "are particularly significant to clinics and physicians treating a large number of streptococcal infections with penicillin. It is suggested that the degree of unreliability encountered in the routine oral use of penicillin constitutes a significant disadvantage in obtaining effective thereapy."

Big Four

conference.

Progress Not Disclosed

What progress Mr. Eisenhower made with his World War II comrade and ally was not disclosed. But the Soviet objections to German reunification now appeared unshakable.

European security promised to be an equally difficult issue.

Both West and East, in speeches opening the conference Monday, set objectives and proposed methods for achieving a European security system that were significant primarily for the disclosure of the wide gulf separating East and West.

Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin made it clear that Russia's prime objective in arranging European security was the destruction of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and elimination of U.S. forces from Europe.

The West proposed that European security be hinged on a reunited Germany, free to choose her allies and limited in arms, with guarantees to Russia against aggression.

Won't Scuttle NATO

Western leaders are pledged to firmly oppose any scheme that would scuttle NATO. Russia has declared she opposes any system which would include a rearmed Germany within a Western defense system.

Bulganin told the Western delegates bluntly Tuesday that Russia does not believe the time is ripe for reunification. It must be approached from another direction, he said. And the process may take a long time.

The Western Big Three had not expected prompt or easy Russian acceptance of German reunification. But the uncompromising attitude of Bulganin came as a surprise.

Even President Eisenhower's dramatic personal appeal at Tuesday's session to Bulganin and Zhukov apparently failed to move the Russians.

Eden Is Host

Eden was host to the Russians Tuesday night at a dinner that caused British sources to say later that they considered the "door still open" to further discussion of Germany's future.

This morning he was President Eisenhower's guest at breakfast. The Russians invited all the other delegations for lunch. Tonight, the Russians play host separately to the French to repay Premier Edgar Faure's hospitality to them at dinner last Sunday.

Tuesday, the Big Four heads of state ran into an impasse on the German question. President Eisenhower urged Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov, an old military friend, to accept the need for a unified Germany within the NATO framework.

Step-By-Step Approach

Bulganin replied, however, that Moscow preferred a slow, step-by-step approach to the problem, rather than immediate German reunification.

The issue went back to the foreign minister level for further discussion and unification of East and West Germany seemed more distant than ever.

Yet, a few hours later at the dinner, Eden aparently had found a crack in the blank wall that may open the way to further discussions here.

The Big Four themselves were meeting later in the day to consider other points in the agreed agenda for the summit conference. Besides Germany, these include European security, disarmament and the development of contacts between East and West.

Diplomats were silent on what specifically was still about Germany and European security at the British dinner. But Eden reportedly wound up the evening convinced that the Big Four will discuss Germany again this week.

Eden's "Serious' Talks

Fully informed sources said Eden's 'serious' talks with Bulganin and Soviet Communist Party First Secretary Nikita Khrushchev "eased the situation" arising out of Russia's earlier rejection of the West s plan for Germany and or European security.

The new thread of optimism was tied to clear emergence of the fact that Russia is resigned for the moment to West German rearmament in NATO.

Little as the Kremlin leaders like this idea, they have recognized it, and American delegates considered this an important development.

It seemed likely the Soviets were showing a more reasonable attitude on West Germany's attachment to Western alliances. Previously, they had demanded detachment of Germany from NATO as the price of unification.

Americans were waiting for significant developments in the last moments of the conference, since the Communists' usual tactics are to save their real proposals for the last days—even hours—of negotiation.

President Eisenhower, however, has not altered his intention to be back in Washington by Sunday. But Secretary of State John Foster Dulles might be willing to stay an extra day or two.

Two Significant Developments

Two significant developments came up as the conference went into its third day still operating in an aura of extraordinary good faith and friendliness, with a total lack of vituperation by either side. These were:

1. U.S. delegates were struck by a flat Bulganin statement, as reported Tuesday night by the Russian Tass news agency, that "we do not at present put forward the question of annulling these agreements and of West Germany leaving the said grouping, for this would be unrealistic." The Americans believed this open Russian recognition of the fact of German NATO membership climaxed a wide swing in policy.

2. According to the Tass report, Bulganin did not mention Tuesday the part of his two-stage security plan that would freeze NATO strength at present levels while a full accord was being worked out. Dropping of this "freezing" provision would make Bulganin's call for a first-stage moratorium on war more acceptable to the West.

Russian Farmers See American Movie

DES MOINES (UP) — Twelve Russian farm experts sat intently Monday night through their first American movie.

It was a sneak preview of "The Night of the Hunter," starring Robert Mitchum, which will have its premiere here July 26.

The visiting Russians seemed to have trouble keeping up with the plot, and interpreters whispered to them throughout the film.

Good Deed

OLD MYSTIC, Conn. — (UP) — The Rev. Daniel C. Tuttle was surprised when a contractor's gang moved in unannounced and resurfaced the parking lot at the Old Mystic Baptist Church. Later the minister was even more startled when he received a bill for $400. He breathed a sigh of relief after noting it was marked "paid in full" by the contractor, who just wanted to do something for the church.

TV's George Gobel Has Movie Career As Mitzi's Lover

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — George Gobel, the top TV comedian of the nation, has been introduced to movie stardom by way of sizzling love scenes with shapely Mitzi Gaynor.

To millions of TV fans "Lonesome George" is a placid, married guy with a TV wire, Alice, played by Jeff Donnell.

But for his movie debut Paramount Studio presented the crew cut comic with a torrid love interest, Miss Gaynor, who chases shy George throughout "The Birds and The Bees."

"This isn't the story of my life so I don't think anybody will mind the romance," George said.

Studios Seek Him

Gobel was bombarded with film scripts from every studio after his TV success. The comedian said his agent turned them down "because he didn't think they were right for me.". Then Paramount asked George to look at an old Henry Fonda-Barbara Stanwick movie, "The Lady Eve."

Gobel decided to appear in a remake of it as his own independent production, "so we make money—if the picture is good."

Though George entered movies without his TV wife, he took along Gobelisms that have become house hold bywords. In today's script George let out a "suu—rrre he does.' In fact, half of the set workers from director Norman Taurog to the carpenters were "surre he does'ing.

Expressions Must Fit

"But unless my expressions fit into the tory the director doesn't fool with them," explained George. "Sometimes I'll add one in rehearsal and if it fits, Norman will leave it in.'

Movie stars are TV fans, too, and George's first day on his set brought a string of visitors including Jimmy Stewart, Charleton Heston and Doris Day. Even movie master Cecil B. DeMille wants to meet him.

According to Paramount custom, George was given a bicycle to ride around the lot. His is labeled, Lonesome George."

Mitzi Gaynor sighed, "George is so sweet—and he's really a great dramatic actor,' But Gobel isn't sure whether he wants to remain a star.

"We'll wait and see what happens when this is released, a year from now," he said in his usual modest manner. "I just hope that after this one is out we'll still be in a position to make a decision about more movies.

"But you can't plan too far ahead. We don't even know what we'll do on television next fall."

Your Daughter Iris, by Jerome Weidman. A New York doctor and his wife spend an unusual honeymoon in England.

TOPS Clubs Help Trim Waistlines

MILWAUKEE (UP)—There are more ways than one to trim a waistline, but Nancy Piepenbrink, Fort Wayne, Ind., can prove that diet is the best and safest way.

Mrs. Piepenbrink shed more than 67 pounds in six months and traded her old size 46 dresses for slim-looking 15s. What makes her story so special is the fact that in doing so, she probably saved herself fro mthe grave, through the help of TOPS, the Take Off Pounds Sensibly club.

The members of TOPS have been waging a concerted and effective war against fat for eight years. The group was started by Mrs. Esther Manz, a Milwaukee housewife who is now national president of the 10,000member, nonprofit organization.

Mrs. Piepenbrink won top award in a recent TOPS "improvement" contest for women 40 and over.

Appearance, measurements and "success stories' 'wer ealso considered in the judging.

A diabetic who had literally eaten herself ino a coma, Mrs. Piepenbrink was treated with insulin and dismissed from a hospital—weighing 217½ pounds. "They told me only diet could help my diabetic condition, but I couldn't do it," she said. Then she joined her local TOPS organization and by means of the club's group effort cut the weight of her 5 foot, 3 inch frame down to 147½ pounds in six months, and "began to live again.'

There were eight winners in the two sections of the improvement conest and they lost a total of 658 pounds, Mrs. Manz said.

The files of the TOPS club head quarters here bulge with leters telling of new happiness, health and companionship found in TOPS by ladies all over the nation.

There are no "gimmicks" in the organization. But the fight against fat, one of the hardest jobs in the world, can be made a lot easier when the effort is given direction and impetus.

TOPS never prescribes a diet, but it will willingly play watchdog over any diet a member gets from her doctor. The weekly weighings are the occasion for much sociable "ribbing" and the member who tips the scales too sharply is apt to hear from her friends at various times during the week for progress reports on her diet.

As Mrs. Manz said, the members of the 150 TOPS clubs form probably the only group in the world whose "losses are our gains."

Some automobiles contain as many as 13 small electric motors.

Legume Pastures Save Supplement In Feeding Hogs

LAFAYETTE, — Indiana hog farmers can save one dollar per 100 pounds of pork produced if plenty of good legume pasture is used to substitute for a part of the protein supplement.

Research conducted at Purdue University shows that hogs fed adequate supplement until they weighed 100 pounds made gains costing only $9.80 per pound. The cost was $11.00 per 100 pounds for hogs fed supplement until marketed, reports J. H. Conrad, of the Purdue animal husbandry department.

Although gains were slightly less when the supplement was removed at 100 pounds, these pigs reached 200 pounds only six days later than those fed supplement throughout the experiment.

Conrad also reports that another approach for greater utilization of pastures is to make supplement less palatable with salt.

A 60 per cent reduction in supplement intake resulted from the addition of 10 per cent salt to protein supplement. Pigs fed supplement with two per cent of salt ate pounds of gain. The average daily gains, however, were identical in both groups, regardless of the level of salt.

Details of the experiment on limiting supplement with salt can be obtained by writing to the office of agricultural publications for A. H. Mimeo. 135.

Hot Temperatures For Santa Claus

SANTA CLAUS, Ind. (UP)—Temperatures in the 90s aren't bothering Santa Claus at all. He works in his short and sleeves while electric fans stir up cool breezes near his throne.

Outdoors the weather is hot and muggy. So old St. Nick has shed his fur-trimmed red jacket in favor of a white shirt—summer weight, too.

Of course, he's a bit uncomfable with his flowing white beard. And his bright red velvet trousers would be better trimmed to bermuda shorts length.

But the fans help, and,afterall, Santa can't change his whole costume just because it's summer.

Santa's job in this tiny town which capitalized on its world famous name knows no seasons. Tourists bring their children from all over to see exhibits and visit toyland, where Santa holds forth the year round instead of just around Christmas.

133 Shopping Days

Just like in December, when the mercury is nudging zero and snow covers the ground, kids love to sit on Santa's knee and tell him what they want for Christmas.

Most of them have their minds made up, even if Christmas is 133 shopping days away. But some youngsters can't understand why St. Nick spends his time between seasons in an Ohio Valley village nested between hills where it gets hot in May and stays that way to October.

Santa, who is known among the adult natives as Jim Yellig, settles his 198 pounds into an ornate chair in the toy shop and tries to explain to a curious 4-year-old boy.

"Somebody," he says, wiping the perspiration from his brow, "has to stay around and take orders while my helpers work feverishly at the North Pole workshop.

"We sort of have to know a little in advance, you understand, what you kiddies are going to want next Christmas. Otherwise, we might run out of some toys and have too many of others."

Post Office Nearby

Most of the children who visit Santa during the summer are full of the Christmas spirit, Santa said. Their interest perks up when they look around and see stacks of toys, just as many in summer as in winter.

The famous postoffice, which gets thousands of letters each Christmas containing greeting cards to be postmarked "Santa Claus, Ind.," is in the same building.

Outside, as a tourist attraction, is a pen of reindeer.

Inside, Santa sweltered.

"Sure wish we had air-conditioning," he said, wistfully.

"Hot Rodders"

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UP)—Patrolman Paul Roberts said he was more than startled when he arrested two "hot rodders" engaged in a "drag race"—a short speed run from a standing start.

Roberts said he arrested Pinellas County Prosecuting Atty. Emerson Parker in one car and his brother, Traffic Court Judge Carl Parker, of Madeira Beach, as the other driver.

Law Pitches 18 Of 19 Innings In Longest Game Of Season; Win Credited To Friend

By MILTON RICHMAN
Unied Press Sports Writer

The Pirates' joy over winning the longest game of the season from the Braves was tempered today by a conviction that there ought to be a law against depriving a guy like Vern Law of victory after he all but pitched his right arm off in a titanic 19-inning struggle.

Law hurled 18 of the 19 innings, holding Milwaukee scoreless over the last 14 frames he pitched, but the 4-3 victory by the Pirates was credited to Bob Friend, who entered the game in the 19th and final inning.

The tense contest, which took four hours and 45 minutes, was the longest in the National League since Philadelphia beat Cincinnati, 8-7, in 19 innings, Sept. 15, 1950.

Law, who left the game for pinch hitter Ramon Mejias in the 18th only because Pittsburgh Manager Fred Haney feared he might develop a sore arm gave up only one earned run — Eddie Mathews 23rd homer in the first inning — during the 18 innings he toiled. He struck out 12 batters, walked only two and gave up nine of Milwaukee's 11 hits.

The Braves quickly got to Friend for the run that put them ahead, 3-2, in the 19th when Mathews walked and came around on singles by Hank Aaron and Chuck Tanner. Not to be outdone, Pittsburgh retaliated with two runs in the last of the 19th off lanky Gen Conley, Milwaukees sixth pitcher.

Thomas Breaks Up Game

Gene Freese opened with a bunt single, moved up on a sacrifice and came hom on Dale Long's double. After an intentional walk to Toby Atwell, Frank Thomas singled, Freese scoring the winning run when catcher Del Crandall allowed the relay from the outfield to go through his legs for an error.

The Phillies stretched their winning streak to seven games by licking the Redlegs, 7-3, and 6-2, in a twi-light doubleheader. Homers by Stan Lopata and Del Ennis helped Murry Dickson beat Cincinnati for the first time since 1952 as he pitched a seven-hitter in the opener. Robin Roberts won his 15th game in the nightcap, tying Don Newcombe of Brooklyn for the highest total number of victories in the majors. Roberts aided his own cause by driving in three runs.

Willard Schmidt of the Cardinals pitched a four - hitter to beat the Giants 3-1 in the opener of a twinighter but southpaw Johnny McCall of the Giants turned around and pitched a four-hitter in the nightcap to defeat the Cads, 4-2. It marked the first complete game in he majors for both Schmidt and McCall. Homers by Bill Virdon and Ken Boyer helped send Jim Hearn down to his ninth setback in the opener while Willie Mays slammed his 28th home run off loser Larry Jackson in the second game.

The league - leading Dodgers and fourth place Cubs were idle.

Yankees Beat Chicago

Elston Howard's eight - inning homer with one on gave the Yanks a 4-3 triumph over the White Sox and stretched New York's American Legue lead to three games over Chicago. The Yankee victory was marred by an injury to infielder Gerry Coleman, who was hit by a pitched ball thrown by loser Harry Byrd and had to be removed to a hospital. Tommy Byrne was credited with the win.

Southpaw Dean Stone of Washington limited Cleveland to six hits for an 8-1 victory over the Indians, who fell four games off the pace. Bob Lemon, who has failed to complete a game since May 30, was knocked out in a five - run fourth inning.

Jackie Jensen and Norm Zauchin each hit homers to lead the Red Sox to a 6-3 victory over the Athletics. Willard Nixon gained his eighth victory although he needed help from Ellis Kinder in the eighth inning.

Relief pitcher Werner (Babe) Birrer hit two homers, each with two men on, as the Tigers humbled the Orioles, 12-4. Birrer came into the game to relieve Frank Lary in the sixth, Lary being credited with the victory.

Soybean production in the United States in 1954 totaled 342,795,000 bushels—greatest on record.

Hard-Luck Coleman Suffers Concussion

CHICAGO (UP) — Hardluck Jerry Coleman, in action just one game after a layoff of nearly three months, appeared to be on the shelf again today.

The peppery New York Yankee infielder was beaned by Harry Byrd of the Chicago White Sox Tuesda night in the seventh inning of a crucial game between the two front running American League teams.

Rushed to a hospital, doctors said Coleman had suffered a concussion and possibly a skull fracture which might sideline him for another several months. X-rays were studied today to determine just how seriously the 31-year-old infielder was hurt.

Coleman was returned to the Yankee active list only Tuesday after breaking his left collarbone in Yankee Stadium against Boston April 22.

Another Immortal Brooklyn Dodger

NEW YORK (UP)—They'll honor the little captain on Friday night and the response proves today that Harold (Peewee) Reese stacks up with such Brooklyn Dodger immortals as Zack Wheat, "Uncle Wilbert" Robinson and Dazzy Vance.

Aside from Wheat, the "Little Colonel" from Louisville has been a Dodger longer than any of Flatbush's storied baseball heroes. Yet in 15 years of wearing the Gowanus livery, this is the first "day" they ever held for him.

But it will be tremendous.

Eight automobile dealers will play a mechanized game of Russian roulette. Each will drive his top model onto the field before Friday night's game and the ignition keys will be put in a hat Peewee's little daughter, Barbara, will draw one of the keys. The car it fits will become the family chariot.

Another firm donated a tremendous freezer and a hot dog king from Coney Island will fill it with 300 pounds of various types of meat.

Peewee will be 36 the following day, Saturday, so there have been offers from 92 sources to provide a birthday cake. A Brooklyn baker's union donated "the biggest birthday cake in the world."

There also will be such gifts as oversized television sets, enough for every room in the house; new golf clubs, which Peewee can use with professional skill, and hundreds of other items.

The Dodger office was happy to announce that Peewee would need a truck to carry it all away. So what happened? The phone rang at the Dodger office and a man who runs a trans-continental trucking agency came through with one of his vans to carry it all the way to Peewee's Louisville home.

The big gifts are fine, naturally. But it is the offerings from the hearts of the little people which thrill the little man who has become a Brooklyn fixture.

Their dollars — and even nickels — have run the Peewee Reese fund up to better than $2,000.

There was a dollar from an 82-year-old lady in Shamokin, Pa.

Another $1 came from a woman who signed herself "only a humble Negro maid who appreciates what Peewee has done for our people."

A Giant fan in the Bronx, unheard of, kicked in a buck.

A kid in Jim Thorpe, Pa., forwarded 25 cents "because Peewee shook hands with me two years ago."

And there have been no less than a dozen letters from youngsters with a nickel enclosed, from Mississippi, Florida, Texas and even California.

Those, to Peewee, will be the truly big things of his "night," more to be cherished, even, than the letter of greetings from Vice President Richard Nixon.

It was a long time coming to the little man. But, while the phrase may be trite and somewhat corny, it couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

Rocky Castellani Turned 'Killer'

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Has baby - faced Rocky Castellani turned killer?

The Cleveland middleweight contender looked all the part Tuesday as he teed off against two sparring partners in the final stages of training for Friday's nationally televised bout at the Cow Palace against Ray Robinson.

Castellani's "new look," complete with bulging eyes and massive left hooks, is a far cry from the bicycling boxer of last August who carried these gymnasium tactics into the ring against Bobo Olson and easily was defeated in his bid for the middleweight title.

"I've changed my style," Castellani explained after his workout. "There was no color in it and I decided I never would get anywhere on a bicycle. In fact, I changed it before the 13th round of the Olson fight."

Rocky said that his corner told him he had to mix it more if he expected to salvage his abortive bid for the crown. And he has decided to switch for good.

Castellani points with pride to his eighth round knockout of Moses Ward and subsequent victories over Chico Varona and Holly Mims as products of his new approach to the business.

Yet he said he reserves the right to start back pedaling again if he thinks he can actually win a fight that way. And that goes for the 34-year-old Robinson.

Middlecoff, Fleck, Snead, Harbert Seek PGA Championship

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor

NORTHVILLE, Mich. (UP) — Cary Middlecoff, the golfing dentist who is at the top of his game, set out today after the only major golf championship he never has won — the PGA tournament.

Declaring that "I'm playing the best I ever have," Middlecoff, fresh from victory in the Miller Open at Milwaukee, was favored along with two other veterans in this trying test of golf. Co-favored with him were Sam Snead, three time winner of the title and twice runner - up, and defending champion Chick Harbert, the pro at the Meadowbrook Country Club, site of the tourney.

But while Middlecoff was satisfied with his game, Snead said he wasn't "doing anything right".

"It's not only my putting, it's my whole game that is off," Snead said, "and I don't have too much hope."

However, those who know Snead well say he often does his best when he is dissatisfied with his game.

Harbert, who figures the nation's best pros will have little difficulty over the 6,701-yard par 35-36—71 course, said his game was "only average." Although he doesn't have to qualify, he will tee off with 133 others in today's first of two 18-hole qualifying rounds.

Course Easy For Middlecoff

Most of the pros are familiar with Meadowbrook and the course has been especially easy for Middlecoff, who won two Motor City opens over it.

The practice round scores indicated that par is going to take quite a beating.

Jay Hebert of Woodmere, N.Y., shot a four-under-par in a practice round Tuesday after a 67 on Monday. Mike Turnesa came in with a 67. Middlecoff, conserving his energy for the tournament proper, went only nine holes and did not keep score.

Jack Fleck, the National Open champion from Davenport, Iowa, played 17 holes Tuesday after a 69 on Monday. For the first time since he won the open, Fleck regained his approach and putting touch in his warm-ups here.

Fleck is shooting for an elusive golf double — the Open and PGA titles in the same year. Only two golfers ever made it — Gene Sarazen back in 1922 and Ben Hogan in 1951. But Fleck, who said that the demands which have been made on his time since he won the Open "wasn't conducive to good golf" was not too high on his chances.

"I'm just not hitting them well," he said.

Fleck Limiting Tourneys

Fleck disclosed that he will compete in only two more tourneys this year — the world championship at Chicago Tam O'Shanter Country Club and the $50,000 calvalcade of golf at Weetfield, N.J.

Middlecoff, too, said he was going to skip some tournaments because he found playing every week "too tough." Since he has curtailed his schedule, Middlecoff said he had beenplaying much better.

"So I'm going to continue to pick my spots," he said. He figured that to win the PGA a golfer may have to go as many as 210 holes.

"It's more than a test of golf, it's a test of endurance as well," Middlecoff, the nation's leading money winner declared. "That's why I took it easy yesterday and only went nine holes."

After today's 18-hole round, the field will play 18 more holes Thursday with the low 63 joining Harbert in the match play beginning Friday. Two 18-hole rounds will be played Friday, reducing the field to 16. From Saturday on there will be only one round a day, but each round from that time on will be for 36 holes.

Constance Favored To Beat Fuentes

NEW YORK (UP) — Swift, slick Hector Constance, who whipped ex-champ Kid Gavilan in his last ring appearance, was favored at 7-5 today to beat rough - housing Ramon Fuentes in their TV-radio welterweight contenders' fight tonight.

Constance was picked by the odds-men despite the fact he enters the ring at Madison Square Garden for this 10-rounder ranked officially seventh among the welter contenders against the fourth ranking enjoyed by Fuentes.

But Constance, of Trinidad, B. W. I., has been sharp in recent fights and is unbeaten in five U.S. bouts. Fuentes, of Los Angeles, has nothing better than an even break in three fights this year.

Constance, 24, scored a decision over Gavilan in their meeting on Feb. 23 and, in other fights this year, has scored decisions over Chico Varona and middleweight Ralph (Tiger) Jones. Fuentes, 2, outpointed British Empire welter champion Georgi Barnes in Australia this year, but lost a decision to Georgie Johnson and drew with middleweight Gil Turner.

Although Fuentes is five years older than Constance, he will not have any advantage in experience.

Each has had the same number of professional fights —38. Constance won 25, lost four, drew eight, and had one no-contest. Fuentes won 32, lost five, and drew one. Fuentes has more knock outs, 11 to Constance's seven, but also has been stopped twice, by Mongo Luciano in 1951 and Turner in '53. Constance never has been stopped.

Top-Seeded Stars March Through Ranks Of Tennis Matches

HAVERFORD, Pa. (UP) — Top-seeded Tony Trabert and second-seeded Vic Seixas, currently the greatest names in American tennis were expected to continue today their march through the ranks of the men's Pennsylvania state lawn tennis tournament at the Merion Cricket Club.

Louise Brough, Wimbledon champion from Beverly Hills, Calif., also was favored to beat Lois Felix of Merion, Conn., and move into the semifinals of the women's Pennsylvania and Eastern States championships being held at the same club.

Trabert of Cincinnati, Wimbledon champion and newly crowned U.S. Clay Courts king, met Gerald Moss of San Francisco in a quarter - final match. Moss defeated Dr. Jack Geller of New Rochelle, N.Y., 6-2, 6-2, Tuesday while Trabert eliminated David Harum of Coral Gables, Fla., 6-3, 6-0.

Another third - round match pitted Seixas of Philadelphia against Albert Harum Jr. of Coral Gables, a 3-6, 10-8, 7-5 winner over William Quillian of Seattle, Wash., Tuesday. Second - seeded Seixas advanced by topping Barry McKay of Dayton, Ohio, 6-1, 6-3.

Other stalwarts who kept pace with Trabert and Seixas were Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, Wimbledon runner-up; Davis Cupper Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, a.; and fourth - seeded Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N.J.

Nielsen was an 11-9, 6-4 victor over Irvin Dorfman of New York; Richardson eliminated Donald Thompson of Jackson Heights, N. Y., 6-1, 6-3, and Moylan tripped Harry Hoffman Jr., of Philadelphia, 6-1, 6-1.

Rams, Browns Appear As Teams To Beat In Pro Football Lineup

NEW YORK (UP)—Don't look now but football is with us, the pro variety anywhere, and when the weather chills off the teams they'll have to beat in the National League are the Los Angeles Rams and the Cleveland Browns.

That's the word this scorching day from Jack Lavelle, scouting impressario of the New York Giants. And if you think it's a bit premature, consider that four of the pro elevens already are in training and Lavelle's hopefuls start Wednesday.

You can blame it on the ht tht round Jck, h prnnil

You can blame it on the heat that rotund Jack, the perennial Notre Damer, doesn't claim the pro title outright for the Giants.

But his rundown on the teams is downright interesting if you are a devotee of (A) pro football or (B) the cooler weather in which it is supposed to be played. Here it is:

Western Division

Los Angeles Rams: Could have won last year but for injuries. Have the stuff with a power squad led by Norm van Brocklin, Billy Wade, and Tom Fears. Sid Gillman heads a new good coaching staff.

Chicago Bears: The dark horse. The line is like those Bear stalwarts of old. Bobby Williams should solve the quarterback puzzle and if so, they've got everything.

Detroit Lions: Several promising changes. Bobby Layne is back with help expected from Harry Gilmer in the Lions style of attack.

San Francisco Forty - Niners: Will be rugged under new Coach Red Strader and with the best backfield in the business, headed by Hugh McElhenny, Joe Jet) Perry, and Y. A. Tittle.

Green Bay Packers: On their way up under Lisle Blackburn. But the kids need maturing in a tough league.

Baltimore Colts: Improved, but how much? Obtained Alan (The Horse) Ameche, but it isn't enough with 10 games against the aforementioned Murderers' Row.

Eastern Division

Cleveland Browns: The champs improved with young draft choices. The word around in the league is that "retired" Otto Graham will be back.

New York Giants: A "chance." Joe Heap of Notre Dame can help out the real hope is Mel Triplett, an unknown fullback from little Toledo.

Philadelphia Eagles: Solid and sound but the quarterbacking is spotty. They probably wont make it.

Washington Redskins: Given a chance to come back. The line is solid but they may have too many quarterbacks (including it is presumed, owner G.P. Marshall).

Chicago Cardinals: Their problem is quarterbacking. If that develops, watch Ollie Matson and Max Boydston.

Pittsburgh Steelers: Lots of problems. Lost several good linemen, including great center Bill Walsh. Not much hope.

Now, like all of us, the only thing they all need is cooler weather.

Set Record

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UP) — Mr. and Mrs. George Evans figure they must have set some sort of record when they bought $800 worth of staples at a Corvallis supermarket.

They plan to take the food with them when they leave for a school teaching job in Alaska, near the Arctic Circle.

An Italian-Born Shoemaker Reaches $8,000 Mark On Quiz

NEW YORK (UP) — An Italian-born shoemaker with an almost encyclopedic knowledge of opera reached the $8,000 mark Tuesday night in "The $64,000 question" television show.

Gino Prato, 55, won the option of taking $8,000 or a chance on $16,000 next week, by correctly naming Manrico Count di Luna and Leonara as the tenor, baritone and soprano roles of he Verdi opera Il Trovatore.

Earlier in the CBS program he won $1,000 by naming the cello as the instrument Arturo Toscanini first played. He doubled his money to $2,000 by naming two operas besides "Faust" in which the devil had a part and doubled that to $4,000 by naming three manager of the New York Metropolitan Opera.

Next week, Prato returns to the show to announce whether he'll take the $8,000 or try for $16,000 with an even tougher question. Should he miss the $16,000 question the program's sponsors will soothe his feelings with a Cadillac convertible as a consolation prize.

Bayard D. MacMichael of Seattle, Wash., reached $4,000 on Tuesday night also by answering questions concerning opera. MacMichael will try for $8,000 next week.

WEIGHT TAPES give dairymen a quick, accurate estimate of the weight of dairy animals. Now that many dairymen are breeding their heifers by weight rather than age, more and more weight tapes are being used. The tape is calibrated so that when it is properly used it will show the animal's weight within a few pounds. In this picture, Cliff Perdew of the Ralston Purina research farm, Gray Summit, Missouri, demonstrates the correct way to use the tape. The animal should be made to stand with head up and feet together to get most accurate results. The tape should be placed around the smallest spot in the heart girth area. It should be drawn tightly but not stretched. The reading at the point where the tape comes together indicates the animal's weight.

Folks At Copyright Office Know What's On Public's Mind

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Folks who work at the United States Copyright Office generally can tell what's on the public's mind without looking at the papers or listening to the radio.

Last year, it was the Army McCarthy hearings which inspired amateur song writers to go to work. The pros, too. One ditty called "Point of Order' finally broke out on wax and made somebody a bundle.

Hurricane Hazel made her influence felt, too. The big wind came in for copyright consideration dressed in such titles as "She Blew and She Blew" and "Whither Now, Hazel?"

Now Davy Crockett has captured the nation's fancy. Kids mostly. There are Davy Crockett coon skin toppers, which no 6-year-old boy would be without even in the swelter of summer. Also Daisy Crockett bonnets, also with tails, albeit white ones, grace the heads of little girls.

Titles Are Intersting

Some of the titles are rather interesting. Some will be copyrighted by Uncle Sam; some won't. Paul Lasky and Jack Liebmann came up with a song titled "Davy Crockett and the Liberty Bell," which probably will be accompanied by the ringing of mallet on brass.

Others have broken through the bonds of song. It was inevitable that Davy, musket and all, should invade the somewhat crowded field of cereals. Most youngsters won't eat their oats unless they can put the box on the kitchen table and look at a cow poke.

The Old Virginia Packing Co., Inc., has registered copyright claims on labels with these exciting titles:

"Davy Crockett in a Jam with Congress."

"Davy Crockett in a Jam at the Alamo.'

"Davy Crockett in a Jam with a Bear.'

"Davy Crockett in a Jam with an Indian."

The box tops, doubtless will be returnable, along with twobits or so, for some frilly memnto of "The King of the Wild Frontier." A man can get rid of a lot of oats and puffed rice ha way.

Everyone's Heard It

The now famous original "Ballad of Davy Crockett" was copy righted by Wonderland Music. Lives there a soul with a gramo phone, radio or TV set who hasn't by now heart it?

The Crockett craze has even reached Zippy, the chimpanzee of the Howdy Doody show. He used to dress like a civilized ape, in the modern manner. But now the rubber replicas of Zippy, which are on sale in toy stores come in buck skin britches and a coonskin hat—wardrobe copyrighted by the Rushton Co.

But what stopped me was a copyright application by the Robert H. Clark Co. This outfit dabbles in smelly stuff for the bath.

It would dearly love to copyright a new suds in the bubble tub department and would like to call the concoction "The Aroma of the Old Frontier."

Robeson May Get Canadian Performance

WASHINGTON (UP) — Singer Paul Robeson, an outspoken supporter of Communist causes and Russia, may be allowed to travel to Canada for a concert appearance, informed sources said today.

But the State Department is studying and has reached no decision on his plea for a passport to travel in Europe.

Robeson has been prohibited from leaving the United States under a wartime security regulation still in effect. He conferred with State Department officials Monday about his passport difficulties.

Egyptians And Czechs Sign Agreement

CAIRO (UP)—Egypt and Communist Czechoslovakia have signed a long range barter agreement, it was announced today. Under the agreement Egypt will send cotton and phosphates to Czechoslovakia for heavy and light industrial products.

Gasoline Lost By Evaporation In Summer Is High

LAFAYETTE, — Summer evaporation losses from the vent of a gasoline tank may be as high as 10 per cent each month, reports C. L. Hill, extension agricultural engineer at Purdue University.

In addition to the fuel loss from tanks in the hot sun, engines don't start as easily on the high-gum content fuel left in the tank. And sticky valves may also result.

To reduce fuel loss, storage tanks should be placed under trees or shelters. Tanks should be at least 15 feet from other buildings to reduce fire hazards, Hill says.

Underground storage is the surest way to prevent losses since ground temperature is fairly constant and eliminates excessive evaporation and condensation. Tanks placed underground should be coated with waterproofing to prevent leaks. Hill advises farmers to locate the underground tanks away from wells and sewer lines.

Motorized farm implements should be parked in the shade whenever possible to further cut down gasoline losses.

Neible Rites Held Tuesday Afternoon

Memorial services were held at the J. A. DeMoney and Son Funeral Home Tuesday afternoon for William H. Neible. The Rev. Marion R. Shroyer officiated at the rites.

Fred H. Smith sang, "Whispering Hope," "When I Come To The End of The Road," and "I Know My Redeermer Liveth." Mrs. B. V. Widney, organist at the funeral home, played the accompaniment as well as the ten-minute prelude. Neighbors of Mr. Neible, who served as pallbearers were Harold Stanley, Ernest Brittain, C. Lee Waugh, Jess Braddock, Bertram Ambrose and John Wilkerson.

The committal services were conducted by Rev. Shroyer in the South Park Cemetery.

Power Failure Strands Rush Hour Commuters

Almost Three Hours In 90 Degree Heat

NEW YORK (UP) — A power breakdown in tunnels used by the Long Island Rail Road, the country's busiest commuter line, stranded 50,000 passengers Tuesday for almost three hours.

Some 20,000 perspiring commuters jammed Pennsylvania Station. Others crowded nearby air-conditioned bars and restaurants to escape the 90-degree heat and thousands resignedly squeezed themselves into already-packed and steaming subways to take a roundabout trip home.

The Long Island Rail Road said the breakdown of its commuter trains was due to a severed power line which halted traffic in two tunnels under the East River. The break occurred at 3:58 p.m., just in time for New York's daily elbow-your-neighbor commuter jam, and was not repaired until 6:22 p.m. Service was back to "normal" by 7:30 p.m.

During those hours, huge Pennsylvania Station was a bedlam. The rush of commuters entering the station, who did not yet know of the delay, ground against the rush of commuters leaving the station who knew only too well.

The tie-up also reached across the Hudson River into Newark, N.J., where five inbound Pennsylvania Railroad trains had to discharge about 1,000 passengers because there was no track space for the trains in the New York station.

An ear-piercing loudspeaker added to the din at Penn Station, informing would-be commuters of the trouble and advising them to take the subways.

"They can advise all they want," one woman said, "I'm not going to get on those subways."

Some of the Long Islanders placidly accepted the delay as one of those things and took it as good-naturedly as the sweltering heat would allow. Many of them waited in the station for restoration of service rather than face the subway jam.

But others surged against the Pennsylvania Station information booth and heaped words of indignation on the hapless attendants, the Long Island Rail Road, the Transit Authority, the weatherman and anyone else they could think of.

Rioting Protests Anniversary Of 'Day Of Shame'

When France Approved Indochina Armistice

SAIGON, Indochina (UP)—Thousands of rioting South Viet Namese protesting the first anniversary of the "day of shame" when France approved the Indochina armistice pillaged and burned the hotels housing the International Truce Commission today.

Police reported that the wild mobs also sacked the office of Gen. Claire Chennault's civil air transport company, which was situated near one of the hotels.

About 40 Americans lost all their possessions. Mrs. Perle Mesta, former United States ambassador to Luxembourg now on a Far Eastern tour, left her hotel at the height of the riot to catch a plane for Singapore.

Police and troops opened fire, sprayed tear gas and swung clubs to break up the mobs which pillaged the hotels Majestic and Gallieni.

At least 50 persons were reported hospitalized. The demonstrators manhandled two Communist Viet Minh members of the Armistice Control Commission.

Dozens of rioters were arrested. Order was restored to the streets of the city before noon.

The government charged that a planned "peaceful" demonstration of the "day of national shame" had been transformed into a wild riot by Viet Minh troublemakers. Others blamed the dissident Cao Dai warlord sect for instigating the violence, and still others blamed the revolutionary committee which backs Premier Ngo Dinh Diem.

The Majestic and Gallieni hotels were completely sacked, and damage was estimated at 10,000,000 piasters ($285,714).

Indian members of the International Control Commission (ICC) lodged an immediate complaint with the South Viet Nam government and said they wanted to resign because "the Viet Nam government cannot assure our security."

Police Have No Leads On Identity Of Man Stealing Gasoline

City Police have no leads as to the identity of a man who was seen siphoning gasoline out of one or more automobiles parked in front of the Memorial Hospital early Wednesday morning.

According to employes at the hospital, a lone man was seen with a funnel and metal container and appeared to be removing gasoline from a car parked near the hospital about 1:50 a.m.

Police said that the man evidently ran off when the employes came out of the hospital to see what he was doing. The man could not be found after police who were called arrived shortly afterward.

After the police left, a man was seen to drive off in a car near the rear of the hospital, and it was believed that he had returned for his automobile. He had ran off on foot earlier, taking the can and funnel with him.

publicans and Southern Democrats to peg the wage increase at the 90-cent mark.

Foreign Aid: The Senate Appropriations Committee late Tuesday restored much of the funds the House cut earlier from President Eisenhower's foreign aid bill. The committee approved a $3,204,341,750 bill. This total was a net increase of $565,600,000 over the amount voted by the House but still $62300,00 less than the administration originally had asked.

Reserves: A Senate-House conference committee began efforts today to work out a compromise between varying versions of the military reserve bill passed by the two houses. Republicans virtually conceded the committee would follow the Senate's lead and delete part of the bill's compulsory feature which was accepted by the House and sought by the administration. The House bill would require all men in the armed forces since the Korean truce to participate in the reserve force. But the Senate bill would exempt servicemen now on duty and would delay making reserve service compulsory until 3 days after the bill becomes law.

Defense Production: The Senate passed by voice vote and sent to the House Tuesday a bill to extend the Defense Production Act for two years. It beat down a Democratic effort to curtail the governments authority to hire "dollar-a-year' men to advisory roles where policy-making is involved.

Dixon-Yates: The Senate Monopoly subcommittee has invited presidential assistant Sherman Adams to testify at hearings on the Dixon-Yates contract. Chairman Estes Kefauver said the subcommittee wants to know why Adams ordered a three-day recess in hearings on the contract last June by the Securities & Exchange Commission. The SEC passed on financing plans for the power project.

Lev: The Senate Investigating subcommittee dismissed Chicago military capmaker Harry Lev as a witness late Tuesday with a warning that he is under "very strong suspicion." Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) sounded the warning after Lev could not remember how he spent $20,000 in cash in a two-week period of 1953 during which he is accused of bribing government officials. Lev firmly denied the bribery charges.

Hundreds Are Forced To Evacuate Homes As Flood Pours On El Paso

By UNITED PRESS

Hundreds of persons were forced to evacuate their homes when a flood of water fed by torrential rains swept down on El Paso, Tex., early today.

The water poured down off Mount Franklin in the northeast part of the city and got as high as window sills in the Mountain View area, a residential section of $15,000 to $20,000 homes.

Damage was estimated in the millions of dollars.

Soldiers from nearby Fort Bliss and National Guard units evacuated the residents by truck to the El Paso Coliseum, which was filled with cots.

Roads and railroad lines in the area were impassable. Some highways were torn up by huge boulders and debris coming down off Mount Franklin.

No serious injuries were reported.

The rain was another of the downpours that have hit west and southwest Texas for the past few days. The Rio Grande has risen about five feet since the rains came but was still in its banks.

Elsewhere, the eastern two-thirds of the nation continued to swelter under a hot, humid spell—except for New York and New England, which are relatively cool.

At Ouray, Colo., however, the remnants of a July snow glistened today atop White Horse Mountain, 7,806 feet high. A cold snap swept over the Continental Divide early Wednesday, dropping the temperature to 40 degrees in the valleys and below freezing on the high peaks.

Several inches of snow fell on White Horse Mountain, but by noon the summer sun generated above 80 heat once more.

Car 'Borrowed', Returned Hour Later With Gasoline Added

City police are looking for the person or persons who "borrowed" the automobile of George L. Leininger, of 315 West Spencer street, had some gasoline put into it, then returned it about an hour later Wednesday afternoon.

Leininger told city police that he had his 1951 Chevrolet parked in the 100 block of Line street near the Columbia Druy Company, of which he is co-owner. He said that he came out of the store about 3:45 p.m. to where he had parked the car about 2 p.m. But the car wasn't where he had left it.

He thought for awhile that he had forgotten where he had parked the vehicle, but he didn't believe so.

He notified the city police, who sent out a report to the State Police post at Ligonier listing the automobile as missing.

Then, about 4:40 p.m. Leininger happened to return to the 100 block of Line street and saw his car parked, but not in the space where he had left it more than two hours before.

With Paul Forrester, assistant chief of police, Leininger checked his car. None of the several items of clothing or merchandise inside the vehicle was missing. However, the motor and radiator were hot and the temperature gauge was at a point above what it is during Leininger's normal driving. Leininger also said that the gasoline gauge indicated that the car had more fuel in its tank than it had when he parked it.

Evidently someone borrowed the car for awhile and either feeling guilty or not having enough fuel to get where they were going, had some gas put into the car's fuel tank. Leininger didn't care so much about the fuel, but he is glad that he has found his car.

City police are continuing an investigation concerning the "borrowed" car.

Reports Yield Of 100-Bushel Oats

The first report of oats yield in this community has been given this newspaper by Paul H. Rhoads, Thorncreek township.

Mr. Rhoads finished harvesting two fields Wednesday, both turning out large yields. One river bottom field of 11½ acres produced 100 bushels per acre, and a seven and one-half acre field of high, sandy soil made 72 bushels per acre. The Thorncreek township farmer was raising Clintland and Clinton 59 oat varieties.

Talbott Asks An Investigation Of His Relations

With Paul B. Mulligan & Co.

By UNITED PRESS

WASHINGTON (UP)—A public senatorial investigation of Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott's business connections shaped up today.

Talbott asked for the hearing "in view of rumors, publicity, and discussion" of his profit-sharing relations with Paul B. Mulligan & Co., New York management engineers.

Sen. John L. McClellan, (D-Ark.), chairman of the Senate Investigating subcommittee, said the subcommittee will grant the request and that the hearing will be held soon—possibly Friday.

McClellan called a closed meeting to consider Talbott's request. He said he is confident the subcommittee will vote for a public hearing. If so, he said, the hearing will be held as soon as possible, possibly Friday. McClellan said Talbott requested a public hearing this afternoon, but this was impossible.

"On the basis of information that the subcommittee has, it is the duty of the subcommittee to investigate, at least to the exten- of hearinb Talbott — whether voluntarily or not," McClellan told a news conference. "He has been willing to cooperate at all times."

Talbott's request followed disclosure that the subcommittee had copies of several letters apparently showing the air secretary actively sought business for the firm. Reporters saw copies of letters Talbott had written on his official stationery.

On Tuesday, according to informed sources, Talbott told the subcommittee he receives about $60,000 a year from the company. But he insisted there was nothing unethical about it.

Sen. George H. Bender (R-Ohio), a member of the subcommittee, backed him up. He said there is no indication that Talbott profited because of his federal post or that he had done anything wrong.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), another subcommittee member, agreed that public hearings should be held because of publicity in the case. But he said Talbott had been "candid and fair" in private talks with the subcommittee.

Sixth Annual "Turtle Days" In Churubusco Will Feature Three-Day Program July 28-30

CHURUBUSCO — The sixth annual Turtle Days celebration in Churubusco July 28-30 will feature a varied program ranging from a pet parade to a tractor pulling contest.

The Silver Dollar Tractor Pulling contest will highlight the Farmers Day program Saturday. The pulling competition will begin at 10 a.m. with weighing in to start at 8 a.m. Prizes will be awarded in silver dollars, with a total of $200 to be distributed. Tractors will compete in four weight classes: Under 3,500 Pounds, 3,501 to 5,000 pounds, 5,001 to 6,500 pounds and 6.501 to 8,000 pounds. Further contest regulations may be obtained from Floyd Diffendarfer, Churubusco, the contest chairman. Last year's tractor meet drew 8 contestants from a wide area and was

Wells, Gibson Get Fines, Suspended Sentences

Both Found Guilty Of Stealing Equipment From Tractor Company

Samuel Junior Wells, 25, of R 1, Corunna, and James L. Gibson, 41, of R 2, Churubusco, each was given a fine of $10 and costs and suspended sentences of from 1 to 10 years when they were found guilty in Whitley County circuit court Wednesday of grand larceny.

Both men were charged with taking equipment valued at $350 from the American Tractor Corporation, Churubusco, where both were employed, on or about June 24, 1955. Each pleaded not guilty to the charges when they were arraigned July 11 in circuit court.

In the verdict, Judge Lowell Pefley ruled that Wells was guilty of having taken the equipment and that Gibson aided and abetted the theft by condoning it. This was revealed when Perle Byrd, witness for the State, testified that Gibson had related a threat against anyone who attempted to foil Wells' larceny.

Could Have Got Prison

The sentences of from 1 to 10 years were suspended for a period of 5 years conditioned upon the good behavior of each man and that each obeys the rules established by the Whitley County probation officer and by the circuit court and that they return all of the property which was taken from the tractor company.

Wells' sentence was to the custody of the Board of Trustees of the Indiana State Reformatory because of his age while Gibson's sentence was to the Indiana State Prison.

Their conviction of grand larceny could have caused both men to be confined to prison, in addition to being assessed stiff fines. Grand larceny covers the theft of any money or goods valued in excess of $25.

Throughout the trial, which began Tuesday afternoon, the defense attorney, Charles Z. Bond of Fort Wayne, had attempted to

Final Plans Made For Old Settlers Week

Officers And Committee Heads Meet Wednesday

Officers and committee chairmen of the Old Settlers Association met Wednesday night at the city hall.

Final preparations were discussed for Old Settlers Day and the American Legion Festival.

This year some of the old time spirit is being revised with a horseshoe pitching contest and checker contest. "The Tournament of Champions" is open to all over 50 years of age.

Honor Those Over 80

As was originated last year, all persons registering on Old Settlers morning who are 80 years or over will receive a special rosette in addition to the Old Settlers badge in recognition of their long years within the county. Last year there were 58 who received the special honor.

Reserved seats are also planned for the Thursday afternoon program for this honored group in a front row so that they can view the activities.

Drivers taking elderly persons to register may take their passengers to Van Buren street next to the band stand, Dave Spence said. There will be a fence around the north and east sides of the courthouse, and by leaving the passengers there, it will be just a half block from the front entrance of the courthouse.

As is customary, there will be two loving cups presented — one for the oldest resident to register and one for the person with the most continuous residency within Whitley county.

Officers and Committees

Officers and committee chairmen of the Old Settlers Association are:

David Spence, president; Stuart Smith, vice-president; George Leininger, secretary - treasurer; and historian; Harry Yoder, registration and custodian of relics;

2 Men Charged With Intoxication In Affidavits Filed

An affidavit charging unlawful possession of alcholic beverage was filed in Whitley County circuit court Wednesday against Wayne Dalton, of R 1.

Dalton, 20, was arrested Tuesday by Sheriff Galen Adair who found him suffering from excessive drinking.

An affidavit charging two counts of intoxication was filed against John Senslak, Jr., in Whitley County circuit court Wednesday by Morris Carlile of the city police.

Carlile arrested Senslak Tuesday on U.S. highway 30 where the latter was driving a panel truck.

The two counts are public intoxication and operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating beverage.

Several Dollars Damage Done To Store Windows

Store Windows In One Block Are Cut

An act of vandalism caused several hundred dollars damage to store windows on the north side of Van Buren street between Chauncey and Main streets sometime last night.

Windows in every store in that city block, except those of Ennis Restaurant and Rhoades Bros., were damaged by cutting as apparently the vandal walked along the sidewalk and held the cutting instrument against the large plate glass windows.

The destruction began with Williams Market and included the O'Daniel Drug Store, Style Shop, Ginder Hardware, Rexall Drug Store, Melody Gift Shop, Murphy Jewelry Store, White's Market, Weick's Shoe Store, and Trading Post.

Since the two drug companies were open until 9 p.m. and the two establishments whose windows were not defaced were open until midnight, city police and State Detective Blain Schang, who are investigating, believe the vandalism occurred some time during that time.

The Mosher-Hosler Barber Shop and Columbia Theatre are also in the 100 block of Van Buren on the north side of the street, however their front windows did not appear to be damaged.

Harold Murphy reported that he was working in his jewelery store late Wednesday night and sometime between 10:30 and 11:00 he heard a noise on his window. He glanced up from his work and saw two apparently teen-age boys just passing his window and out of sight. He thought nothing of it, as he says he often hears someone tap the window as they point to something on display. He added that he did not hear a noise which would indicate someone was scratching or cutting the glass.

The two stores which were missed stay open late and the owners assumed that their windows were not touched since people were inside.

Dr. John D. Tharp Locates In Culver To Practice Medicine

Dr. John D. Tharp purchased the practice of three doctors at Culver and is located on Lake Shore Drive. He opened his offices on July first.

Dr. Tharp received his medical degree at Indiana University in 1952 and served his three years as interne in United States Public Health Service at Norfolk Va., and Chicago. Last summer he was on a tour of duty and geodetic survey on the Bering Sea coast.

James Frederic, born July 11 in the hospital at Knox, to Dr. and Mrs. Tharp, died the following day and committal services were held in the Culver cemetery. The Tharps have one other son, Stephen. Mrs. Tharp will be remembered as the former Lois Wilson.

Masked Gunmen Hold Up NYC Mail Train

Miss Big Money, Get Cancelled Checks

NEW YORK (UP)—Two masked gunmen held up a moving New York Central mail train Wednesday night in a mid-Manhattan version of the great train robbery but missed the big money shipment and made off only with eight bags of cancelled checks.

The brazen young bandits passed up eight more bags containing $2,700 in coin, police said, apparently because they reasoned the lighter bags must be full of bills.

The youths, described as in their 20's, confronted Railway Express messenger Thomas Mason, 60, of Buffalo, N.Y., with drawn pistols near 42nd St. shortly after the 11-car train pulled out of Pennsylvania Station bound for Albany. They wore white handkerchief masks, Mason said.

"If you open your mouth, we'll kill you," Mason quoted them.

"They asked where the money was and I told them 'it's in those bags over there.'" Mason said.

Mason said he was alone in the next to the last car when the two youths confronted him. "At first I thought they were fooling with me—that they were just a couple of wise kids," he said. "I wasn't frightened until I saw the guns."

The gunmen handcuffed Mason's hands behind his back with his ow nhandcuffs, jammed his cap into his mouth to keep him from crying out and tied his feet with rope. One of the men emptied the bullets from Mason's gun as an added precaution, he said. Then they jumped off the slowly moving train with the mail sacks.

Mason began kicking on the side of the car as soon as the men left. A fellow trainman heard the noise and pulled the emergency

Police and federal authorities, called in on the case, said the robbery appeared to have been well planned.

Bill Holford, Manchester Coach, Discusses Small College Athletics Before Kiwanis Club

"Athletics At A Small College" was the general topic of Bill Holford, athletic director at Manchester College ,speaking before the Kiwanis Club Wednesday night.

Holford, who is also football coach at the school, spoke on the advantages and disadvantages of attending a smaller college and participating in the athletic program.

Holford said that athletes at colleges of low enrollment are under less pressure "to be a constant winner." He also said that the youth stands a better chance of participating in sports, because of the lact of pressure upon the school from the alumni.

Part Of Education

He also said that students at such colleges participate in several sports. At a larger college or university, the athlete is expected to be somewhat of a "professional" football, baseball or basketball player. He devotes most of his time at such schools to one sport for which he is virtually "hired" to play, Holford said.

Holford explained that at a smaller college athletics can be more readily co-ordinated with the school curriculum to provide a rounded education.

He said that athletics is considered at Manchester College as only a part of the "total picture of education."

In addition, the small college athlete is not glamorized as much by the public before and during his athletic career. He must love to play, since he gets less publicity and no stipend for his playing.

Want To Stay Small

Holford outlined one of the dangers of small college athletic programs as being a temptation "to go big time." This may be caused by pressure from alumni and from fans to play a "sure death" schedule. This has caused some small

Problem Of World Disarmament

BULLETIN

GENEVA (UP) — President Eisenhower today challenged the Soviets to exchange complete military blueprints with the United States and permit complete freedom of aerial photography.

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

GENEVA (UP)—The Big Four heads of government met today in the fifth formal session of their summit conference to receive their foreign ministers' plan for future efforts to reunite Germany and create a uropean security system.

The summit leaders then plunged into the problem of world disarmament — third item of their four-point agenda.

They had become deadlocked Wednesday on the first two items, and passed on to the foreign ministers the problem of finding a means to keep alive the study of unification of Germany and European security after the summit conference ends.

Today's summit session convened at 9:30 a.m. CDT — half a nhour earlier than usual — to receive a report on the arrangements agreed upon earlier today by the foreign ministers.

It was understood the West proposed an October meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers to resume the study of the twin problems.

The meeting was scheduled for 9:30 a.m. CDT, half an hour earlier than usual, to receive the foreign ministers' report.

The U.S., British, French and Soviet foreign ministers met for one hour and 5 minutes in the Palace of Nations to consider how to keep the deadlocked reunification and security issues alive.

The foreign ministers, according

2 Cars Damaged In Collision At Ellsworth-Chauncey

Two cars received minor damage at about 4:50 p.m. Wednesday when they collided at the intersection of Chauncey and Ellsworth street.

The two cars involved were driven by Don Adams, 17, of R 3, and Evelyn Wynema Ray, 44, of 413 Wallace Ave. According to the police report, Adams' car was going west on Ellsworth and the Ray car was going South on Chauncey street and the two vehicles collided as both reached the intersection.

Each driver said that they did not see the other until shortly before the impact of the two cars.

Chauncey street has the right-of-way at the intersection since there are signs on the Ellsworth side of the street.

Russian Farmers Shrug Off 'Incident'

AMES, Iowa (UP) — Russia's touring farm experts shrugged off the second "incident" of their corn belt tour today and went into college classrooms to learn the scientific side of Iowa's tremendous crop production.

The latest incident occurred Wednesday as the Soviets stopped at the farm of Guy Stover Jr., near Reinbock, Iowa. A man who identified himself as Dan Baker, president of the Iowa Anti-Communist League, marched onto the farm carrying a sign which said:

"There is no freedom in Russia."

V.V. Matskevich, head of the Russian delegation, said jokingly that "we do not see anything that is not on the itinerary.'

Matskevich, acting Soviet minister of agriculture, made the remark when John Strohm, the American official in charge of the tour, told the Russians that this incident and one the day before were examples of "the extreme opinions of the right and left in the United States."

In the other inciden,t a Negro college student confronted the Russians with a sign saying that Iowans are prejudiced.

A.V. Tulupnikov, a member of the Russian delegation interviewed at the Stover farm, was asked to give his impression of the difference between Americans and Russians.

"They're the same kind of people,' he said. "There is a great difference in their living conditions. American people are very kind, very good and hospitable. They are very like those in Russia. In fact, I don't see any difference between them."

Ike's Proposed Atom-Power Peace Ship May 'Sink'

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's proposed atom-powered peace ship appeared today to be sinking again in hostile congressional waters.

It was virtually certain that the President's plan, as such, is dead in Congress. There was a fair chance that a Democrat-sponsored substitute like the one passed by the House will be approved instead.

Such a substitute would give congressional Democrats an opportuniny to show that they are not against atom-powered ships or the peaceful uses of the atom but do oppose the President's blueprint for the craft.

The outlook for the President's proposal became clearer Wednesday after the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee refused—for the second time—to approve it and referred it instead to the research and development subcommittee.

The committee also referred the Democrat-sponsored substitute to the same subcommittee. Chairman Melvin Price (D.-Ill.) promised today to hold hearings on the bills promptly—late this week or early next.

Both the President's plan and the substitute had been approved by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. But the commerce committee then referred the bills to the atomic committee.

Price said neither of the bills would be "bottled up" in his subcommittee. But he indicated the subcommittee, if it approves a bill at all, will not favor the administration plan twice rejected by the full committee.

He said "everybody knows this (the President's plan) is just a propaganda gesture." He said the government would be wise to put more money into the development of an atomic power plant which would suit all kinds of surface ships.

Mr. Eisenhower's proposal was to take a power plant like the one in the atom-sub Nautilus and put it in a conventional merchant ship hull. The vessel would be used as a peace ship visiting foreign ports with atomic exhibits in two to three years.

Suggs And Hicks Are Title Favorites

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (UP)—Little Louise Suggs, the nation's top money winner from Atlanta, Ga., and steady Betty Hicks of Manhattan Beach, Calif., were the title favorites today as the $6,500 Homestead Women's Open golf tournament got under way.

Miss Suggs and Miss Hicks were teamed in the four-day, 72-hole best-ball match. Top prize for the winning team of two girls is $1,450.

Herman Peery, pro at the host Cascades course, noted that the course is only 6,470 yards, par 71, but commented, "Regardless of what anyone says, the Cascades course is built for long hitters and the gals that can hit them the farthest are my pick to win top money."

Thus, while Peery figured the Suggs-Hicks team as a top title contender, he also tabbed Fay Crocker of Montevideo, Uruguay, and Marilyn Smith of Wichita, Kan., as a team to watch because they both hit for distance.

Humbert Announces Five DePauw Trustees

GREENCASTLE (Spl.) —Hoosier Methodist have named five new DePauw University trustees in recent annual conference elections, it was announced today by DePauw President Russell J. Humbert.

They are Mrs. John Burkhart, Indianapolis; the Rev. Robert Fribley, Richmond; Hewitt Carpenter, Marion; the Rev. Allen B. Rice, Michigan City, and the Rev. Almon Coble, South Bend.

Poor Home Attendance

ODESSA, Tex. (UP)—Poor home attendance has caused the owners of the Odessa Baseball Club of the Longhorn League to drop the club out of the circuit. The club's general manager said the franchise will be turned over to the league. Meanwhile, the league's president, W. J. Green, expressed optimism that "something probably can be worked out" so that the club can finish out the season.

Tall Vermont Beauty Will Compete As Miss United States In Miss Universe Contest

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP) — Statuesque Carlene King Johnson, a 22-year-old jewelry designer, will compete as Miss United States tonight against 32 foreign beauties in the semi-finals of the Miss Universe contest.

The tall, blonde beauty gasped with excitement Wednesday night when nine judges chose her "Miss United States" from among four other finalists who had been selected from 15 semi-finalists Tuesday night. She represents the United States in the fourth annual battle for the title of "Most Beautiful Girl In The World."

If Miss Johnson survives the semi-finals tonight, she will get a chance for the big glory in the final contest Friday night.

With the Miss U.S.A. title, Carlene won a $200 per week contract at Universal - International Studio, a pearl necklace, a sterling silver compact and a gold trophy.

"I'm very happy. I hope I'll be a credit to the United States in the international competition," she said with a smile.

The blue-eyed Vermonter is 5-feet, 8-inches tall and weighs 122 pounds. Her measurements are 35-24-35. She confided she is a typical Vermont Republican.

In her home town, Rutland, she is nicknamed "Muscles" and "Slugger."

She said she thought there is no ideal age for marriage. She said she has no boy friends.

"When a girl is ready and mature enough she'll marry," Miss Johnson said. "It's different in different sections of the country."

When asked about her prospects in the Miss Universe contest, she replied, "I just don't know what to think about it."

Americans Express Amazement At Red Manpower 'Waste'

KHARKOV, Russia (UP) — Twelve American farmers touring Russia expressed amazement today at the apparent waste of manpower on Soviet collective farms.

They said comparable farms in America would be more completely mechanized and would require one-twentieth of the manpower.

The Americans visited their second collective farm today. As usual, they were overwhelmed with hospitality. They were welcomed by Farm Chairman Gavril Ilyich Krivolapov and practically the entire 460 members of the farm.

Everywhere the Americans go, they are surrounded by hundreds of curious Ukrainians. On their way from Moscow Wednesday, their motorcade of black Zim taxicabs often had to stop because the crowds became so thick.

Although reluctant to make comparisons which might be considered unfriendly, the visitors said

The Americans agreed that a on a state farm outside Moscow a farm of similar size in the United States could be operated by 30 workers, and with virtually complete mechanization.

The farm they visited has 2,400 acres under cultivation, 150 cattle and about 30,000 chickens.

At the farm called "enin's Road" outside this former capital of the Ukraine, the Americans were treated to an outdoor feast blueberries, cherries and sour cream—all raised on the farm and served by pretty farm girls in embroidered Ukrainian blouses.

Other members of the reception committee are the Mesdames Ford Goble, Garland Stickler, Sam Galbreath and John Lillich.

As they have done in past years, the Junior Chamber of Commerce will head the sanitation committee to inspect all food stands to assure proper sanitary measures.

American Legion

Edwin J. Pugh, commander of American Legion Post 93, was also present at the meeting. The Legion handles the work detail of the four-day event, which includes erection of the platform; assisting city employes in erection of fence; decoration of bandstand; erection of seats; and assisting in erection of high acts and furnishing stage hands during the free performances.

Davy Crockett

CHICAGO (UP) —Davy Walkup Crockett, a great-grandson of the frontiersman, was given 19 pieces of bubble gum by Chicago fans of his ancestor.

Crockett, who is 55, gravely thanked the youngsters.

Dr. Sam Sheppard Becomes Number In Ohio Prison

Begins Life Sentence Behind Gray Walls

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP) — Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard became just a number today behind the towering gray walls of Ohio Penitentiary.

He will be known in prison records as simply "No. 98860."

The 31-year-old Bay Village, Ohio, osteopath who was convicted last December of slaying his wife, Marilyn, walked through the penitentiary gates Wednesday to begin a life sentence.

"He's going to be just John Doe from now on," Warden Ralph Alvis said. "There will be no special privileges."

Sheppard's number was given him shortly after he arrived at the penitentiary accompanied by two deputy sheriffs and handcuffed to a parole violator.

When they stepped out of the sleek black sedan which brought them from Cleveland, Sheppard looked glum but clutched a large photograph of his 7-year-old son, Chip, and walked to the gate with his head held high.

As he went those last 50 paces from the car to the prison, Sheppard looked frequently from side to side, but showed no visible emotion. Reporters and photographers surged along with him but it was a quiet crowd.

Several hundred people left their work from nearby businesses and lined the street across from the prison to await his arrival shortly before 4 p.m. Some of them had been standing there since 10 a.m. Wednesday morning.

Gibson

prove that Wells readily admitted taking the items but had no wrong intent. Wells claimed that supervisory officials of the plant told him it would be alright to take the equipment.

Told At Coffee Break

Bond claimed that Gibson knew nothing of the theft until it was revealed by Wells during a "coffee break" the day after the last item was taken.

The defense failed to produce any witness who told Wells he could take the equipment from the plant, but only a day-shift inspector who told him where some equipment was located.

The State, represented by James Biddle, serving as prosecuting attorney in place of Edward J. Meyers, Jr., introduced evidence by Byrd that he had seen Wells bring one of the items of equipment from the plant and place it on the floor of a car the night of June 24. Byrd said that he had been given a ride to the plant in Wells' car, driven by Gibson.

It was at this time that Byrd said Gibson related the threat to anyone trying to stop Wells' action.

Employed At Plant

Biddle served as prosecutor in the case since he was serving as deputy while Meyers was out of the city when the two men were arraigned July 11.

Prior to their arrest July 8, 1955 by Blain Schang, State Detective, Wells was a turret lathe operator and Gibson was a machine operator at the tractor plant.

Both men testified Wednesday afternoon that the day foreman at the plant, identified as Charles Garver, told Wells he could take one of the "scrap" hydraulic lift cylinder assemblies. Wells quoted Garver as telling him, after the former had inquired about purchasing one of the cylinders, "Why buy one?" This was denied by Garver when he testified Tuesday.

The items Wells admitted taking from the plant were identified by exhibits at the trial as two hydraulic lift cylinder assemblies, two hydraulic pumps and three hydraulic control valves.

In handing down the decision, Judge Pefley ruled that larceny is larceny regardless of the circumstances. He said that it is no less wrong stealing from a corporation than it is from a church collection box.

County Cattle Feeders To Hold Feed Lot Tour

Tour, Discussion Meeting July 27

Whitley county cattle feeders will hold their mid-summer feed lot tour Wednesday, July 27, it has been announced by Dale Reiff, the chairman. Henry Mayo, Purdue cattleman, has been secured to help with the discussion. The first stop will be at the Basil Miller feed lot, Etna-Troy township at 9:00 a.m. All cattlefeeders are invited to join the tour.

The Miller steers are the only ones seen on the Spring tour which have not gone to market. The second visit is to give cattlemen an opportunity to observe the results of the feeding program since followed. The Miller farm is located nearly four miles west of Etna.

The second lot to be inspected will be on the Archie Hartman farm, 10:00 o'clock, located 2 miles East of Larwill on U.S. 30. At 10:45 Larry and Everett Schuman will show a yard of stilbestrol fed steers on the nearby Tannehill farm. The Birdie Schuman farm, one and a half miles east of Black Lake will be the last forenoon stop, 11:30.

Noon lunch will be eaten in Columbia City after which the cattle feeders will meet at the county agent's office, 1:00 p.m., review the lessons of the morning, consider the outlook and plan further activities.

During rainy and humid periods and cucumbers require weekly spraying to prevent foliage disease and fruit rots, according to botany and plant pathologists at Purdue University. Spraying should start as soon as the plants begin to vine.

Rhythm And Blues By Pint-Sized Southern Drummer

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — L. J. Thibodeaux, a former gas company worker in Bunkie, La., put a rhythm and blues record, "Rock Around the Clock," on his phonograph today.

His three-year-old boy, Keith, toddled over to a set of drums. He beat out the rhythm in perfect time, including proper bangs on the cymbal and bass drum.

Little Keith can' tread or write. He can barel ytalk. But he's the newest sensation on television, although he has a hard time keeping awake on his show.

Started With Knives

Bandleader Horace Heidt discovered Keith in Louisiana on his touring "Amateur Hour" NBCTV program. Heidt was so amazed he signed the baby to a contract, making him the youngest steady coast-to-coast performer on TV.

"He started beating knives on the floor when he was a year and a half old after he'd seen a parade," his father shouted above Keith's drumming.

"Five months later we noticed he had rhythm. He wanted Santa Claus to give him a drum so we bought a $5 one. But he knew it wasn't a real drum so we go a $15 snare drum. He still didn't The baby was asked to appear like that, so we bought a $50 on a charity event in Lafayette, La. Soon he was the toast of the state on TV and radio.

Mother Gets Nervous

"Jackie Gleason wanted him but we got a better offer from Heidt," the young father said. "I quit my job to take Keith on tour. We're keeping his salary in trust for college.'

I asked little Keith what he thought about his new career.

"I don't wanna go to school," he said shyly. "I wanna play drums!"

However, the pintsized percussionist has competition in his own family. During our interview his two-year-old sister and one-year-old brother took over the drums.

"Sometimes I get so nervous from the noise," Keith's mother said, over the din.

When they're not touring with Heidt, the Thibodeaux live in one of the 10 modest guest cottages Heidt built for his regular performers on his estate.

"Keith leads a normal life," his father said. "He enjoys playing. We don't tell him to—he does it of his own accord.'

"This noise!" Mrs. Thibodeaux said again. "I hope my youngest takes up something quiet like the piano. Or nothing."

schools to decide to drop a sport, especially football, since it is the more costly.

Holford related that the present enrollment at the college at North Manchester is about 800 students. The school is a member of the Hoosier Athletic Conference composed of nine colleges. He said the enrollment is expected to reach 1,500 in the next decade, but that the school doesn't want to get any larger, "We want to stay small," he said.

Prior to Holford's talk, the Kiwanis Club voted unanimously to name Richard Dornick to the Board of Directors to succeed James Blank, who resigned from the club since he is moving from the city. The club also voted to amend the by-laws to include a second vice-president as one of the officers of the club.

Victory, Susce Pitching, Enables Red Sox To Move Within Game Of Third Place Indians

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

The most rabid baseball fan in Kansas City could forgive Coach George (Good Kid) Susche today if he's bursting his buttons with pride.

The Boston Red Sox stretched the Athletics' latest losing streak to nine games with a 6-0 victory Wednesday night—and it was none other than the coach's 23-year-old son, George Susce Jr., who was the chief villain. Susce Jr., a strong-armed right hander, yielded a leadoff single to Vic Power and then hurled no-hit ball for the remainder of the game.

The victory enabled the onrushing Red Sox to move within a game of the third-place Cleveland Indians, who lost to the Washington Senators, 6-4, and again tightened the American League race. The second-place Chicago White Sox advanced to within two games of first place with an 8-6 triumph over the New York Yankees.

But the drama of the night was unfolded in Kansas City. Susce Jr. had compiled a 4-3 mark for the Red Sox but Manager Mike Higgins never before had pitched him against the Athletics. Around the league, fans and players wondered how the young pitcher would react when he finally was called upon to pitch against his father's team.

Dad Watches From Bullpen

A 14-game winner for Louisville last season, Susce Jr. turned in his first big league shutout while his father watched the progress of the game from the bullpen. The 47-year-old coach, who groomed his son to be a ball-player, played for five major league teams but caught a total of 146 games in eight seasons.

It was the first time Susce Sr. had seen his son pitch in a major-league game, but he was so busy in the bullpen 412 feet from the plate that he only saw him briefly. The young pitcher's mother, brother, and sister were in the stands, however, and got a much better look.

The Red Sox, who have won 18 of their last 23 games, knocked out Arnold Portocarrero with four runs in the second inning and added two more runs in the third. National League castoff Grady Hatton contributed a single to the second-inning rally and a triple in the third frame.

Senators Beat Indians

The Senators scored four unearned runs off Early Wynn in the third inning and won their fifth straight game. Eddie Yost's home run and Joe Valdivielso's triple were the big blows of the game for the Senators, who now have a 7-6 season edge over Cleveland. The Indians whipped them 18 times in 22 meetings en route to the pennant last season.

The White Sox routed Bob Turley in the first inning and built up an 8-0 lead over the Yankees in three frames. Dick Donovan, who is fairly certain to be the first rookie to win 20 games for the White Sox in 54 years, was knocked out when the Yankees scored five runs in the seventh inning but got credit for the win to make his record 13-2.

Hal Smith drove in four runs and Dave Pope two to lead the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-3 win over the Detroit Tigers in the other A.L. game.

Newcombe Wins 16th

In the National League, Don Newcombe won his 16th game behind a five-homer barrage that included two each by Duke Snider and Don Zimmer as the Brooklyn Dodgers whipped the Chicago Cubs, 10-1. The Cubs snapped a nine-game losing streak in the nightcap with a 5-3 verdict. With 33 homers in 92 games, Snider is three games ahead of Babe Ruth's record 1927 pace.

The Philadelphia Phillies set a modern club record of nine straight triumphs with 5-0 and 4-2 wins over the Cincinnati Redlegs. Saul Rogovin pitched a five-hitter for his first N.L. win in the opener and Curt Simmons went the route for his sixth victory in the second game. The Phillies moved into fifth place, a half game behind the fourth-place Cubs.

Pinch-hitter Preston Ward's three-run seventh-inning homer gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-3 win over the Milwaukee Braves, who have dropped three in a row while Tom Poholsky breezed behind a 15-hit attack that swept the Cardinals to a 9-2 verdict over the New York Giants in the other National League games.

Moore To Decide On Training Site

NEW YORK (UP)—Light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore, who meets champion Rocky Marciano for the heavyweight crown in September, said today he'll decide on a training camp site Friday. Moore arrived here Wednesday and after ironing out some differences with promoter Jim Norris, Moore said he'll pick a camp Friday, but it definitely won't be Atlantic City, the IBC's choice.

Feature Match In Tennis Meet Pits Trabert, Flam

HAVERFORD, Pa. (UP) — The men's Pennsylvania state lawn tennis tournament entered the quarterfinals today with the feature match pitting Tony Trabert, seeded first, against fourth-ranked Herb Flam.

On the distaff side, singles play was not scheduled. The girls enter the semifinals Friday with top-seeded Louise Brough opposing Barbara Breit, seeded third.

Defending champion Vic Seixas, seeded behind Trabert for the tournament, was to meet Alejandro Olmedo of Lima, Peru, while Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., opposed Sidney Schwartz of Long Beach, N.Y., in other quarterfinal matches.

The pairings also showed Army Corporal Grant Golden of Chicago slated to meet fourth-seeded Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N.J. Golden, former practice player for the Davis Cup team and recently arrived from Japan, pulled the tournament's top upset Wednesday when he knocked off Wimbledon-runnerup Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, 14-12, 18-16.

Trabert, Cincinnati, Ohio, Davis Cupper, Wimbledon champion and U.S. Clay Courts king, advanced through the third round with a 6-2, 6-1, victory over Gerald Moss of San Francisco, Calif., while his Davis Cup teammate Seixas of Philadelphia bested Albert Harum Jr., of Coral Gables, Fla., 6-3, 6-4.

Flam, of Beverly Hills, Calif., earned the right to meet Trabert by beating Hal Burrows of Charlottesville, Va., 6-3, 6-3, while third-seeded Richardson defeated Sam Giammalva of Houston, Tex., 6-2, 3-6, 6-2. Schwartz advanced to the quarterfinals with a 6-2, 6-3 triumph over Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif.; Olmedo downed Straight Clark of Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-2, and Moylan bested William Tulley of New York, 6-1, 6-2.

Fuentes-Constance Bout Is Dreary

NEW YORK (UP) — It was a split decision all right, but no one even suggested today a return bout between welterweight contenders Ramon Fuentes and Hector Constance, so dreary was their TV-radio 10-rounder Wednesday night.

Fuentes of Los Angeles won the chopped verdict largely because he staggered young Constance of Trinidad, B.W.I., in the ninth round of their very dull performance at Madison Square Garden.

Harry Markson, managing director of the International Boxing Club explained today, "it was an unexpectedly unfortunate combination of styles. Each had made exceptionally good fights against other opponents."

Sammy Richman, Constance's American representative, said, "I thought Hector won, but he's a stubborn boy who wouldn't follow instructions from the corner. He tried to beat Fuentes at close quarters instead of keeping away from him."

Fuentes said, "he wouldn't fight in the open, so I just kept going into him." The California-Mexican added that he had no definite plans but that he expected to keep busy. He may fight someone at the Garden—not Constance—next autumn.

Oak Wilt Is A Fatal Disease

If your oak tree begins to look pale and poorly, chances are it's suffering from oak wilt, a disease which afflicts red and black oak.

Reports received by the state entomologist's office of the Indiana Department of Conservation, which has had the disease under thorough survey for some time, indicate that the number of cases is increasing this year, particularly in northern Indiana.

A general wilting of the entire tree marks the beginning of the incurable disease. Leaves wither and fall, and the tree usually dies within the same year that the symptoms appear.

State entomologist Frank N. Wallace advises that nothing can be done to save an afflicted tree, and that the best preventive measure is to kill the tree and the one next to it to prevent the disease's spreading to other trees. The disease is communicated through the roots, which intertwine.

NEA FEATURE AND PICTURE SERVICE — COLUMBIA CITY, IND., FRIDAY EVENING, JULY 22, 1955 — UNITED PRESS TTS WIRE SERVICE

Sudden Proposal Plays Havoc With Smooth-Running Schedule

REPRESENTS U.S.—Carlene King Johnson, 22, of Rutland, Vt., is shown after she was named "Miss U.S.A." in the finals of the national contest at the Long Beach (Calif.) Municipal Auditorium. As "Miss U.S.A." she will compete with a host of girls from nations throughout the world for the coveted Miss Universe title.

Congressman Will Try To Prevent Deportation Of Daughter Of Ex-GI

DAYTON, Ohio (UP) — AnOhio congressman today assured an ex-GI and his Italian-born wife that he would do everything possible to prevent the deportation of their 4-year-old daughter.

The U.S. Immigration Service has notified Leslie F. Thomas of Dayton, that his daughter, Jane Edith, must leave the country although born in a U.S. Army hospital in Trieste while Thomas was stationed there.

But Rep. Paul F. Schenck (R-Ohio) said he would place the matter before Rep. Francis Walter (R-Pa.), chairman of the House subcommittee on immigration.

Schenck said he proposes a bill that would legalize the child's residence by an act of Congress. The Thomases have until Sept. 30 before Jane must leave the country.

Thomas met and married his Italian wife while serving in Trieste. The girl was born in Trieste but was issued a passport in March, 1952 when the Thomases returned to this country.

Later, however, Thomas received a letter from the U.S. consul in Venice that a mistake had been made and that Jane was still an alien. The legal technicality that threatens to separate the child from her parents, deals with the age of the American parent and his own residence in the United States.

It states a child of an American serviceman and a foreign wife can become a citizen if the American parent had a 10-year residence in the U.S., with at least five years after he became 16.

Thomas was only 20 when his daughter was born and does not qualify.

The young father said he hasn't any definite plans but hoped newspaper reports would help get some results. He said, "I am downright disgusted, but I'm glad the people have a chance to read what is happening."

He added that maybe now "things will start cracking, snapping and popping and they will do something."

Will Select Miss Universe Tonight

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP) — The most beautiful girl in the world will be chosen tonight from among Miss United States and 14 foreign beauties in the climax of the Miss Universe contest.

Miss U.S.A., Carlene King Johnson, 22, of Vermont, and the 14 foreign girls were selected as semi finalists Thursday night out of 33 beauties in competition for the Miss Universe crown. Forty - two American girls were eliminated on Wednesday night when Miss Johnson became Miss U.S.A.

Thursday night's 15 survivors will enter the semi finals tonight, with five being selected as finalists. Miss Universe then will be picked from the finalists. The remaining four finalists, her runners up, will be listed as they finish behind her, in second, third, fourth and fifth place.

That Explains It

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UP) — Julius Walz, 58, and Warren Shiller, 23, reluctantly explained to police why their cars collided at an intersection.

The men said they both were watching two girls riding horseback nearby.

Bloodmobile To Make Second Visit Thursday

No Appointment Necessary To Donate

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will make its second visit of the year to this community Thursday, and people are urgently called upon to help meet the countys quota of 100 pints of blood.

A critical blood shortage exists at the Fort Wayne blood bank now, state the county co-chairmen, Carl Arntson and Stanley Mullendore.

The blood supply at the Fort Wayne blood bank has been exhausted, and last week, according to Mr. Arntson, six pints of blood were needed in this county, but only two were available and received.

Whitley county is one of the counties which has never fallen short of its blood quota, but Mr. Mullendore reports that in 1954 239 pints of blood were administered to local people during the year.

Due to the urgent need for donors, the co-chairmen state that anyone may come to the American Legion Home anytime between the hours of 10:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. If a prospective donor finds he is able to go to the Legion Home sometime during the day there is no need to have an appointment.

Most Of Congress Cheers President's Plan For Information Exchange; Some Skeptical

WASHINGTON (UP) — Most of Congress cheered President Eisenhower's bold plan for a big power exchange of military information today. But a longstanding distrust of Russia kept the verdict from being unanimous.

"I think it's terrible," was the angry but private comment of one Republican leader.

Some of those who applauded were skeptical thatt Russia would accept Mr. Eisenhower's plan to trade maps of military installations and rights for aerial reconnaisance of these defense areas.

But those who approved generally viewed the proposal as a tactical coup which put Russia on the spot and provided what Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga) called the "acid test' of Soviet sincerity.

The administration had given congressional leaders in both parties a confidential tip-off that Mr. Eisenhower might unveil the plan at the Geneva conference Thursday.

Statements Of Approval

When the news came, George and other Senate Democratic leaders including Floor Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, hospitalized for three weeks by a heart attack, were ready with statements of approval.

The loudest backing, in fact, came from the Democrats. Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland and Chairman Styles Bridges of the Senate GOP Policy Committee declined to comment, Knowland explaining that he would say nothing about the conference until it ends.

In the House, Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. said Mr. Eisenhower's proposal "might be

67 Of 100 Treatments For Alcoholism Termed Successful

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —The Indiana Commission on Alcoholism claimed today that 67 of the first 100 patients treated and discharged at a New Castle center "are making successful adjustments.'

However, an announcement said while results are "most encouraging" they are "not conclusive."

A breakdown of the 100 patients showed nearly one-half were divorced, separated from their wives or widowers.

Factoryworkers led the list with 12, carpenters were next with 10, and mechanics and laborers ranked third in a tie.

House Labor And Education Group Approves Grant

Of $1,600,000,000 To States For School Construction

By UNITED PRESS

The House Labor and Education committee today approved a bill to authorize the government to grant $1,600,000,000 to the states in a four-year program of school construction.

The vote was 21 to 9. The committee authorized chairman Graham A. Barden (D-N.C.) to ask the Rules committee to clear the measure immediately for action by the House.

Committee members were doubtful, however, that the bill can get through Congress before adjournment.

The measure would also authorize the federal government to buy bonds of school districts and to guarantee the credit of state building agencies.

Other congressional news:

Price Props: The Commodity Credit Corp. asked congress for $2,000,000,000 more in borrowing authority. It said that otherwise it probably will run out of farm price support money by November. The present limit on CCC borrowing is $10,000,000,000. Congress has twice before boosted the agency's borrowing authority.

Memorials: The Senate passed and sent to the House legislation providing for memorials to President Roosevelt and Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio). The Taft memorial would be a bell tower erected on the capitol grounds by public subscription. A commission would be created to plan the Roosevelt memorial. A $1,000 authorization would be authorized to finance its work.

Foreign Aid: Leaders of both parties predicted the Senate would approve most of the foreign aid funds requested by President Eisenhower.

Ike's Proposal Sends New Hope Through Europe

Official Reaction Not Revealed

LONDON (UP) — President Eisenhower's proposal to exchange military information with Russia sent a surge of hope through the armed camp of Europe today.

Official reaction was kept behind closed doors, but the response by newspapers and people in the streets showed a new wave of optimism.

Some newspapers called Mr. Eisenhower's offer to trade aerial photographs and military blueprints the high point of the Big Four conference at Geneva. Others said the President had scored a key diplomatic victory.

Through much of the comment, however, ran the concern for Russian reaction to the proposal. People wanted to know: Will the Soviets accept the offer? Can they be trusted?

Excitement was high, nevertheless, and the British press gave the President his biggest headlines since he sent the forces of freedom onto Normandy's beaches on D-Day.

"Ike rocks the Big Four," said London's Daily Express — and it spread across the top of its front page French Premier Edgar Faure's comment:

"If all the people in the world could have heard Mr. Eisenhower's voice on this 21st of July, they would say this is something sensational."

The Daily Mail bannered, "Ike Challenges Russia. Let's fly over each other's countries to end fear of surprise attack."

Earl Smith Retires After 35 Years With U. S. Engineers

Earl Smith, formerly of Columbia City, has retired after 35 years of service with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. He has been a resident of Rock Island, Ill., and for a number of years has been an employe of the Rock Island district.

A graduate of Purdue University, Mr. Smith began his work as an engineer with the Louisville, Ky., district before serving as a 1st Lieutenant in World War I. He was transferred to the Rock Island district in 1931 after working with the corps in Wheeling, W. Va., for a number of years.

He was in charge of the specifications branch of the engineering division, having begun with the Rock Island district's nine-foot channel project on the Mississippi River.

Mr. Smith is a brother of Mrs. E. V. Nolt of this city and was graduated from high school here. His wife is the former Miss Rose Fiest of Columbia City. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have a daughter, Dorothy, wife of Dr. Robert Jones, dentist in Bettendorf, suburb of Davenport, Iowa.

E. E. Glenn Speaks On Consolidation In Huntington County

Superintendent Edward Glenn was the speaker at a school consolidation meeting at the Mt. Etna Conservation Club in Huntington township Thursday evening. Mr. Glenn outlined the program and costs of a larger high school as compared with a smaller one and also discussed the deficiencies in educational opportunities in a smaller school as compared with a large consolidated one.

The meeting was held to study the problem of a possible six-way consolidation in Huntington township or whether to consolidate on a smaller scale. The six townships involved are Polk, Wayne, Lancaster, Jefferson, Salamonie, and Rock Creek.

Supt. Glenn referred to his studies and experience in the field of school re-organization in answering many of the questions of the Huntington county school patrons.

Unemployment Claims In Indiana Jump

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Indiana unemployment insurance claims jumped upward last week, crossing the 25,000 mark for the first time since May.

William C. Stalnaker, director of the State Employment Security Division, reported the number of newly unemployed who filed claims was 585 higher than the week before at 6,675.

The total was 26,992, including claims from those out of work a week or more. Claims in that category were 2,000 higher than the last previous week.

Stalnaker said the claim volume was 60 per cent below a year ago. He said vacation layoffs were largely responsible for the rise last week and pinpointed the Connersville area as the "primary cause of this rise.'

Raber Group Nominates Seven For Yearly Awards

Mrs. Russell Taylor was among seven persons nominated for a yearly recognition award at a recent meeting of the Raber Friendly Neighbors group. Mrs. Taylor was nominated homemaker of the year.

Other nominations included Merlin Hindbaugh, for work with soils and crops; Walter Mowrey, poultryman of the year; Talmage Leedy, dairyman of the year; Chester Connor, beef producer of the year; George Kneller, swine producer of the year, and Carlton Hasty, sheep producer of the year.

The group met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Talmage Leedy.

Western Opinion Divided As To Real Winner

To Emerge From Summit

By K.C. THALER
United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA (UP)—Western opinion was divided today as to which side will emerge as the real winner at the Big Four summit conference.

Some believe the West has won the day by having maneuvered Russia into a policy of moderation. Others fear the Soviets will emerge from the parley with a substantial propaganda victory.

The real test of the present meeting will come when the two sides set down at the conference table later this year to negotiate settlements and bargain for position.

Only then will it be possible, the observers cautioned, to determine whether and to what extent Moscow's policy has changed in substance.

Russian concessions in the four days of discussion here generally have not gone beyond procedural issues. The Soviets have made no advance commitments on major policy problems.

They have been amazingly cooperative in improving the international atmosphere and have gone out of their way to impress on world opinion their readiness to work for relaxation of tension.

The observers said the Kremlin's technique here has had profound effect on Western diplomats. They believed it might have an even greater impact on world public opinion, at practically no cost to the ultimate Soviet position.

Western diplomats counselled that the forthcoming decisions of the summit conference should be considered and judged in this light.

So far, the current talks have shown these trends:

Both sides are willing to improve the general international atmosphere and end their psychological warfare.

Both sides are willing to set down and negotiate their differences.

Both sides are prepared to consider arms cuts with some international controls.

Both sides are ready to consider an improvement of East-West contacts in the future — in the fields of communications, cultural exchanges and information on conditions in their respective countries.

This is broadly as far as agreement goes.

Local Members Plan To Attend Legion Convention

Several local members of American Legion Post 98 are planning to attend the state convention of the American Legion being held this weekend at Indianapolis.

Among those known to be going sometime over the weekend are Galen Adair, Benton Bloom, Robert Erdmann, Paul Fesler, Walter Firestone, Robert Gates, Ralph F. Gates, Dale Gillespie, Lee Gross, H. A. Morris, Paul Pinskley, Edwin Pugh, George Sewell and Don Zumbrun.

Edwin Pugh, commander of Post 98, has announced that the regular meeting scheduled for July 25 will de dispensed with due to the convention.

Monday, August 1 will be social night with the next regularly scheduled meeting being on August 8.

American Legion Set For Annual State Convention

Opens Saturday At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—The Indiana Department of the American Legion held preliminary committee meetings today in preparation for the opening Saturday of its 37th annual convention.

An auxiliary organization, the 40 and 8, opens its separate convention today and probably will find it necessary to take a stand on a national squabble between the legion and its fun-making supplement.

Sessions of the legion convention open Saturday with welcoming speeches by Governor Craig, a former national commander, and Mayor Alex Clark. The annual parade, which draws thousands of spectators to the downtown area, will be held Saturday night.

The 40 and 8 will have its parade separately tonight.

A resolution adopting an official Indiana attitude on the 40 and 8 dispute was expected to be submitted to the fun-makers, although the legion's convention probably will not recognize the controversy, spokesmen said.

At Logansport this week, the Local 40 and 8 voiture adopted a resolution opposing a proposal by its National Executive Board to sever relations with the legion.

About 3,000 legionnaires were expected to attend the convention, which closes Monday with election of officers. They include 1,560 delegates.

In keeping with tradition, no long-winded speeches were scheduled. In fact, no speeches were on the program at all except the welcoming talks by the governor and mayor.

Ira Lyons of Greenfield is Indiana Department commander.

A two-way battle for leadership in the legion during the next year was waged between Emery Boyd, Angola, and Alton Cochrane, Crown Point, who solicited the support of delegates for the right to succeed Lyons.

Another major contest shaped up in the bids of Larry Hinds, Indianapolis, and Dr. Fred Daugherty, Crawfordsville, to become national executive committeeman.

Local People To Attend Indiana Day At Mooseheart

A number of local people are expecting to attend the observance of Indiana Day at Mooseheart, Sunday, according to Glenn Coolman, governor of the Columbia City Loyal Order of Moose.

The trip to Mooseheart which is located just out of Aurora, Ill., will be made in private cars.

Mooseheart was founded in 1913 by the Moose lodge. It consists of 1200 acres and more than 200 fire proof buildings. The children there are those whose fathers were members of the order.

Each child is educated and trained for the vocation of his choice and scholarships are awarded. The children are reared in the faith of their fathers. Two chaplains, one a catholic and the other a protestant, look after the religious life of the children. The House of God which houses both forms of worship was dedicated in 1950 and the new high school building in 1954.

The visitors will be shown baby villiage, House of God, the high school, hospital and dairy farms.

Salesmen, Almost Neighbors, Meet By Coincidence

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UP) —Two Massachusetts traveling salesmen, who live only two miles apart, met for the first time recently in an ambulance.

Elzie W. Lewis, of Newton Center, and George Souther, of Watertown, suburbs of Boston, were staying in the same hotel here. They were struck by automobiles a few minutes apart. The same ambulance picked them up.

Both men are 45 years old and were treated for the same injuries —lacerations and bruises.

Dr. Frank Thompson Leaves Linvill Clinic

Dr. Frank M. Thompson, of the internal medicine department at the Linvill Memorial Clinic since April 1947, discontinued his association on the staff July 9 and is now in private practice in Huntington.

Carl Arntson, administrator at the clinic, states no replacement has been named for Dr. Thompson.

Nixon Calls Cabinet To Hear Special Report

On Big Four; President Sends Daily Reports

WASHINGTON (UP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon called a cabinet meeting today to hear a special report on the Big Four conference in Geneva.

Except for the report — from Under Secretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. — the meeting was to be devoted to "routine" business.

The cabinet briefing followed a confidential report by the President to congressional leaders on Thursday in which he is reported to have said he is personally convinced the Russians are anxious for the Geneva conference to show concrete results.

The President has been sending daily reports to the congressional leaders in line with his promise to keep them informed of happenings at the conference.

All but three of the cabinet officers were expected for the meeting.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is in Geneva, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield is vacationing, and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Oveta Culp Hobby, is out of town.

While most of the cabinet's business was routine, the cabinet meeting itself was not.

President Eisenhower, in what has been termed a strong political gesture in Nixon's direction, left a handwritten note authorizing the vice president to summon and preside over a cabinet meeting or a meeting of legislative leaders while he is in Geneva.

The 42-year-old Nixon has presided over weekly cabinet meetings before in the President's absence — about half a dozen times. But this was the first time he has done so while the President has been out of the country.

Russia Needs More Time To Think It Over

Time Is Running Out For Talks

BULLETIN

GENEVA (UP)—U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles announced tonight that the Big Four heads of government will meet in special, secret session Saturday to receive a progress report from the Big Four foreign ministers.

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

GENEVA (UP)—President Eisenhower's sudden proposal to trade arms secrets with Russia threw the smooth-running schedule of the Big Four summit conference out of kilter today, apparently because the Russians needed more time to think it over.

The Big Four heads of government met for their sixth formal summit conference at which the Russians may give their answer. The meeting was delayed an hour to permit their foreign ministers to complete their report.

The meeting of heads of government opened an hour after its scheduled 4 p.m. (9 a.m. CST)9 starting time. It had been delayed to give the Big Four foreign ministers more time to complete their report to the summit.

The ministers met twice in advance of the summit meeting and once recessed briefly while Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov returned to his delegation's headquarters for consultations.

Time was running out for the summit talks.

President Eisenhower has announced his intention to leave Geneva by 3 p.m. (8 a.m. CST) Saturday.

Western observers believed today's session was approaching the pay-off stage.

Russia must give its reaction and answer to Mr. Eisenhower's bold secrets-swapping plan today, or at latest Saturday.

And the Soviets, if they have any

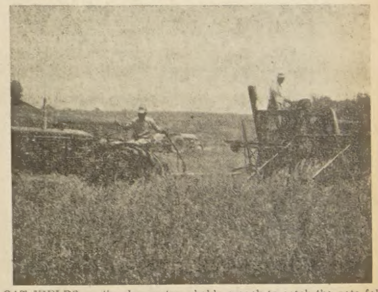
Oat Demonstration Reveals Yields, Standing Characteristics, Effects Of Fertilization



OAT YIELDS on the demonstraion plots were checked after being combined. Here Joshua Barnes drives the tractor, while his son Glenola, who does the farming, holds a sack to catch the oats falling from the elevator. Oats from each of the nine demonstration strips were sacked and weighed to determine the yield.

* * * *

A small group of Whitley county farmers attended the oat demonstration Thursday afternoon at the Joshua Barnes farm on the Old Yellowstone Trail. G. P. Walker, of Purdue University, discussed the nine different varieties of oats and the response of varied applications of fertilizer on oats.

A look at the demonstration plot readily told the farmers present that the Columbia and Missouri 0205 varieties were the first to go down. The Benton oat strip was also "leaning" somewhat, but the Clinton 59, Clintafe, Jackson, Ajax, Sauk, and Clintland all stood up well.

The oats were combined as part of the demonstration, and the yields were recorded. It was pointed out that the soil was a sandy loam, not a particularly good soil for oats.

Yields

Despite the fact that the Missouri 0205 variety had gone down, that variety and the Benton, which also had a tendency to fall over, yielded the highest of all. They produced grain at the rate of 61 bushels per acre. The Clinton was next with 59, Sauk 58, Clintland 56, Jackson and Ajax 54½, Clintafe 51, and Columbia 41.

PRESIDENT'S CONTINUING FAITH IN NIXON

When President Eisenhower departed for the "Summit conference in Geneva and named vice-president Nixon to act for him in various capacities, it was a continuation of faith by the President in his "right-hand man" which was first expressed during the 1952 political campaign.

Before leaving for the Big Four Meeting, the President named his vice-president to handle the history-making and confidential secrets transmitted from Geneva. He also empowered Nixon to call special cabinet sessions during the President's absence.

Such reliance on the ability of Nixon by President Eisenhower was first shown during the presidential campaign in the fall of 1952.

Ike defended Nixon's honesty when the latter was charged by Stephen Mitchell, then National Democratic Chairman, with accepting political campaign funds from wealthy Californians.

Nixon subsequently bared his financial records to the American public on a television broadcast. Audits of the records proved that Nixon had received no financial gain through the contribution of $18,000 to his political fund while he was a U.S. Senator from California.

The audits also proved that Nixon had violated no federal law in accepting the contribution.

Several persons urged Eisenhower to drop Nixon as his Republican running-mate after the matter about the political fund became public. However, Ike and the majority of his supporters backed Nixon and expressed their faith in his honesty.

The faith in vice-president Nixon has not been voided by President Eisenhower. The President had given him a seat in the Cabinet, made him a member of the top-secret National Security Council, and dispatched him on various missions at home and abroad as the President's personal representative.

The vice-president is also being considered as a personal representative of Mr. Eisenhower at a conference August 8 to 20 at Geneva. The conference is on the international peaceful uses of atomic energy, outgrowth of the President's "atoms for peace" program outlines in a speech more than a year ago.

In return for his faith in Nixon, the President has realized in the vice-president probably his administeration's staunchest supporter.

Local Parish Honors Minister And Family Thursday Evening With Going-Away Affair

More than 140 members and friends of the Evangelical United Brethren church attended the going-away party given Thursday evening for Rev. Lynn Henry and his family.

Rev. Henry, who has been transferred to South Bend, left today to begin his pastorate at the First church in South Bend.

The program of the evening included a piano number given by Miss Beverly Hile, church organist, and a solo number "Melody of Love" by Richard Robbins. The Rev. Robert Crosby, of the Presbyterian church, spoke in behalf of the Associated churches of this city of which Rev. Henry has served as president for the past year. There were musical numbers by the Primary and Beginners departments of the church.

Heads of various groups in the church and the church school expressed their appreciation of the good work of the minister here and of their good wishes for his continued success in his new pastorate. The adult department of the church presented the Henrys with gifts, also the Youth Fellowship of the church which was an expression of appreciation of the Fellowship for the interest taken by the departing minister in the youth of the church.

Women of the church served punch and cookies during the evening.

why it pays to have a Beautician shampoo and set your hair

It takes a beautician to bring out all the loveliness of your hair. You need her expert judgment, because your hair changes from day to day . . . and only she can tell which shampoo is best for you at any given time.

Only a professional beautician can shape your hair to suit your face and figure, arrange each curl with expert perfection, give you the hair-do that glorifies.

Demonstration Club Has Lesson On Homemade vs Mixes

The Big Lake Home Demonstration club met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Robert Wilson, with 18 members responding to roll call with "Picnic Suggestions." The group sand "Yankee Doodle Dandy" led by Mrs. Laurel Cox who gave the history of the song.

The lesson on "Homemade vs Mixes" was presented by Mrs. Ivan Gephart and the hostess read the verse of the month. The program closed with Bible verses read by Mrs. Louis Garber.

Due to the death of a member, Mrs. Hayden Rice, the club announces the postponement of the club anniversary party from July 2 to August 17 at the home of Mrs. Harry Pritchard.

Mrs. Richard Whitelock was elected treasurer of the club due to the resignation of Mrs. Arthur Swain. The hostess prize was won by Mrs. Ivan Gephart.

Mrs. Gephart was a co-hostess with Mrs. Wilson. The two women served a Jello fruit salad, cake, ice tea during the social hour.

Lakeview Club Is Entertained At The Friskney Home

The Misses Marie and Evelyn Friskney were hostesses Thursday afternoon to 15 members of the Lakeview club and a number of guests. The club welcomed Mrs. Ada Sweigart as a new member.

Mrs. Kenneth Leedy presided over the business meeting and Mrs. Melvin Wheeler had charge of entertainment. The hostesses served Jello, candies, cookies and punch.

Guests included Mrs. Dal VanVoorst, Mrs. Schuyler VanVoorst, Mrs. Arygle Hougendoubler, Sharon Western and Karen Leininger.

Women At St. John's Hold Meeting At The Parish Hall

Twenty-four women at St John's Lutheran church attended the meeting of the Ladies Aid Society held Thursday at the parish hall with a sack lunch at noon. They spent the morning quilting and sewing carpet rags.

Mrs. Theodore Wiehe, hostess for the meeting, was in charge of devotions which had for its theme "He Has Brought a Good Work Upon Me." A Thank You letter was read from the Indiana State School in Fort Wayne for a tricycle and wagon sent by the women of the church to the chool.

A quilt top made by the church women during the past number of weeks brought $7.50 in an auction held during the afternoon. A humorous reading was given by Mrs. Wiehe, who served orange ade and ice tea during the afternoon.

All Is Forgiven

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-N.Y.) proved today that he really isn't angry at Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey D-W.Va.) for punching him on the jaw Wednesday during a hectic labor committee meeting on the school bill.

Powell found he would be unable to be present at today's meeting to vote on the measure. So he gave his proxy vote to another member to cast for him.

The member: Bailey.

Actress Eve Miller In Critical Condition

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Hospital authorities said film actress Eve Miller was in critical condition today with a self-inflicted abdominal knife wound that resulted from an argument with her fiance over marriage.

Police said the raven-haired actress was rushed Thursday to North Hollywood Receiving Hospital for emergency treatment, then was taken to General Hospital where she underwent four hours of surgery for her knife wound.

According to police, the actress thrust a paring knife into her body after her fiance, actor Glase Lohman, 31, told her he could not marry her until he was "financially able."

Investigation Of Talbott Connections Is Still Open

WASHINGTON (NP)—Sen. John L. McClellan said today the investigation of Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott's business connection is "still open" despite Talbott's offer to leave the firm.

McClellan (D-Ark.) said his Senate investigating subcommittee will meet soon to consider testimony in which the dapper secretary denied he used hisPentagon post to promote his business.

Talbott insisted he was "clean" but offered to give up his $60,000 a year partnership in Paul B. Mulligan & Co., a New York management engineering firm, if the subcommittee thought he should.

The subcommittee speedily held an impromptu public hearing at Talbotts request after publication of photostats and excerpts from its files. The letters were from Talbott and dealt with Mulligan & Co.'s business.

Talbott said he never used his official position to solicit business for the partnership, though he admitted he might have spoken to a number of his old friends—those he knew on a first-name basis—among corporation executives about the clerical surveys Mulligan & Co. conducts for large firms.

Air Force General Counsel John A. Johnson refused to discuss with a reporter a portion of Talbott's testimony concerning him. Talbott said he talked with Johnson about the refusal of the giant Radio Corporation of America to renew its Mulligan contract without approval of the attorney general.

Johnson said he wanted to read Talbott's testimony, in which the secretary said he was "disturbed" by RCA's attitude.

Talbott said, in response to questions, that he did not remember instructing Johnson to call RCA attorney Sam Ewing, nor did he remember listening to the conversation and chiming in to tell Ewing that RCA's position was "foolish and wrong.'

Farmers' Income Down From 1954

WASHINGTON (UP)—Farmers' cash income in the first half of 1955 totaled $12,200,000,000, down 4 per cent from last year because of lower prices, the Agriculture Department reported today.

Receipts of $7800,000,000 from livestock and livestock products were 7 per cent less than the corresponding period of 1954. Prices of hogs averaged lower, and receipts from meat animals were down.

Crop receipts in the first six months were $4,400,000,000, 2 per cent above 1954 because of higher average prices. Receipts from soybeans, potatoes, and truck crops were substantially above last year.

Cash receipts from farm marketings in June were $2,000,000,000. This 4 per cent gain over May was about the usual seasonal increase, but the receipts were 4 per cent below those of June, 1954, because of lower average prices.

June receipts from livestock and livestock products totaled $1,300,000,000, 6 per cent below May as most of the major items were down seasonally. They were only slightly lower average prices.

Crop receipts in June were about $700,000,000, up 30 per cent from May, but a little below June, 1954. The increase from the previous month reflected seasonally larger marketings of some of the early maturing small grains fruits, and vegetables.

In a review of the demand and price situation, the department said output of farm products now promises to be at a new high this year. Production of livestock products is at a record level and, if weather continues favorable, crop production is expected to total above last year and be the second highest on record.

U. S. Friendship Tasted By Some Russian Youngsters

By KENNETH BRODNEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

KHARKOV, Russia (UP) — A couple of American grandfathers gave Russia's new generation a potent taste of U.S. friendship when they gleefully danced with some small children and gave them piggy-back rides.

Observers said the impromptu fun boosted U.S.-Soviet relations more than a dozen meetings at the conference table.

The grandfathers were among the 12 touring American farmers who stopped at a tractor factory's children's camp near here.

Youngsters from two to seven years old greeted the Americans with folk songs and dances. They concluded the welcome program with a special dance where little girls pick little boys for partners.

The fun began when a cute little 6-year-old girl walked up to Ralph A. Olson and asked him to dance.

Olson, a 54-year-old grandfather from Ellsworth, Iowa, beamed broadly and accepted graciously.

American and Russian officials applauded vigorously. The children screamed with delight.

Within minutes the other children pulled the rest of the Americans into the dance. When they finished, the farmers hoisted the youngsters on their backs and gave them rides over the grounds.

Earlier, the Americans struck a happy note at the Kharkov tractor factory by singing "We're from Iowa—That's Where the Tall Corn Grows,' "Home on the Range," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," and "I've Been Working on the Railroad."

The Ukrainians sang right back with a little ditty called "Lets Unharness the Horses, Boys," that was perhaps more in keeping with the American delegations agricultural mission.

Plant Director Pavel Y. Sablev told the American his plant's 15,000 workers—60 per cent of them women—produced 16,000 caterpillar tractors of 54 SAE horsepower annually, plus 50 smaller 12 SAE horsepower garden tractors daily.

The director asked Asa V. Clark of Pullman, Wash., to drive one of the big tractors as it came off the assembly line.

Clark, who owns four big tractors himself, jumped into the driver's seat and roared off through the factory yard.

He said later that it "handled well," but it seemed "about 20 years behind us' technically.

13-Year-Old Boy Fends Off Savage Bear

CROWN POINT, Ind. (UP)— A 13-year-old boy walked into a bear's cage and fended off the savage animal until a wounded zoo keeper could escape.

Randall Froedge, a student at Crown Point High School, rescued William C. McCord, 64, with whom he frequently made the rounds at the Lake County fair grounds zoo.

The zoo keeper went into the cage occupied by a 175-pound Cinnamon bear and its mate.

With sudden fury, the male bear swiped once with its fore foot and severely raked McCord's left leg.

Randall grabbed a shovel and went into the cage. He swung the shovel, forcing the bear away, until McCord could get out.

Then the boy cautiously backed out himself, still swinging the shovel.

The female bear did not move in to attack during the battle.

McCord was treated at a hospital for the laceration.

Randall's mother, Mrs. Samuel Froedge, said her son "likes animals and has often thought of being a keeper."

the step which would lead to peace." Assistant GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck said Soviet acceptance would be "one magnificent accomplishment' of the conference.

But Rep. John M. Vorys (R-Ohio) of the foreign affairs committee was not satisfied. The exchange of blueprints, he said, "with people who have been known to fake blueprints is not very satisfactory.'

"Daring, Imaginative Stroke"

The hospitalized Johnson issued a statement calling the plan "the daring, imaginative stroke for which a war-weary world has been waiting." Acting Senate Democratic Leader Earle C. Clements said the success of the Geneva conference on the disarmament issue would depend on the Communist answer.

George said the United States has nothing to lose in the plan because a free people lives in a "fish bowl." And Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Armed Services Committee said the Russians already probably have 12 maps of U.S. military installations for every one this country has of Russia.

He and Chairman James P. Richard (D-SC) f the House Foreign Affairs Committee were among those who doubted that Russia would accept.

"I think there is as much chance for a snowball in hell as there is for the Russians to say 'yes' to the plan," said Richards.

How Liner Was Named Queen Mary

LONDON (UP) — One of the stories that now can be told about the late Queen Mary concerns the famous liner which bears her name.

Cunard Line directors decided just before the liner was launched Sept. 26, 1934, to continue the tradition then of giving ships names ending in "Ia.' The ship was to be named "Victoria."

Queen Mary was asked to christen it. Sir Percy Bates, chairman of Cunard, went to King George V to tell him the new liner would be named "after one of Britain's most noble queens."

"Oh," said the king, "her majesty will be pleased.'

Sir Percy kept his silence and the ship was christened "Queen Mary."

Adams Pressed To Testify On Dixon-Yates

WASHINGTON UP -Senate investigators today pressed Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's top aide, to testify under oath on the Dixon-Yates power contract.

Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) termed as "highly unsatisfactory" the reasons given Thursday by Adams in refusing to appear as a witness before a special Senate monopoly subcommittee.

Adams cited his "official and confidential relationship" to Mr. Eisenhower. The assistant to the President also said other administration officials either have or will testify "fully' as to anything he knows about the Dixon-Yates matter.

Kefauver fired back a letter saying that none of the administration witnesses so far has testified fully. They have taken the position that they were limited in their testimony by President Eisenhower's directive against disclosing to Congress confidential communications between officials of the executive branch of the government.

Kefauver's second letter to Adams said that the subcommittee has received evidence raising "extremely serious questions with respect to activities of" high government officials.

Under these circumstances, Kefauver added, "no official of the government, no matter how high his position, can properly claim privilege..."

But it appeared doubtful that Adams would reverse himself and agree to testify. And aparently the matter would rest there, because Kefauver told reporters that he doubted that the subcommitee would try to subpena Adams.

"Frankly, I don't think we can," Kefauver said.

The subcommittee's public hearings were in recess until Tuesday.

Before recessing late Thursday, the subcommittee failed in three hours of questioning to get anything like the information it desired from three top Atomic Energy Commission officials—General Manager Kenneth E. Fields, Deputy General Manager Richard W. Cook and General Counsel William Mitchell.

Car Production Level Remains In 'High Gear'

By REY W. BRUNE
United Press Staff Correspondent

DETROIT (UP)—Somebody aparetly forgot to tell the automobile industry it was supposed to shift into neutral this summer.

The industry is rolling along at near-record levels, even though this is the season it is supposed to taper off production and get ready for model changeovers.

The booming production was enough to rout any remaining pessimists who gloomily kept predicting the high production couldn't last.

Production for this week was expected to soar to the 170,000-car level again. In other years that would have been an all-time record for production. This year it was short of the record, but still a booming production pace.

Most of the production is coming from the industry's two biggest producers, however — Ford and General Motors. General Motors paced by an all-time weekly high production at Chevrolet last week, was turning out cars faster than it ever had before. Ford also was rolling in high gear.

Chrysler corporation will close down Chrysler production next week to prepare for 1956 models. Its production has tapered off slightly. The small producers, American Motors and Studebaker-Packard, also have had to taper off sharply because of high inventories.

Time Poll Taken In South Bend

SOUTH BEND (UP)—A poll by the South Bend Tribune on the controversial time issue showed today that 57.09 per cent of those who voted favor daylight Saving Time only in the summer.

South Bend went on year-round DST last fall by order of the City Council, which was convinced the sentiment was in favor. The council may vote next Monday to restore Central Standard Time in winter months.

Dramatic Appeal Makes President Dominating Figure

GENEVA (UP)—President Eisenhower's dramatic appeal to the Russians to trade arms secrets, as proof of a mutual desire for peace, made him today the unrivalled dominating figure of the Geneva summit conference.

One high French delegation spokesman said the French feel that Mr. Eisenhower has inherited the mantle of retired former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill as "the world's foremost statesman."

This new assertion of world leadership by the American chief executive has been built surely and rapidly by the summit conference by his obvious sincerity, and the earnest and convincing way he has made his points—both inside and outside the conference chamber.

French Premier Edgar Faure, deeply moved by the Presidents daring proposal to the Russians Thursday put it this way: Mr. Eisenhower, by his bold stroke "has scored the first great victory over skepticism."

Geneva and much of the world's press have been similarly capitivated by his personal warmth, sincerity and great humanity.

The President is no maker of great and resounding phrases in the tradition of Churchill.

In fact, his bold proposal of Thursday was made in rough, looping and grasping language — typical of his presentation of an idea that is expressed his own way, without the aid of ghost writers.

But even the British, whose concept of diplomacy is more orthodox and straight-laced, agreed today that Mr. Eisenhower's personal diplomacy had done more than any other single thing to ease the 10-year-old suspicions and distrust of the Cold War and generate a new mood of confidence.

His arms secrets exchange plan was a very personal stroke.

Today that all-absorbing topic of conversation among delegates at Geneva was "this great voice" in which the President spoke. Press comments indicated that the people of the world had indeed heard and were impressed.

Craig Reveals Plans For Conference

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Governor Craig today revealed plans for another Indiana University conference on problems of state government.

He conducted a pre-legislative conference just before Thanksgiving last year to acquaint lawmakers with legislation to be proposed in the 1955 session.

Craig said he will hold another such conference on the Bloomington campus Oct. 26-28. Again, legislators will be invited, as well as representatives of statewide groups, interested citizens, teachers and government students.

Prof. Walter Laves, chairman of Indiana's department of government, said the university hopes to establish an annual conference "divorced from any partisan political considerations."

"In the odd-numbered years, it would stress activities, accomplishments and problems while in even-numbered years sessions would be pre-legislative in character and would emphasize new plans and programs and possibly would include a briefing session for new legislators."

House Bill

Debate was scheduled on a bill approved by the Senate Appropriations Committee to provide $3,205,341,750. This was only $61,300,000 less than the administration originally asked and a considerably higher amount than voted by the House.

The House voted $2,638,741,750 in foreign aid funds, cutting the administration's original request by $627,900,000, or about 20 per cent.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland said he expected the Senate to pass a bill "substantially in the form" as that recommended by the appropriations committee. Similar forecasts came from the Democratic leadership.

But Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La) planned a major effort to knock out some 420 million dollars of the military aid provided by the bill.

A final vote was expected late today or Saturday.

Other congressional news:

Talbott: Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott denied to Senate investigators Thursday that he used his Pentagon post to promote business for a New York management engineering firm in which he is a partner. But Talbott offered to give up his $60,000-a-year partnership if the Senate Investigating subcommittee thinks he should. Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) said the investigation is "still open" despite Talbott's offer. He said his group will meet soon to consider Talbott's testimony.

Dixon-Yates: Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) denounced as "highly unsatisfactory" the reasons given by Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams for refusing to testify in an investigation of the Dixon-Yates power project. Adams wrote Kefauver, chairman of the Senate Monopoly subcommittee, that his "official and confidential relationship" to President Eisenhower would prevent him from testifying. But Kefauver said since "extremely serious questions" had been raised by the investigation about the conduct of high officials, "no official of the government, no matter how high his position, can properly claim privilege."

Reserves: Senate and House conferees Thursday approved a compromise military reserve bill which Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass) predicted the administration will accept. Chairman Richard B. Russell of the Senate Armed Services Committee admitted the measure falls short of what the administration wanted, but said it is about as strong a bill as is possible to enact at this time.

Schools: The House Labor Committee met in closed session today to vote on a school construction bill. The measure would authorize the government to make grants to states totaling $1,600,000,000 over the next four years for much - needed additional school classrooms. The bill is a substitute for an administration plan.

Adjournment: Democratic Leader John W. McCormack said he is doubtful the House can adjourn by July 30—the target date for adjournment. But McCormack said he still has hopes.

Jailed GIs: A Senate Armed Services subcommittee reported that agreements giving foreign countries criminal jurisdiction "has not had an adverse effect on the morale and efficiency of American troops."

"KEEP AT IT" CLUB MEETS

President Ann Seymoure called the meeting of the "Keep at It" 4-H Club of Noble township, Noble county, to order July 19. Alberta Steinbacker led the members in pledging the flags and Joyce Adair called the roll. Thirteen members and three guests were present.

Harriett Cole led songs, followed by Patsy Smeltzer, who gave a discussion on health and safety in the home. The members and leader also discussed the local dress revue.

Final plans concerning the trip to Fort Wayne, where the members plan to visit the "Here's Charlie" program.

The meeting was adjourned after refreshments were served.

The group will meet July 27 at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

Dr. Foreman

IT IS all very well to speak of the downfall of a nation, or of a national disaster, you can read in history books that such and such a nation finally was wiped out in such and such a year. Judah, for instance, ceased to eixst as a nation after 586 B. C. But these are cold words. When a nation, a city, goes to smash, it means that homes are burned down, people are killed, business is bankrupt, nothing is "as usual" any more. There is no way a nation can crash without taking many individual lives and much happiness down with it.

Pulling Others Down

Out of the many lessons one can learn from the downfall of Judah and its capital Jerusalem is that innocent people suffer with the guilty and because of the guilty. Not every one in a wicked nation is wicked; some may have been doing their level best to keep the nation from going on the wrong track. Jeremiah is a prime example of this kind of man. An inspired prophet, he had been warning his fellow-citizens for years, as had Ezekiel and other prophets. But in the general disaster he suffered quite as much as anybody who was to blame for the whole mess. Jerusalem was swallowed, you might say, in two bites. The first was in 597 B. C. when the boy-king Jehoiachin was taken off to Babylon there to spend the rest of his days as a prisoner. Along with the kinglet went the royal family, the aristocracy, the top army officers, and a thousand skilled workers. Jerusalem and Judah were left to third-raters for eleven years; stupid, weak men who (to make a long story short) committed national suicide. Jeremiah suffered a great deal at the hands of these men. More than this he suffered in the final days of starvation and panic. (Of which more next week.) He was by far not the first, last or only innocent man to suffer in a nation's disaster. A good Christian like Niemoeller suffers for Hitler's madness; a saintly Christian like Kagawa suffers in Japan's defeat, even though both of them protested against their nation's policies.

Pulling Others Up

Needless to say, there is the other side of this. Just as the innocent are dragged down by the guilty, so the guilty are sometimes protected and benefited by the good. A nation by breaking God's laws pulls down many individuals who keep God's laws so far as they can; and on the other hand a nation that keeps God's laws pulls up many individuals who are quite indifferent to God. Take America at the present writing, for instance. The picture may have changed by the time you read this; but while it is being written our nation is at peace, prosperity blooms on every side, we are one of the two most powerful nations the world has ever seen. Who deserves the credit? Not all of us, surely! We talk about the heroism of our forefathers, immigrants and pioneers; but we are not very heroic. We talk about American smartness and know-how; but how few of us know how! We point with pride to our vast educational system — and we read the comic strips. We are happy to see erosion brought under control and fertility restored to waste land. But how many farmers were eager for such a program at first? We are proud of progress, when if it had been left to most of us, we would still be stuck in the mud.

The Price of Being Human

The truth is, and we cannot be reminded of it too often, that the human race is all tied together. Mankind is made for community. The human race is not like a tray of sand, where one grain can blow off without disturbing the others very much. It is more like a block of concrete; move one grain of that and it all moves. We are happy enough to be pulled up by the community or the nation when that is better than we are; so we have not too much to cry about when we are pulled down by the community or the nation when that is worse than we are. We can't have it both ways. We must not expect to benefit from the goodness of our good neighbors and at the same time not be hurt by the badness of our bad neighbors. It is the price of being human, that we are bonded together with countless others, and that with them we must often suffer the severe judgment of God.

Oat Demonstration

After combining the oats on the fertilization plot, it was revealed, in this particular field, oats fertilized with 250 pounds of 0-20-20 produced five bushels more per acre than those with no fertilizer at all. It was further revealed that adding three per cent nitrogen to the 0-20-20 application increased the up to 12 bushels more than the yield of the unfertilized oats. Increasing the nitrogen amount to six per cent and 12 per cent showed no appreciable increase in yield on this field. The oats were all a good weight testing out at from 36 to 38 pounds per bushel.

State Records

Tabulated records of state demonstration plots were distributed by Mr. Walker. These records records showed that Sauk produced the best at 75 bushels per acre with a test weight of 29.5 Clintland was next with 70 bushels at 31.5 test weight, Ajax was third with 68 bushels and 28-pound test weight. Missouri 0205 produced 67 bushels and 30.5 test, Clinton produced 66 bushels and 31 test, Columbia produced 64 bushels and 31 test, Clintafe produced 64 bushels at 29.5 Benton produced 64 bushels and 31.5 test. These tests were made in 18 Northern Indiana counties in 1954.

The big problem in raising oats is the season. It is difficult to get them planted early enough, and the weather at the time they are heading out is vitally important. If it is cool and moist when oats are heading out, a more abundant crop is assured, according to County Agent B. V. Widney, who helped plan the demonstration with the help of his assistant, Hugh Reinhold.

Big Four

surprises to spring or concrete, new proposals to make, must uncork them within the next 24 hours.

Faure Offers Points

French Premier Edgar Faure submitted to today's conference sessoin a three-point world disarmament plan to implement President Eisenhower's revolutionary "open shutter" proposal.

Faure handed the conferees a detailed scheme for eliminating the threat of war through raising living standards of world populations. He would use savings from military budgets for "a world development fund."

French delegation sources said Faure feels his plan can readily be coordinated with the Eisenhower plan.

The French premier's memorandum called for:

Check Arms Budgets

1. Establishment of an international secretariat to which all nations would submit details of their military budgets.

2. Agreement by all participating governments on a simultaneous, controlled and gradual reduction of arms budgets, taking into account each nation's military, industrial and raw materials power.

3. Allotment of the proceeds from arms cuts to "an international development fund" to boost world living standards.

The French proposed that the summit delegates refer their plan to the United Nations disarmament subcommittee for study.

The only inkling of the Russian position came indirectly from Molotov.

He was described as believing the Geneva conference has achieved "positive results" which will lead to more fruitful ast-will lead to more fruitful East-West contacts in the future.

Molotov's appraisal was said to have been given privately to Count Massimo Magistrati, head of the political section of the Italian Foreign Office who is here as an observer.

But the President's startling challenge to the Russians to prove their sincerity for peace fell with thunderclap impact on the summit conference of the Big Four.

An electrical storm broke over the Palace of Nations late Thursday when the President was making his heartfelt plea to the Soviets to exchange blueprints of military installations and rights to take aerial photographs of each other's territories.

Just as he finished, the lights went out.

"I didnt expect to blow out the lights," Mr. Eisenhower said in the darkened, silent chamber.

But he did—figuratively.

His unexpected proposal was the talk of the conference, where the foreign ministers met in the morning to plow through a heavy load of preparatory work before the heads of government meeting.

Proposals Bring hope

Newspaper reaction showed the President's offer sent a surge of hope for peace through Europe. At the United Nations in New York, diplomats applauded the plan, but doubted that Russia would accept it. In Washington, most members of Congress hailed the offer.

One member of the French delegation here said Mr. Eisenhower's move strengthened his view that the Americans have out-maneuvered the Russians at every turn in this conference.

Western diplomats watched for a possible Soviet counter-stroke in the closing hours of the Big Four parley, which folds up probably Saturday.

They estimated the odds were against Russian acceptance of the proposal, even though the President appealed to them to think twice.

The Russians rejected aerial photographs as a menas of policeing disarmament when it was brought up as part of a general Western plan last year. But Thursday's plea by the President changed it to a matter between just the two countries.

Hard to Reject

Informed diplomats believed it would be hard for the Russians to reject the plan outright because of the psychological ground they would lose.

But they were not believed ready to accept outright, so the plan might be sidetracked for further study at some other place and time.

Yet the President said he was launching the idea in an effort to demonstrate America's "great sincerity' in the approach to disarmament.

On that count he got high marks, judging from the emotional reaction he got in Geneva.

British Prime Minister Anthony Eden was "deeply moved" by the President's presentation, and said adoption of the plan would be a "great step forward."

French Premier Edgar Faure said he only wished that the peoples of the world could have heard the President's words.

Not Since D-Day

The background of Mr. Eisenhowers glasses-off, table-thumping delivery of the proposal Thursday represented one of the most delicately-timed strokes he has launched since D-Day.

Certainly, it was one of the strongest on-the-spot assertions of his presidential authority since he was inaugurated.

It became known during the night that an intenve study had started last March 18 on some such project as the President enunciated.

But it was an Eisenhower message based on long staff work, and the timing and the expression were the President's.

The key five paragraphs in the proposal were delivered, it became known, without reference to script and on the spur of close timing.

Only Thursday, Mr. Eisenhower summoned two of his military men—Adm. Arthur W. Radford and Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther — to fly to Geneva.

They spent the night at his villa, going over the emerging idea with him.

Rockefeller Flies In

Nelson Rockefeller, the president's psychological warfare adviser, flew in to see him before Thursday's dramatic strike. So did Harold Stassen, the President's assistant on matters of disarmament.

But, in the end, the President reserved to himself the timing, manner and degree of presentation.

It became known that Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's presentation of his own disarmament proposals, at Thursday's session convinced the President on the spot that the time was now.

He read his smooth, carefully-prepared text down to its docile center portions, then took off his glasses and looked directly at Bulganin.

His Own Words

The sentences roughed to the looping, grasping language Mr. Eisenhower uses when he is trying to get at a thing in his own way without ghost writers.

Without once looking at his text, he said the following in the hushed, high-ceilinged room:

"Gentlemen, since I have been working on this memorandum to present to this conference, I have been searching my heart and mind for something that I could say here that could convince everyone of the great sincerity of the United States in approaching the problem of disarmament.

"I should address myself for a moment principally to the delegates from the Soviet Union, because our two great countries admittedly possess new and terrible weapons in quantities which do give rise in other parts of the world, or reciprocally, to the fears and dangers of surprise attack.

"I propose, therefore, that we take a practical step, that we begin an arrangement, very quickly, as between ourselves — immediately. The steps would include:

End to End

"To give to each other a complete blueprint of our military establishments from beginning to end, from one end of our countries to the other; lay out the establishments and provide the blueprints to each other.

"Next, to provide within our countries facilities for aerial photography to the other country—we to provide you the facilities within our country, ample facilities for aerial reconnaissance, where you can make all the pictures you choose and take them to your own country to study, you to provide exactly the same facilities for us and we to make these examinations, and by this step to convince the world that we are providing as between ourselves against the possibility of a great surprise attack, thus lessening danger and relaxing tension.

"Likewise, we will make more easily attainable a comprehensive and effective system of inspection and disarmament, because what I propose, I assure you, would be but the beginning."

Whereupon, the President went back to reading his otherwise dull statement.

The Soviet delegates plainly were caught by surprise, Bulganin passed no immediate judgment on the proposal.

Interpreter Is Called To Give 'American Story'

Language Barrier Hampers Russian Farm Delegation

AMES, Iowa (UP)—A top government interpreter sped here today following assertions that the State Department had bungled by assigning incompetent translators to a visiting Soviet farm delegation.

The assertions were made here by disgruntled government - associated official who said the present interpreters are not adequately getting the "American story" through to the 12-man Russian group.

The officials revealed they have sent at least two sharply-worded telegrams to the State and Agriculture departments asking for manpower and technical equipment to break the language barrier.

The new translator, Eugene V. Serebrennikov, an employe in the Library of Congress, was dispatched by plane from Washington today to assist in the translation of technical agricultural terms.

Difficult To Communicate Freely

C. R. Elder, Iowa State College extension director who is guiding the Russians around the tall-corn state, said "We have found it difficult to communicate freely with the Russians as we would have liked."

He said the interpreters seem to be fluent in converting Russian to English but have difficulty translating English into Russian, especially in technical matters.

John Strohm, main escort for the Soviets on their tour of the Midwest, said he has pleaded with Agriculture Department officials to increase the translation staff with "more qualified personnel.

"We felt we weren't getting the message across," he said.

Strohm's announced goal on the trip was that "the complete and impressive story of American farm mechanization and productivity" be told.

"And we need experts to tell it", he said.

Difficulty Becomes Evident

The language difficulty became evident at a recent Chamber of Commerce dinner in Des Moines which lasted 45 minutes longer than scheduled because an American interpreter had so much trouble translating speeches of Des Moines civic leaders into Russian.

The situation became even more embarrassing Thursday night when Georgi Bolshakov, chief of the Washington bureau of Tass, Soviet news agency, became the English - to - Russian translator at a college seminar.

Bolshakov explained he had been asked to translate by Vladimir Matshevich, head of the Russian delegation and first deputy minister of Soviet agriculture, because "I can do it better than the other gentlemen."

Elder said "the trip so far would not have been possible" if it had not been for some Russian-speaking newsman. He referred to four American reporters and three Russians.

The State Department, it was reported, is short of interpreters because of the Geneva conference.

But Strohm said that even his requests for technical equipment to overcome the langugage barrier have been ignored.

Two Indiana Reformatory Men Reported Missing

PENDLETON, Ind. (UP)—Two inmates of the Indiana Reformatory walked away from a work detail outside the walls Thursday afternoon, Supt. Ralph Tahash said today.

They were Robert Pitcher, 26, Indianapolis, serving a 2 to 5 year sentence for second degree burglary, and William White, 26, Madison, serving one to 10 years for grand larceny.

State Police, reformatory guards and local authorities scoured Indiana for the two today. Two hitchhikers of the description of the escapees were reported near Greenfield.

Both men were due for parole this year, Tahash said. Pitcher was scheduled for parole Nov. 17 and White as soon as he obtained a job.

State Police had reported earlier that guard George Lutes was kidnaped by three prisoners. But Tahash said Lutes was merely sent on patrol to look for the men. When Lutes was overdue, Tahash said he asked State Police to look for him. Lutes returned later. Tahas said only two convicts were involved.

Hoosiers Are A Roving Lot; You Might Meet One In Spanish Castle Or Paris Night Club

By ROBERT V. HUDSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Hoosiers are a roving lot. You might meet one at a castle in Spain, a night club in Paris or on a ship in the middle of an ocean.

They like to get up and go, to see foreign countries and to meet foreign people. This year more Hoosiers will visit other nations than ever before.

And the wanderers from Indiana aren't limited to the financial hierarchy of the state's business and professional world.

In fact, one travel agency reported that last year more secretaries and clerks than bosses traveled to other countries. And each year more and more laborers are making the long journeys.

Travel agents said the reasons were faster transportation for shorter vacation times, lower rates, more money in circulation, interest stimulated by servicemen abroad and the best advertising media of all, word of mouth descriptions by those who were there.

Hawaii Is Favorite

Many of the middle-income tourists are like a foreman for an Indiana machine tool company. His mother was born in Switzerland, but he was born in the United States. He had relatives in the "old country. Since his vacation time was limited, he traveled by plane.

Other Hoosiers go to Mexico, the Mediterranean, the Carribean, South America, Mexico, Canada and North Africa. Each year more people go to Japan and Alaska. Hawaii is a Hoosier favorite.

But the Hoosiers' most popular vacation-land is Europe. There's night life in Paris, the mountains in Switzerland, the castles in Austria and Spain and the cathedrals in Italy, to name a few favorite attractions.

Some Hoosiers go to "live it up," others to see the scenery, meet the people or lap up the culture. Many Hoosier tourists try to gulp it all down.

As soon as school closes each spring, teachers and students head for Europe in droves.

"It's the first place teachers want to go," one travel agent said. "It's linked with so many of the subjects they teach."

Teachers Face Strikes

Occasionally, they run into difficulties, like two Hoosier schoolmarms who set out for Hawaii. They were stopped by a West Coast dock strike. On their next trip abroad, they faced a strike on the Queen Mary. But an airline saved their vacation and they flew to Europe.

Many other Hoosiers are flying by first choice. Tourists from Indiana are becoming more airline conscious, travel agents said. Especially for brief vacations.

However, the steampship is still the most popular mode of travel abroad, as attested by the fact many steamship companies already have closed their tourist-class lists for next year.

About three-fourths of the Hoosier tourist business is during the summer. Reservations must be made from 6 to 12 months in advance, depending on class of accommodations, travel agents said. Arrangements can be made more quickly in the winter, the slack season.

Four-Hour Shift Proposed To Solve Labor Problems

By ALFRED LEECH
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO (UP)— Manufacturer Curt G. Joa believes his plan for a four-hour day may go a long way toward solving the increasing problems of old age and retirement.

"If a skilled, experienced worker can't keep up an eight-hour pace, don't throw the worker away," he said. "Change the pace."

That's what Joa has done at his Lake Wales, Fla., plant, where he produces precision machinery. Pensioners past the ordinary retirement age work a four-hour shift, morning or afternoon.

Part of the staff consists of younger employes working a full eight hours to insure continuity.

Joa, here for a speech about his plan, said it calls for "gradual retirement." Forced retirement at an arbitrary age, he said, is "one of society's greatest crimes."

"You give a man a gold watch on his retirement, so he can sit and listen to it tick," Joa said. "It's a fast trip down hill."

The Accent on Youth

When this was an agricultural country, he said, Grandpa retired gradually, and gave the benefit of his accumulated wisdom to his sons.

Now, in this industrial age, the accent is on youth, Joa said, and industry wastes a golden asset in the skills of its senior employes.

Joa said the four-hour shift has paid off well at his Lake Wales plant. Younger employes learn to become skilled mechanics from the older men who have spent long years acquiring their know-how.

"The older men impart their knowledge with pride," Joa said. "They've got real job security, and they know the younger men aren't going to beat them out. So they hold back nothing."

Perhaps Joa places a higher premium on skill than some manufacturers do. He was born in the Black Forest country of Germany, where tradition reveres the skilled craftsman.

Went to Wisconsin

He got his master's degree in mechanical engineering in Germany, along with a doctorate in political science, and came to this country in 1924 to become a consulting engineer in Wisconsin.

During the depression he took over a firm that made woodworking machines. His main plant at Sheboygan Falls now makes precision machinery for both woodworking and paper products.

Joa, 52, an energetic man with an interest in everything around him, went to Florida for his health a few years ago. But he got restless.

"The woods were full of retired mechanics and machinists," he said. "And they were bored stiff. So I set up the Lake Wales operation and the four-hour shift."

President Might Do Worse At Geneva Than To Recite Day's Domestic News To Leaders

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower might do worse at Geneva than simply to recite to the Russian leaders some of the day's domestic news as it shows in the newspapers of the United States.

For example:

The construction of new homes in the United States is proceeding at a rate of 1,300,000 for 1955.

The second quarter of this year —April, May, June—racked up a record total U.S. production at an estimated rate of 383 billion dollars annually.

The estimated annual rate of personal income based on that quarter was another record-breaker, 300 billion dollars.

The estimated 1955 personal income after taxes was 267 billion dollars, assuming that the earning rate is maintained.

United States employment has ranged from 60 million persons over a period of many months and when last reported for May was near 63 million. Unemployed numbered 2,489,000, down about one million in 12 months.

Government Spending Down

Government spending is down a little, although not enough.

Most of these estimates came from the Persident's Council of Economic Advisers. The council is, of course, friendly to and associated with the Eisenhower administration. Its estimates may be challenged politically.

But the record lends weight to council conclusions. On Oct. 18, 1954, Dr. Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the council, spoke before Detroit's Economic Club. He said the United States again was "entering a phase of expansion." A congressional campaign was going at the time and Burns' was quickly challenged.

CIO President Walter P. Reuther called Burns remarks "politically expedient economic optimism." Reuther cited unemployment and other figures to show that the United States economy was contracting instead of expanding. Reuther, Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill) and others had earlier been warning of a recession which could slump into a depression. The recession was there, all right, but the record suggests that the United States was coming out of it in substantial fashion by last autumn.

Interesting To Communists

All of this would be interesting to the Communist leaders with whom Mr. Eisenhower is conferring in Geneva. There is no evidence nor reason to believe that their smiling faces and friendly attitudes mean abandonment of the basic Communist doctrine of the class struggle. Lenin and the late Josef V. Stalin preached that the world was not big enough for Communism and capitalism to live together. They preached further that capitalism must die.

The Communist program was then and, presumably, is now, to spread all over the world one way or another, by force and violence if necessary. The importance of the foregoing figures taken from the regular run of the day's news is that they show the American system to be a sturdy growth. It would die hard.

Reds Lose Bet

As the war ended 10 years ago the Communist leaders placed their bets on a conviction that the United States was riding for a fall. They saw a devastating depression coming fast. They lost that blue chip bet although they won many others in Eastern Europe and in Asia. The current statistics suggest they are losing their bet on the American economy by a bigger margin every year.

That could be a substantial argument in the man-to-man meetings which Mr. Eisenhower is having in Geneva from time to time. And there is one more statistic which might impress the Russians. All of that production and expansion in the United States has been despite the heaviest tax burdens ever experienced in this country.

The United States taxpayer in the past 10 years has poured nearly 493 billion dollars into the Treasury. The only effort bigger than that was by the government spenders. They managed to get rid of nearly 527 billion dollars.

565 Polio Cases Reported Last Week In Nation

WASHINGTON (UP)—The U.S. Public Health Service said today 565 cases of polio were reported in the nation last week. That was an increase of almost 40 per cent over the previous week, but still far below the 1954 polio rate.

The health service said a 40 per cent jump in the number of polio cases is not unusual at this time of the year, when the disease is building toward its hot weather peak. Last week 406 cases were reported.

During the second week of July last year 1,053 cases were reported.

The service noted that last week's polio total was also well below the figures for the second July week of 1950, 1951, 1952 and 1953.

But it cautioned that "this should not be interpreted at this time to indicate that relaively few cases will be reported" this year. Sometimes a polio season gets off to a slow start but later becomes severe.

The report did not appraise what effect the Salk vaccination program may have had on this year's polio toll.

Every section of the country except the Rocky Mountain states showed increases in polio last week over the previous week. Individual states which showed relatively large increases included New York, Massachusetts, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, North Carolina, Kentucky and Arkansas.

Texas, where the peak polio season hits early, had the highest total, 83 cases.

Man Drives For Three Years With Unmatched Plates

WEST PATERSON, N.J. (UP)—Borough Marshal Carl Von Stetten admitted sheepishly today he had no idea that he had been driving around for the past three years with unmatched license plates.

Von Stetten discovered the discrepancy the other night when he drove past his own car while on his rounds in a patrol car. He noticed that his rear license number wasn't what he thought it should be, checked and found that it didn't match his front plate.

He called George Mackey, of Lincoln Park, under whose name the number of the rear plate was registered, and Mackey found that he also had been driving for three years with mismatched plates.

They got things straightened out Thursday.

British Continue Aspirin Argument With U. S. Doctors

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (UP)—A years-long aspirin argument between British and American medical scientists has been renewed with fresh British evidence that the ordinary aspirin tablet is an irritant in any stomach and is very bad for a man or a woman with an ulcer.

This is distressing news to this nation, which consumes 15 tons of aspirin daily, an outstanding worlds record, and also is considered to have the highest incidence of ulcers. But the British scientists, Dr. A. Muir and I. A. Cossar, were emphatic.

Their main evidence was this: Two hours before surgically removing the stomachs of 20 ulcer patients, they gave each patient two ordinary aspirin tablets. When they had the 20 stomachs out, they saw fragments of the aspirins with their naked eyes and also saw that in 12 of the 20, the fragments had produced erosions which are hallmarks of an irritant.

Embedded In Stomach Lining

In one stomach, half an aspirin was so deeply embedded in the mucous - producing lining that they couldn't get it out without damaging their specimen. When they did get it out, "a lesion showing the features of an acute peptic ulcer rather than a simple erosion was visible."

Under the miscroscope, the stomachs showed erosions not visible to the naked eye. Their similar experiments with 40 others surgically - removed ulcerated stomachs supported their argument, in their opinion. They granted that "erosive gastritis" sometimes goes with ulceration, but the erosions they were talking about "were obviously the result of the local irritant action of aspirin."

They also said that 15 other patients who suffered continually from indigestion and who were "habitual aspirin takers . . . were cured of their dyspepsia by its withdrawal." As for ulcer patients, they found that 110 out of 318 "were well aware that aspirin could be taken only at the risk of a bout of dyspepsia."

The British Medical Journal published their report and commented editorially that "the earlier work (of British scientists) has been confirmed, and care is evidently needed in the administration of aspirin."

Since 1938, British medical scientists have been indicting aspirin as a stomach irritant.

The journal acknowledged a "discrepancy" between British and American studies of what aspirin does to the stomach — the American view is that it does nothing. The journal said this discrepancy was "more apparent than real" because the American scientists had looked at the wrong places in the stomach.

Nearly 350 Killed Or Injured In Riot

CASABLANCA, Morocco (UP)—The list of killed or injured in recent rioting in this French North African protectorate stood at almost 350 today.

Police announced that 37 more persons became casualties in Thursday's rioting in Marrakesh.

Ten persons were killed and 27 wounded in gun, knife, club and fist fights. The violence came as French Resident General Gilbert Grandval visited Marrakesh officially to talk to El Glaoui, the pasha of Marrakesh.

Hoosiers May Have Brief Relief This Weekend From Heat

By UNITED PESS

Brief relief from the searing heat and high humidity was on tap for Hoosierland this weekend, the five-day outlook said today.

But the mercury will climb back to hot temperatures by mid-week.

The outlook for Indiana said temperatures will average two to four degrees above normal. Normal maximums are 86 north to 93 south. Normal minimums are 64 north to 60 south.

During the period, precipitation will total .25 to .50 inch. Scattered thundershowers were expected tonight and Saturday and in the Ohio Valley Sunday.

Today will be mostly fair, continued hot and humid. Highs will range from 90 to 92. Lows tonight will range from 70 to 74, slightly warmer than those early today, but a two to seven degree temperature drop was due Saturday. Highs will range from 83 to 90.

For the first time in several days, rain failed to splatter the state Thursday. Highs ranged from 89 at Indianapolis to 94 at Fort Wayne. Lows early today ranged from 66 at South Bend to 71 at Evansville.

The humidity at Indianapolis ranged from 87 to 47 per cent Thursday, the weatherman said.

Nationalists Fire On Demonstrators, One Man Killed

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—A jeepful of Nationalists fired on a small group of demonstrators demanding freedom of the press and an end to the state of internal war Thursday night. One man was killed.

The gun play occurred after the demonstrators held an assembly in a building of the Radical Party, which opposes President Juan D. Peron's government.

The demonstrators listened to speeches demanding a repeal of the state of internal war, which gives Peron special dictatorial powers. Peron promised to give up the powers in a speech last week.

Following the assembly, about 100 Radicals began marching in the streets. They didn't get far before they were attacked by the Nationalists, a small political group that has been supporting Peron.

Five shots were fired. One hit Alfredo Prat, 26, who died later in a clinic.

The clash was the latest display of nervousness that has gripped this capital city since the bloody but short-lived navy - led revolt June 16.

White Sox Celebrate Marion's Club Record $30,000 Pact By Rallying To Defeat Yankees

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

Marty Marion had a new two-year contract to manage the Chicago White Sox today and the satisfaction that even his harshest critics are silenced.

The White Sox celebrated Marion's club record $30,000 pact by rallying to defeat the New York Yankees, 9-6, Thursday and move to within one game of first place in the American League. As a result, the White Sox are in a stronger position in Marion's first year than they ever were at this stage of the race during Paul Richards' four-year regime. The Go-Go Sox showed tremendous early speed several seasons under Richards but by July 22 the trend had definitely turned against them.

But under Marion, the White Sox have been the most consistent of the four A.L. contenders. The steady gait is reflected by their 9-5 pace in April, 16-11 in may, 17-11 in June and 13-8 so far in July. They've been going between .593 and .643 for the entire campaign.

Each of the other three contenders has spurted more spectacularly at times but also has paid in slumps. The Yankees, for example, were 21-7 in May but are 7-11 this month. The Indians spurted to 18-9 in June but slumped to 15-15 in July. And the Red Sox have been driving for two months to overcome 8-8 and 11-18 paces in April and May.

Marion Outshines Richards

All in all, it's proof that the man branded as a managerial failure with the St. Louis Cardinals and Browns is running the show with a steady hand that's getting even better results than his famed predecessor.

The Yankees leaped off to a 4-0 lead against Virgil Trucks in the first inning Thursday but the White Sox routed Whitey Ford with a five-run outburst in the second inning and rallied for three more in the seventh inning after New York tied the score at 6-6. Bob Kennedy broke the tie with a two-run double and scored a third run on Sherman Lollar's single.

Rookie Dixie Howell, who shut out the Yankees for the last six innings, received credit for his fourth triumph compared to one loss.

Relief ace Ray Narleski won his sixth straight game when the Indians rallied to beat the Washington Senators, 4-3, in 10 innings. V icWertz's three-run pinch double tied the score in the ninth inning and Al Smith singled and scored all the way from first on Larry Doby's single with the decisive tally. The loss ended Washington's five-game streak.

Red Sox Beat A's

The Red Sox made it 19 out of 24 since June 25 when they defeated the Kansas City Athletics, 4-3. Frank Sullivan gained credit for his 12th triumph although Ellis Kinder closed up shop in the ninth. The defeat was Kansas City's 10th straight.

Frank House's eighth homer of the season provided the Detroit Tigers with a 1-0 win over the Baltimore Orioles in the other A.L. game, Billy Hoeft winning his 10th game and fourth shutout in outdueling Hector (Skinny) Brown. It was Brown's first appearance since his return from Oakland.

In the National League, rookie Don Bessent won his second game in less than a week as the runaway Brooklyn Dodgers beat the Chicago Cubs, 4-1. Bessent, who broke in last Sunday with an 8-5 verdict over Cincinnati, had a shutout until Ernie Banks hit homer No. 27 in the ninth.

Warren Spahn pitched a five-hitter and hit a three-run homer to give the Milwaukee Braves a 5-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Spahn struck out six as he personally snapped a three-game Milwaukee losing skein.

Willie Mays and Sid Gordon homered as the New York Giants eked out a 6-5 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals, Don Liddle picking up his fourth win in relief and Brooks Lawrence suffering his sixth loss. Gus Bell hit three homers for the Cincinnati Redlegs in the only night game but it wasn't enough as the Philadelphia Phillies scored a 5-3 victory for their 10th straight. Jack Meyer won his fourth game as Roy Smalley and Marv Blaylock delivered key singles in the Phillies' three-run eighth inning rally.

Ray Robinson, Rocky Castellani In Bout Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)— Ray Robinson, battling old age and oblivion, takes on Rocky Castellani tonight in a 10-round nationally televised bout at the Cow Palace which may indicate whether the Sugar man really can come back or is finished.

Castellani has been installed as a 9-5 favorite over the one-time ruler of the welterweight and middleweight divisions. The bout will be nationally televised by NBC starting at 10 p.m. EDT with the San Francisco area blacked out for a radius of 150 miles.

Sugar Ray, playing it quiet and modest since arriving here two weeks ago, has refused to elaborate on the outcome other than saying, "I'll do my best and I think my chances of winning are as good as Castellani's."

The winner of tonight's bout is supposed to be in line for a world middleweight championship bout against Carl (Bobo) Olson, although Manager Sid Flaherty said he might send his balding mcal ticket against Gene Fullmer if the fight lays an egg.

Pitcher Santiago To Replace Lemmon

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Pitcher Jose Santiago of the Indianapolis Indians was called up by the parent Cleveland baseball club today as a replacement for Cleveland's injured ace hurler, Bob Lemmon.

Santiago, a native of Puerto Rico, got the call when a torn leg muscle sent Lemmon to the hospital for a rest.

Santiago has been the property of the Indians since 1949. He will b ethe ninth pitcher on the Cleveland staff, and General Manager Hank Greenberg said he would announce later which player will be dropped to make room for Santiago.

Santiago's Indianapolis record is 5-3 as a starter and reliever. At one point this season he pitched 27 consecutive scoreless innings.

Swaps And Nashua Slated To Match Racing Strides

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)— Swaps and Nashua are slated today to match strides in a long-anticipated match race at Washington Park on Aug. 31 "if" both are fit— and it's a long-shot proposition.

Match races, of course, stir the public imagination. They were "the thing" before the turn of the century and since then there have been nearly a half hundred.

Yet only a half dozen of the latter captured the national fancy and only one of those was a ding-dong horse race.

That was the nose-and-nose battle between Alsab and Whirlaway at Narragansett Park in 1942. It was a drive from start to finish with Alsab winning in a thrilling photo.

The other big ones were between Armed and Assault, Zev and Papyrus, Man O'War and Sir Barton and, in the Pimlico Special, between Seabiscuit and War Admiral in one and Capot and Coaltown in another.

On the whole, they failed to live up to their billing.

No Close Races

Seabiscuit and War Admiral turned out to be the closest race of those mentioned, and even so the Biscuit won by an eased up four lengths.

Back in 1923, they put Zev, the Kentucky Derby winner, on the track against Papyrus, the Epsom Derby winner, and the American colt romped in by five lengths. Man O'War dusted off Sir Barton by seven lengths; Armed walloped Assault by eight lengths and Capot annihilated Coaltown by 12 lengths.

Excuses always are made for the loser. Papyrus lost because he wasn't accustomed to the mud cleats they put on him. War Admiral wasn't "ready" and Assault was "off," etc.

Which proves one infallible point.

It is virtually impossible, at the end of a hard summer's campaign, to get two horses "up" and ready at the same moment. Thoroughbreds actually are fragile racing machines and they easily lose condition or suffer injury.

Dancer Sat One Out

Just two years ago there was much talk of a match race between Tom Fool and Native Dancer. They were expected to meet in the Sysonby Stakes at Belmont's fall meeting. But when October rolled around, Tom Fool had it all his own way with the Dancer sitting it out in his stall, already in retirement. His feet went bad, proving he was aptly named.

A match between Swaps and Nashua would be a dandy if both were right. The Kentucky Derby winner has won six stakes in an unbeaten three-year old season. Nashua, beaten by Swaps in the Derby, has won eight of nine, coming back to take the Preakness and Belmont stakes.

It is slated for a mile and a quarter at Washington Park for a $100,000 purse.

Whether it comes off is in the lap of the racing gods. Because neither owner will let his colt go it should be. Otherwise it wouldn't if he isn't "ready," which is as be much of a race.

Tennis Favorites Lead Way Into Semi-Final Tourney

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UP)—Favorites led the way into the semifinals of the Western Junior boys tennis tournament today.

Mike Green, top-ranked junior from Orlando, Fla., clearly appeared the man to beat after an impressive 6-0, 6-1 win over Ken Carter of Baton Rouge, La., Thursday.

Green faced Max Brown of Louisville, Ky., another seeded star who defeated Ron Homberg of Brooklyn, N.Y., 6-4, 6-4 in Thursday's play.

The other semifinal match paired two Californians. Norman Perry of Los Angeles 8-6- 6-3 conqueror of Earl Baumgardner of Oakland, Calif., Thursday faced Greg Grant of San Marino, who toppled Juan Jose of the Philippines 6-4, 4-6, 8-6.

Highly-touted Earl Bucholz of St. Louis, Mo., led three others into the boys semi-finals. He faces Jim Shaffer of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Ned Neely of Atlanta, Ga., meets Dick Leach of Los Angeles in the other semi.

Ebbets Field To Be Scene Of All-Out Peewee Reese Night

BROOKLYN (UP)— What peewee Reese would really like would be a World Series championship but, while he and the other Dodgers are waiting, he'll be showered with gifts tonight in an all-out "Peewee Reese Night" at Ebbets Field.

It's the first such celebration since little Reese, the one-time boys marble champion, came out of Louisville to become the Dodgers' shortstop in 1940.

As if to apologize to the blonde Dodger captain for neglecting him during the 1,800 games he has played for Brooklyn over the span of more than 12 seasons that make up the brightest era in Brooklyn history with five pennants, Reese's friends and admirers will be extra lavish with gifts.

Six brand-new cars will be driven on the field and Reeses daughter will pick one by lot for Peewee to drive home. Two huge birthday cakes— Reese will be 36 Saturday —will be displayed and devoured. And there will be many other presents for one of the most popular Brooklyn players of all time.

There will be messages of congratulation read from Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Gov. Lawrence W. Wetherby of Reese's native state of Kentucky, Mayor Andrew Broaddus of Louisville, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky. and Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

Picture Unveils Susan Hayward As Blues Singer

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Susan Hayward's next picture unveils her as a husky-voiced blues singer, but the red-haired star modestly thinks she's a one-picture crooner.

Susan, back at work for the first time since her recent suicide attempt, surprised Hollywood—and herself—by coming forth with an amazingly good voice.

MGM had planned to hire a professional singer to be Susan's singing voice for the film of singer Lillian Roths life, "I'll Cry Tomorrow." But musical director Johnny Green tricked Susan into a voice test—and she was "so exciting' she'll do her own warbling.

"It's probably just for this picture. I'm a dramatic actress and I doubt if I'll sing again," the star insists. "This is just for laughs."

Director Danny Mann, however, thinks this picture "will mean another career for Susan in musicals and on the stage if she wants it.' Susan's throaty voice, according to "rushes" of her musical scenes, sounds like a young Sophie Tucker.

Musical director Johnny Green calls Susan a "female Al Jolson.'

"I'll Cry Tomorrow" is another news-maker because it illustrates a new trend in film biographies. They used to be white-washes of celebrities' lives.

But "Love Me or Leave Me" was a frank account of singer Ruth Etting's life. "The Girl in the Red Velvet Swing" pulls no punches about Evelyn Newbit Thaw. And now "I'll Cry Tomorrow" follows the true story of Miss Roth —her fight against alcoholism, her life on Skid Row, the beatings from her husband.

College All-Stars Begin Working Out

CHICAGO (UP)— The 1955 College All-Stars began working out today-- under the supervision of five professional coaches—for their Aug. 12 clash with the Cleveland Browns.

It was the first time since the All-Star game was inagurated that professional coaches have been in charge of the collegiate All-Americans, a move designed to give the stars a better chance at victory.

Curley Lambeau, former coach of the Green Bay Packers, Chicago Cardinals and Washington Redskins in the National Football League, directed the 47 stars in light drills at Northwestern's practice field.

Lambeau said he wasn't going to hold light drills for very long. "These boys are in good shape from the reports I've had," Lambeau said, "and we're going to work hard to win.

Lambeau was assisted by Heartly Anderson, Steve Owen, Hampton Pool and Tony Canadeo, all former National Football League coaches, in drilling the stars.

In the past 21 years, the All-Star squad coach was always picked from the collegiate ranks.

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Commodore George Dewey's historic flagship, the USS Olympia, had a new home today, saved from the scrap heap by sentimental Philadelphians.

The rusty old veteran of the Battle of Manila Bay had been destined for the scrap heap Saturday but the city offered to take the ship off the Navy's hands. The city's action was urged by a committee for the preservation of the Olympia.

Philadelphia's director of commerce, Walter Phillips, said it is now up to the committee, headed by Dr. Henry Learned of Temple University, to arrange with the Navy to have the Olympia's rusted hulk towed to its new home on the Schuylkill River.

DENVER, Colo. (UP)—Col. Robert Stilmann disclosed Thursday that an unidentified young air cadet had been reprimanded because he tried to petition his congressman to protest the cutting off of appropriations for initial construction of the Air Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo.

The cadet commandant said the cadet was circulating a petition among other first classers at the temporarily based academy here when the move was brought to his attention. He said he explained to the cadet the petition was against military regulations and ordered it stopped at once.

Stilmann said it was the only reaction by cadets to the House committee aeion cutting off 79 million dollars in construction funds for the academy.

THE WORRY WART

Balance Sheet Of This Week's Good And Bad News

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

The Good

1. The Big Four heads of government met in the long-awaited "summit" conference in Geneva in an encouragingly friendly atmosphere. The United States, British and French delegates on one side and the Russian delegates on the other conferred, lunched and dined not as enemies in a cold war but as political colleagues earnestly seeking to reduce world tensions. President Eisenhower had a cordial get-together with his wartime ally Marshal Georgi Zhukov, now Soviet defense minister. At the outset of the conference, the Russians announced they would contribute to Mr. Eisenhower's international atoms-for-peace pool.

2. The Italian Chamber of Deputies voted confidence by 293 to 265 in the new pro-Western, middle-of-the-road government of Premier Antonio Segni. The Senate was expected to give Segni final confirmation this week-end. The 64-year-old lawyer-educator, who is both a landowner and the leader of the Italian land reform movement, succeeds Mario Scelba, who resigned June 22. Segni told the chamber he would work for the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance and for internal social reform.

3. Jawaharlal Nehru, the "neutralist" prime minister of India, predicted in a press conference in New Delhi that Russia may disband its notorious "cominform," one of the chief agencies of world Communist subversion. Nehru, recently back from a visit to Russia, said that the Red propaganda organization did not fit in with the idea of 'co-existence" between West and East. The logical conclusion, he said, is that the cominform will "automatically go."

The Bad

1. Cordial as was the atmosphere in the "summit" conference in Geneva, it was clear that there must be long months of tedious negotiations by the Big Four powers before any agreement could be reached on such issues as German unity, European security and disarmament. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's West German government, allied with the West, was suspicious of both sides. It feared agreements at Germany's expense.

2. Wild mobs, protesting against the Indochina truce agreement, sacked two leading hotels in Saigon, the capital of Southern Viet Nam, and endangered Americans including Mrs. Perle Mesta, former United States minister to Luxemborug. The demonstrators were angry over the working of the agreement, and menaced members of the Canadian-Indian-Polish truce supervisory commission. India protested formally. The Saigon situation was so serious that the United States, British and French delegations in Geneva considered it in special meetings.

3. Grave riots continued in Casablanca, capital of French Morocco in North Africa, between natives and Frenchmen who oppose home rule. General Gilbert Grandval expelled 15 Frenchmen as trouble makers.

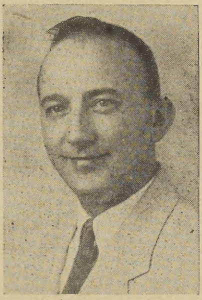
DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM FOR COMMUNITY BETTERMENT

We believe that it is high time a definite stand was taken regarding many much-talked about-but-nothing-done projects in Columbia City. For this reason we have drawn a Democratic Platform and all candidates endorse it and intend to follow out the mandate of the people of this community if elected in November.

CLARENCE T. GRABLE



WALTER ADKINS

1. ABOUT SEWAGE FACILITIES . .

To execute the mandate by Indiana Stream Pollution Control Board, we will immediately start procedure whereby this community will have adequate sewage facilities and disposal system.

This will eliminate raw sewage in open ditches in our city. This will elminate contamination of Blue River ____ the costly flooding of basements with subsequent damage to equipment and property.

This problem alone, we believe, is largely responsible for many refusals of FHA loans, GI loans and has retarded the growth and expansion of our city.

New industries hesitate to come into a town with such a sewage problem as we now have.

2. ABOUT THE WATER TOWER . .

We will build for you the water tower which the Democratic administration had in mind when it started the sinking fund for this purpose over four years ago.

3. ABOUT PUBLIC UTILITIES AND CITY EMPLOYES . . .

We will conduct a complete and thorough investigation into the operation of public utilities. If excess labor is found for the amount of work being performed, we believe the voters have a right to know. There will be no excessive payroll on the taxpayer's money. By the same token there will be haphazard elimination of needed employes for political purposes. Because the production of power has been terminated at the light plant, we believe administration costs should be lowered since many responsible duties have been eliminated.

The city wage scale in all departments will be studied and remedied to equalize if necessary. With discontinuance of the city light plant, we feel that if possible electric light rates should be reduced.

4. STREET REPAIR . . .

All city streets and alleys will be maintained and repaired throughout the four year administration, if elected; therefore not making it necessary to put on a great show of effort in an election year.

5. ABOUT THAT SWIMMING POOL

If it should come about through the combined efforts of civic, industrial, fraternal, philanthropic and social groups and individual citizens, with public subscription of needed funds, that a MUNICIPAL outdoor swmming pool is desired for our community to protect our children from hazards of polluted and unsupervised streams, gravel pits and lakes, then we will make available land for this purpose in one of the public parks, with supervision and maintenance of same.

6. POLICE AND FIRE PROTECTION

We will continue adequate police protection for your school children at cross walks on state highways.

We WILL GIVE THE CITY AN ADEQUATE FIRE WARNING WHICH CAN BE DISTINCTLY HEARD AND UNDERSTOOD BY ALL.
The old fire whistle can be utilized with an air compressor at very little expense to the community.

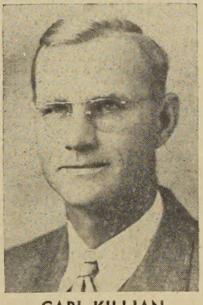
7. GOVERNMENT BY THE PEOPLE

The city hall and city affairs will be placed into the hands of the people. There will be no select "click" which rules the city. ____ there will be no "fast" deals made without adequate advanced publicity. We wholeheartily approve of government of, by and for the people. We plan to accept and welcome any suggestions for the betterment of our city from individuals or civic groups.

8. ABOUT CITY SCHOOLS . . .

We promise to cooperate to the fullest extent with the Columbia City School Board and with the Columbia City Joint High School Board before and during the erection of any school plants and property.

KENNETH J. FLECK



CARL KILLIAN

9. AND IN CONCLUSION . . .

If we could accomplish the above projects of a more adequate system of sanitary sewage disposal, new school plant and facilities for better education of our youth, give proper fire and police protection, wholesome places for our children to play and grow, we believe our city would be more receptive to Federal Housing Loans thus creating newhousing developments for home ownership and rental units. We believe Columbia City would then be in a position to attract new industries into our city. This we MUST do if we are to continue to grow and prosper.

Submitted For Your Consideration and Endorsed by the Democratic Candidates For City Office In Columbia City.

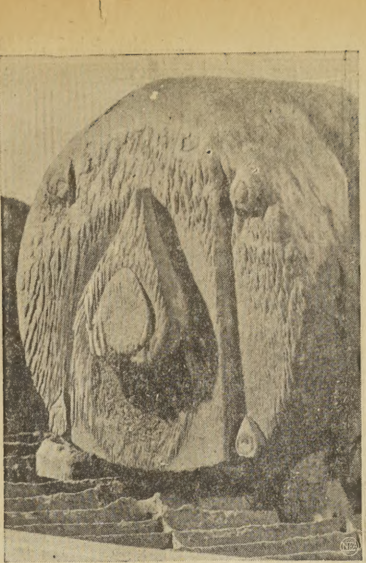
Big Four Heads Of Government Report 'Encouraging Progress'



"I'M SO WARM I COULD MELT"—Some such thought seems about to be voiced by this electric motor after completing a 230-hour "dust test." But officials at General Electric, who conducted the test at Schenectady, N.Y., say it passed the test without any sign of the exhaustion it seems to feel.

Ligonier State Police Post Holds Session For Newsmen, Legislators

The Indiana State Police Department held a public inspection and press conference for area legislators and news media representatives Friday morning at the Ligonier Post.

Some 10 radio, television and newspaper men along with six State government officials attended the session at the post which was scheduled from 10 a.m. until noon.

The post force consisting of 30 troopers, seven post officials and five State Detectives were nearly all on hand for a personal inspection held before the visiting legislators and newsmen at 10 o'clock. The inspection covered weapons, equipment and vehicles.

Troopers Wayne Reese and James Lewinski of Whitley County and State Detective Blain Schang, who also works in this area, were among those who underwent inspection of themselves and their equipment.

Supt. Jessup Presides

The inspections were conducted by Capt. Alva Funk, a field inspector of the State Police Department, and Lieut. George Everett, commander of the Ligonier district. Also assisting were Supt. Frank Jessup and other members of the State Police Board.

Preceding and following the public inspection, the visitors were allowed to tour the post.

Supt. Jessup presided at the press conference held on the second floor of the police post headquarters building beginning at 11 a.m. Jessup and other members of the State Police Board answered questions of the newsmen and Indiana lawmakers regarding items from policing of the toll road to a new aircraft tested for use in State Police patrol work.

Members of the board are Vayne Armstrong, president, Secretary Paul R. Schnaitter, and Buford M. Cadle, and Dewey D. Raper.

Plans Toll-Road Force

Legislative members present were Reps. Charles T. Miser, Garrett; Laurence D. Baker, Kendallville; Paul L. Bailey, Huntington; and J. W. Wainwright, Wolcottville; and Senators Willis Bachelet, Angola, and Carl J. Moldenhauer, Huntington.

Television, radio and newspaper representatives from 11 northeastern Indiana counties were invited to attend the inspection and press conference.

Jessup said that the first State Police Troopers to patrol the toll-road will be in June 1956. The detachment will be a special toll road detail under the administration of the Indiana Toll-Road Commission, but under the authority of the State Police Department. The department may add men to the detachment or transfer them elsewhere. The unit headquarters will be at South Bend and include a division commander, district officer and a first sergeant.

New Plane Tested

Questioned about the speed limit on the cross-state road, Jessup explained that the board is considering the present state limit of 65 miles per hour. He said that Ohio has a miximum limit of 50 m.p.h. on its toll roads.

The 75 troopers will be for the 156 miles of the road in LaGrange and Steuben counties. It was explained that the traffic is expected to be the type which will require

Old Age Pension Leads To Woman's Suicide

SOUTHEND, England (UP) — Miss Marion Harries, 60, drowned herself because she couldn't squeeze in her entire application number on her old age pension form, a cororner's jury decided.

Her number was 15,614,953, but she couldn't write in the final "3".

A pension official said her old age payments would have been continued despite the error.

To Open School Heat Plant Bids Tuesday Night

Will Heat High School, West Ward

Superintendent Edward Glenn reports that bids will be received until 7:00 Tuesday evening on the proposed heating plant for the high school and West Ward school.

The architect's drawings are complete and call for a cement block building 32 ft. X 27 ft. The building will be located across the alley from the high school building on the property purchased from Walter Emery. It will house two 90 H.P. boilers, one of which will be used during the fall and spring months. In the colder winter months, both boilers will be used to provide heat for the buildings. Mr. Glenn reported that each of the boilers would be able to provide heat for the school, but an additional one would make it possible to operate the two simultaneously at less than full capacity and in the event one broke down school would not have to be closed.

The boilers will be fired with oil, and a 10,000-gallon tank will be buried on the property. The city heat, which the school has utilized for many years, will be discontinued June 1, 1956, according to Mr. Glenn.

Communist Campaign To Lure Refugees Back To Iron Curtain Countries Seems Successful

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

A Communist campaign to lure refugees back to the Iron Curtain countries from which they escaped is meeting with surprising success.

It doesn't sound right. We read of the many men and women who risk their lives to escape from Soviet Russia and satellite countries.

But it is a fact that some of these people are responding to appeals to return to their Red-ruled "homelands."

The "come home" campaign has been conducted in a small way for several years, by means of letters and personal visits to refugees.

It started to become intensive at the start of this year when Russia announced the formation of a "Committee for the Repatriation of Soviet Refugees" with headquarters in East Berlin.

Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria have joined in the campaign.

The Chief Targets

The 300,000 persons crowded into 2,500 refugee camps in West Germany are the chief targets. Living in enforced idleness, insecure, unhappy, lonely, they have nothing to look forward to.

But the intensified campaign has spread to countries all over Western Europe and finally to the United States and Canada.

The Czechoslovak Communist government advertised in New York and Washington newspapers in June offering pardons to refugees who returned home.

A similar advertisement was published only Wednesday by the Red government of Romania. Refugees were invited to go home and "integrate themselves in the constructive work of the Romanian people."

Of course, this constructive work consists largely in slaving for the benefit of Soviet Russia. But that is beside the point.

The Hungarian Red government has even invited members of the anti-Communist Hungarian National Council, which has headquarters in New York City, to return home.

Things Are Different Now

The Russians are exceedingly

Stephen Spence Is Advanced To Corporal

WIESBADEN, Germany — Stephen D. Spence, son of David B. Spence, 303 E. Jefferson street, Columbia City, recently was promoted to corporal in Germany where he is a member of the 5th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Battalion.

The comprehensive and intensive training of U.S. combat units stationed throughout Germany is coordinated by the Seventh Army.

Corporal Spence, a supply clerk in the battalion's Headquarters Battery, arrived in Europe in August 1954.

A 1953 graduate of Columbia City high school, the corporal entered the Army in March 1954 and completed basic training at Camp Chaffee, Ark.

Legal Quarters Debate On Ike's Proposed Plan

Spokesman Says 'Legally Feasible'

WASHINGTON (UP— Government legal quarters debated today whether President Eisenhower's plan for swapping arms data with Russia can be carried out without any changes in security laws.

A spokesman for Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. described the plan advanced at Geneva as "legally feasible." That implied a tentative belief that the President might authorize Russia to receive military data and carry out air reconnaissance under his executive power. But the Justice Department conceded that a lot of legal study would be involved if Russia were to accept the dramatic Eisenhower proposal.

Defense Department lawyers, pointing out that final decisions on the laws would rest with the Justice Department, said nevertheless that they saw at least two possible barriers to executive action without congrssional action. They cited the espionage laws and the Atomic Energy Act.

Wants Congressional Approval

In any case, many officials assumed, Mr. Eisenhower would want some sort of congressional approval before exchanging detailed military establishment blueprints with Russia and going ahead with aerial photography over this country and the Soviet Union. That would be in line with Mr. Eisenhower's record of seeking congressional cooperation.

Most of the laws concerning military flights and disclosure of military information are permissive—that is, they authorize the President to spell out what is secret.

For example, the executive branch of the government bans flights over specific atomic energy installations and air bases and describes what zones of the country commercial planes and military aircraft may enter without prior clearance. Flight plans must be filed in advance by planes going into air defense identification zones laid out along the western, northern and eastern borders of the

Miss Sweden Captures Title Of Miss Universe

Fresh-Faced Nordic Grace Kelly Type

LONG BEACH, Calif. UP) — Hillivi Rombin, a graceful blonde college graduate from Sweden, captured the Miss Universe contest Friday night before a cheering crowd and was named the most beautiful girl in the world.

For the fourth year of the annual beauty pageant, the 11 judges chose a fresh-faced Nordic "Grace Kelly" type.

The 21-year old beauty, a favorite to win the pearl-studded crown from the beginning of the 11-day contest, nosed out 14 other semi-finalists from around the globe in the last leg of the judging.

Second place went to a bosomy blonde from El Salvador, Maribel Arrieta, who had been dubbed the "Marilyn Monroe" of the affair by reporters covering the event.

Third was Miss Ceylon, Maureen Hingert, who won the crowd with her long, black hair and wide smiles.

Miss Germany, Margit Nunke, held a tiny blue teddy bear in her hand for good luck, and was judged fourth. Keiko Takahashi of Japan, a sloe-eyed girl with outstanding carriage and poise, won fifth place.

Miss Universe graduated from Upsala University in Sweden recently, and is engaged to an officer in the Swedish air force, Nils Benker.

"Yes, since last February," she said with cool poise as she sat on the winner's throne backstage in her red velvet queen's robe.

But marriage, she added, may have to wait. She said she would accept the $250 weekly movie contract at Universal-International studio as part of her haul as the winner. She first will appear in a small role in "The Benny Goodman Story."

"I will find out if I have any acting ability," she said.

The most beautiful girl in the world is 5-feet, 7-inches tall and weighs 130 pounds. She has blue eyes and short, wavy hair. Her measurements are 36-23-36.

Miss Universe insisted, "Honestly, I didn't think I would win."

But the other contestants and the press had picked her the likely victor.

Ag Department Asks Bids For Grain Storage Bins

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department is asking bids from warehousemen to supply the government with about 47 million bushels of additional grain storage space.

The department said the new bins will be needed to store price-supported grain, chiefly corn, which will come into the government's hands in August and September when 1954-crop price support loans mature.

The announcement said the bins will be needed in 11 Midwestern states where adequate commercial space is not available.

The department emphasized that the increase in federal bin capacity— presently totaling about 844 million bushels— does not lessen the need for farmers to make sure they have adequate storage for this year's crops at harvest time. A farmer must guarantee adequate storage before getting a price support loan.

The announcement said that as of June 15 more than 250 million bushels of 1954-crop corn were under price support with a "considerable quantity" expected to be turned over to the department's Commodity Credit Corporation this fall.

The department said plans are to use the new bins in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota and South Dakota.

Richard Duffield Attends Intelligence School At Fort Riley

FORT RILEY, Kan. —Army Reserve Capt. Richard H. Duffield, who lives on R 6, Squawbuck rd., Columbia City, recently arrived at Fort Riley, Kan., for duty as a member of the staff and faculty of the Fifth Army Intelligence School.

Captain Duffield will help conduct three two-week classes for Reserve officers and enlisted men. After completing his tour of active duty, he will return to Columbia City where he is the commerce instructor and assistant football coach at Columbia City schools.

Goshen Man Killed In Fall At Grain Firm

Roy B. Berkey, 54, Drops 22 Feet From Beam

Roy B. Berkey, 54, of R 4, Goshen, died at 4:05 p.m. Friday at Whitley County Hospital from injuries suffered an hour before when he fell 22 feet from an elevator which is under construction at The Columbia Grain Company, end of East Market street.

Workmen on the job from Bontrager Construction Company, Goshen, with whom Mr. Berkey was employed, said that he appeared to have collapsed from heat exhaustion, causing him to fall.

He was taken to the hospital where diagnosis indicated he suffered a crushed chest and skull fracture.

According to Royal Clapp, for whom the elevator was being built, Mr. Berkey was straddling a beam 22 feet from the ground nailing cribbing to the elevator form. He suddenly rolled sideways on the beam and toppled down landing on metal and wood forms for driveway flooring below. Clapp said that the man appeared to fall flat on his back, his head striking one of the steel I-beams.

Joe Bontrager, foreman of the job, said that he was climbing a ladder only about three feet from Mr. Berkey when the latter fell. He said that the Goshen man failed to yell or give any indication that he knew he was falling.

Clapp said that the construction firm has been on the job at the new elevator about three weeks. Since that time, the 11-man crew has met with a series of unfortunate accidents. Two weeks ago, five of the men were injured in an automobile accident near Wolf Lake. They are still off the job. Another workman caught his hand in a skill saw on the job Monday, but he has returned to work.

Mr. Berky was born July 5, 1901 in Clinton township, Elkhart County. He had lived his entire life in and around Goshen. He was married March 25, 1922, to Ruth Bowman. He had been a trucker and farmer and began carpenter work about one year ago with the David Bontrager Construction Company.

Survivors include his wife, one son, Harold L., of R 2, Nappanee; a daughter, Miss Mildred Berkey, Goshen; one brother, Wilbur, Goshen; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Berkey, also of Goshen.

He was taken to the Yoder Funeral Home, Goshen, but will be removed to the family home, where friends may call after 7 p.m. Saturday. A prayer service will be held at the home at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Funeral services will be held at the Silver Street Mennonite Church at 2 p.m. Monday with the Rev. David Graber and the Rev. Allen Yoder officiating.

Miss Felger Achieves Dean's List Position

Miss Joan M. Felger, daughter of Mrs. Kathryn M. Gumm, 313 East Hanna street, had been named among those achieving a position on the dean's list at the University of Cincinnati for second semester scholarship.

The announcement was made by Dr. Raymond Walters, president of the university. The dean's list in open only to students ranking scholastically among the top 10 per cent in their classes.

Miss Felger is a sophomore in the College of Business Administration, and is attending the university this summer.

Mental Health Fund Campaign Will Be Held

August 22 - 27 Date For Drive

Detailed planning for the coming fund campaign of the Indiana Association for Mental Health was evidenced with the announcement today of various vice-chairmen in Whitley county.

Mrs. Charles Guse, West Park Drive, was named county treasurer of the drive by Mrs. Robert Sharpe, county chairman. She will also serve as advance gifts chairman, and anyone desiring to send his donation before the campaign begins officially on August 22, may mail the check directly to Mrs. Guse.

Mrs. James Rohrbach was named residential chairman for Columbia City, and it is her desire that every home in this city will be contacted so that every one will have an opportunity to help in this worthwhile project.

Beta Upsilon chapter of Delta Theta Tau sorority is sponsoring the drive in Whitley county and all fraternal orders, clubs, and other sororities are being asked to aid in the county-wide solicitation program.

Theta Kappa chapter of Delta Theta Tau in South Whitley will organize the drive there, and Mrs. R. J. Wagner has been named vice-chairman of that city.

In naming these workers, County Campaign Chairman Mrs. Robert Sharpe said, "Funds are desperately needed to further programs of mental health today, such as the "forgotten patients" program. Part of the funds raised is used on both county and state level to recognize and show attention to patients in our mental institutions who have had no outside contact from relatives for one year or more. There are 3,500 "forgotten" patients in Indiana institutions today."

"The Indiana Association for Mental Health strives to combat mental illness by presenting to the public a picture unblemished by superstitions and ignorance, and to directly assist the mentally ill by promoting public recognition, consideration and assistance. The aassociation conducts fund raising campaigns in counties where there is no mental health organization as yet affiliated with the Community Chest. "This is the first campaign conducted in Whitley county and it is our desire that with the closing of this campaign enough menberships will have been pledged that an active chapter can be formed here so that we can participate in the year-around eight point program for mentally ill patients from our own county."

The Whitley County Campaign will be conducted August 22-27. Chairman for Churubusco and the rural area will be named soon, along with other details of the drive.

Celebrate Mass For James Furay Today

MANCHESTER, Vt. (UP) — A funeral Mass was celebrated at St. Paul's Church this morning for James H. Furay, 75, retired vice president and general foreign manager of the United Press, who died of a heart attack at his home here Wednesday night.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Anthony S. Wood, S.J., of New York. He was a classmate at Holy Cross College of Furay's only surviving son, the Rev. Harry Furay, S.J., who is at Aquinas College in North Adelaide, Australia.

Attending the service were Furay's widow, his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pierson and family of Pittsburgh, and three of his former United Press colleagues — Joseph L. Jones, and L. B. Mickel of New York, and Harry Frantz of Washington.

Burial was in Manchester's Dellwood Cementery.

Inscription To Appear On All Currency

Cordell Hull, Former Secretary Of State, Dies

Served In That Post Nearly 12 Years

WASHINGTON (UP) — Cordell Hull, Tennessee-born elder statesman who rose from a log cabin to be secretary of state longer than any other American, died today at Bethesda Naval Hospital. He was 83 Oct. 2.

Soldier, lawyer, judge, representative, senator and world-respected diplomat, Hull succumbed following a long illness.

He had been in generally poor health during the entire 10 years of his retirement from public service.

Hull joined President Roosevelt's cabinet as secretary of state on March 4 1933. He resigned, Nov. 27, 1944, after serving in the No. 1 cabinet post through nearly 12 trouble-tossed years of American history, including most of World War II.

Friends said Hull's fatal illness developed soon after his wife died unexpectedly on March 26, 1954. Her passing was a great shock to Hull, who was in semi-invalid condition at the time and was unable to attend her funeral. The devoted couple had lived for many years at a local hotel.

Hull, ill much of the time in recent years, suffered what physicians called "a cerebral accident" —apparently a brain hemorrhage —last March 26, just a year after the unexpected death of his wife.

The elderly statesman had suffered and survived many similar blows. Time and again physicians at Bethesda put him "on the critical list,' but he would rally after being near death and recover. This time his endurance at long last played out.

Hull had undergone a long siege of illness at Bethesda a year ago. He entered the hospital in May, 1954, when his condition grew worse after years of strokes, stomach ailments, respiratory infections, and heart attacks. One physician had said that Hull, who was in and out of the hospital many times, was the only man he had ever known who had "a cat's nine lives."

In Efforts To Break Deadlock At Conference

Meet In Second Secret Session

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

GENEVA (UP)—The Big Four heads of government reported "encouraging progress" in their efforts to break their conference deadlock this morning and then met in a second secret session.

The afternoon meeting, which began at 2 p.m. (7 a.m. CST) may well be the last of the Geneva summit conference.

Still confronting the Big Four were "four or five" knotty problems—all the major issues considered.

The heads of government hoped to settle, today, the question of when, where and in what order the issues could be considered at future, lower - level East - West meetings.

The leaders met in secret session for one hour and 45 minutes at the Palais des Nations following a surprise meeting between Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov and President Eisenhower.

White House Press Secretary James Hagerty said following the secret summit meeting:

"We believe encouraging progress has been made this morning. Difficult problems always remain until the end of this kind of conference.

The summit leaders scheduled another secret meeting after lunch —indicating hope the deadlock might be broken in the closing hours of the conference.

Aside from Hagerty's brief statement, there was no word of what went on in the conference hall. It was the first switch to full secret diplomacy of the conference.

$300 Damage Occurs To Car Colliding With Tractor Near 5 Points

Damages estimated at $300 was caused to a car driven by the Rev. Dale Heinbaugh, 52, of 108 North Walnut street, at 6:50 p.m. Thursday when the vehicle collided with a farm tractor on the angling county road near Five Points.

The tractor, driven by Jack Leland Zumbrun, 27, of R 3, was not damaged.

According to Trooper Wayne Reese of the State Police of the State Police, Zumbrun was driving the tractor into a driveway when the accident occurred. The Rev. Heinbaugh's car struck the left rear of the tractor.

Reese said that Zumbrun was making a left turn into the driveway and failed to signal.

Justice Department Challenges Labor Union Election Spending; Indictment Is Brought

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Justice Department has challenged labor union election spending in a dispute which in its simplest terms amounts to this:

Shall the Corrupt Practices Act recognize a difference between large concentrations of wealth because of the source and management of the accumulation?

The question arises through the indictment of the CIO United Auto Workers in Michigan on charges of spending union funds to influence the 1954 senatorial contest in which Sen. Patrick McNamara, Democrat, unseated Sen. Homer Ferguson, Republican. The sum was only $5,985. But the principle is big and, unquestionably, headed for the Supreme Court.

This indictment was brought under the 1925 Corrupt Practices Act as amended by the 1947 Taft-Hartley Act. The 1925 act was a consolidation, extension and replacement of all previous legislation going back to 1907 when national banks and all corporations were forbidden to make political contributions. The 1925 act specifically exempted primary elections and national conventions, they being acknowledged as outside the scope of federal law.

Unions Added To List

The Taft - Hartley Act amended the Corrupt Practices Act by adding labor unions to the list of organizations forbidden to make political contributions in elections involving federal office. The considerable accumulations of union funds under the impetus of the Wagner Labor Relations Act had long before begun to flow freely into election campaigns.

John L. Lewis loaned and contributed $470,000 to FDR's 1936 reelection campaign and freely admitted that he expected some return on it. There had been other prohibitory legislation prior to the Taft-Hartley Act, but like all such it failed more often than it succeeded in prohigiting.

The Smith-Connally Act of 1943 forbade union contributions to influence elections. But the CIO Political Action Committee was able in 1944 to accept $648,000 from various union treasuries before the year's primary candidates were chosen.

There has been considerable evasion of the law by all concerned. The 1946 volume of "editorial research reports' states:

"The law does not prevent corporation executives from making 'personal' contributions any more than it prevents the rank and file of unionists from making up large campaign funds from 'voluntary' contributions."

The CIO argued in 1946 that the Smith-Connally Act did not pre-

Negotiations Start At Studebaker Again

SOUTH BEND (UP)—Negotiations toward settlement of a seniority dispute were resumed Thursday between the CIO United Auto Workers union and the Studebaker-Packard Corp.

Talks were revived after 55 final assembly line workers ended a 6-day series of walkouts which idled nearly 9,000 fellow workers between July 14 and 20.

The negotiations followed union protests over a change in production methods which caused Studebaker to lay off 1,700 workers earlier this month. Later, the union voted to authorize a strike.

However, the walkout of final assembly line workers was termed by the union as unauthorized.

McDERMOTT CAPTURED—Pat McDermott, 56, one of the FBI's 10 most-wanted men, covers up, left, as he is booked at a New York police station. McDermott escaped last Nov. 28 from the Ohio State penitentiary where he was serving a life term for the 1926 murder of Don Mellett, editor of the old Canton (Ohio) Daily News. McDermott's capture came about when an alert patrolman recognized him as an ambulance attendant at the Jewish Memorial Hospital in New York City where he had worked for the past five months. At right in photo, Detective Howard Merwin holds a "Wanted" poster of McDermott. It was from a poster of this type that the patrolman recognized him.

CHECK POINT—West German truckers, stopping at an Allied check point, read news of the new heavy tolls imposed by the Communists on truck traffic between Berlin and West Germany. The Communists upped the round trip tax from an average of $5 to $55. The Allies have asked Soviet authorities to lift the tax immediately.

New Research At Williamsburg Studies Colonial Culture

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. —A broad new research program to explore details of life in colonial America has been established by Colonial Williamsburg, it was disclosed by President Kenneth Chorley in the organization's annual report.

Anticipating an expanded staff, grants-in-aid, and provisions for research by contract, the program will cost over half a million dollars.

In the past, Mr. Chorley stated, Colonial Williamsburg's research has been largely devoted to the pressing needs of the physical restoration of Williamsburg. Under the new program political, social, economic, cultural and religious life of the 18th century will be studied.

Other highlights of the reports were:

Eight more colonial buildings were reconstructed last year. Since its inauguration in 1926, Colonial Williamsburg has restored 82 original 18th century buildings and reconstructed 375 more on their original foundations.

Plans were developed for a new building to house the Abby Aldrich Rockefeller Folk Art Collection. Made possible by a $1,000,000 gift from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., the building's nine galleries will exhibit one of the country's most distinguished folk art collections.

Nearly three quarters of a million visitors last year – including the Queen Mother of Great Britain - -brought the total number of visitors since the Restoration began to 7,200,000.

Colonial Williamsburg's school program attracted more than 45,000 students from 955 schools throughout the country.

Reconstruction of two additional Craft Shops brought to 12 the number of working shops where trades and handcrafts are carried on just as they were 200 years ago in the colonial city when Washington, Jefferson, Patrick Henry, George Mason and others helped to mold the American Republic.

Literary Pursuits

DETROIT (UP) —Nelson Turrill, 23, Chicago, told a judge the ticket he got for speeding at 86 miles per hour was the result of his literary pursuits.

"I'm writing a historical novel, Judge, and we writers are all day-dreamers," he said.

Judge John D. Watts put Turrill on six months probation and warned him not to let history repeat itself.

Then He Goes Away With The Best Man

ROCHDALE, England (UP) — Robert Henry Hill, 18, had a ten minute "honeymoon' after his marriage to Elizabeth Madden. Then he went away with the best man.

The "best man" was Hill's guard, a policeman charged with seeing that Hill appears for trial on a charge of robbery with violence.

Tri State College Alumni To Meet

Tri-State College alumni will meet on the campus at Angola, August 6 for the annual alumni reunion.

Reunion features include the 25th anniversary dinner for members of the Class of 1930 to be held on Friday evening, and the Saturday morning breakfast for the 50th Anniversary class of 1905.

The Reunion will again include popular events of previous years including the "Remember When-?" display, of old photographs and mementos, and an exhibit of arts and crafts sponsored by students from the 33 countries included in Tri-State's present enrollment.

Societies of the several academic departments of the college are planning competitive displays and exhibits. Winners will be awarded cash prizes by the Alumni Association.

A concert by the Tri-State College Band, augmented by returning alumni players will be a part of the late afternoon program. A picnic supper on the campus will conclude the program.

Craig Says State May Increase Its Gasoline Tax

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Governor Craig said today the day may be at hand when Indiana must increase its state gasoline tax.

He said if Congress approves a current proposal to boost federal gasoline taxes one cent per gallon, the state probably would have to follow suit in order to continue the highway construction program through matching funds.

"I'm not against an increase in gasoline taxes, but I do think we should exhaust private funds first," Craig said.

By that, he added, he means states should build more toll roads.

Air Conditioning Equipment Adds To Design, Comfort

Modern air conditioning equipment will fit into a wide variety of household arrangements almost as unobtrusively as a planned piece of furniture – thanks to new design and styling.

A house can be partly or completely air conditioned with the unit used decorously in a room's appearance and arrangement, and with little loss of usable household

Installation studies show that these facts hold true for all three basic types of air conditioners, including room units, furnace add-on models and year-around central systems.

Latest room conditioners are designed so that they will fit into nearly any type of window, including steel casement types. These compact units can be mounted flush with the window so as not to interfere with pull-drapes. In addition, they can be installed through walls, or over doors and windows. Other installations provide an additional place for the decoration display of flowers or potted plants, or an attractive whatnot arrangement.

The add-on unit, which is normally installed alongside the warm air furnace, provides an equally neat installation. Because all machinery is housed in a compact sound-insulated steel cabinet, it will not spoil the appearance of a basement playroom, even if it is necessary to leave the equipment exposed to view. This type conditioner delivers cool air to the entire house, through concealed ducts. Often, it is possible to use the same system of ducts used by the furnace. Of course, this depends upon the design of the existing heating system.

The third basic type, the year-around unit, which combines winter heating and summer cooling systems into a single sound-insulated steel cabinet, can be concealed with ease. It is compact enough for installation in ground level utility rooms or in the basement, as the case may be. The unit can occupy a wall compartment or closet, out of sight and mind.

All three types of air conditioners will help keep your house more attractive throughout the year. Reports show that more than 400 pounds of dirt and lint invade the average house annually. Modern air conditioners will substantially reduce this infiltration of grime in addition to keeping the family comfortable. All of these conditioners, even the compact little room units, are equipped with dependable filters that clean the air before it is introduced into the house.

Besides cuting out a lot of cleaning expense, you can save time, too. A recent study shows that the homemaker in the air conditioned home spends 40 per cent less time housecleaning than her counterpart in a dwelling without air conditioning.

Indiana's Share Of Federal Funds For Roads Is Set

WASHINGTON (UP) —Indiana's share of federal funds for a proposed 12-year interstate road-building program was set today at 895 million dollars.

A House Public Works Committee member issued a state-by-state breakdown showing Indiana would get between 3 and 4 per cent of a 24 billion dollar federal fund and would match the contribution with 99 million dollars in state funds.

The list by states showed Indiana would get the 8th largest amount, with only California, Illinois, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, and Texas getting more.

Rep. Myron V. George (R-Kans.) said the apportionment breakdown is based on estimated needs submitted by state highway departments.

Mount Rushmore National Memorial in South Dakota is the largest piece of sculpture in existence.

COME TO MOTHER—All the emotional relief a mother feels when she is reunited with her missing child is written plainly on the face of Mrs. Joseph Varga, of Cleveland, Ohio. Three-year-old Bruce left home, got mixed up on his directions and wandered around for four hours before he was picked up by a kindly nun. Police did the rest. Bruce was back in his dad's arms when the frantic mother returned from her own search.

Beverly Jane Sievers Becomes Bride Today Of James S. Bridge In Fort Wayne Church

A background of palms and white asters will form a background for the wedding today of Miss Beverly Jane Sievers of Fort Wayne, and James Stanley Bridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Bridge of near this city. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sievers of 2433 East State street, Fort Wayne.

St. Paul's Lutheran church will be the scene of the nuptial rites to be solemnized at 7 o'clock, Rev. Huemann officiating. A program of bridal music will be presented before the ceremony by August Stelhorn, organist and Paul Hann, soloist.

For her wedding, the bride to be given in marriage by her father, has chosen a gown of white tulle over taffeta, styled with a tight fitting bodice trimmed with seed pearls at the neckline and long sleeves that come to points over the hands. The full skirt falls into a cathederal train. White asters surround the white orchid in the bride's bouquet and she will wear a strand of pearls and earrings to match, which is the gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Roberta Keslar, Fort Wayne, honor attendant, will be in an orchid gown of embroidered nylon organdy over taffeta with a fitted bodice and hoop skirt with which she will wear matching pumps and a tiara made of tiny flowers and orchid net.

The two bridesmaids, Miss Janet Bridge, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Carolyn Smith, Fort Wayne, will wear identically styled gowns of pink embroidered nylon organdy over taffeta. They will wear tiaras in pink and will wear pink pumps. The three attendants will carry orchid asters and each will wear a strand of pink pearls and earrings to match, the gift of the bride.

The little flower girl, Patsy Kehmeyer of South Whitley, cousin of the bride, who will also be in a pink embroidered organdy gown over taffeta, will carry a basket of pink rose petals. Michael Carr, Fort Wayne, cousin of the bride, will carry the rings on a white satin pillow and will wear a white dinner jacket.

Mrs. Sievers, the bride's mother, will wear a dress of carmel lace with matching accessories and the bridegroom's mother will be in a dress of aqua lace with white accessories. Both mothers will wear orchids.

Glenn Auer of near Columbia City will serve as groomsman and Jimme Sievers, brother of the bride; Irle Bridge, cousin of the bridegroom from Lafayette; Kem Wiesenburg and Walter Fries of this city, will serve as ushers. All will be in white dinner jackets.

Reception at Gerke's Hall

Four hundred guests will be received after the ceremony at Gerke's hall in Fort Wayne. Carol Meahle, Fort Wayne; Nancy Ochfke, Sharon Weber and Gloria Panning, Fort Wayne and Jean Sievers, Columbia City, all in formals will serve as assistants at the informal reception.

After a short trip south the couple will reside at 328 S. Grant, West Lafayette. The bridegroom is a student at Purdue University and this summer is employed in the Agronomy Department of Purdue University, where he is a member of Beta Sigma Psi fraternity.

Guests at Wedding

Guests attended the wedding from Lafayette, Seymour, South Whitley, Columbia City, South Bend.

The Vanderfords From California Here For Two Weeks

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Vanderford of Burbank, Calif., arrived here this week for a visit of two weeks at their former home. Before locating in California seven years ago, the Vanderfords resided on the Old Yellowstone Trail West.

The California visitors are guests of Mr. Vanderford's mother, Mrs. Wesley Vanderford, Etna-Troy township, and the parents of Mrs. Vanderford, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bordner west of the city.

Mrs. Vanderford is the former Juanita Bordner.

Friendly Neighbors Club Holds Meeting At Leigh Pence Home

Mrs. Leigh Pence and Mrs. Fry were hostesses Wednesday afternoon for a meeting of the Friendly Neighbor club. Twenty-four members and guests of the club attended the business and social meeting.

Mrs. Fry conducted devotions, and sympathy cards and cards to the sick were reported sent. The hostesses served refreshments during the afternoon.

House To Retain Large Cuts In Foreign Aid Bill

Give Warning In Advance

By UNITED PRESS

Key House members warned today they will insist on much less foreign aid spending than the Senate has approved for the next year.

The Senate Friday night voted 62-22 to peg foreign military and economic assistance at $3,205,841,750. The House had voted only $2,638,741,750, which was $627,900,000 less than the President had requested.

The measure now goes to a Senate-House conference committee for agreement on a compromise figure. But House members warned in advance they will insist on retaining large cuts they made in the administration bill.

Chairman Clarence Cannon (D-Mo) of the House Appropriations Committee said he is especially determined to hold out for a 420 million dollar cut which the House made in military aid. The Senate after long debate restored the cut by a 50-38 vote.

The Senate-approved bill is only $60,800,000 less than Mr. Eisenhower requested.

Other congressional news:

.. Talbott: The Senate Investigating subcommittee met behind closed doors today to discuss its investigation of the business activities of Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott. The inquiry caused a furious political row among subcommittee members Friday. Sens. Karl Mundt (R-SD) and George H. Bender (R-Ohio) demanded an immediate closed meeting Friday to reach a decision on the Talbott case. But Chairman John L. McClellan D-Ark), white-faced with anger, accused them of trying to "needle" him into hasty action and refused to call a meeting until today.

.. Robertson: The Senate Friday night confirmed President Eisenhower's nomination of Reuben B. Robertson Jr., of Ohio to be deputy secretary of defense. Robertson succeeds Robert B. Anderson, whose resignation becomes effective Aug. 15.

Stassen: Sens. Karl Mundt (R-SD) and George H. Bender (R-Ohio) accused the staff of the Senate Investigating subcommittee of smearing Harold E. Stassen in a proposed subcommittee report which was leaked to the press. A draft of the document charged that Stassen, former foreign aid chief, hampered the subcommittee's investigation of a contract for grain storage elevators in Pakistan by "delaying tactics."

Communion Mass Presided Over By Spellman

Biggest In Brazil's History

RIO DE JANEIRO (UP)—Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, said mass to more than 100,000 men and boys Friday night in the largest communion service ever held in Brazil, and perhaps the world.

Vast Congress Square was jammed with pilgrims to the 36th International Eucharistic Congress three hours before the Mass was to begin at midnight. The audience far exceeded that at the women's Communion Mass Thursday, the biggest previous Mass in Brazil's history.

Two-hundred altars spread around a monumental central altar were used to give communion to the men. Hundreds of priests heard confession from the communicants. The Mass was considered a highlight of the week-long congress which ends Sunday.

Today's schedule called for the fourth successive solemn session and another Pontifical Mass preliminary to the concluding Pontifical Mass Sunday. Authorities of the federal district declared the day a general holiday to permit Rio's working people to join Catholics from all over the world in the final phases of the congress.

Bishop Vincent Brizgys, who led Friday night's way of cross procession dramatizing Communist persecution of the Roman Catholic Church, said the 200,000 persons who attended the ceremony "raised a symbol of spiritual unity of free Catholics with their enslaved brothers."

Brizgys, a Lithuanian refugee now living in Chicago, said "the martyrs in Communist prisons and concentration camps are not and never will be forgotten."

He said there are 100 million Catholics under Communism in 14 countries, which were represented Friday night in a recreation of Christ's march to Calvary.

Preparation For Survival

CHICAGO, THE "I WILL" city of food and transportation, steel production and manufacturing, does not intend to knuckle under to any disaster. The city's recent participation in the national Civil Defense "Operation Alert" civilian preparedness exercise showed results of planning.

KEY CITY officials set up emergency quarters outside city and prepared to restore service.

WHEN "AIR RAID warning" sounded, children filed from classrooms, quickly and orderly on signal.

SCHOOLS WERE EVACUATED in disciplined manner with boys' safety patrol, teachers and traffic officers cooperating. City's new International Rescue Trucks participated, showing Chicago's preparedness is beyond paper stage. Over 500,000 children took part.

Russian Farmers Get Sample Of Modern Farm Life

IOWA FALLS, Iowa (UP) — Twelve Russian farm experts were welcomed enthusiastically by two small Iowa towns today for a weekend sample of modern rural living.

Vladimir V. Matskevich, deputy minister of Soviet agriculture and chief of the delegation, led half the group to this town of 4,000 while the other six went to Jefferson, 70 miles southwest of here.

Residents in both towns eagerly opened their homes to the visitors from behind the Iron Curtain for an overnight stay after a busy schedule which included an introduction to the American hot dog and tours of local businesses and schools.

Carl Hamilton, editor of the weekly Iowa Falls Citizen, and Fred Morain, editor of the biweekly Jefferson Herald and Bee, said residents of their towns were "very enthusiastic" about the visit.

"Many families volunteered to be hosts to the Russians, Hamilton said. "They're really eager about it. Unfortunately, we have had to disappoint some of them. Their just aren't enough Russians to go around."

The hosts' families include farmers, two bankers, and a county extension agent.

The two editors and other townsmen drove to Ames, Iowa, where the Russians had completed a two-day visit with Iowa State College experts, to pick up the delegation.

The tour here included stops at an implement store, hog buying station, farmers' elevator and newspaper, followed by a lunch sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

A hot dog picnic, complete with beans, potato chips, watermelon and beer was scheduled to wind up the day after afternoon visits to a drugstore, supermarket, bank and school.

At Jefferson, a town of 4,500, the stops included a bank, rural electrification association office, tire recapping shop, and lunch at the country club, also sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

The host Jefferson families planned to entertain the Soviets at private dinners in their homes and later to do their regular Saturday night shopping with their guests at groceries and dime stores.

In both towns, Sunday breakfasts at home were planned and the Russians were to be invited to join the families at church.

State Police

24-hour policing.

The superintendent showed the legislators and newsmen a picture of the plane which was tested this week for possible use in State Police patrol and detection work. The plane is designed to carry four persons or 200 pounds of baggage. It can attain a maximum cruising speed of 150 miles per hour at an altitude of 6,000 feet.

Indiana Ranked 2nd

Answering some of the questions concerning the present status and operations of the State Police Department, Jessup said that the department ranked second in the nation last year among larger states. The department is working with an increase of 5.7 per cent in auto registrations this year. This brings the total to 1,854,542.

Jessup said the department asked the legislature for 200 additional men for the next two years, but were permitted only 75. Twenty-five of these will graduate from the State Police School at Indiana University and go on the road September 1. The 25 will bring the total troopers in the state to 426.

The board was asked about its feeling on the use of unmarked cars in State Police patrol work. Secretary Raul R. Schnaitter said that the board believes that police cars should be marked to command respect. But, he said the board feels the need for some cars with no official markings in catching intentional traffic violators.

2 Problems Today

Answering a reporter's question, Jessup said that he didn't believe that 400 men were adequate for the increase in vehicle registration. However, he said the department is young and still growing. The first police school in the state was held in 1935. The State ranked second in the nation for low traffic fatalities last year, whereas Pennsylvania, which has a state police force of 1,900 men, ranked first.

Jessup said that two big problems exist today—one is the threat of world communism—the other is the flow of transportation.

Inadequate roads is one of the causes for the high accident rate in the State, according to Jessup. He gave lack of money and planning as reasons highway construction is not up to date in the state.

He emphasized that the state has a large number of small county-type roads which are harder to patrol. There are also a great number of cross-roads. Jessup also revealed that out-of-state drivers accounted for 21 per cent of traffic fatalities in the state in 1954.

At the conclusion of the conference, Jessup explained that the policy of the State Police Board is to patrol the roads and to cooperate with county sheriffs in law enforcement.

In addition to the use of patrols, it is hoped to cut the amount of traffic fatalities with the use of safety education. This is in spite of an addition of only 75 men to the force to help cope with the increase in the number of registered vehicles.

He said the department will not attempt solely to combat traffic fatalities, but to battle against over-all accidents.

If You Can Count Grains Of Sand, Iowa Needs You

DES MOINES, Iowa (UP)—Pick up a handful of sand and count the grains as you let it fall.

Turn on the lawn sprinkler and count the drops of water.

If you come close to an accurate total, rush to Iowa. About 50 state conservation officers need you.

They're counting rabbits. For a census. It has a good purpose. The state keeps an inventory, it says, on all wildlife species and rabbits are a "natural resource." It wants a count of what's hopping around so it will have data to set the length of the open shooting season.

There is a certain air of caution to the approach taken by E.B. Speaker, superintendent of the biology section of the Iowa Conservation Commission, on the statistical probabilities.

"We won't,' he says, be able to put our finger on exactly just how many rabbits there are in the state at a given time."

That could be the understatement of the week, but he explains cottontails and jacks "don't wait for seasons to have their young."

There are a few rules, and some scientific aids, for the outnumbered conservation officers.

They have been instructed to drive over about 35 miles of country roads in their counties between sunrise and 6 a.m. through July 28 in their survey of the hopper structions, it will be possible to tell the ages, yet.

"In most cases," read the instructions, it will be possible to tell young rabbits from old rabbits on the basis of size alone.

"However, there will be some doubtful ones and in this case please classify them as age unknown.'

Speaker said the survery will show the "trend as compared with other years." But he admits other problems, like what's to do with the same rabbit that bobs up to be counted on successive days, or hops blandly across a county line from one officer's set of figures into another.

One more thing.

Officers also have been asked to count the number of doves they see while taking the rabbit census.

"If you cannot make an actual count, then estimate the number seen in large flocks and add them to the number counted," say the instructions.

So if you are driving along an Iowa back road in the early morning this week and the next, and you see a uniformed man bobbing his head slowly up and down from ground to sky, don't interrupt.

"One, two, three . . . oops, I mean five, seven, nine. . ."

Complaint

DETROIT (UP) — Circuit Judge Robert M. Toms took under advisement Friday the hot weather complaint of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Strauss against their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Moss.

The Strausses asked that the Mosses be enjoined from using an air conditioner at night because it made too much noise.

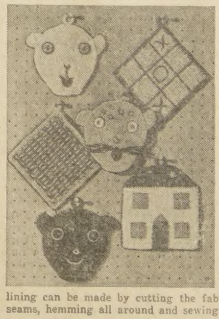
Family Affair

CHICAGO (UP)—Mrs. Dorothy Niebur, 44, and her daughter, Mrs. Delores Johnson, 24, gave birth to children on the same day and in the same hospital.

Needlecraft News

by Nancy Baxter

The kitchen, where a busy homemaker spends almost half of her working day preparing meals and washing dishes, should be a cheerful room, efficient but decorative. With the new designs in pot holders, it's easy to decorate the kitchen in a way that expresses ingenuity and a love for gaiety. Clever and colorful pot holders, to keep the chief cook and dishwasher in good spirits, can be arranged artistically on a wall, on cabinets, along a shelf or around the frame of the kitchen window. As versatile decorating pets, pot holders can be quickly replaced, without fuss or bother, whenever you wish to alter your color scheme.



TO LINE A POT HOLDER

You'll want the pot holders you make to be functional as well as attractive. For greater heat-resistance, line them with felt or flannel. The one-piece pot holders, such as those seen here, can be lined in either of two ways: A pretty effect can be achieved by cutting a piece of felt one-half inch larger than the size of the pot holder and then trimming the edges with pinking shears. Stitch the backing to the pot holder on the wrong side. Another lining can be made by cutting the fabric, allowing one-half inch for seams, hemming all around and sewing it in place on the wrong side.

PICTURE POT HOLDERS

Perk up your kitchen with a variety of pot holders crocheted in a jolly mood. This picture gallery of pot holders includes a polar bear, a leopard and panther with sequins as their sparkling eyes; a quaint, little house with nail head trim (wonderful as a house-warming gift in the colors of the new home); a novel tick-tack-toe design, and a plaid. All pot holders are made of double-thick crochet cotton with the exception of tick-tack-toe, done in the new cotton and metallic yarn. The instructions for making the six designs, plus those for a happy lion pot holder, may be obtained from the Needlework Department of this paper. Simply send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for Leaflet No. S-701.

Ignores Heat

ASBURY PARK, N.J. (UP) — Joseph J. Mariniello, 72, of Newark, N.J., ignored the heat wave Friday and rode a bicycle from Newark to Asbury Park and back some 100 miles in all to attend the annual outing of the Prudential Insurance Company.

Mariniello, who has done the same thing once a year for 25 years, is a retired Prudential employe. His only complaint was that he was not allowed to use the new Garden State Parkway and had to take secondary highways instead.

The Eye Had It

HIGGANUM, Conn. —(UP)— After police with a mine detector failed to find a lost wallet containing $450, Mrs. Annie Priest covered the same ground and promptly spotted it with naked eye.

Yankees Lose Seventh Game In Last Nine To Kansas City, 3-1; Drop Out Of First Place

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

Is it goodbye morning glories and spring bloomers in the pennant races and to borrow a phrase from Charley Dressen— are the Braves, Cubs, Redlegs and maybe even the Yankees all dead?

And will the White Sox take charge in the American as the Dodgers have done in the National in a separation of the men from the boys?

Those were searching questions today as the Yankees lost their seventh game in the last nine to Kansas City, 3-1, and dropped out of the American League lead for the first time since June 18. The White Sox, winning the 10th game in their last 12, outslugged Boston, 10-7 to take command by two percentage points. Cleveland, plugging along, stayed two games back with a 2-0 triumph over Baltimore. Detroit, reviving after a summer slump, made it 8 wins in the last 10 to close in on fourth place Boston, beating Wasnington 11-3.

In the National, the Dodgers made Peewee Reese night an especially gala occasion by smacking down second place Milwaukee, 8-4, to go in front by 14½ games, the biggest lead they have yet enjoyed.

Phils' Win Streak Ends

It marked the seventh win for Brooklyn in the past nine games while Milwaukee lost its sixth game in the past nine. At Pittsburgh, the Cubs made it 13 losses in 15 when the Pirates topped them 3-1 on Elroy Face's seven-hitter, while the Giants handed the Redlegs their sixth loss in a row and their 15th in the past 19 games, going 14 innings and winning, 6-3, on rookie Gail Harris' three-run homer. The astonishing Phillies ran their all-time club winning streak to 11 games with a 6-3 triumph. But lefty Harvey Haddix of the Cardinals snapped the chain by beating them 8-1 with a seven-strikeout, seven-hitter in the second game.

The White Sox put on a power parade, Walt Dropo driving in four runs [illegible] a double and single and Jim Busby knocking in three with a double in their triumph over the Red Sox. Norby Zauchin hit his 20th homer for Boston.

Ex-Yankees Humiliate Bombers

Two ex-Yankees, Vic Raschi and Tom Gorman, made the humiliation of the Bombers more complete by combining to hold them to one run. Raschi gained the victory although needing an inning of relief help from Gorman. Hec Lopez and Joe DeMaestri singled and Joe Astroth drove home the winning run with a squeeze bunt.

Ray Boone hit two homers and drove in four runs in Detroit's 15-hit assault on three Washington pitchers.

At Cleveland, lefty Herb Score gained credit for his ninth triumph but Ray Narleski had to finish when Score was plunked on the arm by a batted ball in the eighth and suffered a severe bruise. Al Smiths 15th homer was the only run Score needed.

Reese Hits Two Doubles

Carl Furillo singled to start the winning rally in the seventh, scoring on an error, then smacked a three-run homer in the eighth as icing for Peewee's birthday cake. Reese conked two doubles himself and Gil Hodges homered. Del Crandall hit two homers and Joe Adcock and Hank Aaron also homered for Milwaukee.

Harris got three of the Giant hits while Ted Kluszewski hit his 31st homer and Wally Post his 24th for Cincinnati. The Redlegs failed to score after the fourth as relievers Hoyt Wilhelm, Windy McCall and Marv Grissom fired blanks for the next 10 frames.

Bobby Morgan hit a three-run homer to spark Murry Dicksons eighth triumph in Philly but Haddix closed off the hot Quakers in the nightcap as Ken Boyer led a 12 hit attack with a double, two singles, and a stolen base.

Fearless Fraley's Facts And Figures

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)— Fearless Fraley s facts and figures:

Indications keep piling up that Russia is pulling all the stops in an effort to win the 1956 Olympic games— with virtual professionals.

Charles McCaffree, Michigan State swimming coach just back from a European tour, discovered that the Russians have one of the world's finest swimming establishments in Moscow where crack swimmers from all over the nation are "permanently assigned". His information is that the athletes are training on a 12-months basis.

McCaffree predicts a five-way duel in Melbourne among the United States, Australia, Japan, France and the Russian "amateurs.". . .

He didn't make anybody's All-America team but the New York Giants are counting heavily on little-known Mel Triplett of Toledo to put them in the National Professional Football League race this year. Triplett is a 225 pound, 6 foot, 3 inch fullback who is married and has four children. Naturally he's "hungry."

Strong-Man Triplett

Which explains the story about when he was working in a plant where they creosote railroad ties. Two men have trouble lifting them. Somebody bet Triplett he couldn't pick one up alone. "For five bucks,' he said, "I'll put it on my shoulder and run 100 yards." . . he did, too . . .

Athletes disagree on more things than their favorite sport. As example, take shaving. Boxers lay off the lather and hot water a couple of days before a bout so the stubble will help cushion their faces against punches. Ballplayers shave after a game as a pickup. But Jimmy Thomson, the old slugging man of golf, explains that he always whipped out the razor before a round "so I'd have that slick, sharp look for the gallery."

Tackle To Tackle

Ward Cuff, the former Marquette and New York Giants grid ace, after 25 years in football as player and coach, has gone into the professional fishing guide business at Corvallis, Ore . . . meaning from tackle to tackle . . .

Johnnie Farrell, Gene Sarazen, Willie Turnesa, Willie Klein and Al Brosch will play a four-hole "Gay Nineties" tournament at Knollwood's 55th birthday party next Saturday using the gutta-percha balls, wood-shaft clubs and bulky clothing of that era. On the other hand, when the new Putnam Country Club opens at Makopac, N.Y., next spring, there will be 29-minute helicopter service from mid-town Manhattan. Going up?

SUMMIT SIGHT — Appropriately garbed in a "Peace" dress is Ivette Reby, who posed for photographers covering the Big Four "summit" conference in Geneva. She's "Miss Switzerland of 1955," incidentally.

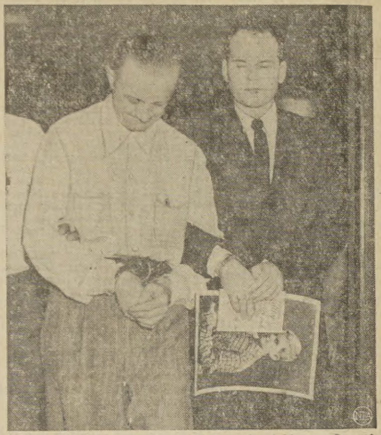
TOUGH BREAK—Gerry Coleman, Yankees' 2nd sacker, clutches his head after he was "beaned" by a pitch thrown by White Sox hurler Harry Byrd during a night game in Chicago's Comiskey Park. The accident occurred just a few hours after Coleman was restored to the Yankee lineup for the first time since he broke his collarbone last April. Coleman was rushed to Mercy Hospital. Doctors report he is "resting easily" and that his injury was not serious.



GOES TO PEN—Clutching a photograph of his son Samuel "Chip" Sheppard, Jr., and closing his eyes to mask his emotions, Dr. Samuel Sheppard is led from the County Jail in Cleveland to start the auto trip to the Ohio Penitentiary in Columbus. Sheppard, convicted of murdering his wife, Marilyn, on July 4, 1954, was sentenced to "life imprisonment" last December but has been lodged at the County Jail while his lawyers went thru a series of appeals, all of which were denied. Shackled to Dr. Sam is Michael Jacko, a parole violator, who received a 10-25 year sentence at the Penitentiary.

Robinson Heads For Middleweight Title Fight Against Olson

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)— Ray Robinson riding high again like the sugar man of old, today headed for a world middleweight title fight against Carl Bobo Olson while Rocky Castellani's beaten camp screamed "robbers.'

The 35-year old Harlem dancing man staggered back from a nine count knockdown in the sixth round of Friday night's wild fight at the Cow Palace to earn a split 10-round decision over the erstwhile number one middleweight contender.

A crowd of about 8,230, who turned out for the nationally-televised bout, unloosed a terrific roar when Robinson was declared the winner.

Referee Jack Downey and Judge Frankie Carter voted the fight to Sugar Ray 56-54, while Judge Jack Silver saw it Castellani 56-54. The United Press stayed with Robinson, 55½-54½.

Robinson weighed 159½, Castellani 160.

Castellani, sticking to his advance billing as a fighter who has junked the hit-and-run technique, sent Robinson sprawling to all fours in the sixth when he caught him with a savage right to the head followed by a left hook and a right chop.

But Robinson, who had been knocked out only once in his life, survived the round, then went on to stagger Castellani with his legendary combinations which were enough to put him back in business.

Castellani, over-anxious, slipped to the canvas twice when he missed wild rights in the seventh round while trying to put Robinson away, after pulling a similar maneuver in the fifth. In the meantime, Sugar Ray used every trick he knew to stay alive during the Clevelander's wild-eyed onslaught.

The strategy worked and in the eighth a fresher Ray Robinson buzzed his left and right flurries to the stomach again, then staggered Rocky with a solid right to the jaw.

In the ninth round, the old combinations clicked as Castellani was dazed and sent on his way to defeat by a whistling left and right to the head.

George Gainford, Robinson's manager, proclaimed that Ray definitely was in line to meet Olson, whom he has defeated twice in the past.

"He beat the number-one contender so why won't he fight OLson," Gainford asked.

Al Naiman, multi-millionaire manager of the loser, shouted that he would protest the decision today to the state athletic commission.

"It was a bad decision,' Naiman maintained. "We were robbed. We'll fight Robinson again any place except in San Francisco. And knock him out, too'

Two Totally Blind Men Do Good Work In State Jobs

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) — Two totally blink men have been employed by the state of Indiana to do intricate mechanical work at a state highway garage.

Sightless Robert E. Brown, 36, a Negro, is rebuilding engines for state-owned vehicles. Theodore R. Critchlow, 47, is repairing generators, ingitions, starters and magnetoes.

Gov. George N. Craig former national commander of the American Legion, ordered jobs for the men after they passed a routine test for mechanics.

The work these fellows are doing is beyond beleif," said Frank Gilmore, superintendent of the garage, after he had watched them work three days.

He said the state may hire others as part of a program to rehabilitate the blind.

Critchlow was blinded at the age of nine when a dynamite cap exploded on his father's farm. He worked for a relative repairing farm machinery, and tinkers with electricity.

"Electrical work just comes natural," he said. "I've built my own radio with six speakers in it. I even built the cabinet.'

Brown owned a garage in Indianapolis until he lost his sight because of an inflammation. He gave up his business when he was told he would never see again.

"Blindness has an advantage,' he said. "It makes you more aware of your capabilities.

Sleepy Head

UNION MILLS, Ind. (UP)—A teen-age boy at the Wilford Stonecipher residence was bounded out of bed Thursday when an automobile rammed into his house.

But Sheriff Frank E. Herrbach said when the car driven by Jesse R. Hickman, 41, Kingsford, threw the boy to the floor he sleepily crawled back in bed and dozed again, unmindful of what happened.

Use baking soda to remove starch stuck to an iron. Rub the iron with a damp cloth sprinkled with the soda, after the iron is disconnected and cool. The soda will not scratch the highly-polished surface.

Peewee Reese Celebration Will Go Down In 'History'

By NORMAN MILLER
United Press Sports Writer

BROOKLYN (UP)— They gave Peewee Reese, the little colonel from Louisville, a celebration that will have to go down in Brooklyn as the biggest since Cookie Lavagetto busted up that Yankee no-hitter in the 1947 World Series.

There were two huge cakes, one about the size of the Ebbets Field pipe organ, and everybody in the ball park lit a match for a "candle' and they all sang happy birthday as Gladys Goodding, the Dodger organist, wheezed it out.

It was a hot night but it wasn't perspiration that streamed down the faces of many a hard-bitten old-timer and a few of Peewee's battle-scarred team mates. There were good honest tears of happy emotion for the great little shortstop, who is 36 today, and has worn a Dodger uniform longer than any other player except old Zack Wheat.

A Doozy of a Celebration

And the celebration. Man, it was a doozy. Telegrams from President Eisenhower, Vice President Richard Nixon, U.S. Senator Alben Barkley, the former "veep" from Kentucky and from governors, mayors, congressmen— the great and the near great.

But the little people— the ones sitting in the cheap seats away out in center field— they're the ones that touched Peewee's heart the most. The fans took up a collection— it had gone on for weeks —and dollars, quarters, dimes, nickles, yes even pennies came from near and far.

Peewee received $3,000 in savings bonds from that collection and there were tons of gifts for him and his wife Dorothy and their daughter, Barbara. Golf clubs, television sets, jewelry, plaques, clothing; in fact it took a minature railroad from Coney Island to haul it all on to the field.

Receives An Automobile

Reese, who has been Dodger shortstop since 1940, also received an automobile. There were seven on the field, a nod from him and he could have had his choice. But he arranged a little lottery. His daughter Barbara, 6, reached in a grab bag and drew an ignition key.

It fit one of the lowest priced cars of the bunch. Somehow that seemed typical, too, because Peewee never was the type to go roaring around town like a showoff.

Oh, yes, Peewee played ball Friday night. Smacked two doubles. Had himself a real god time.

Backstairs At The White House On Its Travels

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

GENEVA (UP) — Backstairs at the travelling White House:

The American delegation here for the Big Four meeting with President Eisenhower is constantly amazed by the crowds the President attracts as he drives from his villa to the Palace of Nations.

The President himself has been particularly amused by the large crowd of statuesque Swiss girls who race from a public bathing beach along the highway in their very brief Bikini swimming suits to shout "Allo, Ike" as his procession rushes by.

There is a small lakeside cafe near Mr. Eisenhower's villa where some of the White House party duck out for lunch. They have had incredible luck trying to order iced coffee. Thus far an order for iced coffee has produced a large glass of muddy-looking ice cream topped by a high-calorie spurt of whipped cream.

Not far from Mr. Eisenhower's villa is a stable and a yard of white chickens. He is no chicken fancier, but as America's most distinguished breeder of Black Angus cattle, he naturally wanted to know where the early morning moos were coming from.

Before most of his party had early morning coffee, the President walked down to the stable one day, looked over the cows and remarked jovially that their dawn vocals reminded him of "home" which he defined as his farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

Mr. Eisenhower's staff has never seen such international conference security as that prevailing here.

Not even the highest ranking members of the White House staff can get into the grounds of the Palace of Nations without a brightly colored "D" sticker on the motor car indicating the occupants are members of an official delegation.

The Swiss police informed the American Secret Service weeks ago that they would undertake all security precautions for the conference if they were left in complete control. The Secret Service agreed to this but retained control of the President's estate.

On a large chestnut tree near the entrance to the presidential villa there are two telephones. One is for the Swiss army and it rings with a refined, flat-toned buzz.

On the other side of the tree is an American security telephone which rings with the authority and volume of an air-raid alarm.

A phone call to the American headquarters is answered by a U.S. Army Signal Corps enlisted man who says "Geneva White House."

Not true, however, that a telephone call to the Russians at their headquarters produces an answer of "Geneva Kremlin."

Columbia City Boys To See Cubs-Giants Baseball Games

One hundred boys from Columbia City will have an opportunity to see a major league baseball game Wednesday.

According to Roy Kilby, playground director, any uniformed baseball player from Columbia City is eligible to take the trip to Chicago to see the Chicago Cubs-New York Giants National League double-header.

All boys interested in taking the trip should notify Mr. Kilby, who will register their names and settle transportation.

The boys will leave from the school building at 8 a.m. and return about 11 p.m. Money for lunch and spending is all that will be needed by the boys.

Forrest Orr is in charge of transportation, which will be provided by Rotarians and Kiwanians.

Warsaw Youngsters Attend Play Day Here Friday

Sixty boys and girls from Warsaw participated in a play day with Columbia City youngsters here Friday.

Columbia City won the farm team baseball game, 13-7, over the visitors, but Warsaw won the little league game, 7-5. The pony leaguers won, 8-2, but the girls' softball team had to settle for a 9-9 tie with the visitors.

The youngsters were given free beverages and refreshments.

TALLAHASSEE Fla. (UP) — Weather may have had a connection with the polio-like epidemic in Tallahassee last fall, a Florida State University meteorologist indicated today.

Holbrook Landers said a preliminary research survey he made establishes a relationship between cases of the disease and the relative humidity, temperature range and minimum pressure.

It may be possible in the future to predict peaks and lulls in epidemics of a similar nature, Landers said.

Landers described the combination of weatner variables as a graph of "human discomfort, possibly of low physical resistance to disease.", PRINCETON, N.J. UP)—Princeton University officials have announced the appointment of the first Negro faculty member in the school's 209-year history.

Charles Davis, 39, former assistant professor of English at New ork University, will join the Princeton English faculty as an assistant professor in the coming 1955-56 academic year.

Davis joined the NYU faculty in 1947 as a graduate assistant and was elevated to assistant professor in 1952.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (UP) —The United States Savings & Loan League announced today it is setting up a special committee to study home credit problems expected to arise within the next 10 years.

J. Howard Edgerton, president, said the league's committee will examine "the staggering social, political and economic problems that will evolve from the extraordinary increases in populations during the 1960's.'

NEW ORLEANS (UP)— A Republican "draft Ike' movement started in Louisiana today.

A group of state party leaders pledged to work toward the renomination of President Eisenhower at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco in 1956 was organized here Friday night.

NEW YORK (UP)— Bethlehem Steel Co. announced Friday the granting of a wage increase to 13,000 employes at its East Coast shipyards.

The increase, effective July 23, came under a wage reopening provision of Bethlehem's present contract with the CIO Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America.

The agreement increases the hourly rate for the lowest classification by 11 and one-half cents. Rates for standard first class mechanics is increased 15 cents per hour and corresponding increases were granted to other classifications of employes.

Bethlehem's East Coast shipyards covered by the agreement are located at East Boston, Mass., and Quincy, Mass.; Brooklyn and Staten Island, N.Y.; Hoboken, N.J., and Baltimore and Sparrows Point, Md.

SEOUL, Korea (UP)— Republic of Korea Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai said today Russian inspection planes might drop atomic bombs if they are allowed to fly over the United States.

Pyun said "only the Soviet Union would gain from such mutual inspections' as proposed by President Eisenhower Thursday at the Big Four Geneva conference. Mr. Eisenhower offered to exchange military blueprints and inspections with Russia.

The ROK minister said the United States went to Geneva "to avoid a showdown of force with the Russians."

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—The all-Peronista Party summoned a special session Tuesday to pay tribute to Eva Peron, late wife of President Juan D. Peron, on the third anniversary of her death.

Salzburg, Austria (UP)— Margaret Truman, daughter of former U.S. President Harry S. Truman, is expected to arrive here about Aug. 15 to attend the Salzburg Music Festival, it was announced today.

FOLKESTONE, England (UP)— Trainers for distance swimmer Marilyn Bell were confident today of her chances against the English Channel after her latest workout in open waters.

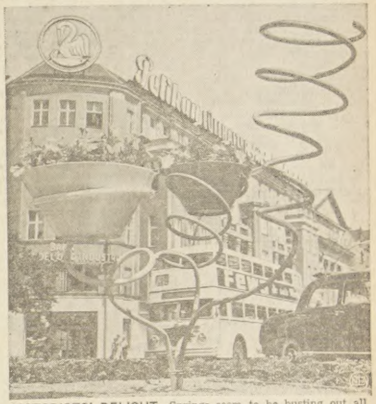
Coach Gus Ryder said he was pleased by the wa ythe 17-year old Toronto, Ont. girl overcame the tough conditions she met in her swim in the channel Friday. Marilyn, who recently stopped training for eight days because of sickness, fought a strong current and heavy cross winds.

NEW DELHI, India (UP)—U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas left India Friday for a six-weeks tour of Russia. He dined with Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru before he departed.

LONDON (UP)— Radio Moscow announced Friday night that Russia— which has the world's second largest navy— will celebrate U.S.S.R. navy day Sunday.

The broadcast did not say whether any naval displays will be held. The Soviets surprised many Western observers on U.S.S.R. aviation day last month with their exhibition of jet atom bombers.

Eggs should not be washed before storing. Washing destroys the protective film which keeps out air and odors.



MOTORISTS' DELIGHT—Springs seem to be busting out all over along the British sector of Kurfurstendamm, West Berlin's Broadway. But they're really spiral-shaped stands containing flowers in stone, like the one above. The bright decorations are supposed to give the highway's users a relief from traffic signs and lights.

MOTOR MAIDS

Want to Save a Pedestrian?

By Betty Skelton, Dodge Test Driver

If you were a mystery writer, you probably could teach a lot of traffic safety principles by concocting a plot like this, built around a victim about to cross the street:

First, pick a big city as the scene of the crime. Four out of five people killed in big city traffic are pedestrians.

Second, start him across in the middle of the block, because crossing between intersections is the largest single cause for pedestrians being mowed down. You'll have a far better chance of bumping off the guy then.

Miss Skelton

Next, have your victim come out from behind a parked car. That will make him one of the roughly 10 per cent of this year's pedestrians who will meet death when they step out between parked cars.

Here are a few extra tips to make this thing a sure bet: Give him a few drinks too many of some alcoholic beverage. Be sure it's a weekend night, that he's wearing dark clothes, and that he's loaded down with packages.

This Is Real

All of these items produce many accidents in real life, and thus will give your plot a great deal of realism.

This business of crossing from one side of the street to the other is getting downright serious. Pedestrians, like drivers, have to keep their wits about them every minute. If they don't, they're likely to end up with lilies in their hands.

If you have young children, don't turn them loose to cross streets by themselves until they have graduated from your school of pedestrian education.

This should contain a special course emphasizing the importance of never darting out from behind a parked car.

Bright Clothing

When you buy snow suits and other clothing for the youngsters keep in mind that part of any outfits they wear should always be light or bright-colored for safety's sake.

Remember the old adage, "Don't do anything I wouldn't do." Your kids undoubtedly do things you wouldn't do, but being a good example helps. Never get out of the car on the driver's side or cross in the middle of the block. They'll think that if you can do it, they can, too.

Certain independent members of the knee-pants set refuse to hold onto anyone's hand as they're crossing the street. It's not good to let them get away with it. Thoughtless youngsters often forget and dart away from helpless adults unless someone has a tight grip on them. So hold onto junior, even if you have to drag him across the street.

As the 60-year-old man said after 30 years of courting his prospective bride, "People shouldn't rush into things."

Remember that the next time you cross the street.

(If you have any questions or suggestions about cars and driving problems, Miss Skelton will be happy to receive them. Address her in care of this newspaper.)

Ira Anderson, 82, Retired Farmer, Dies Early Today

Had Lived In Columbia City Six Years

Ira Anderson, 82, retired Smith township farmer, died at 1:30 a.m. today at the home of his stepdaughter, Mrs. Ethel Eames, 309 Chicago street in this city, where he resided for the past six years.

He had been in failing health for a number of years and bedfast since last May 24 of a heart ailment. Mr. Anderson was born March 2, 1873, in Smith township to William and Louisa Green Anderson. He married Miss Josephine Linvill in 1896 and they established a home in Smith township. Mrs. Anderson died in 1908 and in 1916 Mr. Anderson married Mrs. Ida May Richey, who died in 1948.

The survivors are three sons, Roscoe of Churubusco; Willard of Indianapolis, and Emery of Chipley, Fla. two stepsons, Alfred Richey, Vicksburg, Mich., Fred Richey of Columbia City, and two stepdaughters, Mrs. Anna Hively of this city, and Mrs. Eames of Chicago street, at whose home he died.

Other survivors are three brothers, A. A. Anderson of Churubusco; Charles of Smith township and Edward Anderson of Fort Wayne; two sisters, Mrs. Minnie Barrett, Detroit and Mrs. Sadie Cremer, Fort Wayne, also 11 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. One daughter is deceased.

Friends will be received at the Sonday Funeral Home in Churubusco after 7:30 tonight. The Rev. Floyd Hedges will officiate at funeral services to be held at 2 p.m. Monday at the funeral home. Burial will be in Blue River cemetery.

"Lettuce" Find

NEW HAVEN, Conn. —(UP)— Garbage Collector James O. Bishop found a bog of "lettuce" in a garbage pail, but it wasn't the eating variety. It was $300 in cash which he picked from a pail of refuse at a restaurant. The owner rewarded Bishop with $25.

cisely forbid direct expenditures by labor organizations to publicize their political views. If that argument were accepted, corporations and national banks, presumably, could make direct expenditures on elections, so long as no money went into any party treasury.

Limits Political Contributions

By the Hatch Act, Congress attempted to put a $5,000 limit on political contributions by individuals or groups of individuals. The language was so loose that in the 1944 campaign, Editorial Research Reports said, "six leading Republican supporters made total contributions of $150,000, an average of $25,000 apiece, by the simple device of 70 separate gifts averaging slightly over $2,000."

There was a persuave report in 1948 that one corporation favoring President Truman's reelection parcelled out sums of money to numerous individuals to be given as personal contributions of $5,000 each. Both parties find means of getting by the Corrupt Practices Act and the cost of national elections continues to soar into the multi-millions.

The Michigan CIO, however, did not seek to hide its 1954 activity. The $5,985 was spent openly for nine television programs boosting McNamara's candidacy. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. said it appeared that the CIO considered the law unconstitutional and thereby not enforceable. It obviously must go to the Supreme Court.

If the union can so spend without channeling money directly into a political organization, then corporations and national banks presumably would have the same right, unless the court decided there was a difference between union money on the one hand and financial and corporation money on the other.

Monday Rites To Be Conducted For Grover Lint, 70, Found Dead

Resided Two Miles North Of Pierceton

Funeral services will be held at 9 a.m. Monday at St. Francis Catholic church in Pierceton for Grover M. Lint, 70, found dead in the barn at his home two miles north of Pierceton, Thursday night. Committal services will be held in the Catholic cemetery in this city.

Mr. Lint was a native of Noble county but had resided near Pierceton for the past 36 years. He is survived by his wife; a brother, Wallace residing at Elkhart, and four sisters, Mrs. Jesse Couts, Ligonier; Mrs. Pearl Homan, Chicago; Mrs. Ina Bennett in Michigan, and a sister residing in Ohio.

Friends are being received at the Breading Funeral Home in Pierceton.

Here's How ADVERTISING by selling more goods to more people MAKES YOUR JOB MORE SECURE

No matter what your job today, it depends on "good business." And someone has said that in the American business system, nothing can be accomplished until "something is sold."

You know the truth of this. Falling sales mean pay cuts, layoffs, fear. Increased sales mean better pay, promotions, more security in every job for every man.

Advertising is the low-cost, efficient way to sell goods. Advertising is the spark plug of business. So advertising, by selling goods, makes your job, your home, your income more secure!

Other Ways Advertising Helps You:

1. Brings you better goods for less money.
2. Makes shopping more pleasant and easier.
3. Has given us the world's highest standard of living.

COVER UP—Mrs. Henrietta Siemer, 23, pregnant mother of three, covers her face with her hand as she is led into a Cleveland courtroom by her husband, John, 24. The Siemers were arrested by the FBI in South Amherst, Ohio, and now face return to New York and prosecution for his alleged embezzlement of over $82,000 from a Staten Island bank where he worked as a teller. Despite having some $20,000 in stolen money hidden in the rafters of their house, the Siemers, their three children, two chinchillas, and four dogs lived in a one-room unfinished, concrete block house.

whose deadlock had been submitted to the heads of government, stayed on 15 minutes after the meeting adjourned.

None of the heads of government dropped a hint about what had passed. Mr. Eisenhower smiled and waved to photographers, but the Soviet leaders were grimfaced.

Before the secret session, Zhukov sought out Mr. Eisenhower and talked privately with him for nearly an hour.

What passed between them was not disclosed. But the obvious implication was that the Soviet marshal had taken advantage of his friendship to appeal personally to the President to help save the conference.

Then Mr. Eisenhower, riding for the first time in Geneva in an open car, drove to the Palace of Nations for a half-hour preliminary meeting with the other Western leaders.

First Secret Session

Each head of government was accompanied at the first secret meeting of the summit parley by his foreign minister and two other advisers.

In addition to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, the president was aided by Livingston T. Merchang, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, and Hermann Phleger, State Department legal adviser.

The Zhukov meeting took place at the President's lakeside villa at Zhukov's own request.

Whether Zhukov went to appeal to Mr. Eisenhower to save the conference was not immediately known. But it was considered a strong possibility.

This was the second time Mr. Eisenhower and the Soviet marshal have met alone man-to-man in Geneva. They lunched together on Wednesday at the President's villa, alone except for their two interpreters.

Eden, Bulganin Talk

British Prime Minister Anthony Eden and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin also sought to break the deadlock in a private talk after dinner at the Soviet leader's villa Friday night. But informed conference sources said they made little headway.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles also conferred with the President this morning.

Eden and French Premier Edgar Faure also were up early conferring with their aides.

The summit conference itself probably will end tonight, since President Eisenhower had promised he would be home by Saturday and his plane already was fueled and ready to depart for Washington.

The leaders called the secret meeting after their foreign ministers had failed to agree on terms for a foreign ministers meeting in October.

Foreign Ministers Fail

The last-minute huddle at the top came about when the Big Four foreign ministers were unable to agree on the terms of an agenda for next fall's meeting because of Russian opposition.

After a long day of wrangling over the problems of German unity, European security and disarmament, the foreign ministers gave up shortly before midnight Friday night.

They were unable to agree because of Soviet insistence that the East and West German governments be invited to the fall conference and that any directive on disarmament include a provision for a study on banning nuclear armaments. The Soviets also wanted to put the question of European security ahead of German unification, with both issues considered separately. The West insisted they be considered together.

The differences that developed in the foreign ministers' sessions were the sharpest of the week-long conference which has done much to thaw the Cold War and create a better atmosphere for international talks.

active in Western Germany. Not only is "come home" propaganda circulated in the refugee camps but special agents are visiting the homes of those who have obtained jobs and homes. These agents say that conditions in Russia are different now that Stalin is dead and international tensions are relaxing.

West German authorities are admittedly anxious over the success of the Red campaign. They have started a counter-campaign in the refugee camps.

"Re-defection is building up," an official told a United Press correspondent in Bonn, the West German capital. "There is no doubt about it."

The persons who escape Iron Curtain countries are called defectors, and those who return are called re-defectors.

It is hard to understand why Russia and its satellites are making such a strenuous attempt to get back persons who fled Communist rule. One reason is, however, that the return of each person is exploited in home-consumption propaganda. Another is that the presence of refugees in foreign countries is embarrassing to the Kremlin.

Some Changes Necessary

Defense Department lawyers said a "hasty glance" at several laws suggested the possibility that some changes might be necessary before the arms data swapping plan could go forward.

They cited espionage law provisions covering the transmittal of defense information to foreign governments, the photographing and sketching of defense installations and air reconnaissance of such installations. They also cited atomic energy law provisions covering disclosure of restricted data such as anufacture of atomic weapons.

Generally speaking, however, these lawyers held that Congress gave the President authority to decide what military information is secret and thus he can change classifications on his own initiative.

Invasion Of CaterpillarHorde Pesters Residents

Of Levittown, New York

LEVITTOWN, N. Y. (UP)—Caterpillars swarmed all over this vast Long Island housing project practically unabated today because local officials couldn't agree whose job it is to exterminate them.

The villain is hemerocampa leucostigma, a hungry little varmint that is eating just about every bit of greenery in sight, especially tree leaves and shrubbery. The caterpillars also have a habit of getting into houses and crawling all over everything.

To top things off, they are constantly falling out of trees and landing on people's heads or inside their open-necked shirts and blouses.

One mother complained that she had to put mosquito netting over her child's crib to keep the caterpillars away. Another resident said he was thinking of doing the same thing with his bed. Young lovers complained that the caterpillars were raising cain with outdoor courting.

Things got so bad this week that some of the town's residents went to Dr. Earle Brown, Nassau County health commissioner. Brown agreed the situation was serious indeed but said he couldn't do a thing, the caterpillars don't hurt anyone's health and thus the problem is not that of the Health Department.

Then the self-appointed delegation went to Howard M. Campbell, head of the Nassau County Agricultural Society. Campbell apologetically pointed out that he's concerned only with the destruction of pests on public property and the caterpillars are invading private homes in the case of the complainers.

The harried victims of hemerocampa leucostigma turned in desperation Friday to the Agricultural College of Cornell University for a fast method of getting rid of the caterpillars but they still aren't sure who will pay for a massive extermination job.

Exterminator Albert Greene said it's useless for a homeowner to take any individual measures because more caterpillars will just wiggle over from the house next door.

Brown took the only optimistic attitude. In a few more weeks, he said, the caterpillars will turn into "beautiful butterflies."

Catholics Pray To 'Silent Church'

RIO DE JANEIRO (UP)—Pilgrims of the 36th International Eucharistic Congress dedicated their religious program and prayers today to the "silent church" representing the 20 million Catholics behind the Iron Curtain.

A special "way of cross" procession tonight climaxes the program. It is the feature event of the third solemn session of the congress, and is to be led by Bishop Vincent Brizgys, a Lithuanian refugee now living in Chicago.

The procession will be made up of refugees making prayer stops at each of 14 crosses set up in Congress Square. The crosses will represent the 14 nations where Catholicism is oppressed: Albania, East Germany, Bulgaria, China, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Lithuania, Estonia, Poland, Russia, Czechoslovakia, Ukrainia, Latvia and North Viet Nam.

More than 200,000 pilgrims are expected to attend the dramatic ceremony in total darkness except for a spotlight focused on each cross. The multitude will join in the orations at every stop.

By the time Bishop Brizgys reaches the monumental altar, he will have in his train representatives of all the "silent church" nations. Then he will lead the final prayer for freedom of Catholics behind the Iron Curtain.

At midnight, following the "way of cross" ceremony, Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, will celebrate Mass for men's communion. It is expected that more than 200,000 communicants will participate.

New Series Of Demonstrations In Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES (UP)—A new series of demonstrations erupted in downtown Buenos Aires Friday night in defiance of a police ban.

About 1,000 followers of the Radical Party, which opposes President Juan D. Peron, demonstrated on several street corners despite an official ban on public assembly, and a formal Radical Party decision not to hold a scheduled demonstration.

At least two men were arrested and several others were taken away from the demonstration area.

Police said the Radical adherents attempted to deliver short speeches on several corners. Police moved in, however, and broke up the gatherings.

Demonstrations of Radical followers in recent days have centered on demands for repeal of the state of internal war. A lifting of this state, which gives the president special dictatorial powers, was pledged by Peron a week ago.

3. ABOUT PUBLIC UTILITIES AND CITY EMPLOYES . . .

We will conduct a complete and thorough investigation into the operation of public utilities. If excess labor is found for the amount of work being performed, we believe the voters have a right to know. There will be no excessive payroll on the taxpayer's money. By the same token there will be haphazard elimination of needed employes for political purposes. Because the production of power has been terminated at the light plant, we believe administration costs should be lowered since many responsible duties have been eliminated.

In the above paragraph, one sentence was incorrectly stated. It should have read: "By the same token there will be NO haphazard elimination of needed employes for political purposes."

Corn Replacing Mint Crop In Muck Land Near Big Lake; Disease And Labor Are Problems

Time passes, and changes are realized. This is a fact that farmers of the muck ground in the area north of Big Lake and south of Wolf Lake have experienced.

This community was a great producer of onions and mint 10 to 15 years ago, but today both of those muck crops are "a thing of the past," almost. Where hundred of acres of onions and mint were grown some years ago, practically no onions only a few acres of mint are grown today. Fields of dark green corn have replaced the two old crops.

Two of the chief reasons for the change are unavailable labor and a disease in the ground that affects the mint, causing low production.

The raising of onions requires much manual labor, in weeding, pulling, and topping the crop. It is almost impossible to hire that type of labor nowadays, and as the labor supply dwindled, so did the onion acreage.

Mint wilt is the disease which damages the growth of mint, both peppermint and spearmint. No chemical treatment is known for combating the disease, however, a high water mark also lessens the undesireable effects of mint wilt. Too much water also drowns out the mint too, so that is no comfort to the mint producers.

produce only five or six pounds

These two things have made the farmers in that area replace the long rows of sharp, but not unpleasant, smelling mint with straight rows of luxurious green corn across the level black ground.

Seymoure Distillery

Among the mint distilleries which still function in that community on smaller scale is on the Harold Seymour farm.

The Seymours have had a distillery for nearly 30 years, and at present Harold Seymour is operating it. He says there is less than 50 acres of mint grown in that area this year, and the yield is not very high. At least what mint has been distilled so far is not high. The old mint seems to be yielding about half as much as it would in a normally good year. Some has yielded as much as 17 pounds per acre, while other fields

Reds Say German Reunification Must Await European Security Pact

BERLIN (UP)—Soviet Communist Party Leader Nikita Khrushchev told Soviet Zone officials in a speech released today that the German problem can be solved only if the Germans themselves take part in deliberations on the matter.

Khrushchev, in a brief speech made Sunday night at an East German reception in honor of himself and Premier Nikolai Bulganin, said Germans are experienced enough to settle their own affairs.

Statements by Bulganin and Khrushchev made it clear that German reunification must await conclusion of a European security pact as proposed by the Soviets—a viewpoint that deadlocked the Geneva conference.

Bulganin and Soviet Communist Party Chief Nikita S. Khrushchev stopped off in Berlin for "several days' of talks with East German Communist leaders. Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov and other members of the summit delegation flew on to Moscow.

Bulganin, in a brief speech at Schoenefeld Airfield, repeated the Soviet viewpoint expressed at Geneva and said "there is no doubt" the Soviet government "will follow this line steadfastly" in future discussions of the German question.

His firm insistence on a security pact that would include both East and West Germany as members indicated there would be no change in the Soviet position when the Big Four foreign ministers try to solve the impasse next October.

Bulganin, visiting East Germany at the invitation of Soviet Zone Premier Otto Grotewohl, hailed the results of the Geneva talks as he had before leaving the Swiss city. He said the talks had "positive results" and would have a "favorable effect" on international relations.

But in speeches here and in Geneva he said all problems were not solved, especially the key question of Germany. He based his objections to Western plans on West German membership in NATO and said this made it impossible to unify Germany on a peaceful and democratic basis."

Ex-GI Turncoats Are 'Mixed-Up' Clergyman Says

3 Enjoy Honolulu Stay, Resume Trip To U.S. By Ship Sunday Night

HONOLULU (UP)—Three ex-GI turncoats, described by a clergyman as the "most mixed-up children I have ever seen," sailed today for San Francisco.

The three—William Cowart, 23, of Dalton, Ga.; and Otho G. Bell, 24, Hillsboro, Mass.; and Lewis Griggs, 22, Neches, Tex. — said they had a "grand time" in Honolulu, where they spent 14 carefree hours.

"I lost every inch of tension in my body," said Cowart. "They offered us everything in the book. We saw all the beautiful sights in Hawaii and they will live in our memory."

The three resumed their journey back to the United States Sunday night aboard the SS President Cleveland, which is due in San Francisco Friday.

During their voyage from Japan, the turncoats have been befriended by two clergymen, the Rev. Henry Bruinooge, a Christian Reformed Church missionary from Grand, Mich., and the Rev. Philip Williams of the Evangelical Reformed Church.

Asked what were his impressions of the three men who chose to remain with thei Chinese Communist captors after the Korean War, Bruinooge replied:

"They are the most mixed up children I have ever seen. I have no more idea of what their future will be than these men have themselves."

Earlier Sunday, Bell telephoned his sobbing wife in Olympia, Wash. and got her to promise that she and their 4-year-old daughter, Paula, whom he never has seen, will meet him Friday in San Francisco.

Cowart got a call through to his mother, Mrs. Chester Green, Monticello, Ark.

"We didn't have much to say," he said. "All we did was just blubber."

Police Search For Member Of Teenage Gang

Which Robbed Bakery Operator Of $82,000

RICHMOND, Ind. (UP)—Police surrounded nearby woods today in search of a member of a teenage gang which robbed a Dayton, Ohio bakery operator of $82,000.

One other member of the gang was still at large and believed headed west with $30,000.

Dayton authorities, meanwhile, questioned 10 juveniles, including the son of Fred Frowein, 45 ,the robbery victim.

Detective Sgt. Jack Peake said $32,000 of the money was recovered Saturday night.

Richmond police found $24,000 in a suitcase in the trunk of the getaway car, a souped up Cadillac which crashed against a bridge abutment north of Chester, Ind., during a police chase.

An additional $6,160 was found in the attic of the home of one of the gang's relatives.

Frowein said he had stored his savings of the past 17 years in pots in the basement of his home. The theft was first discovered Friday night.

Frowein's son, Frederick Carl, 16, told police he had stolen $1,050 from the savings earlier. The boy said he told companions about it and showed three of them where it was hidden. He said the three doublecrossed him and took the rest of the money when the family was away.

Mason Dalton Given $50 Fine, 30 Days On Alcohol Charge

Mason Dalton, 19, pleaded guilty to a charge of unlawful possession of alcoholic beverage and was assessed a fine of $50 and sentenced to 30 days at the Indiana State Farm by Judge Lowell Pefley in Whitley County circuit court last week.

The court ordered the wine which was in Dalton's possession turned over to agents of the Alcohalic Beverage Commission for disposal.

In the affidavit when the charge was placed against Dalton, he was identified incorrectly as Wayne Dalton. The newspaper printed the name as it was in the affidavit, which has now been corrected to show Mason Dalton.

Four Traffic Deaths In Indiana

By UNITED PRESS

Four persons were killed in traffic accidents in Indiana during the weekend, and police sought the hit-run killer of one of the victims.

Albert Weathers, 52, Indianapolis, was injured fatally Sunday while crossing a street near his home. Witnesses said the car raced away after hitting Weathers.

James E. Goff, 38, Indianapolis, was killed Sunday when his car overturned along a curve on U.S. 460 east of St. Meinrad.

Two ther persons were killed Saturday in similar accidents. Jean Clements, 26, Black Oak, was killed when a car in which she was riding was struck as it turned into a motel driveway.

Melvin Howard, 48, Muncie, was kiled when his truck was struck by a car as he turned into a driveway along a country road west of Muncie.

Mrs. Gustfason, who was the former Edna Beeching of Union township, operated a beauty shop in this city at one time.

Indiana Deficit 6 Million For Past Fiscal Year

Only Half The Amount Experts Had Predicted

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Indiana spent 6 million dollars more than it took in during the past fiscal year, but the deficit was only half the amount that experts had predicted.

Donald Clark, state budget director, said the state collected about 142 million dollars and spent 148 millicn dollars the fiscal year ended last June 30. The difference came from the state's surplus, reducing it to 75.4 million dollars at that time.

Clark blamed an increase in the state contribution for teachers' pay as the chief reason for the deficit. The increase totaled 7.4 million dollars since the 1951-52 fiscal year.

The final report lessened chances the state might go broke before the end of the current biennium, Clark said. Earlier, he had estimated the surplus would dwindle to 4 million dollars at the close of Governor Craig's administration.

"This means this minimum figure now is hiked to 10 million dollars and may run as high as 40 million dollars, depending on how well state revenues hold up," Clark explained.

Last year, the state surplus hit a peak of 81.6 million dollars in unencumbered funds. After Craig took office on June 30, 1953, the surplus was 78.6 million dollars.

Hoosiers Enjoy Slight Relief This Weekend

By UNITED PRESS

Hoosiers got some relief from a three-week hot spell during the weekend.

Comparatively cool temperatures of 80 at South Bend, 82 at Lafayette, and 84 at Indianapolis and Fort Wayne were recorded Sunday. Warmest temperature reported was 90 at Evansville.

The southern portion of the state was on the receiving end of thunderstorms Sunday. Evansville got one third of an inch of rain. Bedford residents were drenched with 1.25 inches.

The weatherman says it will become warmer tonight and Tuesday. More humid, too.

Today's highs will range from 80 in the north to 88 for southern Indiana. It will be warmer tonight with 67 predicted for the north and a low of 74 for the southern portion of the state.

Partly cloudy skies, warmer temperatures and high humidity are in store for the entire state Tuesday. The mercury will read 84 in the north portion and a maximum of 90 in the south.

The outlook for Wednesday is cloudy with showers and turning cooler, with 60 to 68 temperatures Tuesday night and 80 to 85 highs Wednesday.

Adenauer Will Go To Moscow For Conference

With Soviet Leaders Before October Meeting

MUERREN, Switzerland (UP)—West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced today he will go to Moscow to confer with Soviet leaders some time before the October meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers.

Adenauer said he felt it would be "impolite to wait" until after the foreign ministers' meeting.

The Soviets invited Adenauer several weeks ago to visit Moscow to discuss establishment of normal relations with Russia.

The chancellor postponed a decision on the trip until after certain related questions had been answered in conferences between the West German and Soviet ambassadors in Paris.

Adenauer also announced earlier that he would not make the Moscow trip until after the Big Four's summit meeting.

Adenauer asked, through the Paris Embassy, that the Soviets promise to announce, during his visit, the release of several thousands of German war prisoners and civilians still held in Russia, recognition that Germany would not break its ties with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the West and an understanding that the negotiations would not imply recognitionof the Oder-Niesse line, which gave part of Germanys eastern territory to Poland, as a permanent German frontier.

The chancellor, who announced his plans for visiting Moscow to a press conference at this vacation retreat, also expressed his satisfaction with the success of the Geneva summit conference.

$700 Damage Caused To 3 Cars In Two Weekend Accidents

Three cars were damaged a total of $700 in two weekend accidents in the city, both occurring within 15 minutes of each other Saturday night.

The first was at the stop light on Van Buren street west of Chauncey street at 11 p.m. Saturday. A car driven by Jackie Lee Nester, 27, of Fort Wayne had just stopped for the traffic signal. Another car driven by Dixie Lee Slagal, 15, of R 4, ran into the rear of the Nester car.

About $200 damage was caused to the front bumper, grill, and left fender of the Slagal car. An estimated $75 occurred to the rear bumper, lights and exhaust pipe of the Nester car.

The Slagal girl told city police that her foot slipped off the brake pedal when she attempted to stop the car. She was arrested following the accident on a charge of driving without a license.

The second accident occurred at 11:15 p.m. Saturday and involved a semi-trailer truck-tractor and a stalled automobile also on Van Buren street, east of Chauncey street.

The truck driven by Ernest Eugene Nelson struck the car, which was parked at an angle on the side of the street, according to witnesses. The entire left side of the body of the car was damaged an estimated $425.

Nelson failed to stop after hitting the car and he was arrested a short time later in the 500 block of West Van Buren street on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

The owner of the car, Mrs. Ida P. Zitsman, 54, of Springfield, Ohio, said that she was in a nearby restaurant at the time of the accident.

The Whitley County Fox Hunters Association will meet Tuesday night at 8:00 in the clubhouse.

$225 Damage Caused When Parked Car Is Hit By Another Late Friday

A total of about $225 damage was caused to two cars at 5:55 p.m. Friday when a car struck one which was parked on Chouncey street just north of Market street.

The driver of the car, Geraldine Growcock, 39, of West Ellsworth street, told city police that she took her eyes off the road and spoke to her daughter, who was also in the car. She said that when she glanced back she was too close to avoid hitting the parked car, owned by William Shoda, 516 West Van Buren street.

About $175 damage was caused to the right front fender, headlight and bumper of the Growcock car and about $50 damage to the left rear fender of the Shoda car.

American Legion Prepares To End State Convention

With Election Of Officers

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Indiana American Legion delegates, weary from two days of parades and partying, today prepared to close their 37th annual convention with election of officers.

The battle for state commander pits World War II veteran Alton W. Cochran, Crown Point school teacher, against World War I veteran Emory Boyd of Angola, the Pokagon State Park superintendent.

Inter-post competitions were held Sunday with South Bend Post 50 winning top prize of $500 for its band. Richmond was runnerup and won $150 for the snappiest color guard.

Meanwhile, a number of Legion leaders gave a cool reception to Governor Craig's appeal for 10,000 legion volunteers to bolster the state's internal security corps.

Another problem besetting the organization was a rebuke handed the legion Saturday by its auxiliary, the 40 and 8. But the Hoosier group stopped short of endorsing a move to bolt the parent organization.

The Hoosier fun-making group adopted a resolution approving the withdrawal of $50,000 in national child welfare funds from the legion.

The 40 and 8 also adopted a resolution approving a recent article in the organization's magazine criticizing the legion.

But it bypassed a chance to take a stand on breaking ties with the legion. It tabled one resolution calling for opposition to the withdrawal proposal and another supporting the national 40 and 8 in whatever decision it might make.

James Nasser, Terre Haute restaurant owner, was elected Grand Chef of the Indiana 40 and 8, defeating Bill Bartlett of Bedford, 110 to 65.

Problems Ahead Have Not Been Discounted Yet

There Were No Secret Agreements Of Any Kind

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles gave congressional leaders a "very hopeful" report today on the Geneva summit meeting and assurances that there were "no secret agreements of any kind."

They told the Democratic and Republican leaders that while they are hopeful about results of the Big Four conference, they have not "discounted" the problems ahead.

Meanwhile, the drive to reduce world tensions switched from Geneva to Washington and the Far East with these developments:

1. The United States and Red China agreed to a meeting at the ambassadorial level in Geneva Aug. 1 to discuss the return of 51 Americans held by Communist China and "certain other practical matters now at issue between both sides."

A State Department spokesman cautioned that the U.S.-China talks will not involve the Formosa crisis or U.S. recognition of Red China.

Charged For Failure To Yield Right-Of-Way, 3 Cars Crash

Ora N. Cripe, 66, was charged with failure to yield the right of way by the investigating officer following a three-car crash at the Wilson Lake road west of here on U.S. highway 30 at about 11:00 a.m. Saturday.

Mr. Cripe, who owns the Beechwood Motel near the scene, was hospitalized with cuts and bruises but dismissed Sunday morning. He was taken to Whitley County Hospital in a Smith and Sons ambulance.

He was driving east on the highway and made a left turn, crossing in front of a westbound vehicle driven by Lloyd O. Druley, 26, of Pierceton. According to Trooper Wayne Reese, who investigated, Druley swerved his car to the right but did not avoid the collision.

The third car was driven by Anna S. J. Walker, Oaka, Pennsylvania, and was following the Druley car. Mrs. Walker swerved her car to the left but struck the rear of the Cripe vehicle.

An estimated $450 in damages was caused to the 1953 Ford driven by Druley, Cripe's 1950 Chevrolet was regarded a total loss, and approximately $150 damages resulted to the 1954 Buick driven by Mrs. Walker.

Whitley County's Rural Mail Carriers Travel Total Of 818.32 Miles Per Day

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of three features concerning the post offices in Whitley county.)

Whitley County's 12 rural mail carriers travel a total of 818.32 miles each day, which would put their collective yearly travel at a figure resembling the national debt.

Richard W. Troyer, postmaster at Churubusco, said that Robert Anderson and Charles Miller, the two rural carriers there, have routs of 60.64 and 62.99 miles per day, respectively. They travel in Allen, Noble, and Whitley counties.

Mr. Troyer said that about 370 persons at Churubusco get their mail from lock boxes at the post office, and that about 50 other persons receive their mail from general delivery.

The Churubusco Post Office is a brick building constructed in 1950. Mr. Troyer has been postmaster there since 1953.

No Rural Carriers

Coesse has the only post office in the county which does not have rural carriers. The postmistress is Mrs. Edith Hunsaker, who has the post office in her grocery store there. Mrs. Hunsaker, who has had the position for about 9 years, said that about 60 persons get mail at the post office.

The post office at Coesse has been in the same store since 1916, when Charles W. Johnson became postmaster and kept the office in his store there. Mrs. Hunsaker, who purchased the store from Mr. Johnson after his retirement in 1945, has been postmistress since then.

Next year will mark the 100th year of existence of a post office at Coesse.

Columbia City's post office is the largest in the county, having seven rural routes and four city routes.

Rural carriers, in order of their respective route numbers, are Hiram Hazen, Charles L. Pence, Gerald E. Deutsch, James S. Briggs, Lee W. Dowell, Alva C. Beard, and Ralph W. Feit. Archie Coverstone, DeWitt Lilly, Dean Miller, and Elmer Mohler are the carriers for Columbia City residences.

2,276 Families Served

Harry G. Bollinger, postmaster here since 1949, said that an average of 2,276 families are served by Columbia City rural mail carriers, who travel a total of 422.03 miles each day.

HALIFA, N. S. (UP)—Two United States warships headed today up the coast of Labrador to a secrecy - shrouded destination in the Canadian Arctic.

The attack cargo ship Thuban and the landing ship 880 left Halifax during the weekend after taking on supplies and equipment for the distant early warning (DEW) radar line in the far north. They also carried troops who will guard the DEW line.

The ships are part of a great armada of 117 United States Navy ships which will move into Arctic waters this summer to take supplies, equipment and men into the DEW line now under construction. Many of the ships will be guided to their destinations by the Halifax-based Canadian Arctic patrol vessel Labrador.

HAYWARD, Calif. (UP) —Roger Thomas, son of Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas, was honeymooning today following his marriage Sunday to Gwenna Lee Coyne at the Trinity Episcopal Church here.

Thomas, 25, was recently released from active duty in the Navy. He is a graduate of UCLA. His 22-year-old bride, a 1954 graduate of the University of California, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee J. Coyne of Hayward.

The couple plans to live in the San Francisco bay aea following a honeymoon in Mexico.

ROME (UP) —U.S. embassy officials dismissed speculation today that there was any political significance attached to U.S. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce's meeting with Pope Pius XII.

"Mrs. Luce decided that at long last she would like to call on the Pope," an embassy spokesman said. He added that Mrs. Luce, a converted Roman Catholic, called on the Pontiff "as one Catholic to another."

The Pope received Mrs. Luce in a private audience in the Papal Library Sunday. The 45 - minute audience, one of the longest the Pope has granted in recent years, was their first meeting since Mrs. Luce became U.S. ambassador to Italy 27 months ago.

Don't Blow A Fuse; Consult An Expert

CHICAGO — (UP) —For the person who doesn't know what type of fuse to use in his home and who keeps plugging appliances into a circuit until the fuse blows, University of Illinois electrification specialists have a few pointers:

1. A fuse is a safety check in each circuit and will blow when the load on it goes beyond its rating, such as 15 amperes, 20 amperes or 30 amperes. The fuses blow to prevent the wires from heating and possibly starting a fire. Putting in a larger ampere fuse, or a coin, is asking for trouble.

2. Appliances won't perform at their best when they can't get enough electricity.

The specialist said the answer usually is more circuits or a larger wire. They suggested that a householder seek the advice of an electrical contractor or a power company's service engineer in order to get more use out of every power dollar.

Thy Will Be Done

Dr. Foreman

THEY were a sorry lot, the people left behind after the last invasion. The puppet-king Zedekiah had asked the Egyptians to pull his strings . . . but the smart Babylonians got wind of it, and that was the end of Zedekiah, Jerusalem, Solomon's Temple, the nation of Judah. After a two years' siege the city fell, was sacked and burned, and anybody that was anybody was either killed or deported. Jeremiah, the city's most famous citizen, was offered a chance to go to Babylonia as a free man; but he declined. He preferred to stay with his own people, he said, and his own land. But they were a sorry lot, the dregs of the populace for the most part.

Vows, Good and Bad

They were glad enough to have Jeremiah with them. They seemed to recognize him at last as a true prophet. He had told them so often just what would happen—and it did. So they began to look up to him and come to him with their problems. One day they came up with a very important decision they wanted him to help them make. Should they go to Egypt or not? This was not as if they were going down there like tourists into Florida. This was for keeps, a full-scale emigration. A sort of Exodus in reverse, with Jeremiah the new Moses to lead them back into Egypt. (Why they wanted to go can be read in detail, in Jeremiah.) They put this up to him: Find out what God wants us to do. You are a prophet and you should know. "Whether it is good or evil, we will obey the voice of the Lord God," they solemnly promised. But they did not mean it. Their minds were made up to go. When Jeremiah after ten days knew that the Lord did not want them to go to Egypt, he told the people so. But they paid no attention; on the contrary they bundled him up and took him along, an unwilling prisoner on their forbidden road. So they broke their good vow. Some time later down in Egypt they bragged to Jeremiah that they were keeping their promises now. They had vowed to make sacrifices to the star-gods and goddesses—and sacrifice they did, to the "Queen of heaven" and a lot more.

If You Knew God's Will . . .

Before condemning those people too quickly, let the reader translate the story into the 20th century. Don't we all pray, "Thy will be done?" Have we not all asked God more than once to show us what to do? When we pray "Thy will be done" we are making an implied promise, that we will cooperate. What we mean is, of course, not "Thy will be done in spite of everything I do to stop it," but "Thy will be done, and let me know if I can help." This raises two questions. One is: How can we know God's will? Can we know God's will without a guaranteed prophet to help us out? Well, we have the Gospels, we have the Word of God. We surely can know a great deal about God's will. We at least know this much, that any scheme, plan or intention which is out of line with the great teachings of the Bible is out of line with God, and doomed to final failure.

Would You Do It?

The other question raised by that prayer-vow, Thy will be done, is this: If you knew the will of God, would you do it? Those ancient men of Judah scorned God's will, and scorned his prophet, although they had been pleading for light and direction. We had better be sure we are without sin before we cast at them the first stone. We often feel that God does not give us enough light. We pray earnestly for his will to be made known to us, and we are inclined to grumble at the silence of God. The trouble is we do not follow the light he has given us. A great American preacher called attention to Saul's request of the Witch of Endor, "Bring me up Samuel." The thing is—he had had Samuel. For a long time Samuel had been telling Saul where he was wrong, but the king had paid no attention. A man who will not listen to Samuel living will not listen to his ghost. So with us. "Thy will be done" suggests sadly many a broken vow. How can be hope to persuade God that we will follow his will, if he will show it to us, when we have not followed his will when he did show it to us? We might make a humbler vow: O God, help me to go back and pick up some of the promises I have broken!

World War II Prisoners Remain Captives Of Soviet Russia 10 Years After War's End

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Soviet Russia still is holding men from countries all over Europe as prisoners 10 years after the end of World War II.

These are in addition to the thousands of German, Japanese and Austrian war prisoners still held in Russian slave labor camps.

Italians, Belgians, Dutchmen, Danes and Norwegians are among the prisoners.

Some of these were traitors who fought voluntarily with the Germans against their own countries. But others were impressed into the German army.

All, traitors or victims, should of course have been sent back to their own countries.

Airmen Reported Held

But the Russian Communists make no distinctions in their ruthless search for slaves to bolster their economic system.

The United States, for instance, sent notes to the Soviet and Polish Communist governments in April asking about 16 Polish underground leaders whom the Red army seized during the war.

Norway is trying to win freedom for at least two Norwegian resistance leaders — men who fought the Nazis—whom the Russians hold.

And there was a disturbing report recently that four United States airmen were being held in a slave labor camp in the Karaganda area of Siberia, over by Red China's Sinkiang province.

These airmen might be air force or Navy men shot down by Russian fighter planes while on patrol over international waters in the Pacific Ocean or the Baltic Sea.

Or is it possible that they were among the American fliers whose planes were forced down in Siberia during the war when the United States was fighting Japan and Russia was not?

Play No Favorites

As was mentioned recently, Russia used these planes as models for some of its own military aircraft.

The fact that these Americans were held was disclosed by some of the Austrian prisoners who are being repatriated in batches of hundreds.

As has been reported, the Austrians have told of many Americans seized by the Russians since the end of the war.

Some of these had wandered into the Soviet occupation zone of Germany by mistake. Others, it is reported, were kidnapped in West Berlin and sentenced as "spies."

The Russians have played no favorites in seeking slaves—they have imprisoned European and American civilians as well as soldiers, and European women.

A German woman, just released with a batch of Austrians, told how the Russians kidnapped her in Vienna in 1945 and sentenced her to 10 years on the charge of plotting against Soviet occupation troops.

Austrians reported also the death in a prison camp of an Austrian archduke, arrested in 1947. His crime was that he fought against the Bolsheviks after the 1917 revolution.

Hall Of Fame Admits Six New Baseball Members

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y. (UP) — Baseball's Hall of Fame officially opens its doors today to admit the six newest members of its galaxy of stars—Joe DiMaggio, Ted Lyons, Dazzy Vance, Gabby Hartnett, John F. (Home Run) Baker, and Ray Schalk.

All six of the diamond greats were expected to take part personally in the colorful ceremonies officially inducting them into the Hall.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies, the Milwaukee Braves and Boston Red Sox were scheduled to clash in the annual major league exhibition game at Abner Doubleday field, long honored as the site of the founding of the national pastime.

The admission of the six new members swells the membership of the Hall to 79. DiMaggio, Lyons, Vance, and Hartnett were voted into the Hall by the annual balloting of the senior members of the Baseball Writers Association. Baker and Schalk were selected by the special committee on veterans.

DiMaggio, former New York Yankee centerfielder, topped the balloting with 223 votes. Lyons polled 217, Vance 205, and Hartnett 195. Since 75 per cent of the ballots were required for election, and 251 writers voted, a total of at least 189 votes were needed.

During the ceremonies, permanent plaques honoring the six players were to be unveiled.

SMITHS HAVE GUESTS FROM FARMLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thornburg and two children of Farmland were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Smith on North Main street.

Mr. Thornburg is a funeral director at Farmland, and was a school friend of Mr. Smith at the Indiana School of Mortuary Science in Indianapolis.

Gates Confident An Investigation Will Clear Him

Of Charges He Had Favored Private Businesses

CHANUTE AIR FORCE BASE, Ill. (UP)—Maj. Gen. Byron E. Gates was confident today that an Air Force investigation will clear him of charges that he favored private businesses while commanding the Chanute Air Force Base.

The 60-year-old general, who boasts that he likes to cut Air Force "red tape,' flatly denied any wrongdoing and said he was "startled and appalled" by the charges.

He promised he would "vigorously" fight the charges and was "confident that when all the facts are presented I will be completely vindicated by military authority."

The Air Force meanwhile named Maj. Gen. John H. McCormick, commander of the Lackland Air Force Base at San Antonio, Tex., to investigate the allegations. He will decide if Gates should be brought before a court martial.

The charges were made public by the Air Force Saturday and alleged that Gates:

1. "Sponsored" and gave "preferential treatment" to an automobile insurance and life insurance command at Chanute.

2. Gave false statements to investigating agents and a superior officer.

3. Took $7,500 from a life insurance company "for services to be rendered by him because of his official position."

4. Wrongly used government workers to develop and administer a housing project next to the 15,000-man base.

Nearly 600 Members Of CIO-UAW Strike

HAGERSTOWN, Ind. (UP)—Nearly 600 members of the CIO-United Auto Workers Union went on strike today at three of Indiana's four Perfect Circle Corp. plants.

Union members began picketing a piston ring machining plant and a sleeve casting plant at Richmond and a foundry at New Castle.

The Hagerstown plant was still in operation, but may go on strike Tuesday morning, it was reported.

The UAW contract with Perfect Circle expired Saturday midnight. Management and union officials failed to agree during month-long negotiations for a new contract.

The union asked a 20-cent hourly package increase, including a guaranteed annual employment plan, a union shop, compulsory arbitration, insurance benefits and a general wage increase.

Company officials said they offered the union a 10-cent general wage increase and changes in the group insurance and retirement plans. They said the union rejected the offer because it did not include a union shop.

Pickets let supervisory, office and laboratory personnel pass through their lines at the three plants. About 2,000 persons are employed in the four plants.

Nehru Orders Portugal To Close New Delhi Legation

NEW DELHI, India (UP) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru ordered Portugal today to close its legation in New Delhi and pledged his government to the "peaceful liberation" of Goa, a Portuguese possession on the Indian west coast.

Nehru told parliament India had closed its legation in Lisbon because of failure of the Portuguese government to negotiate on Goa and that a note was sent to the Portuguese representative here asking him to close the legation by Aug. 8.

Goa, about the size of Rhode Island, is an enclave on the west coast held by Portugal for more than 400 years. Similar settlements held by France and other nations were turned over to India within recent years.

Pope Pius XII Closes Congress In Rio De Janeiro

RIO DE JANEIRO (UP)—Pope Pius XII closed the 36th International Eucharistic Congress Sunday night with a hymn of praise to the powers of the Eucharist as a source of Christian energy for good in the world.

The Pope, speaking in Portuguese, broadcast his message by radio from Vatican City to millions of residents of the world's most populous Roman Catholic country and to pilgrims from 50 nations attending the final ceremonies of the week-long congress.

Citing the origin of the Holy Eucharist and its sacramental uses as a means of demonstrating man's love of God, the Pontiff said:

"In these full days, you have multiplied the demonstrations of Eucharistic piety.

"These demonstrations were visible in holy hours of the day and night, in churches and in religious houses, in hospitals and prisons," he said.

"In the Eucharist," the pope continued, 'you have found the greatest energy 'to spread Christianity' and to insure with memorable actions the integrity of the nation and the unity of faith."

More than 220,000 persons assembled in vast Congress Square to listen to the address—the crowning highlight of the year's leading Catholic event. Prior to the broadcast, the throngs participated in a dedication of Brazil to Christ and the concluding Mass, celebrated by Benedetto A. Cardinal Masella, the Popes personal representative.

Dream Voyage Ends Like A Nightmare

WEST COVINA, Calif. (UP)—A gaunt bachelor, whose "dream voyage' to Hahiti in a small sailboat became a nightmare, rested today with his family which had feared him dead.

Rolf Per Thorvaldson, 31, given up for dead weeks ago, was discovered Saturday by a fishing boat as he lay becalmed in a fog bank only seven miles off Los Angeles harbor.

He had sailed his 28-foot ketch, Tahia, across 6,000 miles of stormy sea during a 130-day ordeal of adversity but didn't know where he was.

"I hope I'm not fool enough to do that again," he said. "But I'm afraid I might. Now all I want to do is rest—and eat."

Thorvaldson said he lost "a lot of weight...I don t know how much."

After a meal of hotcakes, syrup, bacon, bananas and apples he said: "These are things I dreamed of while I was out there."

Mint

This has been a good year for weeds, Mr. Seymour added, and the farmers are cutting their weediest mint first. That fact would account for the low yield of oil, and the yield in general can not be determined what mint has already been distilled.

At the Seymoure "still", an 80 horsepower high pressure boiler cooks the mint after it has been sealed in either of the two vats. The mint is steamed in the vats for periods ranging from 20 minutes to occasionally as long as an hour and one-half, depending on the condition of the mint. The mint oil and water from condensed steam then passed through the galvanized coils which are placed in an upright tank of cold water. As oul and water from condensed the oil and water reach the bottom of the tank, the oil and water separate, the oil rising to the top. The mint oil is then run off into small containers. This year peppermint is worth $6.00 per pound, and spearmint is bringing about $4.50 per pound.

After the mint is cooked the necessary time, the "plummies" are lifted from the vats by means of an electric hoist and grapple fork and placed on wagons to be hauled back to the farms.

Back at the farm, the "plummies" are usually dumped in a field for cattle to munch over after they have dried, and eventually returned to the soil.

RICHMOND Ind. (UP)—David Daush, 17, Richmond, was back in jail today following brief freedom.

Daush broke out of City Jail Saturday night by jumping through an open unbarred window in the mens washroom. He was arrested in Richmond Sunday afternoon by police.

Visiting Russian Farm Experts Turn Tables Give Vodka-Caviar Reception Sunday Night

EAGLE GROVE, Iowa (UP) — The visiting Russian farm experts, in a party-throwing mood hosted 150 Iowans at a vodka and caviar reception Sunday night.

The 12 Russians, who have been on the receiving end of Iowa hospitality during their tour, turned the tables by doing the honors at Ames, Iowa.

After resting up, they travelled 50 miles today for a visit to Dean Moser's 120-acre farm near Eagle Grove. Moser, his wife, and five young sons had a brunch of lemonade, ice cream, and cookies waiting for them.

Tonight the Russians will sample another kind of Iowa social life when they drop in at a 4-H Club get-together at Humboldt, Iowa. The 4-H'ers planned to give the Russians their first look at old-fashioned American square dancing.

The Soviet visitors introduced a more high-toned note to their social life at Ames Sunday night when they played hosts at an Iowa State College buffet.

Mayor Attends Party

Ames residents, headed by Mayor Joe Lawler, feasted on Russian caviar flown from Washington under the escort of 3rd Soviet Embassy Secretary V.L. Lomovskev.

The caviar was washed down with vodka made in the U.S.A. The Soviet variety didn't arrive in time.

The Russians were described as perfect hosts. They mingled freely among their guests, accompanied by interpreters who made the task of exchanging pleasantries easier.

It was the first time the visiting Russians have taken the role of party throwers during their tour of American farmlands. But they said they would give another party Wednesday night at the Hotel Fort Des Moines in Des Moines, Iowa.

Six Go to Church

Earlier, six of the Russians attended services at the tiny first Presbyterian Church at Jefferson, Iowa. They listened "respectfully" to a sermon on "Life Can Be Beautiful," but did not contribute to the collection.

John Strohm, in charge of the Russian delegation announced changes in the Russians' schedule. Two members go separately Wednesday to see tractor plans at Peoria, Ill., and Dubuque, Iowa.

Strohm said Sioux City, Iowa, had been tentatively knocked off the Russians' itinerary. The main group of Russians will leave Iowa Thursday or Friday to spend a few days in Lincoln, Neb., Strohm said, and will make a tour of watersheds in the area Saturday.

On Aug. 1 they will hit Yankton, S.D., while the next two days will be spent in Aberdeen, S.D.

Aug. 4 and 5 will be devoted to Brookings, S.D., and the Russians will go to Worthington, Minn., Aug. 6 and to Minneapolis the next day.

After a five-day stay in the Minneapolis area, the Russians will come to Chicago Aug. 11. On the 14th they will journey to Lansing, Mich., for the centennial of mechanization celebration at Michigan State College.

Senate Starts Its Blitz Series On Talbott Today

On Investigation Of Business Deals

WASHINGTON UP — Senate investigators today launched a blitz series of public hearings to weigh the propriety of Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott's partnership in a private industrial engineering firm.

The inquiry was expected to center on a contract between Paul B. Mulligan and Co. the industrail engineering firm, and the Radio Corporation of America.

An RCA attorney, Sam Ewing, was listed as a possible opening witness. Another possible early witness was John A. Johnson, general counsel for the Air Force. Talbott also may be recalled.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) of the Senate Permanent Investigating subcommittee said the witness schedule will not be completed until shortly before the hearing begins.

Subcommittee sources said no long hearings are in prospect unless the sessions take an unexpected turn. They added that no more than half a dozen witnesses may be called in the hearing which could wind up this week.

Both McClellan and Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.), a key subcommittee member, said the subcommittee should get its investigation of Talbott's business dealings over with as quickly as possible.

Indianapolis Beauty Is Miss Indiana

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP)—Carolyn Sue Turner, a 19-year-old black-haired beauty from Indianapolis, will represent Indiana in the Atlantic City, N.J., Miss America Pageant in August.

Miss Turner, an Indiana University sophomore, bested six other finalist for the title Saturday. Names as her attendants were Judy Steed, 18, Portland, and Marty Waggoner, 18, a Purdue University sophomore.

Shirley Teeter of Elkhart was named Miss Congeniality. Other contestants were Terre Janicki, East Chicago; Erin Webb, Valparaiso, Kay Hinkle, Greencastle, and Martha Murray, Lafayette.

U. S. Finally Getting Rid Of Surplus Butter

WASHINGTON UP)—The government is finally getting rid of its surplus butter. The once-mountainous hoarder has been cut more than 50 per cent in the last year.

Francis W. Immasche, an Agriculture Department dairy of- predicted surplus butter stocks may be down to "a very low point" by next spring.

But government price support buying might be expected to pick up again after April when the best milk producing season begins, Immasche said.

Butter piling up in government storage under the farm support program was one of the administration's biggest headaches last year. In early 1954, Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson was un happily buying millions of pounds daily — faster than he could give it away.

But department officials report that their butter stocks have been cut to 179 million pounds compared with 461 million pounds a year ago.

Cheese stocks, also acquired under the price support program, were down from 422 million pounds to 273 million. Surplus non - fat drymilk solids were cut from 293 million to 157 million ounds.

The government is losing most of its investment in the butter moved out of surplus stocks.

Benson was able to sell only 14 million pounds of government butter in the commercial market last year. He gave away 187 million pounds to school lunchrooms and other domestic institutions, 158 million pounds to foreign relief, and disposed of another 85 million pounds in cut rate foreign and domestic deals.

Lightning Strikes Wabash Chapel Tower

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind. (UP)—Damage was estimated at $2,000 today in a lightning fire which burned a portion of the Wabash College chapel tower.

The tower was struck Saturday afternoon during a storm. Firefighters confined the blaze to the upper reaches of the 110-foot tower.

Firemen had to work from the inside to reach the flames, since their aerial ladder wouldn't reach that high. College President Frank Sparks said the west face of the tower was damaged extensively.

The Delta Tau Delta fraternity house on the campus also was hit by a lightning bolt, but a minor blaze in the roof was extinguished by a student before firemen arrived.

President

[illegible] of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee called for a U.S. [illegible] meeting at the foreign ministers' level to discuss the Formosa problem and other causes of Far East tension, George who attended the White House briefing on the Geneva Big Four talks, said afterwards that there was "some little discussion' of his proposal. He said Dulles indicated there would be some talks with Red China.

George replied "oh, yes," when asked if he meant at the foreign ministers' level. But there has been no word from either the White House or State Department to indicate that this government is ready to talk wih the Peiping regime at the ministers' level.

A White House statement issued after the congressional briefing said that President Eisenhower had said that he thought the outstanding feature of the Geneva meeting was "the apparently sincere desire expressed by the Soviet delegation to discuss world problems in the future in an atmosphere of friendliness and willingness and to sit down together to work out differences.'

The statement said the President a hopeful development but quite naturally does not of itself warrant any relaxation of the mutual pushing."

No Secret Agreements

It said the President assured the legislative leaders that "no secret agreement has been made nor had any private papers been initialed" at the conference.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty read the statement to reporters. Asked if there was any discussion of Red China at the congressional briefing, Haggerty said it was discussed but only in light of the State Department's announcement about the ambassadors' meeting at Geneva Aug. 1. He said Red China was not discussed in relation to Sen. George's proposal for a meeting at the foreign minister's level.

Asked if the President discussed his relationship or discussions with his former wartime comrade-in-arms, Soviet Marshal Georgi Zhukov, Hagerty said the President did so "briefly.'

The statement from the White House said that after the President had discussed the conference in Geneva, Dulles then gave "a detailed presentation of day-to-day discussions at Geneva and an analysis of the final agreed directive.'

Congressmen Feel Cheered

Congressional leaders who heard Mr. Eisenhower's report reacted optimistically. They said the situation as reported by the President is "very hopeful" and they felt that, on the basis of the report, that the international "atmosphere" is better.

At 10:30 p.m. EDT, Mr. Eisenhower will make another report—this one to the people — over nationwide radio and television networks. His 15-minute speech will summarize the results of his face-to-face diplomacy with Russian, British, and French leaders.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles planned to go from the White House briefing to Capitol Hill for closed - door reports to the House Foreign Affairs Committee and to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee later today or Tuesday.

The President indicated a new era of peace hinges on the Soviet Union's attitude at impending showdown negotiations on the working diplomatic level.

October Meeting Set

At Geneva, the Big Four set an October meeting of their foreign ministers to work on the German, European security, disarmament, and other problems which spawned the cold war. They called for a new meeting Aug. 29 in New York of the United Nations disarmament sub - committee.

Tip - off on Mr. Eisenhower's views on the conference came in a brief report channeled through the State Department to Vice President Richard M. Nixon and congressional leaders.

Administration informants said Mr. Eisenhower believes the Geneva conference set the stage for a real try at ending the cold war and that failure of the Russians to carry through would make their position crystal clear the the world.

Upon his arrival at National Airport Sunday morning, the President said "new contacts have been established and there is evidence of new friendliness in the world."

Crowd Greets President

A wildly cheering crowd greeted the presidential party which included Mrs. Eisenhower and their son, Maj. John Eisenhower. A sudden drenching rain failed to spoil the hero's welcome which surprised and moved the Chief Executive.

As rain trickled off his head, the President told the crowd of his "hard week' at Geneva and expressed appreciation of the "heart warming' homecoming.

"Just what will be the result of the conference, of course, no one knowns, but the coming months will tell much," he said. "But in the meantime we do know that new contacts have been established and there is evidence of a new friendliness in the world.

"For my part, if there is one man I would single out as deserving the thanks of the American people — it would be John Foster Dulles — a man who represents us in every kind of conference with the greatest of dignity and the greatest of skill. I am sorry he's not here this morning. His plane seems to be a little slower than mine . . . ."

"Again thanks to all of you for coming out, distinguished citizens and everybody else. It's really great to be home. Thank you."

Allotment Of Salk Vaccine Sufficient

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—An allotment of 120,006 doses of Salk polio vaccine was described today as sufficient to complete the second round of free shots to Hoosier first and second graders throughout the state.

"We ordered 120,000 shots and figured those, plus the leftover vaccine from the first round of shots, would cover the state on the second round," said Dr. Wendell C. Anderson of the State Board of Health.

The vaccine, previously cleared by the Public Health Service, was ordered released to Indiana during the weekend by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Anderson said the state had about 17,000 doses in storage at Indianapolis, and another 30,000 leftover shots "out in the counties."

That surplus, added to the 120,000 doses allotted the state, would bring the total to 167,000 shots for the second round. A total of 197,720 shots were used in the first round.

Ennis On Career's Hottest Slugging Spree; No Coincidence Phillies Coming Up To 2nd

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

Del Ennis, the menace, second only to Stan Musial among active National Leaguers in life time runs batted in, was on the hottest slugging spree of his career today and it was no coincidence that the Phillies were challenging for the second place consolatio nprize behind the runaway Dodgers.

Ennis is no glamour slammer like Musial, Ted Williams, Duke Snider, or Ted Kluszewski but the Phily outfielder quietly keeps piling up RBI's, 100 or more a season until he now has 987, only 13 short of 1,000 for his career. He has gone past the century mark in five of the past six seasons and today, with 78, second highest total in the majors to date, dependable Del seems to do it again.

He wound up a happy weekend Sunday in the Phils' 6-5, 3-0, sweep over the Cardinals, driving in all of the runs in the six-inning rain shortened nightcap with his fourth homer in two days after smacking a double and single in the opener and driving in another run. On Saturday, hitting three homers, he drove in seven runs. The Phils, who now have won 14 of their last 15 games, gained the opening triumph in a five-run third in which Bobby Morgan homered and Roy Smalley hit a three-run double. Jack Meyer struck out the side in a rescue job for Curt Simmons in the ninth of the opener and Saul Rogovin pitched his second blanker in a row as a Philley with a four hitter in the bob-tailed nightcap.

Yankees Regain First Place

The Yankees regained first place in the American League by sweeping Kansas City, 7-3, 2-0 while Chicago spiit against Boston, winning 4-0 on Billy Pierce's seven-hitter, then losing 2-1. Cleveland moved into a virtual second place tie, two percentage points behind Chicago and a game behind the Yankees with 5-1, 5-2 triumphs over Baltimore. Detroit topped Washington 7-3 after which the Nats won 3-0.

Brooklyn stayed 13½ in front in the National by splitting with second place Milwaukee, winning 9-7, then losing 9-2. Cincinnati topped New York to end a seven - game losing streak, then lost to the Giants, 4-1. Pittsburgh won its first double header since last Labor Day, 12-5, 3-2 from Chicago.

Yogi Berra's two-run homer in the ninth gave rookie Johnny Kucks a six-hit triumph, his seventh, in a second game duel with Arnie Portocarrero, after the Yankees "rapped" up the opener in a six-run fourth in which Mickey Mantle's three-run double and Bill Skowron's homer were the big blows. Bill Renna and Gus Zernial tagged Whitey Ford for homers en route to his 11th win.

Al Carrasquel's three-run homer was the big hit Pierce needed for his seven-strikeout triumph and Willard Nixon pitched a steady 10-hitter to beat Connie Johnson's five-hit losing effort in the second game. Sammy White drove in the winning run with a single.

Narleski To The Rescue

Ray Narleski, who now has relieved in 34 games and eight out of the last nine, bailed out Bob Feller and Early Wynn in Cleveland's twin wins. Al Rosen hit a first game homer. It was Fellers 265th win and third this year. Wynn, though tagged for 12 hits won his 12th game.

Rookie Ted Abernathy held Detroit to seven hits after the Tigers cashed in on homers by Al Kaline, Earl Torgeson, and Jim Delsing to win the opener.

Brooklyn put over seven runs in the sixth, three on Gil Hodges' 18th homer to win the opener, even though Don Newcombe was banged for 11 hits and rookie Don Bessent had to pitch in and win his third game in eight days. Duke Snider hit his 34th homer in the opener, too, but Hank Aaron was the whole show in the nightcap driving in four runs on a homer and triple as Ray Crone pitched a four-hitter.

Ted Kluszewski hit his 32nd homer, Wally Post his 25th and rookie Milt Smith his first in Cincinnati's first game triumph but Johnny Antonelli silenced Cincy's long ball bats in the second game for his eighth triumph as Willie Mays hit his 30th homer for the Giants.

Dick Hall, who failed to make it either as an outfielder or infielder came back to the majors as a pitcher and twirled an 11-strikeout triumph for Pittsburgh that was one short of the club record of 12 set by old Babe Adams back in 1909. The Bucs made 19 hits to "easify" his job. Vern Law who pitched 18 innings of a 19-inning Pirate triumph on Tuesday, had to go 10 innings for the second triumph in which he struck out nine and gave four hits.

PGA Champ May Have Been Decided By 'Hawk'

NORTHVILLE, Mich. (UP)—The "Hawk' threatened today to win the PGA golf tournament — in absentia.

That's what the pros call Ben Hogan. And, while he isn't even here, the tiny marvel of the fairways may have decided the issue in this coveted tournament last April.

Because Tommy Bolt goes out in the semi-finals today inspired by the "know how" of the "The Hawk."

Bolt murdered former U.S. Open champion Lew Worsham Sunday 8 and 7. Now he meets Cary Middlecoff in the semi-finals. Without stint Bolt credits his progression to Hogan, and he is convinced that he will win this event which undoubtedly stacks up as one of the major marathons in golf.

"Ben did two things for me last April, just before the Masters tournament,' the ilkeable Tommy explained. "He changed my driving grip and he gave me a new mental attitude—that old Hogan attitude.'

Since receiving Hogan's tutelage, the black-haired Oklahoman slowly has been bringing his game to a peak for this event.

I guess I have hit millions of golf balls," he grinned. "But no matter what, I kept hooking. And when the pressure got on me, I'd hook it into an impossible spot. Not any more. Ben turned my left hand over a little bit and I can lay that drive on a handkerchief."

Yet, in the old chilled-steel Hogan manner, it goes beyond mere golfing mechanics.

"I spent a week with Ben just before the Masters and on the 14th hole at Colonial I probably received my greatest help from him," Tommy said. "The pin was angled in back of a trap. Ben faded an iron dead to the pin. I played it safe, to the 'fat' part of the green. He sneered at me and called me chicken-hearted."

So Tommy Bolt became an adept driver—and a "golfing gambler' with the percentages on his side simply because he can hit those putt-saving approach shots which he never before dared.

You'd think that, with his game at its peak, he'd be happy. But Tommy isn't.

The gallery and what he describes as a "phoney" reputation make his days a divot - digging nightmare.

"Somebody stuck the name of 'Temperamental Tommy' on me back when I first broke in," Bolt says with understandable bitterness. "Believe me, I haven't thrown any more clubs than Sam Snead (whom he beat in this tournament); Jackie Burke or Cary Middlecoff, just to name a few."

Yet not a round goes by but what two, three or four people in the gallery urge:

"Hey, when you gonna throw a club, Tommy?'

The Enemy Public

"It's hard to fight your opponent and the public too,' Tommy groaned. "Believe me, there isn't a mean bone in my body. I'm not a 'bad man.' I like people, and I want them to like me. The gallery's inspiration is one of the greatest things in golf. It makes you play harder than you know how. I do my best all the time, but I'd like people to like me even more than I'd like to win."

It was said simply without rancor. But it came from the heart. And it made you hope that people would give Tommy Bolt a cheer now and then and watch him, just for a change, with the old philosophy:

"If you can't boost — don't knock.'

The man's really trying. And hes a nice guy, to boost.

Gene Conley Has Sore Shoulder

BROOKLYN (UP) —Gene Conley, the Milwaukee Braves' top pitcher, has a sore shoulder and will undergo an examination today while the Braves are at Cooperstown, N. Y., for the annual baseball Hall of Fame game.

Trabert Racks Up Another Title

HAVERFORD, Pa. (UP) —Torrid Tony Trabert, 24-year-old Wimbledon champ from Cincinnati, racked up another title today in his campaign for world tennis leadership.

Trabert, who won 24 of his last 25 tournaments, defeated Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, Sunday, 6-1, 6-2 6-3 for the 56th annual Pennsylvania state lawn tennis championship at Merion Cricket Club.

Trabert was in top form in beating the 31-year-old defending champion in the 53-minute match. Both players wore spiked shoes because of a steady rainfall which delayed the match for one hour.

It was the eighth straight time this year that Seixas was beaten by Trabert, who recently won the National Clay Courts title at Atlanta. Seixas won the Pennsylvania title seven times, the past four tion proved too tough for Hal Burrow, Charlottesville, Va., and Straight Clark, Philadelphia, in the mens doubles title match as the Davis Cuppers breezed to a 6-2 6-3, 6-4 victory.

in forced postponement of the mixed doubles final. Miss Althea Gibson, New York state champion, and Kurt Nielsen, Denmark, were leading Yola Ramirez, Mexico City and Sam Giammalva, Housed. It will be resumed next week, probably at Orange, N. J. where most of the players will be entered in the Eastern tournament.

Cary Middlecoff Faces Tommy Bolt In Semi-Final PGA

NORTHVILLE Mich. (UP) — Cary Middlecoff, the winner of a dramatic 40-hole match against Jack Burke, faced Tommy Bolt while Doug Ford opposed Shelley Mayfield in the semi-final round of the PGA golf championship today.

They reached this next to last round of the greatest endurance test in golf with so me of the most exacting shot-making the 37-yera-old tournament ever has seen.

Bolt, driving with breathtaking precision, defeated Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., 8 and 7. Mayfield, the slender blond from Westbury, N. Y. ousted Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill., 3 and 2, while Ford, going 28 under par for 128 holes, flattened Frad Hawkins of St. Andrews Ill., 5 and 4.

Middlecoff's victory in the quarter-finals Sunday not only was dramatic—it was lucky, too. But the pros leading money winner this season took advantage of the breaks and also played some of the best golf of his career, for he was two down with two holes to go against his fellow-playing pro from Kiamesha Lake, N. Y.

Gambles On Every Shot

Gambling on every shot, he birdied those last two holes — it gave him three birdies on the last five holes of the scheduled 36-hole match—to draw even after Burke had led 5 up at the halfway mark.

Yet it looked as if that stirring rally of the golfing dentist was going to be for naught on the 39th—and third extra hole—of the match. Both had put their seconds on the green on the par four 388 - yard hole, Middlecoff 12 feet to the left of the pin, Burke 10 feet away, also to the left.

Cary missed his putt, going a foot past the cup, but Burke's looked like it was going in. Middlecoff had taken the glove off his hand and started walking across the green to congratulate Jack when the putt lipped the cup and rolled out.

Then, on the 40th hole after Middlecoff put his second on, Burke hit one that looked like it would be hole high. But the shot failed to carry a rise in the fairway by about three feet, kicked to the left and rolled down a bank, 20 yards from the elevated green. Burke was too strong with his third, the ball rolling a foot off the green, and Cary merely had to two-putt to make that rousing rally of his stand up.

Sad About Victory

"I feel very sad about my victory," Middlecoff said. "Jack is one of the finest guys I know and it was heart breaking for him to lose."

Then he revealed that it was a morning putt by Burke on the 17th hole, which put Jack 5 up, which really was the key to his victory.

Burke put his No. 2 iron second on the apron of the 507-yard par five hole, but his first putt was eight feet past the in. He sank tphe second for a birdie to win the hole, but Middlecoff noticed when Burke sank his second putt that the ball broke almost a foot.

"So when I came up to almost the same spot in the afternoon, two down with two holes to go, I remembered. just as I was about to putt how Burke's ball broke," Middlecoff said. "So I changed my line and sank my putt to stay alive."

On the 36th, both put their seconds, on but Burke missed his first putt and Middlecoff had to sink an eight-footer to win and tie the match. Playing especially slow, and taking most of the time lining up his putts with the delicacy of a surveyor, Middlecoff finally squared away and knocked the ball in.

Middlecoff apologized for playing so slowly.

"But I have a form of hay fever and this hot weather really bothers me," he said. "So before we started out yesterday morning I went to Jack, told him I was dead tired, and would need a lot of time today and that I hoped it wouldn't upset his game. Jack assured me that it wouldn't

"I'm so tired now, I don't see how I can go 36 holes today. I'm not alibing in advance, but in this heat it is almost impossible for me to breathe."

Bolt complained that "I had to scramble a lot" as he turned back Worsham. But Tommy was 14 under par for 116 holes, attesting that his game isn't too bad.

Bolt got a break on Friday—one of the hottest days of the year—when he won his first round match by default from Al Watrous, a veteran from Birmingham, Mich., who had an injured hand. And in a test of stamina such as this tournament, that could be the turning point in today's match.

Whoever wins it will be favored to take Ford or Mayfield. Mayfield is 11under par for 134 holes.

He Hadn't Planned To Enter Tourney; Wins

ROCKFORD, Ill. (UP) —Eddie Merrins, who hadn't even planned to enter the tournament, reigned as the Western Amateur golf champion today.

The 22-year-old Meridian, Miss., ace rallied in the finals at the Rockford Country Club course Sunday to beat Hillman Robbins Jr., Memphis, Tenn., 1-up on the 37th hole.

They went into the sudden death overtime after ending the regulation 36 holes all even.

Merrins iced the title by taking a par four on the 37th after blasting from a trap to within one foot of the cup. Robbins chipped out of the rough but missed a 5 footer.

Merrins, who also holds the Colonial Invitation title, said he had planned not to enter this year's Western Amateur until tourney director Roy Moore telephoned him at the last minute and persuaded him to change his mind.

Merrins came from behind to win. He never led the match until he dropped the final putt. As late as the 27th hole, Robbins boasted a three-hole lead.

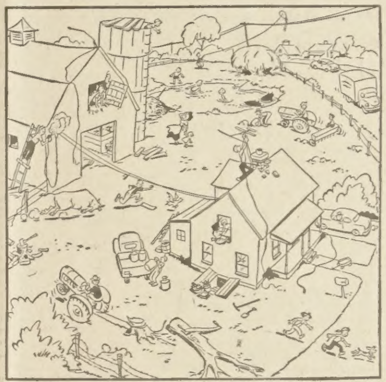
MICHIGAN STATE SCHEDULES FARM EXHIBIT—The history of harvesting, from cradle to combine, is graphically portrayed by students from Michigan State University's agricultural engineering and drama departments. The students will highlight the role of power farming equipment on the efficient farm in a five-day Centennial of Farm Mechanization beginning Aug. 15. More than a million persons from all over the world are expected to visit the $20,000,000 display on the East Lansing campus.

4-H'ers Eliminate "Accident Havens"



How many hazards can you find?*

SAFETY, a crop to be harvested on every farm and in every home, is receiving special attention from more than one-half million 4-H Club members taking part in the 1955 National 4-H Safety Program.

As a part of their 4-H Club work, members in all 48 states are correcting hazards such as those seen in the above drawing. They are attempting to reduce the Nation's annual farm toll of 14,500 lives, 1,250,000 injuries, and an economic loss of about a billion dollars.

4-H'ers, working as individuals or in groups through their local clubs, conduct surveys to locate hazards, then correct the unsafe conditions. They give demonstrations on hundreds of topics pertaining to farm, home and highway safety. Members present talks before group meetings and over radio and television; put displays in store windows; and build booths at fairs.

To assist the Cooperative Extension Service in conducting the 4-H Safety Program, General Motors has just published a new "4-H Safety Handbook for Local Leaders," which provides how-to-do-it ideas for carrying out successful safety programs. Copies of the manual will be distributed to volunteer 4-H leaders through County Extension Offices.

In addition, GM provides incentives in the National 4-H Safety Awards program which is arranged by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work. Medals are made available to four county winners; an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago is given to the state winner; and $300 college scholarships are presented to eight national winners.

*In the drawing, there are more than 45 accident hazards or unsafe practices shown. Don't let them occur on your farm or in your home.

743,800 Wild Animals Killed On Indiana State Highways

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —The Indiana Highway Department spends nearly $1,000,000 a year just to pay men to pick up rubbish, including thousands of dead animals.

Part of the cost, Maintenance Supt. Earl B. Lockridge said is due to careless motorists who toss all kinds of refuse into the roads and along the right-of-way.

But part of it is due to wandering animals, which, despite the means nature gave them to evade their enemies, can't seem to keep out of the way of vehicles.

Lockridge figured that up to 743,800 wild and domestic animals are killed by cars and trucks each year on the 10,626 miles of patrolled roads in the state highway system.

The estimate was figrued on one patrolman's report of what he picked up in one year on a 12-mile stretch of U.S. 31 between Peru and the Miami-Fulton County line.

Kyle Newman told Lockridge he picked up 840 carcasses, ranging in size from an 800-pound steer to a mink. That's an average of 70 per mile for the year.

Newman listed 365 rabbits, 171 house cats, 143 opposums, 105 dogs, 33 chickens, 28 raccoons, three quail, two pigs, a mink, a skunk, a pheasant and a cow.

Lockridge said $998,166.87 was spent in the last fiscal year for salaries for rubbish collecting, more than three times the cost for removing ice and snow.

Gets Cab

TOLEDO, O. (UP) —A cab driver saw George Upchurch standing with upraised arms and thought he wanted a ride.

The driver didn't see the man standing behind Upchurch holding a gun in his back. When the cab stopped, the would-be robber took to his heels.

"Can't say again I couldn't get a cab when I needed one," Upchurch said.

"Convertible" Garage Is Now Available

DETROIT — (UP) — A new "convertible" garage has been put on the market for motorists who want protection for their cars but can't afford or can't get regular garage space.

The "convertible garage," made out of a plastic-coated nylon, consists of the fabric and a folding multiple-spring tubular steel frame which is held archlike by two center posts driven into the ground.

A motorist merely drives under the arch, stops the car and pulls the hood down over the front and back of the car. The garage weighs 87 pounds and folds into a neat package.

Here's How

by selling more goods to more people

MAKES YOUR JOB MORE SECURE

NO matter what your job today, it depends on "good business." And someone has said that in the American business system, nothing can be accomplished until "something is sold."

You know the truth of this. Falling sales mean pay cuts, layoffs, fear. Increased sales mean better pay, promotions, more security in every job for every man.

Advertising is the low-cost, efficient way to sell goods. Advertising is the spark plug of business. So advertising, by selling goods, makes your job, your home, your income more secure!

Other Ways Advertising Helps You:

1. Brings you better goods for less money.
2. Makes shopping more pleasant and easier.
3. Has given us the world's highest standard of living.

Rites At St. Paul's Church Tuesday For Joseph L. Bakle

Became Slightly Ill Friday Evening; Dies Saturday Afternoon

Joseph Leander Bakle, 51, of the Bakle Nursing Home on West Market street extension, died suddenly at 3:50 p.m. Saturday while watching television in the living room of his home. He was found by his wife. Mr. Bakle became slightly ill Friday evening with a stomach disorder and spent most of the day, Saturday, resting. Death was attributed to coronary occlusion.

Mr. Bakle came to Columbia City three years ago and with Mrs. Bakle opened the Bakle Nursing Home. For many years he wsa a shipping clerk for Consolidated Foods Inc., at Pierceton but more recently had been associated with the LML Manufacturing Company in this city.

He was a son of John P. and Mary L. Shaffer Bakle and was born in Antwerp, Ohio, February 24, 1904. His marriage to Alice S. Schuldt Lipke, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Schuldt at Pierceton, occurred May 10, 1952, in St. Francis Catholic church in Pierceton.

Mr. Bakle moved from Antwerp, O., to Detroit and later resided at South Whitley and at Pierceton and in 1952 moved to Columbia City.

He is survived by his wife, formerly superintendent of nurses at Whitley County Hospital, and three stepsons, Theodore Joseph Lipke, Donald Lewis Lipke and Frank Scott Lipke, all at home. Also surviving are eight brothers and sisters. They are George Bakle, Toledo, O., Raymond Bakle, Hicksville, O., Wilfred Bakle, Evanston, Ill., Leo Bakle, Fort Wayne; Miss Pauline Bakle, Miss Mayme Bakle, Antwerp, O., and Mrs. Harry Anderson, Antwerp, O., Mrs. Carolyn Hanes, Jackson, Mich. One brother is deceased.

Mr. Bakle was a member of St. Paul of the Cross Catholic church in this city. Tonight at 8 o'clock the Holy Name Society will recite the Rosary and at 8:30 Tuesday morning, prayers will be offered at the J. A. DeMoney and Son Funeral Home, where friends are being received.

Requiem High Mass will be held at St. Paul of the Cross church at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, the Rev. John J. Frawley officiating. Burial will be in the Catholic cemetery in this city.

Members of Post 98, American Legion, will attend the Mass in a body and will present Military Honors and services at the cemetery. Edwin F. Pugh, commander of the post, will be in charge.

Attends Services For Son In Texas

Mrs. William Kissinger, Larwill, returned Sunday from Austin, Texas, where she had attended memorial services for her son Pfc. William B. Kissinger.

Services were conducted Thursday afternoon at the Congregational Church by the Rev. Paul Wassenich followed by burial in Austin Memorial Park.

The accidental death of Pfc. Kissinger occurred July 16 at his home in El Paso, Texas. He was stationed at Fort Bliss, in the guided missile division of the army.

Mrs. Hathaway Dies; Was A Hospital Patient Four Days

A Life Time Resident Of Whitley County

Mrs. Nellie D. Hathaway, 76, life-long resident of Whitley county, died Sunday night at 10:10, at Whitley County Hospital where she was a patient four days. She became a patient after being stricken with coronary thrombosis.

Mrs. Hathaway was the wife of Raligh Hathaway, and was married in January 1898. Mr. Hathaway died in 1908. She was born in Richland township, November 30, 1878, to Calvin and Emiline Scott Duckett and resided in Columbia City for a number of years. She was an only child.

Surviving are two sons, John of North Manchester and Robert of Fort Wayne and a daughter, Mrs. Marie Allinbaugh of Wolcottville, and five grandchildren and four great grandchildren. She is also survived by a cousin, Madge Rollins with whom she had resided in South Whitley for the past 21 years. Mrs. Hathaway was a member of the Baptist church at South Whitley, and of the Royal Neighbors at South Whitley.

Memorial services will be held at the Miller Funeral home at South Whitley Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. Henry Uhrich of the Methodist church officiating. Committal services will be held in the South Whitley cemetery.

Local 'Car Borrower' Finally Apprehended

The "borrower" of George L. Leininger's car has been discovered.

Mr. Leininger, of 315 West Spencer street, told city police Wednesday afternoon that he had parked his automobile in the 100 block of Line street. He said he came out of his store about 3:45 p.m. but the car wasn't where he had parked it about 2 p.m.

The loss was reported to the State Police post at Ligonier listing the automobile as missing.

But about 4:40 p.m. he saw his car parked near where he had left it previously. The State Police report was cancelled, and the city police continued to "track down" the culprit who "borrowed" the car and obligingly left it with more gasoline in it than it had when Mr. Leininger parked it.

That's Mr. Leininger's side of the story.

"Villain" Talks

But here, in direct quotation, is the "villain's" side of the story:

"I came in the office Wednesday and my car wasn't running properly, so I asked my laboratory man, Paul Gross, if I could borrow his car to do some shopping in Columbia City. He said yes.

"I went out, jumped in the car, did my errands, had the gas tank filled, and returned in about an hour and 45 minutes. I thanked Paul and told him I'd filled the gas tank.

"But Paul had been looking out the window and noticed that his car was there all the time I was gone. When I came back he checked the gas gauge on his car. It was at the same place as before.

Tells "Villain's" Brother

"Paul said something to my brother about it, and later, when my brother was talking to Paul Pinckley, Mr. Leininger's partner, he found out that George's car had been "stolen." They figured I'd done it.

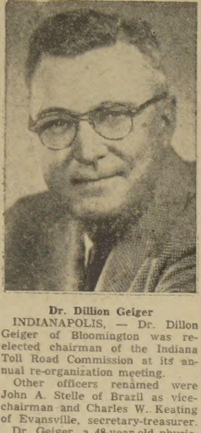
"But no one told me about it. I didn't find out about the whole thing until Thursday afternoon. But I guess I did it."

The above statement was made by the "criminal," Dr. Walter Grant.

Honesty Best Policy

HUNTINGTON PARK, Calif. (UP)—Lester W. Cedar realized today what a good policy honesty can be.

He was given a $1,000 reward for returning to Mrs. Amy M. Weisgerber, of Richmond, Calif., a purse containing the $1,000 and $10,650 worth of jewelry.



Dr. Dillion Geiger

INDIANAPOLIS, — Dr. Dillon Geiger of Bloomington was re-elected chairman of the Indiana Toll Road Commission at its annual re-organization meeting.

Other officers renamed were John A. Stelle of Brazil as vice-chairman and Charles W. Keating of Evansville, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Geiger, a 48-year-old physician, was re-appointed to the commission for a four-year term on July 1 by Governor George N. Craig. He had been a member since June 16, 1954.

Dr. Geiger is a former trustee of Indiana University and has been active in state and national medical circles.

Nation's Flags Fly At Half Mast In Tribute To Hull

WASHINGTON (UP) — Flags throughout the nation flew at half staff today in tribute to Cordell Hull, former secretary of state and father of the United Nations, who died Saturday after a long illness.

The body of the 83-year - old statesman lay in state in the historic chapel of Washington Cathedral where mourners paid their last respects. The funeral will be held Tuesday at 11 a.m. EDT.

Hull will be buried in the huge cathedral crypt by the side of his wife, Rose, and near the tomb of former President Woodrow Wilson.

He died Saturday after a long career that saw him rise from a Tennessee log cabin to be soldier, lawyer, judge, representative and senator. He was secretary of state longer than any other American.

The Very Rev. Francis B. Sayre Jr., dean of Washington Cathedral and a long-time personal friend of Hull, will officiate at the funeral services.

President Eisenhower ordered flags at half-staff until the funeral.

The elderly statesman died following several strokes and heart attacks.

He spent 12 turbulent years as head of the State Department. During that time he laid the groundwork for the founding of the United Nations and helped launch the reciprocal trade program which, after 21 years, still is a cornerstone of America's foreign economic policy.

Hull retired as secretary of state on Nov. 27, 1944, but his successors often sought his counsel. He was honored during his lifetime as a recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize.

Mail Carriers

Mr. Bollinger said that there are only two rural routes, both out of Columbia City, which cover territory wholly inside Whitley county. Carriers from Columbia City also travel in Noble, Allen, and Huntington counties.

About 165 lock boxes are rented in Columbia City, according to Mr. Bollinger, and about 10 persons get mail through general delivery. He said that a total of 23 persons are employed at the Columbia City Post Office.

The post office here was finished in 1936 and facilities were moved into it in April of that year.

Second Postmistress

Mrs. Phyliss Armstrong, the second postmistress in Whitley county, has had her position at Larwill for 14 years.

According to Mrs. Armstrong, there is one rural route out of Larwill, for which Walter A. Firestone is carrier. He travels in a "loop" route covering 65.025 miles daily, makes 215 stops, and spends about 3½ hours delivering mail each day. His route is mostly north and south of Larwill, and includes some of Noble county. Mr. Firestone has carried mail there for more than 30 years.

About 120 families have lock boxes at the post office in Larwill, Mrs. Armstrong, said.

Built in 1924

The South Whitley Post Office was built in 1924, and Clarence Pook has been postmaster there since 1937. The two rural carriers there are Rudolph Kyler and Warren Purkey.

Mr. Kyler travels a total of 60.9 miles daily, delivering mail to 296 families, while 234 families are served by Mr. Purkey in his 65.5 miles of daily travel.

Two regular mail clerks and two substitutes are employed at the outh Whitley Post Office. Mr. Pook said that about 300 families have lock boxes while about 253 persons receive mail from general delivery at South Whitley.

Congress Leaders Encouraged By Geneva Report

Feel International 'Atmosphere' Better

Democratic and Republican leaders of Congress were encouraged today by President Eisenhower's "hopeful" report to them on the Geneva summit conference.

They reacted optimistically and said they felt, on the basis of the President's report, that the international "atmosphere" is better.

Chairman Walter F. George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said he was "very much more hopeful" about the chances of peace in the world. He said "concrete problems" have not been solved and that "patience" is needed.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass) said "there still is much to be done" although world tensions are eased.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, who attended the White House meeting with the legislative leaders, made another report to the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Other congressional news:

Taft Memorial: The House approved legislation to erect a bell tower on the Capitol grounds as a memorial to the late Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio). The Senate already has approved the legislation.

Dixon-Yates: Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala) accused Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams of "tampering" with the Securities & Exchange Commission on the controversial Dixon-Yates power contract. Sparkman said Adams' action was "shocking."

Atlantic Community: Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) said the Big Four Geneva meeting should now be followed with steps to achieve greater political unity among the Western democracies. He urged approval by Congress of his resolution to have the President invite the North Atlantic Treaty democracies to send delegates to a convention to explore ways of getting more unity.

Atomic Airplane: Rep. James T. Patterson (R-Conn) said atomic scientists are on the verge of a "great breakthrough" in the development of an atomic-powered airplane. He said the plane would be "truly intercontinental" and would lead to a 3,000-mile-an-hour guided missile capable of carrying an H-bomb.

Bills Passed: Congress sent President Eisenhower evidence that it had kept on the job while he was at Geneva. It sent him 114 bills for his approval.

Adjournment: Three GOP congressional leaders—Reps. Leo E. Alln (Ill), Leslie C. Arends (Ill) and Charles Haleck (Ind)—talked with Mr. Eisenhower about possible adjournment dates for Congress.

There was little hope of adjourning on schedule next Saturday.

Congressional leaders talked hopefully about adjourning Aug. 3 and more realistically about Aug. 6.

For a change, the Senate was in good shape. Most of the log-jam was in the House.

House Democratic Leader John McCormick (Mass.) said the big stumbling block to adjournment this week was failure of the House Rules Committee to turn loose a public housing bill. He laid the blame to the committee's four Republicans.

But Rep. Hugh Scott (R-Pa) contended that Southern Democrats have bottled up legislation on housing, education, health and refugees because of their opposition to civil rights programs.

Long, hot fights were ahead on highway construction, foreign aid, public housing, and exemption of natural gas producers from federal price regulation.

Among likely legislative casualties during the rush were the 760 million dollar upper Colorado River reclamation project, a $1,600,000,000 federal school construction bill, and President Eisenhower's atomic peace ship.

Other congressional news:

Reserves: The House was expected to approve a compulsory military reserve bill aimed at building a 2900,000-man ready reserve by mid 1959.

Talbott: The Senate Permanent Investigating sub committee launched public hearings into Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott's partnership in the industrial engineering firm of Paul B. Mulligan and Co.

Atomic: Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM), chairman of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, said America is lagging in aircraft production because U.S. military experts have "consistently under estimated" Russian production capacities. He said he believes the Soviets have the potential to outproduce America in intercontinental bombers and are equal or ahead of the United States in production of all aircraft except medium jet bombers.

Big Four: Congressional leaders went to the White House for a briefing by President Eisenhower on his face-to-face diplomacy sessions with leaders of Russia, Britain and France at the Geneva Big Four meeting. The President was expected to tell the congressmen that the cold war can be ended if Russia cooperates during the next few months.

Republican, Democrat Give Exclusive Views Of Geneva Conference

BY SEN. JOHN J. SPARKMAN
Democrat - Alabama
Written For The United Press

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Geneva conference was neither a howling success nor a disappointing failure.

It accomplished about all one could rightfully expect. I am glad it was held. I believe it will initiate a series of conferences that may at long last lead us toward the long - sought goal of world peace.

Several weeks ago Sen. Walter F. George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, proposed a meeting of the heads of state of Great Britain, France, Russia, and the United States. I heartily endorsed the proposal as a wise one.

Sen. George's proposal was a forward step in gringing into being the strong urging repeatedly made by Gov. Adlai Stevenson that our government always keep the door open for discussion of disputes with other countires, that we demonstrate a sincere willingness to negotiate for an honorable settlement of any disagreement with any nation.

Expresses Early Disappointment

I was disappointed that the State Department immediately turned thumbs down on such a conference. What harm this attitude, coupled with the unwise statement that our "position of strength" was forcing the Russians to modify their views and that if the conference were held they would negotiate from weakness, may have done cannot be determined. Certainly, though, these mistakes were not helpful to our cause.

I was delighted when President Eisenhower, sensing the public acclaim of Senator George's proposal, reversed the State Department and decided to support the meeting and to participate actively in it.

It was my thought from the very beginning that it would be a mistake to exect settlement in this conference of the great differences that exist between Russia and the Western powers; that such grave problems as unification of Germany, disagreements in the Far East, reduction of armament, and freeing of the satellites, could not be disposed of in a single conference.

It was my thought from the beginning that this would be an exploratory conference

Events Prove Correctness

Events have proved the correctness of those who took this position. Not a single crucial dispute has been settled, and this may naturally be disappointing to those who expected greater results.

[illegible]

On the other hand the most important purpose of the conference, as I see it, was accomplished. That purpose was to delineate more secifically, if possible, the areas of agreement and disagreement, and to lay the groundwork for later meetings and discussions to narrow areas of disagreement.

The very first speeches showed the main area of agreement among the four powers, that of desiring peace. The primary problem of course, is how best to attain that objective.

Some headway toward this objective, it seems to me, was made. Tensions were relaxed; both sides spoke freely and to the point about their disagreements; plans were laid for future conferences to try to work out solutions to unsolved disputes; and perhaps as important as anything else, the heads of governments of the four participating powers had an opportunity to meet together and to know one another better.

Another Step Toward Peace

What may be still another step toward lasting peace is the impact of President Eisenhower's proposal that we exchange with Russia military blueprints, and permit aerial photographs of one another's military installations.

It will be interesting to have the Kremlin's official reaction to the proposal, and also that of the isolationist wing of the President's own party.

In summary, the Geneva conference is neither a howling success nor a disappointing failure but I am glad it was held. It accomplished about all one could rightfully expect and should start a series of conferences that may at long last lead us toward world peace.

By Rep. CLARENCE J. BROWN
Republican - Ohio
Written For The United Press

WASHINGTON (UP—I am convinced the peoples of the world are tired of war, and the rumors and threats of war. They are weary of the heavy burdens of military service, and of the high taxes, which world tensions of recent years have brought. They sincerely want and desire peace.

The announcement that an "at the summit" meeting would be held at Geneva brought renewed hope to untold millions. The dramatic address by President Eisenhower to the nation and to the listening world on the eve of his departure for Geneva stirred their emotions and created within them a religious fervor for action now on the solving of world problems.

At Geneva, Eisenhwer's surprise challenge to Russia for full revealment of military installations in our country and theirs struck fire, and "took the play" away from the Soviet spokesmen. In demanding that the Communist world take down the Iron Curtain and join with us and other freedom-loving nations in a free interchange of information, trade and travel, the President played a diplomatic trump card. By his words and actions he has put Russia on the defensive. It is now up to the Communist leaders to demonstrate their good faith and sincerity, or the lack thereof, in regard to their oft-professed desire to bring an easing of international tensions.

While it now appears Geneva was a triumph for Western diplomacy, only the passage of time can give an accurate answer to the real wisdom and the true value of the conference which has just ended. No informed person expected the conference to bring an immediate ending of international difficulties, but only to clear the way and set the stage for future meetings of the representatives of the four great powers. This goal was attained when it was agreed, on the closing day of the conference, that such a meeting will be held in October to discuss the reunification of Germany, and kindred matters, from which may eventually come the understandings and the peace all decent human beings so avidly seek.

In the meantime, until that day comes, it behooves the United States and the other free nations to keep on guard. President Eisenhower was in a commanding position at Geneva because he led from strength, and not from weakness. We must maintain that strength if we are to remain secure while the present diplomatic tug of war continues; and if we are to win it in the end.

In the many months and conferences which are ahead will undoubtedly come periods of optimistic hope and other periods of pessimistic despair. Yet out of it all, if we keep our heads, stand by our principles, and maintain our strength, will, I am confident, eventually come a better day for all mankind. To believe otherwise would be to deny that a beneficent God still guides the footsteps of his children.

Powerfully-Supported Proposal Of Meeting Of U.S. And Red China Dulls Geneva Rainbow

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—A powerfully-supported proposal that the United States meet soon with Red China to revent a dangerous Asiatic flareup dulled today's Geneva rainbow.

This was grim reminder that half the world and multi-millions of persons were excluded from the Big Four summit.

The proposal boldly underlined the parting words of Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin about the problem of Red China:

"We shall never escape these problems."

Chairman Walter F. George of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee called for the meeting with Red China Sunday night on NBC's "Meet The Press" TV program. He said it should be at the foreign minister level after Congress adjourns and much sooner than a suggested six months.

Elaborating his ideas to the United Press, George indicated he advanced the idea because of "some information" he had obtained independently from Chinese and India's sources. India's roving Ambassador V. K. Krishna Menon was a recent visitor to Washington, presumably seeking some such arrangement. George told the United Press he hoped a meeting could be limited to the United States and Red China.

"I Hope So'

Asked if he had reason to believe Red China and the U. S. might actually meet, George replied: "I hope so." Delay would be dangerous, he continued, because trbuble between Nationalist and Red China over off-shore islands was sure otherwise to come.

The State Department had no immediate comment. The force of the Georgia Democrat's proposal can be measured by the impact of his call last March for a Big Four meeting at the summit—the genial conference from which President Eisenhower returned in hopeful mood Sunday.

But there was no evidence that the administration soon would be swung by George to a huddle with the Red Chinese. On the contrary, President Eisenhower banned discussion of Asiatic questions at Geneva and got away with it, although the Russians expressed regret.

As one of many ultimate sponsors of the Geneva meeting, George applauded its results Sunday night. He went far beyond Mr. Eisenhower's cautious optimism. Some TV viewers may have been startled by the chairman's belief there is a good chance of settlement of the German question this year.

Are Reds Still Smiling?

There seemed small chance of that so soon on the basis of joint and individual statements as the Big Four scattered over the weekend to their home capitals. It remains to be learned whether the Soviet Russian delegation was still smiling and friendly as it faced north and east toward Moscow.

It is no reflection on George to report that a U.S. meeting with Red China would please the Kremlin, if anything would, nor that the record indicates that Mr. Eisenhower will not quickly go along with his good friend and frequent Senate champion, Senator George.

The President is well placed to balk. He has returned from Geneva with new prestige at home and abroad. He stole the Geneva show, or most of it. And if it comes to be that his plan for an exchange of defense blueprints with the Soviets was only propaganda, after all, it still is echoing like the shot heard 'round the world. It was one of Mr. Eisenhower's purposes to make good propaganda for the United States at Geneva, and he seems to have brought it off.

DEAL, England (UP)—The Rev. F.L. Pocock, senior chaplain at the Royal Marine detachment here, held up an IOU for sixpence, about seven cents Sunday.

"It was part of last Sunday's collection," he complained.

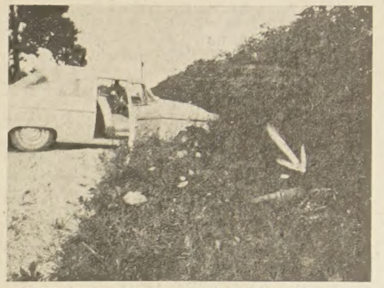
Kenneth Glick, 10, Killed When Car Hits Bicycle Near His Home

* * * *



DEATH SCENE — shown (at left) is the final position of the car after striking the bicycle (arrow) on which Kenneth Eugene Glick, Jefferson township, was riding when he met his death. The car, driven by Paul Joseph Hine, 35, also of Jefferson township, ended up diagonally on the south edge of the road.

The bicycle is shown in its position after being carried 65 feet by the car. The Glick boy was lying on the grass between the bicycle and the edge of the road after the accident.

Boy Rides Out Of Driveway Into Path Of Vehicle

Accident Occurs East Of Jefferson School; Driver Swerves Car

Kenneth Eugene Glick, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe A. Glick, of Jefferson township, was killed at about 4:05 p.m. Monday when he rode his bicycle into the path of an oncoming car in front of his home on the county blacktop road 1¼ miles east of the Jefferson Center school.

The youth was evidently killed instantly after being struck by the westbound car as he rode out of a driveway on the west side of his home. The car, a 1955 Plymouth, was being driven by Paul Hine, 35, also of Jefferson township.

Kenneth Eugene Glick

Hine told Trooper Jim Lewinski of the State Police, who investigated the accident, that the boy came directly out of the driveway and into the road. He said that the yough rode out of the driveway just as his car reached that point in the road.

Carried 65 Feet

Both Hine and a passenger in the car, Mrs. Theresa Swing, a neighbor of the driver, said that they did not see the boy until the car was too close to be stopped. Hine and Mrs. Swing were on their way home from work at the International Harvester Company in Fort Wayne.

According to car skid marks at the scene of the accident, Hine swerved his vehicle to the left to avoid hitting the Glick boy. The skid marks continued to the left side of the road until the car was finally swung around with the front off the road and the rear sitting on the left edge of the berm.

The force of the impact carried the boy and the bicycle 65 feet from the point where the car struck the youth. Both the boy and the bicycle landed about 15 feet west of the car in grass and weeds along the south berm of the road.

Killed Instantly

Witnesses on the scene following the accident said that the youth landed on his knees and arms, face down beside his bicycle but slight-

U. S., Russia Must Do Some Giving At Foreign Minister's Conference

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower told the nation Monday night that both the United States and Russia must do "some giving" at next October's foreign ministers' conference if the "generalities" of Geneva are to be moulded into peaceful settlements.

He said the fall meeting will be the "acid test" of the cold war opponents' "new spirit of reconciliation and cooperation" brought forth at last week's Big Four conference in Switzerland.

The President made clear that the United States is prepared for conciliation on its part.

He said the Big Four meeting made the world realize even more "that the United States will go to any length consistent with our concepts of decency and justice and right to attain peace."

But, he indicated, Russia must demonstrate its willingness to do the same when Secretary of State John Foster Dulles meets with the other Big Four foreign ministers in Geneva next fall.

While the President did not "belittle the obstacles lying ahead," he expressed hope that the "longing of mankind" for peace will continue to pressure world leaders "to advance constructively, not merely to reenact the dreary performances . . . of the past."

That pressure for peace was felt at Geneva, he said.

Danger of Race Suicide

The conference also heightened a "growing realization by all," the President said, "that nuclear warfare, pursued to the ultimate, could be practically race suicide."

Mr. Eisenhower appraised the historic conference in a 15-minute nationwide radio and television broadcast which originated from the White House.

The Big Four scheduled the meeting of their foreign ministers during an amiable week of discussion. They also called for a new meeting Aug. 2, in New York of the United Nations disarmament subcommittee.

The foreign ministers were told to work on German unification, European security, disarmament and other cold war problems.

Mr. Eisenhower was emphatic in his pledge that the United States is striving wholeheartedly for peace.

"For this purpose,' he said, "we will work cooperatively with the Soviets and any other people as long as there is sincerity of purpose and a genuine desire to go ahead."

A Word of Caution

But he cautioned "that we must never be deluded into believing that one week of friendly, even fruitful, negotiation can wholly eliminate a problem arising out of the wide gulf that separates, so far, East and West. A gulf as wide and deep as the difference be-

George States Talks Next Week May 'Clear Air'

To Set Up Conference On The Far East

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga) said today that next week's diplomatic talks with Communist China may help "clear the air" to set up a two-nation foreign ministers conference on the Far East.

He told reporters he believes any such conference of foreign ministers should start as bilateral discussions between the United States and Red China.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland insisted that there should be no discussions involving the "sovereignty" of Nationalist China without the Nationalists present.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was expected to be questioned closely at his afternoon news conference on the talks with Red China beginning in Geneva Aug. 1 as well as on George's proposal that the two nation's foreign ministers meet.

George, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, suggested Sunday night that there should be a foreign ministers meeting with the Chinese Communists within six months, lest there be a new flare-up over Formosa. The United States is committed to defend that island against attack. It is the base of the Chinese Nationalists.

The State Department announced Monday that U. Alexis Johnson, U.S. ambassador to Czechoslovakia, will fly to Geneva this weekend for the Red Chinese talks after a hurried trip here for instructions. Johnson, ace diplomatic trouble shooter, was scheduled to arrive here late today.

The parley will concern itself with the 51 U.S. prisoners held by the Reds as well as discussion of "certain other practical matters" at issue between Washington and Peiping. Neither Washington nor Peiping identified the other issues.

It was this meeting which George said might clear the air for the foreign ministers conference he had proposed.

Congressional foreign policy spokesmen generally agreed with the State Department statement that next week's meeting at Geneva does not involve diplomatic recognition for the Red Chinese regime.

Salk Anti-Polio Inoculation Program Slows; United Press Polls Situation In Nation

(A UNITED PRESS EXTRA)
By UNITED PRESS

The Salk anti-polio inoculation program has slowed down so that only about half the nation's communities have gone ahead with the second shots or plan to do so during the remaining summer weeks.

A shortage of vaccine, the scattering of children on their summer holiday, the vacation absence of doctors, nurses, teachers and clerical help and a reluctance on the part of many parents to go ahead with the second shot in the polio season are the reasons.

The United Press polled its bureaus across the nation to find out what the countrywide situation is. It discovered that, in general, the Western states are tending more to go ahead with completing second shots than other sections of the country.

In New England the situation is simply that the states have not received sufficient vaccine yet for second shots.

In California, on the other hand, 31 of the 58 counties already have completed the second shots. Los Angeles, however, has not yet decided whether it will finish the program.

Second Shots In Texas

Texas is going ahead with second shots. Fort Worth is the only big town there to hold out for fall inoculations. Houston had planned a mass vaccination in the city's ball park but now has decided to distribute the vaccine to 24 clinics instead.

Illinois has called off the entire program until "after Nov. 1 or later." Chicago administered the first shot, then decided not to give the second because of polio incidence in summer. The stocks of vaccine have been put in storage.

In the southeastern states, the majority of communities are going ahead with the program. Georgia reports, however, about 40 per cent absenteeism on second shots. Inoculations in Louisiana dropped from 87,919 the first time to 52,500, due mostly to the difficulty of getting children together.

Michigan will go ahead as soon as it gets sufficient vaccine. The state Legislature voted 2 million dollars to give all children free shots. State Health Commissioner

Socialists Get Debate On British Financial Plan

That Sent Stock Market Into Dive

LONDON UP) — The Labor Party ripped into the Conservative government's sudden anti-inflation crackdown today with a full-scale parliamentary attack and cries of "trouble, gloom and austerity again."

The Socialists demanded and got an immediate House of Commons debate on the government's five-point financial plan that sent the stock market into a multi-million dollar dive.

The program, announced Monday by Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. Butler, cut government spending, ordered banks to tighten up loans and more than doubled down payments on instalment plan buying.

It was a return to a small measure of wartime austerity in an effort to halt sharply rising prices and boost exports.

The government crackdown was in five parts:

1. It directed the Bank of England and through it the nation's commercial banks to achieve "positive and significant reduction" in lending.

2. It announced a drive for special economy in government spending overseas.

3. It asked cities and counties to cut capital expenditure, particularly on public housing.

4. It ordered a reduction in capital outlay in many nationalized industries. Such as railroads and coal mines.

5. It more than doubled (from 15 per cent to 33½) the required down payment on such consumer goods as automobiles, radio and television sets, refrigerators and washing machines.

It meant that to buy a low priced ($1,680) car on the "never never"—the British nickname for the installment plan—the motorists must pay $560 down. It will cost $75 to get home delivery on a 14-inch television set, and $19 on a $56 vacuum cleaner.

The strategy was to counteract inflation and boost exports. It would make the average Britain with a weekly wage of $25.20 think twice about instalment plan buying and leave more items for export.

The stock market began to fall even before Butler spoke, in anticipation of the controls he was to announce, and six leading stocks fell in cash value by more than 196 million dollars. Excited brokers called it "Black Monday."

Senate Action On New Military Reserve Plan

Requiring Compulsory Reserve Training

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate today completed congressional action on a sweeping new military reserve plan requiring compulsory reserve training of youths in the future.

The final senate action—adoption of a conference report adjusting Senate and House differences — was taken by voice vote.

From the Senate, the bill goes to President Eisenhower, who requested a strengthened reserve training plan in January as part of the administration's long-range "new look" military strategy. The plan is designed to build up a large, trained ready reserve to offset reductions in the active ground forces.

The reserve plan finally worked out in Congress falls short of the administration's plan in several important details but follows the general outlines of Mr. Eisenhower's original proposals.

The House gave its final approval to the compromise reserve legislation Monday by a 315-78 vote.

The bill-an Eisenhower legislative "must" for this session of congress—is one of the most far-reaching military manpower plans ever approved by Congress. For the first time in the nation's history, young men would be required to participate in the reserves following active duty.

The bill specifies that all young men entering the military service in the future must serve a total of five years in the active and ready reserve forces. Thus, a draftee would have to serve two years on active duty and then three years in the ready reserve, attending weekly drills and summer training.

Dulles Says Danger Of War Recedes As Result Of Meeting

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the danger of war has receded as a result of the Geneva summit conference.

Dulles told a news conference that the Geneva conference produced good results.

At the head of the list of accomplishments, he said the meeting transformed American and Soviet relations so that they became less brittle, thus making it possible to conduct diplomatic negotiations without fear of igniting a war.

He said this means the danger of an EastAwest war has receded.

Joe E. Lewis Now Resting Comfortably

LAS VEGAS Nev. (UP)—Ailing comedian Joe E. Lewis was resting comfortably today, hospital officials reported.

Lewis was rushed to the hospital in serious condition following his first show at the El Rancho Club Sunday night.

Reuben Lockitch, Las Vegas surgeon attending the comedian said he was much improved and resting comfortably.

Hospital officials at the Rose De Lima Hospital said Lewis had an attack of diabetes.

Lewis was operated on for ulcers in New York last January.

Hospital officials reported he did not undergo surgery.

Other entertainers appearing in Las Vegas filled in for Lewis at the El Rancho and many visited him at the hospital.

Police Recover Items Stolen From Station

2 Boys Admit Entering Place July 20; 1 Says He Defaced Windows

State Police Detective Blain Schang and Chief of Police Lee Gross recovered Monday at the home of a 15-year-old local boy most of the $250 worth of general merchandise which was taken when the Marathon Service Station, West Van Buren street, was broken into the night of July 8.

The officials reported that most of the stolen items were recovered either in the house or the barn at the home of the youth. Some of the automobile accessories he had placed on his car and he said he had sold some of the items.

Schang and Gross said that the boy implicated himself and a 14-year-old youth in the theft in a confession Monday afternoon.

Admits Defacing Windows

The 14-year-old also admitted scratching the front windows of several downtown business establishments in the 100 block of West Van Buren street the night of July 20. The boy said that he walked past the places cutting their windows with a "Tiger Eye" finger ring.

The windows of Williams Food Market, O'Daniel Drug Store, Style Shop, Ginder Hardware, Rexall Drug Store, Melody Gift Shop, Murphy Jewelrey Store, White's Market, Weick's Shoe Store, and the Trading Post were all defaced late last Wednesday night. The Ennis Restaurant, Rhoades Brothers, which were open until midnight, Columbia Theatre, and the Mosher-Hosler Barber Shop did not appear to have had their windows damaged by the vandalism.

Youth Helps "Lock-Up"

The older youth, who lives in the neighborhood of the service station, told the police officials that the boys gained entrance to the establishment through an unlatched window in the men's rest room. The youth said that he had helped close the store that evening and had purposely left the window unlocked and slightly ajar. He told the other boy and the two of them collaborated in entering the station and stealing the merchandise, they said.

The older boy said that the two of them entered the station first at about 3:30 a.m. Thursday. After taking some of the items to his home, they returned for other goods.

The police officials said the boys removed the fender skirts and license plates from the car they used to avoid detection.

The boys will be brought into juvenile court on a charge of breaking and entering in the Marathon Station theft. The youth who defaced the windows will be charged with malicious trespass.

Chicago Puts Old Cars In Museum

CHICAGO —(UP)— A new room for old cars was opened recently at Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry.

Entitled "Cars of Yesteryear," the exhibit presents a selection of antique cars chosen for their representation of the technical development of the automobile.

Each of the 14 cars in the collection is typical of its particular period and represents the mechanical genius of its day. All have been renovated and could be driven under their own power.

Familiar appliances and objects contemporary with the automobile of each period also are displayed, to give visitors a better "time sense." These include a Regina music box, an dison phonograph and a late 19th century wall telephone.

The oldest car in the collection is a three-wheeled Bernardi (1893-94) donated by the Italian government. It has a one-cylinder motor, platinum hot plate ignition and water cooling. Its top speed was 22 miles per hour.

Alton Cochran Is State Commander American Legion

Easily Defeats Angola Man

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Alton Cochran, Crown Point, today reigned as Indiana Commander of the American Legion following his election at the 37th annual convention.

Cochran is the second World War II veteran to hold the post. Cochran, a chemistry teacher, easily defeated World War I veteran Emory Boyd of Angola.

In a three-way contest, George Coyle, Tell City, and Orin Nowlin, Mitchell, defeated Lowell Spencer, Morristown, for two southern vice commanderships.

Lawrence H. Hinds, Indianapolis defeated Dr. Fred Daugherty, Crawfordsville, for national executive committeeman from Indiana.

Elected without opposition were Donald Erhardt, South Bend, and Melvin Hensley, Tipton, for northern vice commanders; John O. Banks, Fairmount, alternate executive committeeman; Barnett Breedlove, Indianapolis, finance officer; E. Dewey Burham, Brookston, chaplin, and Robert McNamara, Bloomington, sergeant-at-arms.

The Legion bypassed action on Governor Craig's plea that it recruit 8,500 volunteers from its membership to help man the state Internal Security Corps.

Three resolutions were adopted which urged President Eisenhower to "state positively" the U.S. will defend the Quemoy and Matsu islands off Formosa, supported the listing by the House un-American Activities Committee of individuals and organizations suspected of subversion, and demanded the U.S. take immediate action to free 44 Americans held by the Chinese Reds.

Closure Work On Key Dam Is Near Completion

System To Bring Mighty Missouri Under Man's Control

YANKTON, S.D. (UP) —Closing of the key dam in a system which will bring the mighty Missouri River under man's "push-button" control moved towards completion today.

The strategic dam, which will be 74 feet high and 35 feet wide at the top, is the downstream link of a contemplated six-dam harness which by the 1960s will harness the Big Muddy.

Closure work, begun by Army engineers, Monday, is expected to be completed by July 31.

Gavins Point is the smallest of the four completed dams. But its job at the downstream end of the chain of dams is the key to successful operation of the system.

Gavins Point will re-regulate the flow of water downstream from Fort Randall, and on to the mouth, past Sioux City, Iowa, Omaha, Neb. St. Joseph Mo. and hundreds of towns in between.

It will be the last point on the river at which water to downstream points will be parceled out as needed in dry years and held back in years of heavy rain and snow.

Three other dams are completed and in operation: Fort Peck in Montana closed in 1938; Garrison in North Dakota, closed in 1953, and Fort Randall, near Pickstown, S.D., closed in 1952.

The huge Oahe Dam near Pierre S.D., is well under way, with closure expected during 1958. The Big Bend Dam between Oahe and Fort Randall is in the planning stage.

First Test Of Geneva Conference Goodwill Comes In Five Weeks; Sterner Test In Fall

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—First test of the Geneva conference goodwill comes in five weeks when the United Nations picks up the disarmament question again. It has been in deadlock.

The Big Four jointly recommended that the subcommittee of the U.N. Disarmament Commission resume in New York on Aug. 2. Beyond that is the sterner test of an October meeting of the foreign ministers in Geneva. The foreign ministers will have all problems of the summit meeting before them.

But disarmament is part of the basic question of security which divides East and West and contributes so much to their mutual doubts. The instructions of the Big Four to their disarmament subcommitee representatives were significant.

They were, specifically, that the French, British, Russian and United States subcommitteemen "take account in their work of the views and proposals advanced by the heads of government at this (Geneva) conference." The language represents an effort to pass on to the subcommittee members the geniality and appearance of mutual trust which was achieved among the Big Four.

Acid Test Ahead

If the Geneva atmosphere is to dispel the foggy suspicions in which the disarmament subcommittee has so far breathed uncomfortably, the August 29 and subsequent meetings should at least give a hint of better times to come. On the other hand, the meeting might prove the contrary.

A 10-year-old record of high hopes and disastrous disappointment is sufficient evidence that any hint of a changed Russian attitude toward the basic problems is of vital importance in judging the real worth of the Big Four meeting.

President Eisenhower returned from Geneva an international hero. But he made no cracks such as British Foreign Minister Harold McMillan's "There ain't gonna be any war." In his first work day at home the President informed congressional leaders that there had been no secret agreements at Geneva. There was no qualification in that assurance.

Mr. Eisenhower has and did, however, qualify all of his expres-

President Feels Reds Are Trying To Use His Friendship

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower was reported today to feel the Soviet leadership is trying to use his World War II friendship with Marshal Georgi Zhukov as a bridge for establishing better relations with the United States.

This was among the personal impressions the President brought back from the Big Four conference at Geneva and relayed to congresthe congressional leaders, one sional leaders Monday at a special White House briefing.

A congressional leader said Mr. Eisenhower also has tagged Nikita Khrushchev, secretary of the Russian Communist Party, as the real boss of the Russian hierarchy even though Nikolai Bulganin holds the job of premier.

In addition, Mr. Eisenhower told he congressional leaders, one source said, that the Russian leaders have indicated they would like to be invited to the United States. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told the congressmen and senators this should not be done.

Khrushchev holds the same job in the Communist Party that Stalin held before he accepted official state posts in the Soviet regime.

Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, the old Bolshevik of the Soviet Union's triumvirate, was said to have played a fairly inactive role when the Big Four delegations were meeting. There have been reports elsewhere that he plans to resign because of age and health.

Zhukov, who is now Soviet defense minister, had an amicable relationship with the President when he was Gen. Eisenhower and in supreme command of Allied forces in Europe.

Cravens Will Steer Clear Of Factionalism In Drive To Be GOP Gubernatorial Nominee

By KEITH L. MARTIN
United Press Staff Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—A Franklin businessman with Statehouse know-how said today he will steer clear of Indiana Republican factionalism in a drive to become GOP nominee for governor next year.

Dan Cravens' non-factional stance sets him apart in a field of 10 or more candidates who are whipping up unusually early interest in a political contest which won't be decided until mid-1956.

Should Cravens win the nomination and election, he would be one of the youngest governors in Indiana history. And politically, it would be a case of GOP young blood telling oldsters that party comes before personalities.

Since 1952, Hoosier Republicans have fairly well split two ways—Governor Craig's faction on one side and the group headed by U.S. Sens. William Jenner and Homer Capehart on the other. Most recently, Capehart is paying more attention to winning renomination and leaves the fighting to Craig and Jenner.

Those factional divisions likewise split most of the gubernatorial possibilities mentioned to succeed Craig.

Lt. Gov. Harold Handley, Secretary of State Crawford Parker, Treasurer John Peters and Former Gov. Ralph Gates are in the Jenner-Capehart camp. Craig's group includes Revenue Commissioner Frank Millis, House Speaker George Diener, Congressman William Bray, GOP State Chairman Alvin Cast and South Bend Mayor John Scott.

But Cravens, one of four men on the bipartisan State Alcoholic Beverage Commission, claims friends on both sides of the fence.

"I refuse to be a factional candidate," Cravens said. "I'm a Republican and I will do the best in my ability for the Republican party."

He said he believes the 1956 Republican state convention will select for governor "a man who has the least political scars from factional fighting."

Tired of Dirty Names

"They're tired of the three top boys calling each other dirty names in the newspapers," Cravens said. "Indiana should have the strongest GOP political organization in the United States. We've got the governor, both U.S. senators, nine of 11 congressmen, all state offices, a majority of the mayors and many of the county offices."

Cravens, like Millis, is surveying GOP leaders on the local level to measure his support. Since early June, he has contacted—directly in person or indirectly through friends—an estimated 500 potential convention delegates.

"The response has been surprisingly good," he said. "I'll continue the survey until I've canvassed at least two-thirds of the potential delegates. Then I'll evaluate the results and if they look favorable, I'll set up a campaign organization and go at it."

He figures it will be about November before he checks two-thirds of approximately 2,200 delegates to previous conventions. Is that early to start campaigning?

"As a general rule, yes," said Cravens, "But some of the aspirants have been running for two or three years."

Cravens is a relative newcomer. Only 34 years old—if elected governor at 35 he would be the youngest since Indiana picked 30-year-old James Ray in 1925—he assumed his first public office at 26 when elected to a four-year term on Franklin's city council.

At 29, five years ago, he became Johnson County Republican chairman, resigning in 1953 when Craig appointed him to the ABC.

Six-foot-three and a husky 210 pounds, Cravens looks like the football player he was in college. He went to Franklin College and Indiana University, served three years in the Air Force, is the father of three daughters, has family interests in two warehouse firms, and is Shell Oil jobber in his home county.

He is a protege of Dr. Harry Murphy, former county and district GOP chairman once aligned with Captehart. Likewise, Craig is a "best friend."

With friends in both factions, then, Cravens moves into the campaign as an "organization man." He likens himself to Murphy.

"Harry raised me in politics," Cravens said. "He's of the old political school which doesn't play partisanship, just good, honest, hard politics."

Backstairs At The White House

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

WASHINGTON (UP) —Backstairs at the White House:

President Eisenhower naturally was happy to get home from Europe with a load of toys for his grandchildren. But is doubtful that he has had an opportunity to observe one of the latest accomplishments of his 7-year-old grandson, David.

David, according to friends who knew the John Eisenhower family well at Ft. Benning, Ga., and more recently at Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., has become quite adept at imitating his grandfather.

Other kids sometimes stage mock "press conferences" with David and question him on the pressing events of their day, just as they see Mr. Eisenhower interogated on television. His youthful brows furrow gravely and he'll strut around the sidewalk conference attending with mock concern to such vital items as "What do you think of your new teacher" or "Give us your opinion of the Long Ranger.'

Much was made, particularly in the European press last week, of protection afforded Mr. Eisenhower as contrasted with the security arrangements for his Russian counterparts.

A number of Europeans, and Americans, too, were critical because the President was given much heavier and more obvious protection than Premier Bulganin. It was pointed out repeatedly that the Russians stole the propaganda ball from the United States by having their principals travel about Geneva in open cars, while Mr. Eisenhower moved in a closed car.

This interpretation was far from true. Bulganin and the Communist Party boss, Nikita Khrushchev, rarely moved without at least six carloads of Russian and Swiss security agents around them. There usually were three or four carloads of American Secret Service agents and Swiss detectives around Mr. Eisenhower.

It was a fact that the Russians moved in open cars long enough to get their pictures distributed all over the world, but then they went back to the bullet-proof closed jobs from Moscow with heavy curtains across the rear windows.

There also was a widely printed report that the gate to the President's villa was guarded around the clock by three or more SS agents. Actually, there was rarely more than one American on the gate, plus a Swiss soldier and a Swiss detective. The Swiss government maintained similar and sometimes heavier protective details at the villas of other principals.

The American security men around the Eisenhower villa felt genuinely sympathetic for the Swiss troops on guard duty. Most of these troops carried 500 rounds of rifle ammunition around their necks, packed in two heavy boxes.

The buffet sessions arranged for the Big Four adjoining their council chamber after each days meeting turned out to be generally brief affairs. They rarely lasted as much as 30 minutes, and sometimes only five or six as far as the principals were concerned.

Final Session Of National Methodist Town And Country

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UP)—The National Methodist Town and Country conference met in its final session today after hearing Presiden Eisenhower lauded for "spiritual leadership" at the recent summit meeting in Geva, Switzerland.

The speaker was Arthur Fleming, director of defense mobilization, who delivered the main address at Saturday nights session at Indiana University.

"We share with the president the responsibility of deciding whether it will be war or peace in our generation," Fleming told the 1,500 delegates.

"President Eisenhower's leadership at Geneva was spiritual leadership at its best."

Russian Farmers Missing Something Skipping Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Indiana agricultural leaders have mixed emotions about the Russian farm delegation skpping Hoosierland on its Midwest tour. They aren't sorry the Soviets didn't visit, but they feel the foreign tourists are missing a lot.

"It makes little difference whether they come to Indiana," said one. "But we have as much to offer as any state in the Midwest, perhaps more."

A state official said Indiana is the "breadbasket of the nation" and for that reason the Russians might well have been routed through Hoosierland. On the other hand, he said, Indiana is the "cradle of democracy" and for that reason it's just as well they missed the state.

Will Miss Tour

"They didn't send the Russians to Indiana because of the sentiment of the people, especially the farm population, which is so very contrary to Russian ideology," one farm spokesman speculated.

All agreed, however, that the Russians will miss seeing some superior farm products in the growing stage

Lt. Gov. Harold W. Handley, who is Indiana commissioner of agriculture, said the Russians missed seeing Purdue University—"one of the greatest agricultural schools in the world, where a great deal of research—technical and in ideas—is going on."

Handley also pointed to a statewide farm management tour being held today as an excellent place for the Soviet farmers to learn our methods.

Soil As Fertile

"Had they been here today," he said, "they could have gone on the tour which attacts about 5,000 farmers, and learned a lot about proper planting seeding and harvesting.

"It seems the lack of and need for management more than anything else handicaps the Russian armers," said Handley. "Their soil probably is as fertile as ours. But our farmer feeds not only himself but 17 other persons as well."

One Hoosier, proud of Indiana's agricultural achievements, said with tongue in cheek he believed there was one basic reason why the Russians were not sent to Hoosierland.

"Our government just didn't want them to see the very best," he said.

Helen Campbell Asks Divorce In Circuit Court

A complaint for divorce was filed in circuit court Saturday by Helen Leona Campbell against Dean E. Campbell.

The complaint specifies that the couple was married April 28, 1953 and separated July 20, 1954. One daughter was born of the marriage.

The plaintiff charges the defendant with cruel and inhuman treatment and asks custody of the child. She also requests an order from the court for money to pay for the divorce action and for support.

The suit is on a change of venue from Huntington County circuit court.

Woman Seeks $10,000 In Personal Injury Suit

A complaint for $10,000 alleging personal injuries was filed in Whitley County circuit court Friday by Anna C. Werling against Norman Kiefer, of Fort Wayne.

The suit is on a change of venue from Allen County Superior Court, where it was filed September of last year.

The plaintiff charges that she sustained certain injuries while riding in an automobile of the defendant August 18, 1953. She claims that she is permanently disabled by the injuries and charges the defendant with negligence in the operation of the vehicle.

One Man Solves Problem Of Paying For His Automobile

By ALFRED LEECH
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO (UP)-Richard Frisbie is one "average man' who seems to have solved the problem of paying for an automobile.

If you're worried about financing your car, you can try his system. All it takes is a steady income and some will power.

Frisbie, a Chicago Daily News staff writer, figures it costs him $15 a week to operate and maintain his present automobile and to accumulate enough for a new one when the times comes for a trade in.

So, he merely sets aside that $15 from his weekly paycheck. Simple?

Frisbie drives a Plymouth. If you wanted to apply the plan to a Cadillac, obviously you'd have to raise the ante.

How It Began

Frisbie began his car funding" plan in June, 1950, when he paid $579 down, including trade-in allowance, on a Plymouth.

Thereafter he funded $20 per week. The $15 a week figure applies only if you already own a car, paid up. Frisbie didn't, but he does now.

By the end of 1950 he had funded $380. But he had spent $359.27, for a balance of $20.73. The expenditures included all gas, oil, grease, repairs, washing, licenses loan payments taxes and insurance.

He paid for the car in 1952 and In 1951 he funded $,24.96 but spent $,139.36. The net loss cut his balance to $6.33.

e paiu for the car in 1952 and continued funding. At the end of the year he had put in $1,076.13 and had paid out $870.56 to increase his balance to $211.90.

How It Grows

In 1953 his expenses totaled $344.16 and his balance zoomed to $857.74. By July, 1954, his balance had mounted to $1,135.38.

In August he traded the car in for a new one. This left him with a deficit of $62.95 at the end of the month, but he was back in the black a couple of months later.

Frisbie belongs to what is often called the "middle income bracket." He lives in a ranch house, neat not gaudy, in a new development in suburban Arlington Heights. He has a wife, four youngsters and a mortgage.

"The only time we ever cheated and took money from the car fund was when we bought the house, in November of 1953," he said. "And we put it back as soon as we could."

zstarted Out Smart

As a youngster, Frisbie appeared on a couple of "Quiz Kid" programs. Now he gets his mental exercise keeping an elaborate household budget with nine separate accounts.

With a fine disregard for suburban modes and social customs, he rides a bicycle from his house to the railroad station, padlocking it to a telephone pole.

This solves the parking problem and lets his wife have the car while he's at work.

"It's cheaper than driving," he said. "So it doesn't hurt the car funding program any.

"And I figure the bike will pay for itself in three years."

Churchill Observes 'Memorable Day'

LONDON (UP) — Sir Winston Churchill quietly observed a memorable anniversary today.

Ten years ago the British people voted him out of the Prime Minister's office.

Churchill was in the midst of a "summit" conference at Potsdam when he learned Britain's voters had given his Conservative Party a historic defeat at the polls.

Little did they dream this defeated man would fight back into office and 10 years later conceive another "summit' conference that doubtless will affect the world for years to come.

The 80-year-old statesman made no comment on either conference today. Despite hundreds of requests for his analysis of the recent Big Four conference in Geneva, he has remained silent on the subject.

His aides said he was too busy working on his big history of the English-speaking world which is to be published soon.

TOKYO (UP)—A violent tropical typhoon swept nearer Iwo Jima today with center winds clocked at 115 miles per hour.

Typhoon Georgia, ninth of the season, was located by U.S. Air Force weather planes early today about 185 miles southeast of the World War II island battleground. It was moving northwest at 18 miles per hour.

MILAN, Italy UP)—Sen. Rodolfo Morandi, deputy secretary general of the Italian Socialist Party, died here today. He was 53. He had been hospitalized for the past week with a heart ailment.

VIENNA, Austria (UP) — One Russian would-be deserter committed suicide to avoid capture Monday, but six others surrendered to a heavily-armed Soviet patrol in upper Austria. The seven Soviet soldiers disappeared from their control point at the Austro-Czech border Saturday and aparently were headed toward the American zone in Austria when caught.

BOGOTA, Colombia (UP)— The National Press Commission took under consideration today the censorship order clamped on El Tiempo, Colombia's leading newspaper.

El Tiempo reported Monday that the government had directed it to submit to prior censorship every article appearing in its editorial page, and any news reports dealing with disturbances of the ublic order.

An executive decree issued in 1949 empowered the government to impose press censorship. Application of the decree has been suspended since 1953, however.

LONDON (UP)—Adm. Sir Percy Noble, head of the British admiralty delegation in Washington during World War II, died Monday. He was 75.

TOKYO (UP)—The two top American Army generals in the Far East flew from Japan to Korea today for a series of conferences with leading U.S. and South Korean officials. They were Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, U.N. and Far East commander, and Gen. I. D. White, newly-named commander of Army Forces Far East and 8th Army.

HEIDELBERG, Germany (UP) —The Army appealed to servicemen and their families today to break open piggy banks and give back pennies.

A shortage of one-cent pieces has developed despite shipment of "several million" pennies overseas during the past year, officials said. The penny is the only coin used in American installations in West Germany. Military scrip is used in all other denominations.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UP)—Puerto Rico Monday observed the third anniversary of the signing of its constitution as a free state, associated with the United States.

OJIYA, Japan (UP)—Construction workers appealed today for help from scientists today to combat daily attacks by swarms of biting horseflies.

As many as 500 horseflies at once have swarmed about individual workers. They are slowing down work on a road through the hills near here to bring suplies to the power development project at Okutadami, northwest of Tokyo.

LISBON, Portual (UP) — The foreign office said today the Portuguese legation in New Delhi, India, would be closed as demanded by the Indian government Monday. The demand was the result of a controversy involving Goa, a Portuguese colony on the Indian west coast.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UP)—Eileen Jean Walda Winchell, only daughter of newspaper columnist Walter Winchell, will marry hotel chain owner Hyatt Von Dehn here Friday night.

Miss Winchell, 28, who appeared in several Broadway stage shows, had a previous marriage annulled. Von Dehn, 40, was divorced three years ago by singer Ginny Simms.

Leaders, Diplomats Pay Final Tribute To Cordell Hull

WASHINGTON (UP)—National leaders and diplomats from every part of the world paid final tribute to former Secretary of State Cordell Hull today at funeral services.

About 2000 persons, including top-ranking diplomats of 50 countries and many present and past government officials, attended the services.

The only close relative at the funeral was Hull's niece, Mrs. Katherine Ethridge, San Antonio, Tex., who had taken care of him since Mrs. Hulls death on March 26, 1954.

Services were at Washington Cathedral with the Very Rev. Francis B. Sayre Jr., dean of the cathedral, officiating. The 83-year-old statesman was buried in the cathedral crypt by the side of his wife, Rose, and near the tomb of former President Woodrow Wilson.

Hull, who rose from a childhood in a Tennessee log cabin to become a judge, representative, senator and secretary of state longer than any man in U.S. history, died Saturday at Bethesda Naval Hospital of a series of strokes which had kept him in ill health for several years.

He served as secretary of state under the late President Roosevelt from March, 1933, until he retired in November, 1954.

Hundreds of persons paid their respects to Hull as his body lay in state in the historic chapel of the Washington Cathedral (Protestant Episcopal). Flags in the capital flew at half-staff at the direction of President Eisenhower.

The Senate Monday unanimously approved a resolution expressing its "profound sorrow and deep regret" at Hull's death.

sions of satisfaction with Big Four achievements. They decided nothing except that certain problems urgently required solution and that their respective foreign ministers and appropriate U.N. bodies now shall undertake to solve them.

Different Ten Years Ago

Just over 10 years ago it was quite different. President Roosevelt had returned from Yalta at which — as at Geneva — the Big Three had issued a joint statement makes for some sad reading today, as for example, the Big Three pledge to assert the liberated peoples of Europe "to solve by democratic means their pressing political and economic problems.' Josef V. Stalin signed that and other commitments upon which his government neither made good nor even acknowledged.

Republican and Democratic congressional leaders alike applauded the Yalta achievements. Former President Hoover, likewise believing that the Russians would keep their word, said the agreement "comprises a strong foundation on which to rebuild the world." The agreement never had a chance by reason of Communist double talk and double dealing.

FDR reported to Congress that the Yalta meeting was a "successful effort by the three leading nations to find a common ground for peace." He also believed the Russians.

Mr. Eisenhower has not committed himself. He hopes for the best and has considerable confidence in his new Russian friends. But he acknowledges that his hopes and confidence must yet be underwritten by events.

Seymour Will Present Civic Record

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP)—Seymour, Ind., will become the second Hoosier community to present its record of civic improvement today to a jury in competition for the annual All-American Cities award.

Brownstown, Ind., was one of 11 cities from around the nation to present its case Monday. The contest is being held in connection with the 61st annual National Conference on Government here. The winners will be announced next January.

Seymour and Brownstown are only 10 miles apart.

LONG BEACH, N.Y. (UP)—Patrolman William Miller assured his fellow officers today that his wife would pay a $2 parking ticket out of her own money.

Miller hung the ticket on the family car himself after his wife parked in a restricted one. She's no different from any other citizen," he said.

Bulganin Hopes Eisenhower Will Run For Reelection

WASHINGTON (UP) — Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin told President Eisenhower in Geneva that he hopes Mr. Eisenhower will run for reelection, it was learned today.

The President related the incident to congressional leaders at the White House Monday. One congressman asked Mr. Eisenhower what his answer was to Bulganin, and the conference was disrupted by laughter. Whether he will run again is one of Mr. Eisenhower's most guarded political secrets.

The President replied that he simply smiled at Bulganin, and that Bulganin smiled back in apparent understanding.

tween individual liberty and regimentation, as wide and deep as the gulf that lies between the concept of man made in the image of his God and the concept of man as a mere instrument of the state.

Mr. Eisenhower also said the American government believes that an effective disarmament system can be evolved only under rigorous reciprocal inspection so that "each side can know the other is carrying out its commitments."

On the German unification problem, he said America held that Germany should be reunited under a government chosen by the Germans themselves and under conditions making for security for both East and West.

Among the concrete results of Geneva, Mr. Eisenhower said, were a "closer unity among the nations of NATO" and a "realization that negotiations can be conducted without propaganda and threats and invective."

No Secret Agreements

The President reiterated his statement that no secret agreements were made at the conference. "Everything is put before you on the record."

Mr. Eisenhower said that during the conference, Dulles specifically brought up "American convictions and beliefs" regarding the future of captive Soviet satellite nations.

"We made crystal clear what America believes about such matters," he said.

On the matter of reciprocal arms inspection, Mr. Eisenhower recalled his own suggestion about reciprocal aerial photographs of U.S. and Russian military installation. He said he advanced this proposal to convince the world of America's sincerity.

It also was his idea that this initial inspection would be developed into a broader plan which would eventually work into "an effective, durable disarmament system."

Had Support of Congress

Mr. Eisenhower said he and Dulles went to Geneva "resolved to represent as accurately as we could the aspirations of the American people for peace and the principles upon which this country believes peace should be based."

"In this task," he said, "we have the bi-partisan, indeed almost the unanimous support of the Congress. This fact greatly strengthened our hand throughout the negotiations. Our grateful thanks go out to all your senators and your congressmen in the U.S. Congress."

He said he and Dulles also received during the past weeks "thousands of telegrams of encouragement and support."

"All of these, combined, served to make us feel that possibly we were faithfully representing the views that you would have us represent," he said.

South Bend's Daylight Saving Experiment Ends

SOUTH BEND (UP)—South Bend's experiment with year-round Daylight Saving Time was ended today. It didn't work.

The City Council voted Monday night by a 7 to 1 majority to witch back next November to Central Standard Time.

The decision represented an abrupt change in public sentiment. Last fall, surveys showed the majority of city dwellers wanted to stay on "fast' time from one end of the calendar to the other.

But this summer a movement developed to restore CST, even though most cities and towns in the entire northeast quarter of Indiana had voted for year-round "fast' time.

The council's decision is, in effect, a compromise. The city will be on DST seven months of the year, April through October, instead of five months as observed by most other communities changing time during summer months.

What's New In Washington

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Satff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — What's new in Washington:

The transit strike in the nation's capital has posed some knotty problems. Least of which you would think of concerns the retail gas dealers. There are more cars on the strret than anybody can remember. But Horace Walker, executive director of the Metropolitan Gas Dealers Association, is yelling "murder." Since the trolley and bus men walked away, he claims that gas men are showing a loss of between eight and 10 thousand gallons a day.

Walker claims that commonly a man will leave his car with the lady of the house. She will bounce around all day, using a lot of gas. Pop will pick up four neighbors, drive a few miles and park. Then he will do a turnabout, drive home and while not using much of the things gas dealers love to sell.

"We lose gas for two and a half other cars," Walker said, with considerable logic, "when the dad of the house drives and parks."

While President Eisenhower is out of town with his staff at the Summit in Geneva, Blair House, the official residence of wheel visitors from all over, is not idle. According to Victoria Geaney, who handles all daily arrangements, she has as much company as ever.

Meanwhile, Blair workmen are busy with paint brushes and such fixing up for what likely will happen. Our leaders must be like other travelers. "Next time you get to Washington, look me up and be my guest." That's the line. Mrs. Geaney has had long experience, and she never is left unprepared.

The rumor that the famed Air Force aerial square dance team has been broken up, isn't so. They will appear around Labor Day at the Army Aviation Center at Camp Rucker, Ala. Two 813 Bell-helicopters will be "dressed like men," with pants flying underneath. Two "lady" 'cops will wear skirts, and between the four they will "dozey do, with a big foot up and a little foot down,' like they are billed to do.

Until now I thought it was a mystery as to which special F.B.I. agent did in John Dillinger, the Indiana hood. That was on July 22, 1934. Melvin Purvis headed the squad which shot down the gangster after a so-called "lady in red" put the finger on him. There were five slugs. According to my informant at the FBI, the man who fired the fatal bullet was Inspector Samuel P. Cowley, who later was killed at East Barrington, Ill., by gansgster Baby Face Nelson.

Dr. Albert Heustis said "we are not afraid of the vaccine and apparently Michigan parents are not afraid of it either."

New York has not received enough vaccine to go ahead. In New Jersey many communities have postponed the program until after the polio season.

"Wait and See" Attitude

In Indiana most towns are adopting a "wait and see" policy. Of 30 counties offered vaccine for the second round, 10 turned it down because of children being on vacation.

In Nebraska, Dr. Edwin Lyman, Omaha health director, is making no plans until more vaccine is received. "Residents are confused and disgusted with the way the vaccine situation has been handled," he said.

In Iowa only two counties have completed second shots. Des Moines health groups recommended postponement until fall.

North and South Dakota are going ahead. Most communities in Pennsylvania will give second shots as soon as they get vaccine.

But in Minnesota, Tennessee, Maryland, Delaware and most of Ohio the program will not be resumed until schools reopen. St. Louis is another of the big cities which will wait until autumn.

The Washington, D.C., Medical Advisory Committee recommended against giving shots in the polio season. Also officials in the capital felt they could roundup only about half the children.

Bryant Bowles Found Innocent

DOVER, Del. (UP) — Bryant Bowles, former head of the National Association for the Advancement of White People, was found innocent Monday of charges of violating the Delaware school laws in connection with the Milford integration boycott following the U.S. Supreme Court decision last year.

Veteran court observers said the decision, in effect, paves the way for Bowles to continue his campaign to keep Negro children from the white schools in Milford. Bowles, smiling after hearing the verdict, declined to comment.

Airliner Crash Causes Rumors

CHICAGO (UP) — A coroner's investigation was launched today into rumors that the bodies of 22 persons killed in an airliner crash were looted.

Coroner Walter J. McCarron said he had heard "talk" that the bodies were robbed following Chicago's worst air crash at Midway Field July 17.

Some of the victims were found without any money at all among their personal effects, McCarron said. The total of money found on the 22 bodies reached $251.

"I believe the looters were private citizens who had masqueraded as policemen by showing phony badges, cards, and stars," McCarron said.

Last Member Of Teenage Gang Is Captured

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UP)—Clarence Stewart Cook, the last member of a teenage gang charged with stealing $82,000 from the basement hiding place of a bakery operator, was captured near here Monday night.

Cook's sister, Mrs. Marie Emerick of Dayton, persuaded the 19-year-old to surrender, and turn over $10,920 of the loot.

Cook's capture completed the roundup of the gang, which included Frederick Carl Frowein, 16, son of Fred Frowein, the robbery victim.

Cook has been staying at the farm of his brother, Shelby Cook, at Holton, Ind. He told his brother he was on a vacation from the Frigidaire Co. at Dayton.

The fugitive told police he spent $1,925 of the money for a 1953 model car.

He said he hid out at his brother's farm because he "was nervous over the money hidden in my car trunk."

Cook said he and Thomas Carmichael of Dayton left for a weekend trip to Indiana last Thursday. He also said Carmichael has a suitcase full of money which Carmichael told him he and two other youths had taken from the Frowein basement.

He said the two returned to Dayton, and while watching a movie, he left the theater to return to his brother's home.

Dayton police, meanwhile questioned 11 other juveniles, including Dwayne Allen Link, 19, who surrendered Monday.

George McDavitt Is Discharged

WASHINGTON (UP)— George B. McDavitt, controversial head of the Small Business Administration's security office, has been fired, a spokesman for the agency said today.

The spokesman said McDavitt was discharged "for telling the employes of his section that the section was going to be abolished."

McDavitt's security practices have been under investigation by a Senate civil service subcommittee. He has been accused of mis management of the governments security program in his agency.

But the agency spokesman said that Senate testimony about McDavitt was not "given as a reason' for his discharge.

Small Business Administrator Wendell B. Barnes immediately appointed Edwin Holland, director of personnel, as acting director of the agency's security division.

Senate hearings on McDavitt featured testimony by a former employe, Clarence E. Clarke, that McDavitt ran his offiice in a "communistic" manner and arbitrarily fired "scores of employes . . . for unjust cause."

McDavitt conceded at the hearings that he sponsored the admission to this country of a German girl whom he met while working as a displaced persons official overseas. One witness said McDavitt's wife, now divorced from him, once showed up with two black eyes after objecting to McDavitt's "liaison" with the German girl.

Local Fans To See Cubs-Giants Game In Chicago Wednesday

One hundred fifty persons have registered with playground director Roy Kilby to attend the Chicago Cubs-New York Giants double-header Wednesday.

One hundred twenty-five boys will leave the school building at 8 a.m., be driven to Chicago by Kiwanians and Rotarians in 25 cars, see the two major league baseball games, and return to Columbia City about 11 p.m.

Each of the boys going is a member of one of the baseball teams incorporated in the summer playground system here, Mr. Kilby said.

Spending money and money for meals are the only expenses the boys will have, Mr. Kilby explained.

Quick Action

OAKLAND, Calif. (UP)—Police wasted litle time Monday in arresting William D. Jones for the $2700 robbery of an Oakland bank.

They picked Jones up as he was making his monthly report to a probation officer and his partner, Orsey Washington, waited outside in an automobile with the stolen money.

Investigation Continues On Talbott Case

Johnson Testifies At Public Hearing

WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate investigators were told today that Att. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr., knew that Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott's private firm sought a business deal with a defense contractor.

Air Force General Counsel John A. Johnson testified at a public hearing of the Senate investigating subcommittee that Brownell "expressed no disagreement" with the idea that Talbott was acting legally in pursuing the deal. But he said Brownell suggested delaying action on the deal.

President Eisenhower was being brought up to date on his air secretary's outside business activities. ga8ng5 House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President received additional briefings on the subject from his staff today. These briefings supplemented a preliminary report given the President Monday.

Hagerty said "no comment" when asked about Mr. Eisenhower's reactions. He also said he knows of no appointment for Talbott at the White House.

Meanwhile, Talbott's attorney said the Air Force secretary wants to return for more testimony before the subcommittee, which is conducting an inquiry into his activities on behalf of Paul B. Mulligan & Co., a management engineering firm in which he is a partner.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) said the group would meet later today to consider which witnesses to call in its investigation.

Propriety Under Study

The subcommittee is investigating the propriety of Talbott's continued association with the Mulligan firm, which has been employed by a number of big defense contractors as well as other large corporations.

Previous testimony showed that Talbott has received $132,032 in profits from the firm since he became Air Force secretary. The subcommittee also has obtained copies of letters which Talbott wrote from his Pentagon office on Air Force stationery seeking to drum up business for the firm.

Johnson was called to the witness stand today for questioning about Talbott's efforts to land a contract for the Mulligan firm with Radio Corporation of America, a major defense contractor.

The senators specifically wanted to know if Johnson, as government-salaried official lawyer for the Air Force, had acted as Talbott's private atorney in talks with RCA officials who questioned the propriety of a defense contractor doing business with Talbott's firm.

Sees No Conflict

Johnson told the subcommittee he did not act as Talbott's private attorney in the RCA contract made last January. He said he simply prepared a memorandum for Talbott stating that Talbott's membership in the Mulligan firm did not violate the conflict-of-interest laws.

Johnson said that Loftus E. Becker, a Washington attorney for RCA, informed him last Jan. 5 that RCA would not be satisfied with this, but wanted approval from the attorney general.

The tall, lean, youngish-looking general counsel said Talbott asked him to discuss the question with Brownell.

Johnson said he prepared "in draft form a memorandum to secretary Talbott stating the conclusion that the secretary's retention of a 50 per cent interest in Paul B. Mulligan & Co. and his sharing of the firm's profits during his tenure of office...violated no provision of law."

He said he went to see Brownell last Jan. 6.

"I showed him my draft memorandum to the secretary," Johnson said in a prepared statement. "He expressed no disagreement with the legal conclusion stated in the memorandum.

"However, the attorney general said that he would like to take the matter under consideration. The attorney general said that I could expect to hear from him in a day or two and that in the meantime I should take no further action in the matter."

But Johnson said he never heard from Brownell again about the RCA deal.

Johnson said that when Talbott returned to town Jan. 8, he told the secretary about his conference with Brownell.

Abandon RCA Contract

"I believe that the secretary told me at that time that there would be no contract between Paul B. Mulligan & Co. and RCA," Johnson said. "My diary contains an entry under date of Jan. 11, 1955, that secretary Talbott told me to take no further action in the matter."

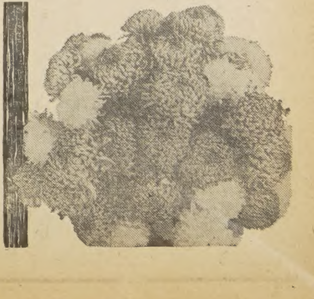

Figures Will Tell You Yankees Are League Leaders As They Open Three-Game Series

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

The figures will tell you that the Yankees are the league-leaders as they open their critical three-game series with the runner-up White Sox in New York tonight, but you never could tell it from the faces of rival skippers Casey Stengel and Marty Marion.

Stengel's seamy "phyz" wore a worried frown after a meeting with Yankee officials on what to do about their shaky pitching staff.

Marion, whose surging Sox have won 10 out of 14 games since the All-Star game, sported a relaxed grin as he sized up his own steady pitching and drawled, "Road trips don't scare me."

Although the Yankees go into tonight's fray at Yankee Stadium with a "one game" lead, the White Sox could take over the lead by three percentage points by a victory. To get that big win, Marion was sending out young righthander Dick Donovan (13-3), who has beaten the Yanks three times this year without a loss. Stengel was countering with southpaw Tommy Byrne (8-2), the one-time "wild man" who has not beaten the Sox this year and has lost to them once.

Seven losses in the last nine games has the Yankee pitching staff staggering and has Stengel talking to himself.

"Pitchers Ain't Pitchin . . ."

"The pitchers ain't pitchin', the hitters ain't hittin , and they don't look like they're ever gonna, either." Casey grumbled as he headed into a crisis meeting with George Weiss, the Yankee general manager.

The Stengel-Weiss talks centered around pitching, of course, since the staff's top winners, Bob Turley and Whitey Ford, suddenly can't put the cat out and relievers Jim Konstanty and Tom Morgan haven't helped much. Top prospect on the farms is Don Larsen, the former Baltimore Oriole who has a 10-2 mark at Denver in the American Association. Deadline for calling up players is Aug. 1, so the Yankee brass has to make up its mind quickly.

The lanky Marion, on the other hand, doesn't seem a bit perturbed at the idea of starting a 20 game road trip because "we do just about as well on the road as we do at home.' The figures say Marty is right — at home the Sox have won 33, lost 21, percentage .611; away, they have won 24, lost 16, percentage .600.

"Sure this trip is important," said Marion. "And the Yankees usually are murder at home. I just hope we can stay with them. Well, we'll just go on playing them one at a time, same as we've been doing."

While the Yankees and White Sox are clawing each other, the Cleveland Indians—also only one game out — could move in front by demolishing Boston in a series starting tonight. Or Boston, only four games out, could move up into contention.

Peaceful National League

In contrast to the hectic battle in the American League, things are peaceful in the National League as the pacemaking Dodgers embark on their longest western swing of the season, 14 games. Having just turned back a threat from runner - up Milwaukee by splitting a four-game series with the Braves in Brooklyn, the Dodgers remain 13½ games ahead.

Moreover, the ailing Dodger pitching staff shows signs of returning health. Sore-armed Carl Erskine is ready again; Russ Meyer comes off the disabled list Thursday; and Johnny Podres expects to be ready by weekend. Brooklyn opens its tour tonight at Cincinnati with big Don Newcombe the likely starter in search of his 17th victory.

If Newk gets it, he'll be just four days behind the pace set by Dizzy Dean in 1934, when he won 30 games.

Milwaukee opens a home stand with a night game against Philadelphia and runs smack into another ace shooting for his 17th victory—Robin Roberts. Roberts has lost seven games, Newcombe only one.

Lifetime of Savings gone. They knew no one to protect their home against nature's devastating force.

Slugger Poirier Happy At Having Gone 10 Rounds

NEW YORK (UP) — Slugger Gene Poirier was happy today at having gone 10 rounds for the first time, although he has had four television fights and will have another on Aug. 22.

Welterweight Poirier of Niagara Falls, N.Y., paced himself carefully Monday night for the first time and won a unanimous 10-round decision over Danny Jo ra belter, who had succumbed to "It's a great thing to know I bout at St. Nicholas Arena.

can go 10 rounds,' said the Niaga- Perez of New York in their TV the pace and the heat in his last previous bout and was knocked out by Oscar Pita of Argentina at St. Nick's on June 20.

It was his 18th victory in 22 fights. He lost but twice.

Each of the 23-year-old principals weighed 147 pounds Monday night, but the harder - punching Poirier finished the stronger in their excellent bout before 850 fans. Perez, a substitute opponent and a 21 underdog, gave Gene a hard fight.

Because of his victory, Poirier will meet Chris Christensen of Denmark at St. Nicks on Aug. 22. Christensen was originally slated to fight Gene Monday night, but the New York Boxing Commission refused to permit Chris to sign for the bout after his manager was suspended. Now he has a new manager.

Players, Coaches Named To Football Hall Of Fame

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UP)—Sixteen former college football players and five coaches were enshrined in the sport's Hall of Fame today, raising the number thus honored to 127.

Leading the way in this year's balloting, the third since the Hall of Fame was founded at Rutgers University in 1949, were Cliff Battles, West Virginia Wesleyan quarterback, 1929-31; Beattie Feathers, University of Tennessee back, 1931-33; Davey O'Brien, Texas Christian quarterback, 1936-38 and coaches Bernie Bierman, Minnesota, Montana, Tulane and Mississippi and Wallace Wade, Vanderbilt, Alabama and Duke.

Election to the Hall is made on a basis of All-America teams, plus the recommendations of coaches, athletic directors, players, sports writers and other individuals connected with the sport. Players are eligible if they have been out of college for 10 years, while coaches are considered only if they have been retired for three years.

The other players named were Paul Des Jardien, University of Chicago center, 1913-14; A. R. (Buck) Flowers, Georgia Tech halfback, 1918-20; Clinton Frank, Yale quarterback, 1935-37; Robert Grayson, Stanford fullback, 1933-35; John Kilpatrick, Yale end, 1908-10; Leroy Mercer, Pennsylvania fullback, 1010-12; Elmer Oli- Clarence (Ace) Parker, Duke back, 934-36; David Shreiner, Wisconsin end, 1940-42; Frederick Singleton, Alabama tackle, 1928-30; Harry Smith, Southern California guard, 1937-39; Dr. Clarence Spears Dartmouth guard 1,916-17; and Alex Wojciechowicz, Fordham center, 1936-37.

Coaches joining Bierman and Wade were Matty Bell, Southern Methodist, Haskell College, Carroll College, Texas Cnristian and Texas A&M, E.N. Robinson, Brown and George E. Little, Ohio State, Cincinnati Miami (Ohio), Michigan and Wisconsin.

Diringer, Smith Lead In Opener

CHICAGO (UP)—Veteran Carol Diringer, who has tried without success to win here for 10 years, and youthful Wiffi Smith led the field into the opening round of match play today in the Women's Western Amateur Golf Tournament.

Miss Diringer, a graceful, tall lass from Tiffin, Ohio, and the freckle - faced 18-year-0ld Miss Smith earned medalist honors Monday with even par 75s.

Miss Diringer's opponent today was Anne Richardson, Columbus, Ohio, who qualified with an 81 while Miss Smith took on Meriam Bailey, Evanston, Ill., who also shot an 81.

Coach Of Year

CHICAGO (UP) — Taylor Sanford, coach of NCAA baseball champion Wake Forest, has been chosen "Coach of the Year" by the American Association of College Baseball Coaches. Charles Maher of Western Michigan College was runnerup in the balloting.

Man, Facing Risk Of Gangrene, Says Faith Will Heal Him

HOBART, Okla. (UP) — A 28-year-old laborer, facing the risk of getting gangrene in a broken leg, said today he believes faith will heal his wounds without the aid of a doctor.

Relatives took William Carl Holman home Monday from a hospital room where he was being treated for a compound fracture of his leg. Holman was hit by an automobile Sunday night while he was on a farm tractor.

Dr. Richard Shriner said Holman's "leg and his life are both in danger' and warned him that "if gangrene sets in, that will be the end."

But Holman, who with his relatives belongs to the "Church of the First Born," told a reporter, "I'll be back to work in a few days."

"He'll be cured by faith. We believe in miracles," added his mother, Mrs. Lucius Holman, who refused to let the reporter take his picture.

The leg was placed in a cast before Holman's family took him from Hobart General Hospital Monday, but no surgery had been performed where the broken bone extended through the skin.

"There is a slim chance the leg will heal, anyway, but it is slim,' Dr. Shriner said.

Mrs. Holman said her son, himself, had requested he be taken from the hospital.

"He's 28-years old. He earns his own money and he is entitled to a mind of his own,' she said. "And of course, we'd rather he would be home."

A similar case occurred in Dallas Monday when the parents of 5-year-old Van Walter Butenschoen, who was hit by a car, at first refused to take him to a doctor because they don't believe in medical treatment. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Butenschoen, who are Christian Scientists, changed their minds later and the doctor discovered that his left leg was broken between the hip and the knee.

Tony Trabert Draws First-Round Bye

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (UP) — Defending champion Eddie Moylan, seeded second behind Wimbledon champion Tony Trabert, held the center of the stage in the first round of the Meadow Club Invitation tennis tournament today as Trabert drew a first-round bye.

The 31-year-old Moylan of Trenton, N.J., ranked seventh nationally, upset Trabert in the semi-final round en route to a surprise victory. Matched against Van Renssalear in today's first round, he proved he was sharp for his title defense by capturing the New York state championship Monday.

Trabert, of Cincinnati, Ohio, won the Pennsylvania state title on Saturday, adding it to his recent triumphs in the Wimbledon and U.S. National Clay Courts championships. He is expected to open his quest for the title here on Wednesday.

Oriole Roster Change

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP) — The last-place Baltimore Orioles made their "umpteenth" roster change of the season Monday by picking up sore-armed pitcher Ted Gray, a free agent, and placing ailing first-baseman Eddie Waitkus on the waiver list. Gray, who spent most of his eight years in the majors with the Detroit Tigers, saw brief service with the Chicago White Sox, Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees this season.

Boston Red Sox Beat Milwaukee Braves In Exhibition Game

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (UP) — This little lakeside town where a Civil War general is said to have founded the game of baseball settled back into its quiet way of life today, leaving the normal stream of tourists to examine six shiny new placques in baseball's Hall of Fame.

The placques honor the six all-time stars of the diamond who were officially inducted into the Hall in Monday's colorful ceremonies—Joe DiMaggio, Ted Lyons, Dazzy Vance, Gabby Hartnett, Frank (Home Run) Baker, and Ray Schalk.

All six of the new members were on hand for the ceremonies, as well as baseball's highest officials.

At their conclusion, the annual major-league exhibition game was played at the field named for Gen. Abner Doubleday with the Boston Red Sox beating the Milwaukee Braves, 4-2, as Ted Williams and Ted Lepcio hit homers to pace Boston's attack. Dick Brodowski pitched the full nine innings for Boston, allowing nine hits.

DiMaggio, at 40 the youngest man ever inducted into the Hall and therefore the most familiar to present-day fans, stole the show at the induction ceremonies with his brief speech.

The former star centerfielder of the New York Yankees concluded: "This is a happy day for me. The last chapter has been written. I can now close the book."

Lyons, who won 260 games in his 21 years as a Chicago White Sox pitcher, said, "This is the greatest thing that can happen to a ball player after he ends his career."

Haymes Credits Wife For Her Encouragement

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Crooner Dick Haymes said today he never could have won his long fight against the governments attempt to deport him to his native Argentina without the help of his wife, actress Rita Hayworth.

"She gave me encouragement all the way," the singer said. "If it hadn't been for her, I would never have made it. After all, I'm human."

Haymes said he felt a "tremendous relief" after being notified Monday the government had decided not to appeal a district court ruling that he was not deportable.

"I am eternally grateful to the government for taking this attitude," Haymes said. "I'm not mad at anybody."

Haymes has formed an independent production company and plans to produce a film next fall which may star Miss Hayworth if she wins a suit to break a contract with Columbia Pictures.

Crampton Named Head Line Coach At Camp Lejeune

2nd Lieut. Richard Crampton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Crampton, Sr., is serving as head line coach of the 8th Tank Battalion football team at Camp Lejeune N.C.

About 80 men are expected to try out for the team, which had its first practice Monday. The squad will be cut to 33 members, who will play a nine-game schedule, with the first game planned for Sept. 10.

Crampton, a 1949 graduate of Columbia City high school, was graduated from Wabash College in 1953. He played football while in high school and also at Wabash.

Sandy Amoros Has Medical Examination

BROOKLYN (UP)—Left fielder Sandy Amoros of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who has been unable to start since July 15 because of an aching back, was undergoing medical examination today in Long Island College Hospital.

A Dodger spokesman said it was highly doubtful that Amoros would be able to play with the Dodgers at all during the 14-game western swing opening tonight in Cincinnati.

The 23-year-old left-handed hitter from Cuba has been bothered by an acute strain of the lower back and Dr. Eugene Zorn, club physician, said X-rays will be taken at the hospital to determine the exact nature of the injury. It was feared that a sciatic condition may have developed.

Boats To Patrol State's Waters

For the first time in its history, the enforcement division of the Indiana Department of Conservation has added a corps of amphibious officers, in an effort to reduce loss of life and property damage on Indiana's lakes.

Eight aluminum outboard motor boats have been placed in operation by the division in the northern Indiana lake country, according to Harley G. Hook, conservation director, who said that the boats will be assigned to three conservation officer posts to be stationed in areas reporting difficulty with reckless motor boat operators and other fish and game law violators. Hook said that violations of motor boat laws were one of the officers' biggest problems.

State conservation officer John Washburn said today that he now has one of the boats and that lakes in this area will be patrolled.

No "sea-wolf pack" operation, the boats will be identified with the name of the Department and the enforcement division. Each boat will be manned by one or two officers who will have a "walkie-talkie" connection with the shore.

Hook said he believes that the boats, which have trailers for easy moving, will prove a great aid to enforcing all fish and game laws in the lake region. At the same time he added that all flat-bottomed river boats now owned by the enforcement division will be moved to the southern part of the state for control of the river areas there.

Fort Wayne Site Of 1956 Convention Of Firemen's Association

EVANSVILLE (UP)—The Indiana Firemen's Association picked Fort Wayne for its 1956 convention at the closing session of its 38th annual convention here during the weekend.

Joe Casa, South Bend, was elected president; Karl Bastin of Gas City and Orville Weber of vansville, vice presidents; Harry Fulmer, Indianapolis, treasurer, and the Rev. Stanley Moneymaker, Indianapolis, chaplain. Harvey Hacker, Columbus, and Arnold Phillips and Harry Mayer, Indianapolis, were elected directors.

Want More Eggs? Fan The Chickens!

LAFAYETTE, Ind. UP — Want your hens to lay more eggs? Then put an electric fan in the poultry house.

That was the advice today of agricultural engineers and poultrymen at Purdue University, who said fan ventilation can insure "drier litter with decreased disease, reduced egg soilage and loss of fertility value of manure through nitrogen loss in ammonia form."

Believe Chrysler, CIO-UAW Near Agreement Today

DETROIT (UP)—Chrysler Corp. and the CIO United Auto Workers were believed near agreement today on a pact similar to the precedent-setting contracts obtained by the union from Ford and General Motors.

The UAW resumed negotiations with Chrysler Monday after a week's recess which the union requested to study the company's first offer in the talks.

Neither side would reveal the contents of the offer but it was believed to resemble closely pacts granted by Ford and GM which guaranteed workers 26 weeks of pay during layoff periods.

The union presented its reply to the company offer at the meeting Monday but neither side would say what the answer was. The union indicated, however, that the offer was basically acceptable and only minor difference still had to be ironed out.

More Above Normal Temperatures For Next Five Days

By UNITED PRESS

The weatherman continued on the same track today and saw more sultry above normal temperatures in the outlook for Indiana during the next five days.

Temperatures will average about five degrees above normal. Normal maximums are in the upper 80s north to near 90 south. Normal minimums are in the low 60s north to the upper 60s south.

The outlook called for only minor temperature changes in the period. And thundershowers were most likely about Friday with local amounts around a half inch.

Meanwhile, the Weather Bureau forecast sultry highs ranging from 0 to 95 today and Wednesday. Lows tonight will range from 70 to 75.

Widely scattered afternoon or evening thundershowers were on tap for the central zones.

Highs Monday ranged from 92 at Evansville to 85 at South Bend. Lows early today ranged from 71 at Fort Wayne to 75 at Evansville.

Rufus O. Shively Dies At His Home In Fort Wayne

Memorial Rites To Be Held Wednesday

Rufus O. Shively, 71, died Monday at his home at 2028 Ida Ave., Fort Wayne, of coronary thrombosis. He had been in failing health for two years. He was the father of Mrs. Wayne Bechtel of Columbia township and Ralph Shively of Smith township. One other son, Russell Shively of Kosciusko county survives, also a sister, Mrs. Raymond Sponseller, Mentone, and a brother, Lewis Shively, patient in a hospital at Rochester.

Mr. Shively was a retired farmer. He was born in Kosciusko county where he resided until he moved to Fort Wayne in 1929.

Friends will be received at the residence in Fort Wayne until 11 o'clock Wednesday. The body will then be returned to the Krider Funeral Home in Churubusco where Rev. Herbert LePage of the Evangelical United Brethren church at Collins, will officiate at funeral services at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in Stoney Point cemetery in Kosciusko county.

John J. Moore Of This City Dies Monday Afternoon

Suffers Second Stroke Of Paraylsis

John Joseph Moore, 72, of 523 North Elm street, known to his friends as Jack, died at 3:30 Monday afternoon at his home. He was stricken with paralysis May 5 and on June 7 suffered a second stroke.

Mr. Moore had resided in this city since 1950. He was a retited employe of the General Electric Company and a member of the Loyal Order of Moose, in this city. His wife, Mrs. Christine H. Moore is his only survivor.

Friends will be received at the J. A. DeMoney and Son Funeral Home after 7:30 tonight. The Moose Order will hold twilight services at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening at the mortuary, where funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday. Commital services will be held in Greenhill cemetery.

Glick

ly closer to the edge of the road. They said that he didn't appear to be alive at that time.

The Glick boy was taken to Whitley County Hospital in a J.A. DeMoney and Son ambulance where he was pronounced dead on arrival. Dr. J. R. Roth, county coroner, attribued death to a fractured skull, cerebral hemorrhage, and a crushed chest.

According to witnesses at the scene of the accident, the boy often rode his bicycle out of the driveway to the west of his home then down the road to the east and into another driveway leading to a garage on the east side of the house. By cutting past the garage he could complete a circle around the house and yard.

Funeral Thursday

The witnesses said that the youth's father, Roscoe Glick, was planning a trip later to Roanoke, where he worked at the Coil Engineering Company. The father was reported to have planned to take the boy with him and that Kenneth had told him that he wanted to "take just one more time around." He wasn't able to complete the trip.

Kenneth Glick was born December 16, 1944, the son of Roscoe A. Glick and Evelyn Gladys Fairchild Glick in Jefferson township. He had lived his entire life at the family home. He attended Sunday School at Saturn Christian Church and was enrolled last year in "The Opportunity School" in Columbia City.

Survivors, beside his parents, include two brothers, Roscoe Allen and Alfred Dean Glick, both at home; one sister, Phyliss Ann Glick, also at home; and four stepsisters, Mrs. Regina Dixon, and Mrs. Margaret Jones, both of Youngstown, Ohio; Mrs. Betty Sue Davis, Markle; and Mrs. Carolyn Rose Golding, Fort Wayne.

The body was taken to J. A. DeMoney and Son Funeral Home where friends may call after 7:30 p.m. today. Funeral services will be held at the funeral home at 10 a.m. Thursday. Burial will be in the Jefferson Chapel (Sand Bank) Cemetery in Jefferson township.

Enough Vaccine Available For Second Round

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Indiana's 92 counties all had the word today that there's enough Salk vaccine available now to finish the second-round polio immunization program.

The State Health Board sent night letters to local health groups Monday, informing them they could have vaccine anytime they pick it up. Eli Lilly & Co. made 120,000 doses available when it delivered the supply to the health board Monday afternoon.

But even before the letters arrived, the state's second largest county turned thumbs down on finishing the inoculation program now. The Lake County Medical Society decided to wait until school resumes in September before 22,000 first and second graders get their second shots.

Another large county, Vanderburgh, advised the state it expects to pick up its vaccine this week and begin inoculations the week of Aug. 8.

Some counties are expected to follow Lake's lead. Others already have started the second-round shots with "leftover" vaccine from the first round. The "leftover" supply, 16,000 units, was released last week by the State Health Board and distributed to about 20 of the state's smallest counties.

Puppet Show Here Old Settlers Day Should Be Good

The tremendous musical entertainment program of the "Old Settler's - American Legion Celebration" at Columbia City on August 11-12-13, will be highlighted with the most unusual perfection in puppetry that has ever been presented in the middle west.

"Fernando and Fair" revolutionize all entertainment in puppeteering with their unique style and delivery. It is a thoroughly modern adaptation with some of the figures as tall as three feet constructed solely for outdoor presentation. Irreproachable material, exquisite costuming and a most suave manner make for sheer delight from audiences of young and old.

A bit of audience participation in which folks are actually taught how to operate puppets offers a world of humor. With dolls representating Jimmy Durante, their "Two Sailors On Shore Leave," the Juggling Clown and others, this "Comedy on Strings" is sure to be a crowd-pleaser.

Along with the host of other feature attractions this 1955 "Cavalcade of Stars," produced again by Dave Malcolm, promises to be one of the finest in a long series of outstanding shows.

It Does Seem Increasingly Probable That Soviet Russia Is Now Under Committee Rule

It seems increasingly probable, after the Geneva conference, that Soviet Russia is now under committee rule.

It seems probable also that the three men who led the Soviet delegation to the Big Four meeting are the three top men on the committee.

They are Nikita S. Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party; Nikolai A. Bulganin, Prime Minister and Vyacheslav M. Molotov, foreign minister.

These three men evidently were able to make any necessary policy decisions without referring back to Moscow.

As regards the frequent reports of a "power struggle" in the Kremlin, if Khrushchev, Bulganin and Molotov did not get along well together in Geneva, they put on a convincing act.

Comments Differ Widely

The diplomatic experts who attended the Geneva conference differed widely in their comments on the Soviet delegates.

Some saw deep significance in the fact that Khrushchev was exceedingly talkative, as usual, at dinners and parties. They noted that he sometimes pushed himself in front of Bulganin.

Others reported that in the actual Big Four meetings Khrushchev kept silent. He let Bulganin and Molotov do the talking. One commentator saw significance in the fact that most of the whispered conversations in the Soviet delegation, during meetings, were between Bulganin and Molotov.

At any rate, Molotov's stock seemed to go up somewhat in Geneva. There was no indication that he is about to be shoved into retirement.

The stock of Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, defense minister, seemed to go down.

Apparently Zhukov was taken along largely to meet President Eisenhower and renew their wartime friendship.

Zhukov, by the way, was not promoted to membership of the powerful 1-man presidium of the Communist party when that body was reshuffled earlier this month.

Molotov Retirement Talk

Molotov himself was responsible for the "retirement" talk which has cropped up intermittently during the last few weeks. During the Austrian treaty negotiations in Vienna in May, Molotov commented to a Western delegate:

"We are getting old, and it is time to give way to younger men."

It was not long before reports were published that Molotov's retirement actually was imminent.

Molotov was asked about the Vienna remark at a reception in Moscow on July 9.

"I was joking," he said. "I was talking about all of us getting older, and of the need for young blood."

The possibility that Molotov will retire before very long can not be ruled out. He is 65. He has been under great tension most of the time for many years as foreign minister and, for a time, as premier.

But Molotov is one of the star diplomatists of the world. It hardly seems that this is the moment to dispense with his services.

70-Year-Old Prophet Of Serpent Defiance Is Dead

ALTHA, Fla. (UP) — Far-flung disciples of the founder of a mountain snake handling cult mourned today his death from a diamond-back rattlesnake's bite.

The body of George Went Hensley, 70-year-old prophet of serpent-defiance, who died Monday of a bite he received at a Sunday prayer service, was placed on view for expected crowds at a Marianna Fla., funeral home.

Sheriff G.C. Guilford of Calhoun County said that Hensley was bitten here Sunday afternoon as he was replacing in a box the huge snake he held entwined about his neck and face during a prayer service.

Guilford said he arrived Sunday night at the home of Rhode Roberts, where Hensley was taken, and found "about 100 people milling around the place and praying for him."

Guilford said the zealot died Monday morning without having received any medical attention. His widow, Sallie, about 60, refused to authorize an inquest, Guilford said, so he listed the death a "suicide."

A toll of 12 fatal bites in various snake - handling sects reported since 1940 has resulted in laws forbidding the custom in Tennessee Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

Hensey's was the 13th death.

Leaders Hope To Adjourn Next Saturday

WASHINGTON (UP) — Republican congressional leaders today told President Eisenhower they are "still shooting" for adjournment next Saturday.

But Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass), said that he personally believes the legislators will wind up business closer to "the middle of next week." The House Republican leader noted there is "considerable legislation yet to do."

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) and Martin met with reporters after the two-hour session between party leaders and the President. They said the weekly meeting was devoted entirely to questions relating to adjournment and legislation.

Knowland gave this list of legislation which leaders hope can be cleared if lawmakers maintain a "good batting average:"

The military reserve bill, foreign aid appropriations, housing, highway, minimum wage, supplemental military, construction, legislative appropriations, soldier voting, mental health, customs simplification, small business extension, and international finance corporation.

Cost Of Living Rises In June

WASHINGTON (UP)—The cost of living rose in June for the first time since November, the government reported today.

Mainly because of higher food prices, the Bureau of Labor Statistics index of consumer prices went up .2 of 1 per cent between mid-May and mid-June to 114.4 per cent of average 1947-49 prices.

Acting BLS Commissioner Aryness Joy Wickens said, however, that she expected "no marked change" in the July and August cost of living indices.

The June index was .6 of 1 per cent below the June, 1954, level. Since November, when it rose to 114.6 per cent of the base period, the index has declined or stood still from month to month.

Since the record peak of 115.4 in October, 1953, the index has fluctuated between 114.2 and 115.2 per cent of the base period.

The BLS reported a rise of .2 of 1 per cent in food prices in June which it attributed to seasonal increases in pork, poultry, fresh fruits, eggs, beef and veal, lamb cereals and bakery products and dairy products.

Diets To Death

Bank Closes Because $678,000 Is Missing

Bank President Sobs When He Hears About Vice President

TWENTY NINE PALMS, Calif. (UP) — The President of a bank which was forced to close because of a missing $678,000 said today it broke his heart to hear his highly-regarded vice president had been arrested for embezzlement.

J. P. Wasserburger, president of the Joshua Monument National Bank of Twenty Nine Palms, sobbed when he heard banker-race horse owner Roscoe D. Coon, 50, had been picked up by federal authorities at a race track.

"This is a terrible blow to us," Wasserburger said. "It just broke my heart. I just can't believe that Coon would do anything wrong. We have had no reason at all to doubt his honesty."

Coon, vice president and cashier of the desert community's only bank, was arrested at Del Mar Racetrack Monday while awaiting the Wednesday opening of the summer meeting to race his stable of thoroughbreds. Del Mar is about 100 miles southwest of here.

Coon, who is a former vice president of the Pasadena (Calif) Junior Chamber of Commerce, was arraigned in San Diego before U.S. Commissioner Betty Marshall Graydon, who remanded him to county jail in lieu of $50,000 bail. His arraignment was continued until Wednesday.

"I am amazed," declared Coon indignantly. "I don't have any idea of what this is all about."

The bank was forced to close its doors Monday and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. was appointed its receiver. Treasury Department bank examiners still are checking the closed bank's books.

William B. Hatch Jr., a surveyor who is a member of the bank's board of directors, said "only a few at worst" of the bank's depositors would be hurt by the closing.

FBI agents said Coon was charged with embezzling bank funds by ordering funds from the Los Angeles branch of the Federal Reserve Bank and intercepting the money at the Twenty Nine Palms post office before it could reach the bank.

Keith Burns Fined $10 For Assault-Battery

Francis Keith Burns, formerly of Whitley County, now a resident of Fort Wayne, was assessed a fine of $10 in Whitley County Circuit Court Saturday when he was found guilty of a charge of assault and battery.

Burns was charged in an affidavit signed by Carol Sue Mayers with striking her last November. The affidavit was originally filed in circuit court December 4, 1954.

Huntington Woman Granted Divorce

Helen Leona Campbell, Huntington, was granted a divorce from Dean E. Campbell in Whitley County circuit court Saturday.

She was also given custody of two minor daughters born to the couple. The court further ordered that the defendant, who is in service, provide for an allotment of $15 per week, or the maximun dependency benefits allowed in such a case, for each of the two children. The defendant was ordered to pay for the plaintiff's court costs.

The defendant was granted the right to visit the children at all reasonable and proper times.

Apparent Confusion Leaves Turncoats' Future In Doubt

WASHINGTON (UP) —Apparent confusion within the Pentagon today left still in doubt the future of three turncoat ex-GI's who defected to Red China and then decided to return home.

An Army spokesman said Monday night the three would be arrested for court martial as soon as their ship docks in San Francisco Friday.

But a Defense Department spokesman said today the matter still is being investigated by the Defense and Justice departments and that no decision has been reached on what action to take.

The spokesman said the Army source did not consult the Defense Department before his unofficial discussion with the press about the turncoats' future.

700 CIO-UAW Members Strike At Hagerstown

HAGERSTOWN, Ind. (UP)—About 700 members of the CIO-United Auto Workers struck at the Perfect Circle Corp. plant here today, raising to four the number of its plants closed by UAW strikes in two days.

The plant closed after some non-striking employes were "roughed up" as they tried to go to work, company spokesmen said. The company then asked nearly 600 non-striking employes not to try to work today.

Nearly 600 members of the union went on strike Monday at the company's two Richmond plants and one New Castle plant. Supervisory, office and laboratory personnel were permitted to pass through the picket lines.

Company spokesmen at the Hagerstown plant said the month-long negotiations had reached a standstill and no further meetings were scheduled.

The main barrier to an agreement was the union's demand of a union shop. The company defeated the union's same demand after a two-month strike in 1948.

CIO-United Steel Workers at the company's fifth plant, at Tipton, accepted nearly the same agreement Saturday that is being declined by the UAW union.

Serviceman On Leave Battles With Skunks

EAST PATERSON, N.J. (UP)—Henry Cauceglia, a serviceman on leave, struggled with a family of skunks today for possession of his family home.

Cauceglia arrived home Sunday. His parents were on vacation. But a family of skunks had homesteaded in the basement of his parents' home.

A mother skunk had chewed through a wire screen on the basement of the house and entered through an open window.

Cauceglia tried, without success, to lure the skunks outside with a trail of bacon on a board.

Game Warden Louis De Meritt spent two hours trying to coax the animals outside. He failed.

Cauceglia said he was reluctant to have police shoot the skunks. He left the basement window open and hoped they would leave of their own accord.

No Outward Signs Of Violence In Death Of Woman

SOUTH DARTMOUTH, Mass. (UP) — No outward signs of violence were detected in the death of the daughter-in-law of retired Maj. Gen. William J. (Wild Bill) Donovan, a medical examiner said today.

Dr. William Rosen of New Bedford said that a further toxicological autopsy in the death of Mrs. Mary Grandin Donovan, 37, would be performed at the Harvard University School of Legal Medicine in Boston.

Mrs. Donovan was found dead in bed at the general's summer home here Monday.

Her husband, David Donovan, was notified at the couple's Berryville, Va., home. He and General Donovan, who was in upstate New York, were to arrive here today.

Mrs. Donovan, mother of five children, arrived here from Berryville, Va., last Friday with her daughter Patricia, 14.

Craig On Trip To Washington

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Governor Craig today went on a three-day trip to Washington and a White House luncheon with Sherman Adams, presidential assistant, his office announced.

Horace Coats, Craig's executive secretary, said the governor will lunch with Adams Thursday. The governor also will confer with Douglas McKay, secretary of the interior.

Coats said he had "no idea" what topics would be considered at the meetings. Craig will leave Washington Thursday night. He will address the Ohio Department convention of the American Legion Friday. He will return here Saturday.

Lizabeth Scott Brings Suit

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Film star Lizabeth Scott charged Confidential Magazine in a 2½ million dollar suit today with implying she was "prone to indecent, illegal and highly offensive acts in her private and public life."

The suit was the fourth filed recently by well-known Hollywood figures against expose-type magazines and the third against Confidential Magazine. The suits against Confidential now total 6½ million dollars.

Conservative Texas Democrats Inch Back Into Fold Of Party

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Gov. Allan Shivers and other conservative Texas Democrats inched back into the fold of the national party today with Committeeman Wright Morrow serving as the sacrificial lamb.

The Texas Democratic executive committee fired the silvery-haired Houston attorney in a move to restore a working agreement with the national party.

Morrow had not been recognized by the national party since the 1952 presidential election when he, Shivers and other Texans in sufficient numbers turned the state to Dwight D. Eisenhower when Democratic candidate Adlai Stevenson refused to support Texas' claim to the tidelands.

Red Bulgarian Anti-Aircraft Guns Reportedly Have Shot Down Plane

TEL AVIV, Israel (UP)—Communist Bulgarian anti-aircraft guns today were reported to have shot down an El Al Israel airliner carrying 57 persons, including at least five American tourists.

The Bulgarian government confirmed that the plane had crashed inside Bulgaria and "invited" El Al's commercial representative in Greece to cross the Iron Curtain frontier "to view the wreckage." No mention was made of survivors.

Reports from Greek frontier guards said the plane was seen going down in a forced landing inside Red Bulgarian territory. The plane was smoking and aflame after being hit by antiaircraft shells.

There was no immediate report of the fate of the 50 passengers and seven crew members aboard the four-engined, American-built Constellation.

Greek authorities said they rushed investigators to the border near the Greek villages of Surbanovo and Serres. They were unable to aid the victims or investigate the crash because the plane fell inside Red territory.

(Officials of El Airlines said among the Americans aboard were a Mrs. Sheinbaum and a Mrs. Kate and her daughter, who boarded the plane at London.)

Reports received here said British diplomats in Sofia were attempting to get information on the fate of the passengers from Bulgarian officials.

In Tel Aviv, an El Al spokesman said the airline had received reports indicating the pilot tried to make a crash landing, but there was no way of knowing the result.

El Al said three or four Americans boarded the plane at London and one American womanboarded at Paris.

It was announced at the airport city of Lydda, between Tel Aviv and Jerusalem, that the plane was fired upon from Bulgarian territory while flying near the Bulgarian-Greek frontier.

The pilot flashed an SOS which was heard in Athens and Rome when the plane was fired upon and reported he was being forced down.

Urgent efforts were begun at once by Israeli authorities to learn

City Post Office Expects $90,000 Revenue For 1955

If $90,000 is any indication of success, it looks as if post offices are here to stay--at least the one in Columbia City.

Harry G. Bollinger, postmaster at Columbia City, said that he expects 1955 postal revenue to be about $90,000--but that's just for the sale of such stocks as stamps, envelopes, post cards, and second class mailings, lock box rentals, and metered and non-metered mailings.

Mr. Bollinger said that about 5,280 pieces of mail are handled daily at the local post office. Roughly speaking, that's about $9.36 (one leter per day) spent for postage yearly by residents here, figuring 3 cents postage for each item. Add to that the cost of envelopes and post cards, and o fcourse Christmas mailing, and the $90,000 seems about right.

More Than 1954

Thus far this year, the post office has a total revenue of $40, 197.64—that's $4,037.67 more than there was for the same time in 1954.

Then there are the "additional revenues," which are not included in the $90,000.

For example, Tuesday there were 576 persons having a $769,-292 investment in postal savings accounts. Since January, $7,887.07 interest has been paid to these persons.

Fees from money orders totaled $2,311.80 at the end of the first six months of 1955. Money orders written for the same period totaled $203,354.31.

Revenue Stamps

Sale of documentary revenue stamps which are used on deeds, totaled $2,215 the first half of 1955.

Other "incidentals," such as bulk mailing fees, savings stamps, and federal hunting stamps, add up to make the "additional revenue" handled by the post office look like a vast accumulation of wealth-and indeed it is!

Austria Becomes A Free Nation, First Since 1938

Independence For 7 Million Persons

VIENNA, Austria (UP)—Austria became a free nation today for the first time since 1938.

A brief ceremony in Moscow put the Austrian state treaty into effect. This signalled the end of four-power rule and the rebirth of independence for this little nation of 7 million persons.

It was a momentous occasion for the Austrians, who have endured 17 years of foreign rule set off by Adolf Hitler and concluded by a decade of joint government by the United States, Britain, France and Russia.

They celebrated by unfurling the red-white-green Austrian flag and drinking toasts with wine and beer served free in most cafes. All radio stations interrupted their regular programs to flash the freedom announcement and play triumphal music. Newspapers published secial editions. Vienna resembled the city of music and gaiety it used to be.

Shy Little Shoemaker From Bronx Reaches Half-Way Mark In Quest For $64,000 On TV

NEW YORK (UP) — Gino Prato, the little shoemaker from the Bronx who nailed down $16,000 on CBS-TV's $64,000 question, found himself beseiged today by autograph hounds, well-wishers and a sandpaper throat.

Shaky but smiling after wading through a four-part question in his category, opera, the Italian-born Prato confessed that he had reached celebrity status in his neighborhood.

"People are calling me I never heard from before. Customers are asking me to autograph the soles of their shoes," he said in a hoarse voice. "But I'm so nervous I'm smoking more than two packs of cigarettes a day.

The 55-year-old Prato refused to say whether he would go on and try for $32,000 next week.

"I prayed all last week," he whispered. "I spent an hour and a half in St. Patrick's Cathedral praying the day of the show. And I'll be back in the cathedral again next Tuesday."

In direct contrast to the nervous little cobbler was another opera lover, Bayard MacMichael, who ran his string to $8,000. Mac Michael, who grew up in Seattle but now works in New York as a sales representative for a brush company took his win almost casually. He left immediately after the show for a business meeting at his firm's headquarters in Wooster, Ohio.

MacMichael correctly answered a question dealing with three operas Giuseppe Verdi had written based on plays of Shakespeare. They were "Falstaff," "Otello" and "MacBeth.

Prato's four-pronged query dealt with an unfinished Puccini opera. He named it ("Turandot'), the man who finished it (Franco-Alfano), the year of its premiere 1926) and the place of its premiere (La Scala Opera House in Milan, Italy).

There was at least one indication, however, that Prato might throw in the sponge. Backstage after the show, Wendy Barrie, who does the commercials on the show advised Prato: "Take the $16,000 and go. You can't drive to Italy in a Cadillac." The reference was to the consolation prize Prato will receive if he muffs his next question.

Prato nodded solemnly and said in his gravel voice: "I know. I've been thinking hard about it."

Third Child Born To Mr. and Mrs. Maguire Monday

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Maguire of Tri Lakes announce the birth of their third child, a daughter, Faith Ann, born Monday at the Luckey Hospital at Wolf Lake. The child weighed seven pounds and three ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. Maguire formerly resided in Philadelphia. Mr. Maguire is pastor of the Interdenominational church at Tri Lakes.

Council Approves 1-Cent Raise In Library Tax Levy

Bloom Cites $11,489 As 1956 Budget; Ion Gets New Agreement

The City Council approved an addition of one cent to the library tax levy at its meeting Tuesday night.

The added one cent makes the tax rate in the city for operation of the Peabody Free Library to 10 cents.

The request for the additional one cent levy was presented to the council by Bill Bloom, president of the library board, who attended the meeting and outlined the institution's budget for the coming year. Also attending representing the board were Mrs. Velma Moeller, treasurer of special funds, and Mrs. John Lillich, secretary.

The library officials explained that next year's budget calls for expenditure of $11,489, whereas last year $10,181 was spent. The additional levy will provide the library a total of $10,812 from all sources. The deficit of $677 will be paid from interest on the endownment fund left by the donor of the library building.

Thorncreek Raises Levy

Bloom explained that the library expects to receive about $2,382 in interest on the fund, but that it can only be used for purchase of books or for improvements to the library.

It was also pointed out that on the basis of a volume use survey made among the townships, Thorncreek agreed to raise its tax share from four to six cents.

Rates in other townships include Columbia with three cents, and Union with two cents. This revenue

Youth Sentenced To Boys' School For Stealing

Judge Continues Case Of Younger Boy Involved In Theft From Station

One youth was sentenced to the Indiana Boy's School and the other's case was continued Tuesday in a hearing on the delinquency of two boys, one 14 and the other 16, who confessed to stealing merchandise from a local service station and with defacing several windows in the downtown area.

Judge Lowell Pefley ordered the 16-year-old youth sentenced immediately to the custody of the Board of Trustees of the state school. The trustees may confine him to the school or some other designated place. He may be retained at the institution until he is 21, unless released sooner by the board.

Judge Pefley originally gave the 14-year-old youth an identical sentence. He continued the hearing when the parents of the boy requested a further conference scheduled for Thursday.

The hearing was held at a meeting of Judge Pefley; State Police Detective, Blain Schang, who was the arresting officer; other Whitley County juvenile authorities, and the boys and their parents. The father of the younger boy was not present at the hearing but arrived later in the day and requested the conference Thursday.

The two boys have been confined in Whitley County jail separate from the adult prisoners since their arrest Monday. The older youth was to be taken by officials of the sheriff's office to the boy's institution Wednesday morning.

In confessions Monday, the two youths admitted taking general merchandise from Marathon Service Station, 401 West Van Buren street, early on the morning of July 9. The younger boy also admitted damaging the windows of 10 stores in the 100 block of West Van Buren street the night of July 20.

The boys gained entrance to the station through a men's rest room window which the younger youth, who lives in the neighborhood, said he had purposely left ajar when he was helping 'lock-up' the station earlier the night before. Most of the items taken were found in the house or barn at the older boy's home.

In giving the sentences, Judge Pefley told the boys and their parents that he was considering the improper home life of the two youths as much as the wrong which the boys had done.

Issue Reminder Of Bloodmobile Visit Here On Thursday

A last minute reminder is issued to all residents in Whitley county today about the visit here Thursday of the American Red Cross bloodmobile.

The bloodmobile unit will be at the American Legion Post 98 from 10:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. Thursday and hopes to receive 100 pints of urgently needed blood from local people. This will be the second visit to this county this year by the Red Cross unit.

Local co-chairman, Stanley Mullendore and Carl Arntson, announce that blood is needed so badly that local donors will not be asked to make an appointment before giving blood. Anyone who can stop at the Legion Home between 10:00 and 4:00 is asked to do so. The supply in the regional blood bank at Fort Wayne has been exhausted, the local co-chairmen report.

Michael Named To Dean's List

Thomas A. Michael, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Michael, of R 1, has been named to the dean's list at Wabash College. He was one of 65 men named by Dean Byron K. Trippet.

Mr. Michael was graduated from Wabash College in June.

In order to qualify for the dean's list a student must maintain a scholastic point average of 2.5 in a scale in which 3.0 represents straight A.

Morsches Attending ROTC Summer Camp

Richard R. Morsches, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Morsches, Sr., of 313 North Main street, reported Tuesday to Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Miss., for six weeks of summer Air Force ROTC camp.

He will be a senior at Michigan State College in the fall.

Sign Armistice Two Years Ago; Still No Peace

Undeclared War Kills Half A Million Free World Citizens

TOKYO (UP) — Two years ago today an American and a North Korean strode into a straw-mat building in Korea's No Man's Land and ended an undeclared war that killed half a million free world citizens.

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison of the United Nations Command and Gen. Nam Il of North Korea were stony faced. They did not even look at each other as they took seats at adjoining tables in the Communist-built "peace pagoda" in Panmunjom.

At 10:01 a.m. Harrison signed the first of 18 copies of the bulky armistice document—one copy for each of the 16 U.N. members which provided troops for the war, one each for North Korea and Red China.

The signing was completed in about one minute.

Twelve hours later, all firing stopped along the 155-mile front.

But as 8th Army Commander Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor put it, there was "no strong feeling that the armistice is an occasion for unrestrained rejoicing."

It was realized that the armistice was just a truce and that a lasting peace was yet to be won. Two years later, there still is no peace.

It was realized also that the cost of the free world's first organized resistance to Communist aggression was too staggering for rejoicing.

In the three years of fighting, 451,877 free world soldiers and Korean civilians met death by Communist attack or in Red prison camps. That was nearly four times the total number of American deaths in World War I. It was 50,000 more than all the Americans who died in World War II battles.

More than 463,000 soldiers and civilians still are listed as missing. Another 543,441 were wounded, 16000 were taken prisoner.

On their side, it is estimated that the Chinese Communists lost 900,000 men killed or wounded and the North Koreans 520,000.

U.N. officials estimate that total Korean War casualties for the U.N. and the Reds totalled 3,014,426.

School Schedule Change Decided By School Board

A change in schedule for Columbia City schools has been caused by a ruling of the state Department of Education. The ruling regards the length of the school term.

The school board decided Tuesday that the teachers' worshop, previously planned for Sept. 1 and 2, will now be Sept. 2.

Teachers will meet with principals during the morning of Sept. 1, and pupils will enroll and get book lists that afternoon.

The first full day of school will be Sept. 6.

Silver Cups On Display At Osborns

The two silver cups to be awarded on Old Settler's Day have been received and are now on display at the Osborn Jewelry store on South Main street.

One cup will be presented to the oldest continuous resident in the county and the other to the oldest person present on that day.

Rev. P. F. Young Becomes Pastor In Local Church

Locates In This City From South Bend

Rev. P. F. Young

The Rev. and Mrs. P. F. Young are now located in the parsonage of the Evangelical United Brethren church at 208 South Chauncey street, after a successful pastorate of seven years at the First Church at South Bend.

The Rev. Lynn Henry of this city has taken up his residence in South Bend, having been transferred to the First Church, a Gothic structure of briar hill stone recently built at a cost of $160,000, in a new section of South Bend.

Rev. Young has held previous pastorates at the First Church in Evansville, and Zion Church in Louisville, Ky. He has served in various capacities of conference work, namely, vice-president of the conference board of missions, on the extension committee and on other committees. While at Louisville, Rev. Young served as chairman on the committee on Evangelism of the Council of churches, and as trustee of the Temperance League of Kentucky and served as pastor-counselor of the Kentucky Christian Endeavor.

During his pastorate, at South Bend, the church engaged in a relocation program during which the church property was sold to Sears Roebuck and company and during this time the congregation worshiped in three different places and for three years with another congregation.

During the past three years in its new location, the church has received 105 new members and the church budget has doubled.

Rev. and Mrs. Young are natives of Indiana.

School Awards Heat Plant Contract To Fort Wayne Firm

Columbia City School City awarded the contract for a new heating plant to McDonald Plumbing and Heating Co., Fort Wayne.

The firm's bid was $3,181, the lowest of those that would promise completion of the building within 53 days of the contract signing.

The bids were about $7,000 less than the engineer's estimate for the cost of the building. They were opened at the regular meeting of the school board Tuesday.

The plant is to furnish the heat for the high school, West Ward School, and Marshall Memorial hall which was previously furnished by the city.

Work on the plant is to begin immediately. Funds for construction cost will be paid from the cumulative building fund of the school city.

Other bidders were Shambaugh and Sons, $32,26; Hipskind Plumbing and Heating, $33,285; A. Hattersley and Sons, $33,663, and Russell N. Carey, $35,619.

Schrader, Dygert Win First Place In SpeechContest

To Represent County In State 4-H Event

Miss Judy Schrader, in the girls' division, and Stephen Dygert, in the boys' division, placed first in the County 4-H Public Speaking Contest, which was held Tuesday evening at the Columbia Township Centralized School.

Miss Schrader is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Denzil Schrader and is a member of the Columbia Township Jolly Jumpers. Her speech was entitled, "Human Freedom, What Does It Mean?". "What Do You Have To Lose?" was the title chosen by Stephen Dygert, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Wendell Dygert and a member of the Jefferson Township Hustlers.

Other contestants were Miss Beverly Mishler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Mishler and a member of the Cleveland Township Lucky Leaf 4-H Club, and Hugo Martz, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe C. Martz and a member of the Thorncreek Township Sons of the Soil. Miss Mishler spoke on "Opportunities Unlimited," and the topic chosen by Hugo Martz was "Free Trade Versus the Present Tariff System".

Miss Schrader and Stephen Dygert will represent Whitley County in the State 4-H Public Speaking contest, which will be held September 5 in the auditorium of the Youth Building at the Indiana State Fairgrounds in Indianaoplis.

Miss Joan Martin, County 4-H girls' leader, introduced the speakers. Miss Marjorie Gillespie, leader of the Columbia City Willing Workers 4-H Club, served as judge.

Does Not Intend To Resign As Air Force Secretary

He Tells Reporter; Realizes Mistake

By HERBERT FOSTER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott told Senate investigators today he is pulling out of his $60,000-a-year private business partnership.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower said he personally will study the record in the Talbott case and decide whether the air secretary has violated ethics of government.

The President said at his news conference he will make the study after the Senate Investigating subcommittee finishes its inquiry into Talbott's outside business activities.

Talbott in the meantime told a reporter he does not intend to resign as Air Force secretary. He made that statement on entering the subcommittee room as the investigation was resumed at 10 a.m.

Talbott on the Stand

Then he took the stand and told the investigators he has done nothing dishonest or illegal in his Pentagon post to further his interest in Paul B. Mulligan & Co., management engineers.

But he said he now realizes he was "mistaken' in using his office and Air Force stationery to help the firm's business.

"My greatest concern in the world is the Air Force," Talbott said, reading from a prepared statement. "I've lived it and worked it until it is part of my body.

"Rather than injure the Air Force, I would divest myself (of Mulligan & Co. interest) 15 times over."

Therefore, he said, he took legal action on July 22 to end his partnership.

Talbott read to the subcommittee aletter to his partner, dated the 22nd—the day after he told the

One Big Result Of Conference Is U. S. Has Convinced Russia Of Peaceful Intentions

By KENNETH BRODNEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW (UP) — The biggest single result of the Geneva conference was the fact that President Eisenhower appears to have convinced the Soviet leaders that America's intentions are peaceful.

This has already resulted inside Russia in the rapid blossoming of good will toward America on the grass roots level.

The official Soviet position previously was that the American "people" were a fine and peaceful folk but that the "ruling circles" led by the "imperialists and Wall Street monopolists' were constantly doing their utmost to "unleash a new war" as the only means of preserving crumbling capitalism.

Now that appears to have changed. The "monopolists . . . imperialists . . .and militarists" will continue to be attacked, but the top Soviet leaders apparently have decided the American ruling circles as well as the people are sincerely seeking peace.

Better Press Treatment

Hints of the new attitude began to appear publicly even before Geneva with sharply revised press treatment of official American statements, particularly Mr. Eisenhower's press conference remarks. The usual "allegeds" and other devices to cast suspicion on his statements were omitted.

Pravda, Izvestia and all the official papers published in full today the text of the President's Monday night television speech including references to "regimentation." It was believed to be the first time they had carried such texts in full. Moscow Radio also carried the text Tuesday night.

Pravda, the official Communist Party organ, even found some of Mr. Eisenhower's statements worthy of editorial praise although it still took exception to others—but in markedly less bitter language.

Thus even before Geneva, word was being passed to the Soviet people that Americans could again be considered friends or at least as fellow human beings rather than with suspicion and hostility.

And while all the suspicion is unlikely to melt away immediately, the result of the new attitude already has been to release an apparent tremendous interest in America as well as a surprisingly large reservoir of good will toward Americans.

People Warm, Friendly

The process swelled to astonishing proportions during and after Geneva. It was spectacularly demonstrated by the reception given 12 American farmers now touring the Ukraine. Officials are bending over backward to be cordial and accommodating. But the real surprise has been the obvious real pleasure ordinary persons show in seeing and talking with and welcoming the Americans.

In village after village, town after town, city after city, the ar-

FT. JACKSON, S.C. (UP)—Military authorities disclosed today they were investigating charges of "questionable moral conduct" among members of the Women's Army Corps detachment at Fort Jackson.

Lt. Col. M. N. Squires, public information officer, said the investigation was started "as a result of reports received from center members of the WAC detachment" but has not reached a point calling for positive action against any individual.

The investigation involves "a small group within the detachment," Squires said. He said that to protect the innocent the investigation "is being conducted with the utmost care and discretion."

Squires declined to elaborate on the nature of the charges.

HARSENS ISLAND, Mich. (UP) — Fred J. Winckler, 63, former president of the Detroit Stock Exchange, died at the Old Club here Tuesday after suffering a heart attack.

He had been convalescing from a recent operation at the club.

Winckler began in the brokerage business in 1920 and formed the Shader-Winckler Co. with Frank J. Shader in 1921. The company later became known as the F. J. Winckler Co.

Before he entered the brokerage business he had been affiliated with Packard Motor Car Co.

Funeral arrangements were not completed.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP)—Comedian Joe E. Lewis was reported "doing fine and in good spirits" today at Rose De Lima Hospital in nearby Henderson where he is recovering from a diabetes attack.

A nurse quoted the fast-quipping nightclub performer as saying, "If I were alive I'd be a mighty sick man."

Lewis, stricken between shows at the El Rancho Hotel last Sunday night, is expected to leave the hospital by the weekend.

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Comedians Bud Abbott and Lou Costello planned to engage in independent film production today after ending 15 years of working for Universal-International Studio.

The comedy team ended their association with U-I Tuesday. Their 40 films earned them an estimated 25 million dollars.

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UP)—An unmanned rocket-propelled supersonic sled has streaked to a new land speed record of 1,100 miles per hour at this Air Force flight test center, it was disclosed today.

Radioplane Co., of Van Nuys, Calif., builder of the 4,300-pound sled, said it established a record on a 10,000-foot rocket test track of 1,608 feet per second, or about 18 miles a minute.

The sled reached its peak speed in less than five seconds. The record was 60 miles per hour faster than the previous mark.

LONDON (UP) — An admiral who was socked by a sailor got a promotion today.

The Admiralty announced that Vice Adm. J. W. M. Eaton will become deputy supreme Allied commander, Atlantic. The new post goes with his new assignment as commander in chief of the British, American and West Indies station. He formerly was commander of the British mothball fleet.

Eaton was socked by Seaman James McSporran while inspecting a ship at Devenport recently. McSporran was jailed for court martial.

TOKYO (UP)—Typhoon Georgia completely missed the World War II island battleground of Iwo Jima today and roared across the Pacific with 100-mile-per-hour winds.

Early today the typhoon, the ninth of the season, was 172 miles west of Iwo Jima, moving northwest at 20 miles per hour. No islands were in its path.

LONDON (UP)—Radio Moscow said Tuesday night that Russians had bought 50 per cent more watches, cameras and television sets in the first half of this year than in a corresponding period last year.

The broadcast heard here said the Soviet people also bought more clothing, sewing machines, furniture, refrigerators and sports cars. It added that customers must wait "several weeks, sometimes several months" to obtain delivery on new cars.

BUENOS AIRES (UP) — Wide areas in southern Argentina were buried under three feet of snow Tuesday and today. Buenos Aires had cloudless blue skies, biting cold winds and low temperatures.

Russian Farm Experts Tightlipped About America's Agricultural And Military Might

By ROBERT L. ROSE
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLSTEIN, Iowa (UP) — The visiting Russian farm experts were tightlipped today about America's agricultural and military might. But they had positive opinions about the nation's movie queens.

Marilyn Monroe won enthusiastic praise. One of the Russians echoed the sentiments of many American men by proclaiming "every man should have one like that."

But Jane Russell doesn't appeal to the Soviets. "The only thing she has is a bust," one of them said.

The Russians took time out from their tour of hot Iowa farmlands to slip into air-cooled movie theaters and inspect America's most publicized girls.

He Likes Monroe

N.M. Gureev based his judgment of Marilyn Monroe on her performance in "The Seven Year Itch." The Russian took in the movie at Spencer, Iowa, Tuesday night and implied that girls of her type would be welcomed behind the Iron Curtain.

A.Z. Tulupnikov, the only English-speaking member of the group, had already examined Jane Russell in the movie "Foxfire." He decided the shapely star was "a very unpleasant woman."

Gesturing graphically, Tulupnikov told newsmen "she has a hard face, her voice is tinny, and she walks with a slouch."

"In fact, all she has is a bust." Tulupnikov's hand made a wide curve to show newsmen what he meant.

Although the Russians were free with their opinions on the two actresses, they were still taciturn about American industry and farming as they resumed their tour today.

Visit Contour Farm

Eight of the 12 Soviets got their first good look at scientific contour farming as practised in America when they visitied the 240-acre Elvie Dreeszen farm near Holstein. Dreeszen's farm is regarded as a top example of the contour planting which is designed to take advantage of terrain and prevent erosion.

Tonight, the main body of the Russians will throw a party at the Hotel Fort Des Moines in Des Moines, Iowa. They promised it would be even bigger than a caviar and vodka reception they held Sunday night.

The four other Russians were on side-trips. Two of them took off to view the Sioux City, Iowa, stockyards. Two more wound up their tour of the big Caterpillar Tractor Co. plant at Peoria, Ill., and then planned to hop to East Moline, Ill., for a look at the John Deere & Co. tractor plant there.

At Peoria, Aleksandr Ezhiviski and Nikolai Bogach convinced their hosts that they knew their way around a big factory.

It was no ordinary tourist's junket Tuesday as the Russians whipped through the Caterpillar plant and bombarded company officials with technical questions.

Seemed to Know Answers

Their interpreter said the Russians appeared to know the answers to the questions before they asked them.

At a news conference later, Ezhiviski parried reporters' queries, refusing to answer most of them.

He wouldn't compare the Caterpillar plant with Russian factories, but he commented, "There are some things that could be improved by techniques used in our country."

The Russians in Iowa also tended to clam up when asked for their opinions on U.S. farming methods. But a Russian-speaking newsman said they couldn't hide their amazement to each other.

Writing in newsweek magazine, Leon Volkov said "to Russian eyes, Iowa, U.S.A., is a fabulous land of plenty in which nobody has to work."

Indiana Supreme Court Chambers Get Facelifting

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—The Indiana Supreme Court chambers are getting an extensive facelifting.

Painters are at work on the high, ornamental ceiling, painting the architectural "gingerbread" in various shades of green, pink and blue which are to match the original colors of years ago.

Carpenters had a field day building new picture frames along three walls of the structure. Photographs of all the court justices are preserved there together with the judges' names and the years they served on the high court bench.

Eightyfive of the 88 available frames have been used, including Governor Craig's two most recent appointments to the bench, and 42 new frames were added to take care of judges in the years to come.

Cost of the remodeling could not be determined. Statehouse sources would not reveal the cost without the permission of Chief Justice James Emmert, and he was vacationing.

Lutheran Minister Goes On Trial On Heresy Charges

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP) — A Lutheran minister today went on trial on heresy charges before an investigating committee of church leaders.

The Rev. George Crist Jr., Lutheran pastor of the town of Durham near Milwaukee, was specifically accused of "doctrinal deviation."

The exact nature of the charges was not revealed. But Crist said he believed he would be asked about the fact that he has publicly stated his disbelief in the Lutheran doctrine of the virgin birth of Jesus Christ.

Crist is a member of the Northwest Synod of the United Lutheran Church. Two other Milwaukee area pastors have also come under investigation, but Crist is the only one who has been specifically charged.

The charges against Crist were drawn up by the same special investigating committee of the synod which sat in judgment on him today.

The committee was headed by Synod President Dr. Paul E. Bishop of Minneapolis, Minn. The Rev. Charles Burmeister of Marinette, Wis., acted as prosecutor and other members were Prof. William Cooper of Minneapolis, the Rev. Herbert Motz-Kus of Jefferson, Wis., and the Rev. Frederick R. Ludwig of Milwaukee.

Crist acted as his own defense counsel. At his side was one of the two other ministers under investigation, the Rev. John Gerberding of Menomonee Falls, Wis.

The trial was not open to the public.

Used Trailers Can Be Useful On Farms

EAST LANSING, Mich. — (UP) — Two Michigan State College agricultural engineers have come up with some farm uses for used highway trailers.

William H. Friday and James S. Boyd said the big vans can be put to use as grain storage units, tool sheds, shops, small farm machinery storage spaces, or even as housing units for transient labor. Flatbed trailers serve as excellent bridges over drainage ditches.

They pointed out that the federal government will approve granaries made from trailers for wheat under loan if the conversion job is done properly.

Boyd and Friday experimented with several conversion techniques and found they could put a trailer on a cement block foundation for use as a granary with about $60 in material and 27 man hours of labor.

Studies of tree ring growth in the vicinity of Bismarck, N.D., show the approximate dry and wet periods back to about the year 1400.

It's the 4-Door Riviera- the stunning new hit of America's Hardtops

When Buick introduced America's first hardtop—the Riviera—folks went for it in a big way, and fast.

They liked the Convertible look of this 2-door beauty—long, low and rakish. They liked the added security of the steel roof overhead. And they certainly liked the absence of center posts in the side window areas—which gave a completely unbroken view left and right.

People liked it all so well that, over the past six years, they made the Riviera the biggest-selling hardtop in the world, bar none. And it still is.

Now Buick has come up with another great advance in hardtops —the 4-Door Riviera—and it's a sensational hit.

It has everything the original 2-Door Riviera has—plus separate doors for rear-seat passengers, and a whale of a lot more room for them.

Rock-solid half-pillars on either side are what latch the front doors and hinge the rear ones. So there's no center post above the door line—and a completely open sweep of view to both sides.

And the roominess provided by this gorgeous new hardtop is really something—over 9 inches more hiproom and 5 inches more legroom in the rear.

Why don't you come see this brand-new kind of automobile that's heading up the parade of the hottest-selling line of Buicks in history?

That way you can also try what else is to be had here—Buick comfort, Buick power, Buick ride and handling and roadability—plus the electrifying action of Buick's Variable Pitch Dynaflow.*

Do it this week—tomorrow would be fine—and you'll see what record volume really means in the way of record-high trade-in deals.

*Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on ROADMASTER, optional at modest extra cost on other Series.

Thrill of the year is Buick

Marriage Of Janet Harley And Whiting Man Is Announced

The marriage of Miss Janet Lee Harley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milo E. Harley of South Whitley, and William D. Ford, Whiting, owner of the Robertsdale Pharmacy in that city is announced. The nuptials were solemnized in the Church of the Brethren at North Manchester, at 4 o'clock last Saturday afternoon.

The bride was graduated from South Whitley high school in 1951 and was graduated in 1955 from Purdue University, in pharmacy. The bridegroom was graduated in pharmacy the same year from Purdue University.

Rev. Vernon Stinebaugh received the marriage vows. Mrs. Byron Bolinger of South Whitley served as organist and George McGlennen of South Whitley was soloist. George Harley read "How Do I Love Thee" to the organ music of "O Perfect Love." Candlelighters were Miss Judy Ann Harley, sister of the bride, and Miss Peggy Perry of Columbia City, a cousin of the bride.

Miss Jane Lynn Harley attended her sister as maid of honor and Miss Bill Ayers, North Manchester, a cousin of the bride, served as bridesmaid. George Harley, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom and Gordon Born of Morrocco, Bill Ayers and Harry Olinger of North Manchester, ushered.

The couple will reside at 1812 Oliver street, Whiting, following a short honeymoon.

Air Force Pilot Risks Own Life

MADISON, Wis. (UP) — Air Force officials today praised an heroic jet fighter pilot who crash-landed his Sabre Jet, risking his life to avoid hitting automobiles.

The pilot, 1st Lt. John F. Churchill, 25, Madison, N.J., was not injured when his plane skidded across U.S. 51, went through a fence and came to rest on Truax Field here Monday.

Lt. Ralph Rosengarden, the Air Base's information officer, said "Churchill could have bailed out with no chance of losing his own life. But he might have hit a car He even stalled the plane to take a look for cars before coming across the highway."

rival of the Americans was awaited for hours by throngs thousands strong. As one American put it, "The authorities might be able to get the people out but they couldn't possibly put the smiles on their faces and the shine in their eyes."

The enthusiasm has gone so far it apparently has even surprised the Soviet officials, and led observers to wonder whether the authorities realized it would be so extreme. Observers also wonder what this indicates in terms of the attitude of the man in the street to the previous drumfire of criticism of America by press and radio.

Ukrainians More Westernized

Perhaps the good will shown the Americans in the Ukraine is not typical of the entire country since the Ukrainians are the most Western oriented Soviet people and possibly remember American shuttle bombers helping fight the Germans and postwar American UNRRA aid.

But two staff members of the U.S. Embassy who have just returned from a visit to the Caucasus report they never were treated with such friendliness and cordiality and with less reserve on previous trips through the Soviet Union.

The literary world was talking increasingly of the need to publish translations of contemporary non - Communist American literature apart from the standard a proved writers.

Ilya Ehrenburg, one of the best known Soviet authors and publicists whose vitriol has frequently been turned on America, recently told me that a new magazine of international literature, the first issue of which has just been published, will soon start serialization of Ernest Hemingway's "Old Man and the Sea"—paying royalties.

Talk Of Other Exchanges

There was increasing talk of other exchanges of Soviet and American delegations similar to the farmers in cultural and scientific fields. But it was believed this would be accompanied by sharp criticism of the McCarran Act regulations requiring fingerprinting visitors to the United States.

A Soviet woman doctor, talking with three Americans and the embassy's resident physician who paid a precedent - shattering visit to a Soviet hospital to witness the birth of a new Soviet citizen, expressed a desire to visit U.S. hospitals.

Another example came during this reporter's tour of the Ukraine. Members of Moscow's top dramatic repertory theater, The Stanislavsky, on tour in the Ukraine, said it would be a fine idea for an American company to come to Russia. They plied me with questions about American theater life, new plays, new authors, whether Russian playwrights were ever performed, and even the prices of theater tickets.

Already scheduled for early next month is the visit of four American Baptist clergymen to preach as well as travel in the Soviet. Large groups of Western European tourists are expected this summer and perhaps American tourists next year.

During the course of centuries—before the Communist state was formed—Russian history has been a long series of endulum-like swings opening up and shutting tight against the West. All indications now are that Russia again is opening up.

One of the keys to the way to the way the government is now trying to do business and one of the signs of the time was contained in a remark by an unusually frank Russian when invited to lunch by an American.

He grinned slowly and said, "Well, I don't see why not. There's no Lavrenti Pavlevich around any more to make trouble.' He meant Lavrenti Pavlevich Beria, the late liquidated and unlamented boss and symbol of the police.

Preliminary Talks On Indiana Proposals

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Hoosier civic leaders met at the Statehouse today for preliminary talks on Indiana proposals to be presented to the White House conference on education.

Final recommendations for the Indiana committee will be discussed at a full-scale conference here Oct. 24. The Washington conference is scheduled for November.

Pilot Escapes Injury

GOSPORT, Ind. (UP)—Lt. Thaddeus A. Callis, a pilot of an Indiana Air National Guard jet plane based at Terre Haute, escaped unhurt Sunday when a flameout forced him to make an emergency landing in a farm field southwest of here.

The plane, attached to the 113th Fighter Interceptor Squadron, was not damaged badly.

Second Reduction In Rates For Auto Insurance

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—State Insurance Commissioner Harry Wells today announced a second reduction in automobile insurance premiums for Indiana motorists.

Wells said the deductions, effective Wednesday, will save Hoosiers about four million dollars a year. The reductions cover all insurance company members of the Hoosierland Rating Bureau.

Members of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Comnies and the National Association of Automobile Underwriters last week announced a similar rate reduction with savings of about three million ndollars a year to Hoosiers.

With the two reductions, Hoosiers who carry auto insurance with all except some of the Independent companies are covered. The largest independent companies are the State Farm Mutual Auto Insrance Co. and the All-State Insurance Co.

The current reductions include an approximate 20 per cent cut, on a statewide average, on $50 deductible collision insurance premiums. On $100 deductible the statewide average cut is about 15 percent.

Passenger car comprehensive rates drop about 9 per cent.

The reduction is about 10 per cent on both bodily injury and property damage in Indianapolis and Marion County and Terre Haute and Vigo County.

There is a 10 per cent reduction on bodily injury insurance premiums only in Kokomo, Lafayette, Logansport, Marion, Muncie Michigan City Richmond Anderson and Elkhart. There are no reductions on property damage rates in those cities.

Drivers under 25 years old who have completed driver training courses get a 15 per cent discount on collision premiums.

Indiana Has Smaller Per Cent Of Bachelors Than Most States

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) — Indiana has a smaller percentage of bachelors than any other state except Florida and Oregon, U.S. Census Bureau reports showed.

Of 1,448,831 males 14 years old and above, 70 per cent are married. Six and nine-tenths per cent are widowed or divorced and 23.1 per cent are single.

Florida's bachelor percentage was 22.7 and Oregon's 22.9.

The percentage of males actually married is second only to Florida's 70.5 per cent, the statistics showed.

Paradoxically, at least a dozen states had smaller percentages of maiden ladies than Indiana's 17.5 per cent and 17 states had larger percentages of married females than Indiana's 68.1 per cent. The Hoosier percentage of women who are widowed or divorced was 14.4 per cent, just about the national average.

The statistics came from 1950 census reports.

On a national scale, the number of married persons increased by 14,500,000 between 1940 and 1950. The bureau said the proportion of married persons rose from 60 per cent in 1940 to 67 per cent in 1950.

"The aging of the population during the last half century has contributed to the increase in proportion married," the report said.

Indiana University Offers New Travel Course In Botany

BLOOMINGTON, — Exotic semi-tropical plants will be studied in an Indiana University field course in botany to be conducted August 13 to 28 by Prof. Paul Weatherwax of the botany department.

Students in the course will travel by automobile to southern Florida, studying plants and plant problems enroute. Places and things to be observed include the Okefenokee Swamp of Georgia and Florida, the Highland Hammock State Park of Florida, the Everglades, Cape Sable at the tip of Florida, the Florida Agricultural Station at Homestead, marine plants of the Florida keys, canivorous plants, tropical fruits, and the turpentine and pine oil industries.

The course is designed mainly for teachers and students with some college training in botany, and three University credit hours are to be earned. Enrollment must be completed by August 6.

Science Will Yet Draw Real Miracles From Chlorophyll

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — Science will yet draw real, healing miracles from chlorophyll — miracles comparable to those of the sulfa drugs and the antibiotics — according to a medical scholar.

He said he was speaking up now because the public is no longer chlorophyll-happy. His inclination was that previously he was afraid he might be quoted by some enterprizing manufacturer of, say, green inner soles.

Dr. Lawrence W. Smith, after long study of all that science knows about the substance which makes plants green, was struck by the ability of even crude preparations to interfere with the life processes of bacteria.

Bacteria cause many diseases. The also contaminate burns and other wounds. Bacteria learn in time to live with antibiotics an sulfa drugs and even flourish. All present scientific indications are that bacteria can't learn to live with chlorophyll.

Let Biochemists Get Busy

So let the biochemists get busy and construct chlorophyll compounds which will exploit this power to the fullest, Dr Smith said in the New York state Journal of Medicine.

The future miracles are inherent in the chlorophyll molecule. Its core is chemically identical with the precursor of the red coloring matter of blood and other body pigments "involved in the oxidation-reduction phenomena without which life in any form is impossible."

As in hemoglobin of the blood, the centrally bound atom of the molecule is a metal. In hemoglobin it is iron — in chlorophyll it is magnesium. Scientsts have substituted only metal atoms for magnesium. Copper chlorophyll now is the common form. In further reconstructions of the chlorophyll mlecule Smith saw infinite possibilities.

New "Laboratory Evidence"

New "laboratory evidence," he said, "indicates certain points of similarity between at least one major antibiotic, streptomycin, and specific chlorophyll derivatives, suggesting a vast future research program with the development of selective anti-bacterial agents using chlorophyll as the starting 'materia prima.'"

Chlorophyll is an efficient promoter of wound-healing because it stimulates the growth of new tissue, he said. Science can't yet explain fully why it is; nevertheless it is and that to him, was much of it.

It also is an effective deodorant of suppurating wounds because it interferes with the processes of bacteria which give rise to odor. As for its effectiveness as a "con tact" deodorant, he had some courteous scientific sneers. The recent public hysteria" in this regard is over now, and, in his view, it is high time.

Man Drowns

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Donald E. Hines, Union City, drowned in Broad Ripple swimming pool Tuesday night and a girl companion said lifeguards ignored her report that Hines failed to come up after diving into the water.

Miss Sue Carrol Jones, 18, Indianapolis, reported Hines missing, she said, but was told by the guards that "there was nobody drowned and nobody hurt."

Talbott

subcommittee he would quit the firm if the senators thought it would help the Air Force.

The secretary's letter told Mulligan that he had decided to pull out of the partnership regardless of the subcommittee's decision.

Doesn't Pass Judgment

President Eisenhower at his news conference did not pass judgment on Talbott. He appeared a little sad at having to deal with such an issue in his official family so soon after his diplomatic accomplishments at Geneva.

He pointed out that no one has accused Talbott of fraud or illegality. But he asserted: it is not enough for a man holding office merely to be innocent of illegal activity. There are questions of ethics, too.

The President said he plans to read every available record when it is complete. Then he personally will have to decide the issue of ethics involved.

Talbott told the senators he had given only a "trivial" part of his time to Mulligan & Co. He estimated it as 2½ days out of the last 2½ years while he has been Air Force secretary.

Talbott told the subcommittee that when he took office, he divested himself of stocks which since have risen in value by about $750,000. He said this involved giving up an income of $100,000 a year, but he was "glad to do it."

The only thing he retained—aside from stocks in companies which do no defense work that he knows of—was his interest in Mulligan & Co.

Correct "False Impressions

Talbott said he also wanted to correct "false impressions" in the press about his earlier testimony. He said that when he talked with Samuel E. Ewing, attorney for Radio Corporation of America, about a Mulligan contract, he thought the proposed deal was with RCA's phonograph record division. He said he did not know it was to be with RCA's engineering division, a heavy defense contractor.

Perspiring under the television lights, Talbot concluded his statement with the comment "and that is all, gentlemen," and started to get up to leave. Before he could leave the senators broke into compliment Talbott on his cooperation with the subcommittee or to praise his record as Air Force secretary.

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo), a former Air Force secretary in the Truman administration, commented that he believes Talbott has "done a fine job" for the Air Force. Symington reserved judgment on his association with the private business partnership.

The air secretary's testimony apparently closed the hearings, subject only to a telephone conversation this afternoon between Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) and aircraft makers Donald W. Douglas Sr. and Jr. The subcommittee chairman wanted to inquire about their relations with Talbott and the Mulligan firm.

President Eisenhower discussed the Talbott case gravely and in measured terms.

No Immediate Change

Indicating that he anticipated no immediate change in the status of Talbott, Mr. Eisenhower said a decision naturally would be impossible while the Senate investigation is in progress. Therefore, from the executive department viewpoint, the matter is in temporary abeyance until the Senate investigation is ended.

He said he wanted to present the statement after he had answered all questions and all other witnesses had testified.

Newsmen were ready to bring up the Talbott case at Mr. Eisenhower's news conference.

But before giving Talbott time for his curtain speech, the subcommittee said it would decide whether to hear first from aircraft makers Donald Douglas Sr. and Jr. at Santa Monica, Calif. on whether Talbott mentioned his private management engineering firm to them.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) sent a strongly-worded telegram to the Douglases, whose firm has $1,500,000,000 in Air Force and Navy orders, "directing" them to appear today.

Tommy Byrne Cools Off ThePennant-Minded White Sox For His Third Shutout Of Season

Tommy Byrne, baseball's one-time "wild man," is being turned loose now only on the Yankees' chief contenders whereas not so long ago it wasn't considered safe to turn him loose at all.

Byrne, who led the American League in walks from 1949 through 1951, finally took one himself—to the minors—in 1953 but the Yankees rescued him last year and now he's rescuing them.

The 35-year-old Byrne cooled off the pennant-minded White Sox, 1-0, Tuesday night, marking the second time in a week that he defeated Chicago and threw a road-block in the path of Marty Marion's forces. Yogi Berra produced the only run of the game when he connected for his 17th homer off Dick Donovan in the sixth.

Byrne's fine four-hit job and third shutout of the season gave him a 9-2 record for the season and the Yankees a little more comfortable two-game lead in the tight American League race.

All four hits off Byrne were singles which came during the first three innings. He struck out three and walked five.

"It's a good idea to walk a few men," he explains, tongue in cheek, "otherwise people would wonder if that was really Byrne pitching out there."

Like the White Sox, the Indians also fell two games behind the pace when they bowed to the Red Sox, 5-1. Frank Sullivan recorded his 13th victory by pitching a five-hitter while Ted Williams and Sammy White helped him with home runs. Larry Doby's 17th homer in the fourth inning saved Cleveland from being shut out. Rookie Herb Score was the loser.

The Detroit Tigers climbed to within seven games of the top by beating Baltimore twice, 8-6, in the 12-inning opener, and 7-2 in the nightcap. Ray Boone doubled home the tie-breaking run in the 12th inning of the opener, driving in a total of four runs with two doubles and two singles. He also drove in two more runs in the nightcap as Ned Garver scattered nine hits for his 10th victory. Al Kaline hit his 23rd homer for Detroit in the first game while Bill Tuttle connected for his ninth. The two triumphs gave the Tigers a record of 12 victories in their last 15 games.

Kansas City beat Washington, 3-1, in the second game of a twi-night doubleheader after the Senators hammered out 17 hits to win the opener, 9-3.

Enos Slaughter's two-run triple in the third inning helped Alex Kellner to victory in the second game while Bob Porterfield won his first game since June 4th in the opener although Pedro Ramos relieved him in the sixth inning. Roy Sievers clouted his 16th homer in the first game.

Don Newcombe of Brooklyn racked up his 17th victory against a lone defeat in beating Cincinnati, 4-2, on a seven-hit effort. The Dodgers got to Rudy Minarcin for all their runs in the first three innings, clinching the win with two runs in the third on a walk and singles by Roy Campanella, Gil Hodges and Junior Gilliam.

Southpaw Dick Littlefield hurled the Pirates to their fifth straight triumph by beating the Cardinals, 3-1. Johnny O'Brien and Gene Freese each homered off loser Luis Arroyo as Littlefield limited the Redbirds to six hits for his fourth triumph.

Milwaukee rallied for five runs in the fifth inning to beat Philadelphia, 6-3, as southpaw Warren Spahn gained his ninth victory. A walk, four singles and Johnny Logan's two-run double made up the Braves' five-run rally.

Alvin Dark's two-out single in the 12th inning gave the Giants a 6-5 decision over the Cubs who fought back to tie the score at 5-all after New York had scored five runs in the first inning. Hank Sauer hit his ninth homer and Ernie Banks his 28th off Giant starter Sal Maglie.

Robinson Smashes Back Into Ring Magazine Ratings

NEW YORK (UP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, 35, smashed back into the Ring Magazine ratings today for the first time since his temporary retirement on Dec. 18, 1952.

The new ratings rank the former welterweight and middleweight champion as number three contender for the middleweight crown because of last Friday's victory over Rocky Castellani at San Francisco.

It was his fifth and most important victory in six comeback fights. It clinched a shot at Carl (Bobo) Olson's title, although Charley Humez of France is still listed as top contender, and Holly Mims of Washington, D.C., is ranked second. Castellani dropped from second to fourth.

As veteran Robinson returned to the ratings, 20-year-old Floyd Patterson of Brooklyn became the youngest top contender for the light heavyweight crown in history.

Patterson's knockout victory over the heavyweight Archie McBride on July 6 enabled him to replace Harold Johnson of Philadelphia, who has been inactive pending the investigation of his Philadelphia fight with Julio Mederos. Johnson was dropped to second place.

Two former world champions—Paddy DeMarco of Brooklyn and Yoshio Shirai of Japan — dropped out of the ratings. DeMarco, ex-lightweight ruler, fell out of the top 10 after his defeat by Ralph Dupas. Shirai, ex-flyweight boss, was erased from the list because of his recent retirement.

Jimmy Carter of New York, who lost his lightweight crown to Wallace Bud Smith of Cincinnati, is rated top contender for the 135-pound title, and Dupas of New Orleans is lowered to second berth.

Doug Ford Wins PGA Golf Championship; Second Player To Win Title In First Try

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor

NORTHVILLE, Mich. (UP) — Doug Ford spent his first day as the PGA golf champion baby sitting with his three children today.

He gave his wife the day off—because she had watched them the seven days it took him to win the title with par-shattering golf over the Meadowbrook Country Club course. He climaxed his brilliant performance Tuesday when he turned back Cary Middlecoff, who was shooting for the only major U.S. golf title he never has won, 4 and 3.

For Ford it meant a lot more than the first place money of $5,000. It was his first major tournament victory — his first triumph of any kind since he won the Fort Wayne Open more than a year ago.

And it put his name down in PGA history. For he became the second player ever to win the title —which the pros cherish most—in his first try and the fourth medalist ever to go on to capture the crown. Tom Creavy won it in his first try back in 1931 and the only other medalists who kept their games hot enough to go on to victory were Walter Hagen in 1926, Olin Dutra in 1932 and Byron Nelson in 1945.

Ford. closed out his match against Middlecoff on the 33rd hole with a par—putting him 39 under par for the 194 holes it took him to win the championship.

Gets Victory Feeling

Ford felt he had the match won when he went ahead for the first time on the 26th hole.

"Once I got up, I started to go," he said. He birdied the 29th and 30th to go 3 up, lost the 31st with a bogey, but bounced back with another birdie to win the 32nd and then closed out the match with a par on the 33rd.

"This was the best golf I've played," Ford said. "My irons were my best game and I think I shot more birdie 2's on par three holes in this tourney than ever before.'

Middlecoff, the leading money winner of the year, said "It was a great victory for Doug and I'm proud of him."

He revealed that he figured he was going to lose on the 17th hole of the morning round when he lost the hole despite a par five.

"My mind was so dull I couldn't think," the golfing dentist said. "I couldn't take advantage of my good drives and flubbed a lot of my second shots. I was exhausted. Maybe three or four years ago when I was younger I could have made it. This tournament takes a combination of luck and good golf. If you meet the right man early and get a little rest you're in good shape. It's the most gruelling grind in golf, without a doubt."

Cary "Aggravated Himself'

But Ford figured it wasnt fatigue that beat Middlecoff, that Cary "aggravated himself" out of the match with his slow playing.

"I think he bothered himself," Ford explained. "I don't think he was so tired out. He isn't that old. Why I've got children who keep me up all hours of the night and I didnt get tired. He tried too much to play it safe. Then he'd get bold. Then he'd get cautious. I think that slow playing just aggravated him."

Middlecoff said he had to play slowly because of hay fever which "botners me especially when it's hot."

And it was hot Tuesday—but that temperature in the 90s and the sun that blistered the Meadowbrook course wasn't as hot as Ford's golf. Not that Middlecoff played badly — because he didn't. He was even par for the 33 holes—leaving him 24 under par for 204 holes.

Wimbledon Champion Opens Bid For Title

SOUTHHAMPTON, N. Y. (UP)—Wimbledon champion Tony Trabert, anxious to atone for a surprise defeat here last year, opens his bid for the Meadow Club Invitation tennis tournament title today with a second-round match against Dr. Jack Geller of Purchase, N.Y.

The Cincinnati,. Ohio, star was the only player in the field to draw a bye in Tuesday's first round and was expected to sweep through Geller, a former Princeton, player, with ease.

But last year Trabert was similarly favored and was upset in the semi-final round by Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N.J., who went on to win the championship. Moylan, only second-seeded in defense of his crown, opened successfully with 6-1, 6-2 victory Tuesday over, Van Renssalear of Greenwich, Conn.

The only seeded player who was ousted in the opening round was sixth-seeded Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif., who bowed to Berry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, 6-2, 6-2. MacKay, 19-year-old University of Michigan college star, won by gambling with a forecourt game as Frost stayed in the backcourt.

Speiser - Pastrano TV Bout Tonight

CHICAGO (UP)—Chuck Speiser, a former college boxer whose pro career was interrupted by two years of military service, gets his first television appearance tonight, and the 25-year-old battler was determined he wouldn't lose to well-rated Willie Pastrano.

The scrappers tangle in the Chicago Stadium ring for a 10-round encounter and Pastrano, appearing in the feature bout for the third time, was a 9 to 5 favorite.

Pastrano, 19-years-old, has won 31 bouts, lost 4 and drawn 4 with 8 knockouts. He expected to weigh in about 176 pounds for the match while Speiser anticipated going 170.

Baseball Schedule

Wednesday

8:00 Merchants vs Claypool

Easter lilies are on the verge of becoming all-season flowers. About 40 new hybrids better than standard varieties are now being compared by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Newcombe Scores 17th Victory

By UNITED PRESS

Don Newcombe of the Dodgers, who scored his 17th victory of the season Tuesday night, 4-2, over Cincinnati, now stands one week behind the pace set in 1934 by the National League's last 30-game winner — Dizzy Dean of the Cardinals.

Newcombe won his 17th game on July 26; Dean won his 17th on July 19.

Robin Roberts of the Phillies has won 16 games and will be trying for his 17th tonight against Milwaukee.

Notre Dame Football Coaching Staff Full

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP)—The Notre Dame football coaching staff was returned to full strength today when Bernie Witucki was named as an assistant to head Coach Terry Brennan. Witucki will replace Bill Earley, who resigned recently to join the coaching staff of the Toronto Argonauts.

'Short' Workout

STEVENS POINT, Wis. (UP)—Members of the Green Bay Packers discarded their heavy practice gear Tuesday and worked out in shorts when the temperature reached 97 degrees.

Coach Lisle Blackbourn said he hoped to stage a midweek scrimmage today if it isn't too hot.

Browns Ask Waivers

HIRAM, Ohio (UP)—The Cleveland Browns today asked waivers on center Pat Canamela and end Jim Greer. Halfback Aramis Dandoy injured his knee during Tuesdays drill and joined end Carlton Massey on the sidelines. Massey has a slightly pulled leg muscle.

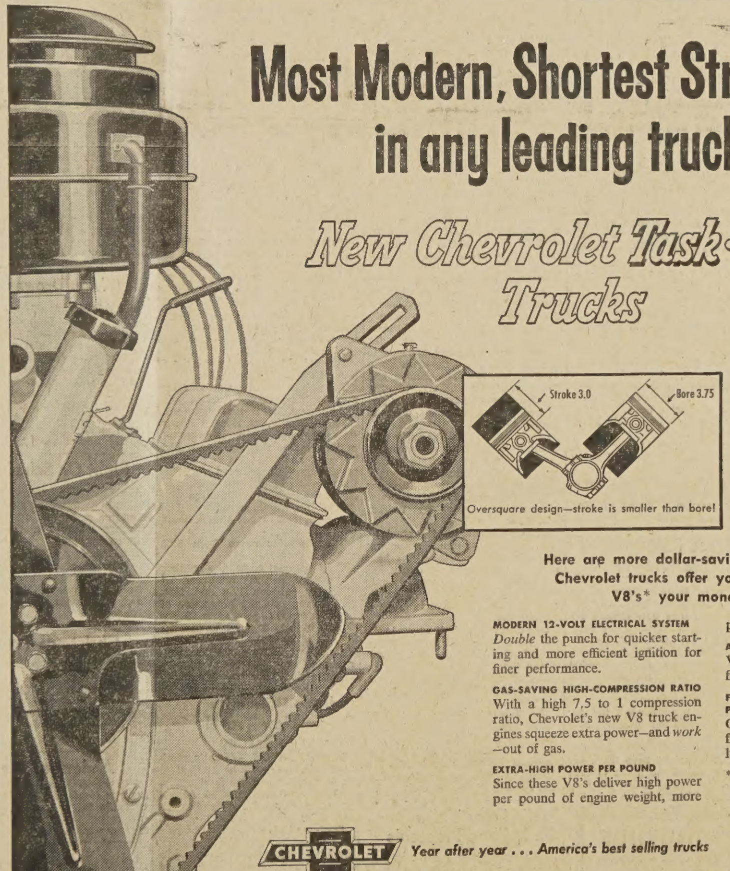
Most Modern, Shortest Stroke V8's*
in any leading truck!

New Chevrolet Task-Force Trucks



Oversquare design—stroke is smaller than bore!

Here's the measure of a truly modern V8 engine —Chevrolet's advanced oversquare design. It means less friction . . . greater efficiency . . . longer engine life!

Here are more dollar-saving reasons why new Chevrolet trucks offer you the most modern V8's* your money can buy!

MODERN 12-VOLT ELECTRICAL SYSTEM
Double the punch for quicker starting and more efficient ignition for finer performance.

GAS-SAVING HIGH-COMPRESSION RATIO
With a high 7.5 to 1 compression ratio, Chevrolet's new V8 truck engines squeeze extra power—and work —out of gas.

EXTRA-HIGH POWER PER POUND
Since these V8's deliver high power per pound of engine weight, more power is available for hauling.

ADVANCED AIRCRAFT-TYPE VALVES
Valve action is more positive for finer, smoother performance.

FLOATING OIL INTAKE . . . FULL-PRESSURE LUBRICATION
Oil intake selects the cleanest oil for positive, full-pressure engine lubrication.

V8 standard in the new L.C.F. models, an extra-cost option in all others except Forward-Control models.*

Complaints Of Rioters Will Be Given To Sheriff

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP)—Jailer Bob Beck said the complaints of Bexar County jail prisoners that set off a riot would be presented to Sheriff Owen W. Kilday in his hospital room today.

Becker said some of the men complained of bad food and cockroaches in their food and one or two rioters said they needed medical attention and weren't receiving it.

The sheriff was in Santa Rosa Hospital with a pistol wound in his right leg when 216 prisoners on the fourth and fifth floors of the jail rioted for an hour and a half Tuesday night.

Kilday accidentally shot himself in the leg Tuesday when his pistol fell out of his belt and went off as he got out of a car.

He called the jail during the riot and told a deputy to send him a pair of shoes so he could get out of the hospital. But hospital attendants got wind of the scheme and wouldn't let the sheriff out.

The prisoners started rioting about 9 p.m. while they were outside their cells in a larger inclosure for the recreation period.

They obtained a water hose and started spraying the cells. The men knocked out the lights with water, broke tables and tried to break down the doors leading to a hallway.

Deputies cut off the water to the prisoners while city firemen strung a hose from a block away and threatened to turn water on the rioting men. Some 15 or 20 city police officers and about 25 sheriff's deputies were called to the jail.

Deputies were considering using tear gas on the men when Becker persuaded Buck Collins, a veteran prisoner on the fourth floor, into talking to the men.

Collins told them they wouldn't be placed in solitary confinement or put on bread and water as punishment and talked them into going back to their cells.

Eisenhower Receives Some Good News

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower beamingly disclosed today that his daughter - in - law, Mrs. John S. Eisenhower, is expecting a baby in December.

With an ear-to-ear grin, he told reporters that he came home from Geneva to be greeted by the good news that if all goes well he will be a grandfather for the fourth time about Christmas.

John and Barbara Eisenhower now have three children: David, 7, Barbara Ann, 5 and Susan Elaine, 3.

U. S., Red China Open Conference Next Monday

U. S. Concerned With Arrangements To Free Americans

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today that there eventually may have to be a meeting with Red China at the foreign ministers' level.

The United States and Red China will open a conference of ambassadors at Geneva Monday.

Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference that the United States at the talks opening Monday, will be primarily concerned with arrangements to free Americans held by Red China.

The President said one of the biggest causes of tension between the two nations is the illegal detention of Americans by Red China.

He was asked how "arrangements" could be made at next week's talks that would not prejudice the rights and interests of Nationalist China.

The President said the first arrangement which concerned the United States was how to get the Americans home. This subject, he said, does not affect Nationalist China.

Then he said the United States will have to listen to what the Red Chinese want to talk about. He said the talks with Red China eventually might have to go to a ministerial meeting.

This was taken to mean that a higher meeting might involve others besides this country and Communist China.

Meanwhile, this government prepared demands that Red China prove its peaceful intentions by agreeing to a cease fire in the Formosa Straits and freeing 51 Americans held in Chinese jails.

These two demands topped a list of American proposals for easing Far Eastern tensions to be presented at next week's American-Red Chinese negotiations at Geneva.

Advance plans for the Geneva talks are being made by President Eisenhower, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and an ace U. S. trouble - shooter, U. Alexis Johnson, ambassador to Czechoslovakia, who will represent the United States at the Geneva meeting.

Britain, India, Burma and many other governments were reported to have expressed warm approval of the latest United States move to ease cold war tensions. Reaction in Congress was generally favorable, too, but some reservations and dissents were voiced.

U. S. Prisoners Question

Chairman Walter F. George (D-Ga) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said he had not thought it was intended for the Geneva meeting to cover questions dealing with Formosa because the status of Formosa concerns the Chinese Nationalists also.

George said he had understood the Geneva meeting at the ambassadorial level was intended to deal mainly with the question of U.S. prisoners held by the Red Chinese.

He said he is personally convinced a higher level conference on Far Eastern problems will be held "within a reasonable time."

Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont), another member of the foreign relations group, warned the Senate Tuesday that the ambassador's meeting "is a step forward in 'de facto' recognition" of Red China "even though it is expressly stated that no recognition is implied in these meetings and recognition will not be discussed."

He also predicted in a Senate speech that "there will soon be a call for a meeting at the summit in the Far East, or at least one step short of the summit."

Fears Red China Recognition

Rep. Thomas J. Dodd (D-Conn) said Congress should stay in session this summer to make sure the talks with Red China do not pave the way for diplomatic recognition of Red China.

Dodd, a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said that he favored talks with Red China as long as they were confined strictly to release of Americans held prisoner by China. But he disagreed with George's suggestion of later talks with the Red Chinese on a high level.

Dulles told a news conference Tuesday that the "basic thing" to be determined at the new talks with Red China was "whether we must prepare for war in that area or whether there is apt to be a ceasefire" in the Formosa Straits.

If Red China would make a public commitment not to attack Formosa or other Nationalist-held islands, the Eisenhower administration believes chances for a Far Eastern peace would be very bright.

The unwarranted detention of American prisoners is ranked with the importance of a ceasefire. The Reds hold 40 American civilians and 11 U.S. airmen.

Big Foreign Aid Money Bill Hits New Snag Today

May Prolong This Session Of Congress

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House today rejected President Eisenhower's .. $38,600,000,000 road - building program. It would .have .been .financed largely by 30-year, non-treasury bonds.

By UNITED PRESS

The big foreign aid money bill hit a new sang today which may prolong this session of Congress.

House-Senate conferees reported they got nowhere in their first effort to resolve the differences between the two chambers.

The House had cut $627,900,000 out of the $3,266,641,750 requested by President Eisenhower. The Senate put most of the cut back in.

Today the House conferees served notice they will not accept the Senate action. Senate conferees were similarly determined not to accept the House version.

The bill providing funds for another year of military and economic aid abroad is one of the major measures standing in the way of congressional adjournment.

House and Senate leaders originally hoped to wind up the session at the end of this week. But that now seems highly unlikely.

The House decides today whether to approve a multi-billion dollar highway expansion program and whether to finance it through increased taxes or bonds.

The House was to vote first on a 10-year, $38,616,660,000 road-building program proposed by President Eisenhower. It would be paid for by floating 21 billion dollars in 30-year, non-Treasury bonds.

If the administration plan is defeated, a 13-year, $50,477,000,000 program backed by the Democrats would be considered. It would be financed by hiking gasoline, tire and other highway "user" taxes during the next 16 years.

During debate Tuesday, House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. argued that the President's bond-financing plan "will not raise taxes—it will not increase the federal debt."

But Rep. George H. Fallon (D-Mo) countered that the administration plan is "deficit finacing." He said the choice was between paying for the roads "in 16 years in cash or over 30 years on credit."

Other congressional news:

..Natural Gas: The House was expected to begin debate late today on a controversial bill to exempt natural gas producers from direct federal controls.

....Adjournment: Senate Democratic leaders were confident the Senate will be ready for adjournment by Saturday night. But there were few signs House leaders really expect the House calendar to be in shape to permit adjournment by then. But House leaders insisted they still are working toward a Saturday windup.

Appropriations: The Senate Tuesday night approved by voice vote a $1,830,078,614 supplemental appropriations bill. It provides funds for a variety of items ranging from the new Air Force academy to grants to states to help provide free polio vaccine shots. The measure went to a Senate-House conference committee for a compromise on different amounts voted by the Senate and House.

.. Housing: House Republican leaders hoped that with another try today they could get President Eisenhower's public housing program out of the House Rules Committee. They tried Tuesday but failed to break a 6-6 tie vote in committee that has tied up the housing bill since July 1.

Salk: The House passed unanimously and sent to the Senate Tuesday a bill to award Dr. Jonas E. Salk a gold medal for his part in developing an anti-polio vaccine.

Hoosiers Gasp Through Hottest Night Of Year

By UNITED PRESS

Hoosiers gasped through the hottest night of the year and sweltered in the season's warmest temperatures today as the mercury headed toward 100.

Minimum readings ranged from 74 to 76 during the night and extreme humidity added to the discomfort.

The mercury climbed to highs t oup96 Tuesday, and the 95 reading at Indianapolis was the hottest thus far in 1955 for the capital city. It was above 90 throughout the state, from Lake Michigan to the Ohio River.

A top of 100 was predicted for today in the south. Up north, residents were scheduled to fare a little better. The top there was forecast at 98.

Scattered thunderstorms may bring some relief to north and central portions Thursday. Lows tonight will range from 70 to 77. The Friday outlook was for temperatures ranging from 88 to 98, with a little cooler readings in the north and central but little change downstate.

Toughest Job Of PGA Turned In By Mrs. Ford

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NORTHVILLE, Mich. (UP) — There were two people who walked farther and worked harder than Doug Ford as he won the PGA golf championship.

One was his 10-year-old son, Doug Jr. The other was his pretty wife, Marilyn.

The toughest job of all was turned in by Mrs. Ford.

"This," she said as she steadied 5-months-old Pamela on one hip and pushed 4-year-old Michael on a swing in the playground back of the 16th tee, "is the longest day of my life."

Perspiration beaded her face, a frown wrinkled her forehead and she kept casting anxious glances over the course at the thousands of spectators who blocked her view of what was going on out there in the July heat.

Frets Through Finale

"I don't want to see anyhow," she fretted, jiggling red-haired Pamela as the baby cried. "I just can't hardly stand this, but seeing it would be worse."

Michael, his red hair gleaming in the hot sun, crawled up to the top of the sliding board and standing upright teetered on the edge.

"Please, Michael, come down from there," Marilyn called. "We'll be going soon, son, just as soon as daddy gets done out there."

She sat the baby on the grass and walked over quickly to brush off Michael's short pants. The baby, meanwhile, had bunched her tiny fists into the grass and was chewing contentedly on a dusty mouthful. Marilyn swooped back, fished out the grass and picked her up.

Then she went back to her ceaseless pacing, up and down through the ankle length grass.

Hard On Nerves

"This is all Doug ever wanted to do," she said. "But it sure is hard on my nerves."

There was a cheer from the gallery out around the 31st hole.

"Oh my goodness," Mrs. Ford gasped. "He must have lost a hole."

She put the baby into its carriage, rescued the active Mike from a children's merry-go-round, picked up the baby again and resumed her pacing.

"We make the tour in a trailer," she said. "The children love it. Doug seems to enjoy it, too, and young Doug just bites his nails right down to the quick. He has followed Doug through every hole of this tournament and at night he wants to play every shot all over again. Nothing seems to upset 'Daddy,' but I'll tell you I've got the screaming meemies right now."

The gallery raced up around the nearby 33rd green and Marilyn turned her back and walked to the far end of the children's enclosure.

Hubby Was Confident

"When I first came on the tour," she smiled pathetically, "Doug won $185 in the first tournament I saw. I asked him: 'How come all those other fellows finish so far ahead of you?' He just laughed at me and said it would get better. Well, maybe it will, but I don't know whether I'll be alive to see it."

Michael fell down and Mrs. Ford hauled him up with her one unoccupied arm and swiftly dusted him off.

"It won't be long now, son," she crooned, sending an apprehensive glance out to where the crowd was banked around the green.

Then there was a roar which signified the end and she leaped straight up in the air, clutching Pamela to her happily. Grabbing Michael by the arm, she walked swiftly toward where her burly husband was being mauled by the congratulating crowd.

"Thank goodness, we can go home now," she breathed. "I just don't know what in the world to get for dinner."

For Marilyn Ford the day still wasn't over.

Hottest Weather Of The Year Bakes Nation's Midsection

By UNITED PRESS

The hottest weather of the year baked the nation's midsection today with a 100-degree midsummer heat wave.

Heat records tumbled throughout the Midwest and steaming humidity added to the misery in the early morning hours.

No immediate relief was in sight for many areas, although a cool front was expected to crack the heat wave in sizzling Chicago by tonight. Scorchers were feared elsewhere until this weekend.

Record-breaking highs Tuesday included 99.3 at Chicago and 101 at Milwaukee—both new tops for the date. It was 102 at Sioux City, Sac City, and Oskaloosa in Iowa and at Beloit, Wis. The hottest temperatures were registered at Blythe and Daggett, Calif., where the mercury went to 103.

At Cedar Rapids, Iowa, 81-year-old Knute Longfield collapsed from the heat and hospital atendants discovered the oldster was excessively protected against the weather.

They peeled off a pair of long woolen underwear, a wool vest, a wool sweater, and a pair of heavy pants.

Longfield explained that he suffered from rheumatism.

The temperature went into the 90s at Hart, Mich., but most of the talk was about cold weather. The Michigan Christmas Tree Assn. was meeting to draft plans for the sale of evergreens next December.

In Detroit the mid-summer heat wave had already tied a longevity record by burning the Motor City with two weeks of 90-plus weather. Chicago's record of 15 plus-90 days in July appeared sure to be tied today and Pittsburgh, Pa., expected the hottest day of the year.

Council

with the amount received from Columbia City brings the total to the $10,812 mentioned above.

In other business, the council approved extending the Ion Capacitator Corp. a supplemental agreement allowing the concern an additional year in which to fulfill their contract on the purchase of the plant building from the city.

In the original agreement, made five years ago, the firm was to purchase a minimum of 9 million killowats of electricity from the city or pay the city $3500 for the building. The firm has used only between 2 and 3 million killowatts during the period, according to Franklin Dillman, city clerk-treasurer, and the corporation advised the city that it was not in a position to pay the $3500.

Survey for Water Tower

The extended agreement provided that beginning August 15, the company will pay one-twelfth of the purchase price for each of the next twelve months. Upon completion of the payments, the firm is to be given a clear deed to the plant site.

The council also revealed that arrangements are being made for a survey of property owned by Harry Riddick in the northwest part of the city as a site for building a water tower. The site is one of the alternate locations recommended in a survey of the water facilities in the city made last August and September. The location considered is at the end of an alley between Walnut and Elm streets and was the best recommended in the original survey.

A request by David Shively to cut a curb at 501 West Market street was approved at the meeting.

Discuss Street Signs

The council also received a request for a street light at the end of Hanna street in a petition signed by Charles Hendrickson and Keith Rupert. The residents stated in the petition that the light nearest to their property was 150 feet distant. The council requested Wilbur Steel, superintendent of public utilities, to investigate the request.

The council also discussed the use of no-turn signs at Chauncey and Van Buren street and the installation of 10 yield right-of-way signs in the city. The latter signs have been on trial for six months, Lee Gross, chief of police, reported and the council approved his recommendation for a permanent ordinance retaining them.

It was explained that the main reason for the no-turn signs was to protect pedestrians crossing at the intersection during rush hours. The pedestrians also interrupt the flow of traffic when turns are attempted there, it was said. It was decided to retain them on trial.

Gross was asked to contact the Greyhound Bus Company regarding a bus zone in front of the depot in front of Snider's Grill on South Main street. Some complaints have been received that busses have been forced to block off parking areas of nearby businesses, because cars are parked in front of the depot.

The council received a report that only two property owners were holding up paving of Jackson street between Madison and Marshall avenue. However, one of the citizens paid his assessment Wednesday morning, leaving only one to contribute his share. All of the property owners on the street must agree to have it paved and pay their assessment before the city can begin the work.

Budget Meeting Tuesday

Hope for residents of the street, who are attempting to have a new sewer installed, was raised when it was mentioned that Mrs. David A. Walter, Sr., who owns five houses on the southwest corner of Jackson and Marshall, was interested in having the sewer connect with her property. The City School Board also agreed to put $850 into next year's budget for their share on the storm sewer. The Mary Raber school, located at the end of East Jackson street, has an integral sanitary sewer.

It was decided at the meeting to contact the State Highway Department to request that paving of West Van Buren street not be done during the Old Settler's celebration, August 10, 11, 12, and 13. The state has advised that it intends to re-pave the state highway route during the summer. The paving will extend from Main street west to Elm street.

No action was taken on a request by Russel D. Wolfe, city fire chief, for construction of a paved area behind the Water and Light Plant for water battles during the August festivities. Wolfe was advised to find a location to be blocked off on one of the streets.

Action on the 1956 budget was postponed to allow Dillman additional time to prepare the figures. A special meeting will be held next Tuesday for consideration of the budget.

the fate of the seven crewmen and 50 passengers, including an undisclosed number of American tourists.

The plane had left London at 9:15 p.m. Tuesday. It touched down at Paris at 10:22 and left Vienna's Schwechat Airport at 5 a.m. on its next-to-the last leg of the flight to Lydda. It was scheduled to have landed at Istanbul enroute.

El Al officials at all points along the airliner's route were reluctant to announce the names of passengers, pending an official release from the company's headquarters here.

At least 14 of the passengers boarded the plane at London and an El Al official said "a number of them were Americans." A number of additional passengers, possibly including American tourists, boarded the plane at Paris and Vienna.

El Al officials at Vienna said at least one American woman, and a number of Russians, Israelis and Austrians boarded the plane there.

State Distributes 5,400 Pheasants

Forty-five northern Indiana counties including Whitley county shared in the distribution of a unique crop surplus this month, when 5400 surplus hen pheasants from the Wells County and Jasper-Pulaski state game farms were released by the division of fish and game of the Indiana Department of Conservation.

John Washburn, local state conservation officer, said that 120 of the pheasants were distributed to Whitley county farmers last week.

The first of three such releases before the fall hunting season, the birds were released at the rate of approximately 120 per county in the counties north of US 40, in areas where the heaviest concentrations of pheasants already exist.

If you're looking forward to pheasant with wild rice, however, don't pin your hopes on these birds, since hunters will probably never get a chance at the hens. The main reasons for their release were to make room in the game farms for the spring broods, to get the birds into the open and give them a chance to produce late broods, and also to keep them in the wilds this year so that they will be there to nest next year.

Two more general releases are planned, according to conservation director Harley G. Hook, in which adult males will be liberated.

Thunder, Lightning, Rain, High Winds, Heat Wave Plague Indiana

By UNITED PRESS

One Hoosier city cut the use of water and another was doused with four inches of rain as Indiana's scorching heat wave continued with temperatures near 100.

Thunder, lightning, rain and high winds caught New Albany residents off guard Wednesday night. An unofficial report said about four inches of rain fell in 90 minutes.

A 11-year-old boy was shocked by lightning as he held a water pipe in the basement of his home, but he was not hospitalied. About $1,000 damage to a house heppened when it was hit by lightning. Water flooded streets and basements and a flood wall pump was turned to handle back water.

Winds ripped down electric lines and limbs and uprooted trees.

At Least 6 Drown

Meanwhile, Lafayette officials continued a ban on unncessary use of city water. Residents were asked not to use city water for sprinkling lawns, private car washing and for air conditioners. The fire department asked people not to burn trash.

Since the heat wave this week in Indiana, about six persons have drowned. A child was electrocuted

President Urges Congress To Pass Highway Bill

Immediately Told There Isn't A Chance

By UNITED PRESS

President Eisenhower strongly urged Congress today to revive and pass his highway program before adjournment. He was immediately told there isn't a chance.

The House Wednesday rejected not only the President's highway expansion plan but also a Democratic substitute. A big difference was over methods of financing the multi-billion dollar proposals—with special bonds under the President's plan, new taxes under the Democratic.

In a special White House statement, Mr. Eisenhower asserted that "contention over the method should not be permitted to deny our people these critically needed roads."

Speaker Sam Rayburn agreed with that. But he said there is "no chance of geting a bill up this session—none whatever."

Other congressional news:

Gas: The House overrode objections of some big city members and decided to act on a bill to exempt natural gas producers from direct federal controls. By a vote of 272-135 it approved a Rules Committee resoluion putting the measure before the House.

Foreign Aid: The House approved a compromise $2,703,341,750 foreign aid appropriation. After

Shipbuilders Tell Varied Views On Waterway

As To Effect Of Foreign Competition

By DAN BYRNE
United Press Staff Correspondent

MANITOWOC, Wis. (UP)—John West, president of the Manitowoc Engineering Co., said today the St. Lawrence Waterway may subject shipbuilders here to ruinous foreign competition.

West said shipbuilders in low-wage countries could build cheaper then Manitowoc builders and deliver new boats to the Great Lakes through the deepened waterway.

"As soon as you open the door to foreign competition you make it very difficult for lake builders to survive," he said. "We've never been very enthusiastic about the St. Lawrence Seaway project for that reason."

West's family has been associated with shipbuilding here for almost half a century. His firm is a subsidiary of the Manitowoc Ship Building Co.

William L. Wallace, president of the shipbuilding firm, did not share West's view. He said he believes Great Lakes builders will be able to compete with coastal builders in this country.

And he said he doubts whether foreign competition ever will present much of a problem.

"There would be a good many complications," he said.

Wallace said as long as the automobile industry needs iron ore, "we're going to keep building ships to haul the ore."

Trial On Charges Of Heresy Goes Into Second Day

Young Minister Maintains Innocence

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP) — A precedent-setting trial in the Lutheran Church, on charges of heresy, went into its second day today with a young minister steadfastly maintaining his innocence of deviationism.

The Rev. Charles Burmeister, Marinette, Wis., the prosecuting officer, said the trial was significant for the Lutheran Church "because we are officially declaring ourselves on the doctrine of deviation."

The Rev. George Crist Jr., on trial before a board of the Northwest Synod of the United Lutheran Church, denied that his theological beliefs differed from the teachings of Martin Luther, and said his viewpoints were permissable in the church.

Crist, pastor of the Bethlehem Lutheran Church in nearby Durham, faced 14 charges of "doctrinal deviation" before an ecclesiastical court.

The trial was secret and the exact nature of the charges was not revealed. However Crist said the charges concerned his denial of the virgin birth of Jesus Christ, and his denial that Jesus Christ was actually resurrected.

Crist said, however, that some of the other charges against him do not represent his view.

His denial of the virgin birth and resurrection had no effect on his belief in Jesus Christ, he said. Crist held the point of view that belief in Jesus Christ is based on acceptance of Jesus Christ's claims about the meaning of life, rather than on the doctrine of his birth, resurrection or any "miracles" concerning Christ himself.

The trial, before a seven-member court, was the first in the 65-year history of the church. When the trial is completed a special investigative committee will meet in executive session for a final discussion on the merits of the case. The committee said they went through nine of the charges Wednesday night, but they declined to comment on any phase of the trial.

Two other Milwaukee area pastors also came under investigation, but Crist was the only one who was specifically charged.

Dr. Mayo Discusses Turncoats Who Chose To Stay In Red China, Then Changed Minds

EDITORS NOTE: Dr. Charles W. Mayo, an alternate U.S. delegate to the 8th General Assembly of the United Nations, has delivered bold speeches in the U.N. attacking the Communist brainwashing technique. The famous surgeon of the Mayo Clinic also has pointed with pride to men who refused to confess to false Communist charges despite brutal punishment. In the following, Dr. Mayo discusses turncoats who chose to stay in Communist China after the Korean War, but now want to come home. The three turncoats will return Friday.

ROCHESTER, Minn. (UP)— As citizens, our first concern is the protection of our country. This fact is emphasized particularly when we are at war.

In the normal course of war, a certain percentage of individuals in our armed forces have the misfortune of falling into the hands of the enemy.

The conduct of those individuals who become prisoners of war still is a matter of concern to this country. We look with pride on those men who refused to be brainwashed and who refused to confess to false charges or to turn against their country or their fellow prisoners, despite punishment.

At this time when certain turncoats are returning to this country, we should recall the countless dead who gave their lives in some manner or other in the interest

Court Reverses Conviction Of Clyde Powell

Key Housing Scandal Investigation Figure

WASHINGTON (UP)—The U.S. Court of Appeals today reversed the contempt conviction of Clyde L. Powell, ousted assistant commissioner of the Federal Housing Administration and a key figure in congressional housing scandal. Powell was convicted in Federal District Court here last Oct. 29 of criminal contempt for refusing to answer a grand jury's questions about his activities as a housing official. Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts sentenced him to a year in prison.

In reversing the conviction, the appeals court sharply rebuked government prosecutors for giving the trial judge "grossly inaccurate" information about Powell's grand jury testimony. The appeals court said the trial judge was "misled" and the contempt conviction was "contrary to the evidence."

Powell had claimed that answers to the grand jury's questions might be self-incriminating. But Judge Letts said Powell did not "successfully or effectively" invoke the Fifth Amendment.

Judge Letts twice ordered Powell to answer grand jury questions about the whereabouts of his "official diaries" which were considered to be key evidence in the inquiry into multi-million dollar irregularities in the FHA.

When Powell refused, Judge Letts ruled that he was "guilty of criminal contempt beyond a reasonable doubt."

Powell, 58, was fired as assistant FHA commissioner last spring. William F. McKenna, the administration trouble-shooter assigned to clean up the FHA mess, said in an official report that Powell had accepted more than $100,000 from apartment builders who made bit "windfall profits" on government-insured loans.

School Stock Sale Climbs To $7,370 By Official Deadline

A total of $7,370 for shares of stock in the new high school had been received by the official deadline for solicitation Wednesday morning, it was reported by Robert Gates, attorney for the Columbia City Joint High School Board.

Gates said that that is the amount which will be reported to the school bonding attorneys in Indianapolis. Money for sale of several shares is expected to be reported after the deadline, however.

The original estimate for sales in the school stock issue was $7,500. It is expected that that goal will be exceeded.

The breakdown on the stock sales in Columbia City and the townships who will be affiliated in the new high school is as follows: Columbia City $3,970, Columbia township $960, Thorncreek $640, Washington $670, Union $610, and Jefferson $520.

Neighborhood Group Honors Mrs. Nix And Five Others

Mrs. Kenneth Nix was named homemaker of the year at the "Never Idle" Neighborhood group meeting at the James Baker residence Sunday.

Other winners of the annual awards were Donald Mullet, soils and crop man of the year; Ivin Blaugh, beef producer of the year, Lawrence Hesting, dairyman of the year; Kenneth Nix, poultryman of the year, and James Baker, swine producer of the year.

The group had an ice cream social after the business meeting.

Republican Candidates To Meet Thursday To Make Election Plans

There will be a meeting of all Republican candidates for city office at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Auto License Branch office, it has been announced by Charles White, chairman of the Columbia City Republican Central Committee.

The meeting will be for the purpose of resolving the plans of the Republican political party candidates for the November election.

All present office-holders are seeking re-election on the Republican ticket.

Flood Forces 1500 From Homes In Albuquerque

Some Relief From Heat In Midwest

By United Press

Record breaking heat struck the nation again today from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic seaboard, while a devastating flood forced 1,500 persons from their homes at Albuquerque, N. M.

Some relief was expected from the worst heat of the year after Wednesday's 100-degree readings through a wide area of the Midwest. Cooler air spread southward over the Great Lakes and North Atlantic States. But in the southeastern part of the nation the mercury stayed high.

Two flash floods roared out of the rain-drenched Sandia Mountains into the northern half of Albuquerque, causing 1,500 persons to flee their homes. Evacuees scurried to the University of New Mexico dormitories for shelter, and Gov. John F. Sims declared a state of emergency.

An 18-inch crest of water flowed through half the city, and damage from mud and water was estimated at one million dollars.

A severe thunderstorm sent more than three inches of rain in four hours at Atlanta, Ga. The violent storm knocked the city's trolley system out of service, and police and firemen reported that 12 homes were hit by lightning.

Heavy rain also fell at Buffalo, N.Y., Charleston, S.C., and New Orleans, Jacksonville and Tampa Fla., and Denver.

The searing heat across the nation's mid-section sent the mercury to a record 100.4 at Chicago, breaking all records for July 27. It was the 15th day this month of 90-degree or higher temperatures.

The mercury soared to 104 at Lincoln, Neb., 103 at Rockford, Ill., and 102 at Des Moines Iowa.

Roger Ray, 5, Escapes Injury When Bicycle Collides With Car

Roger Lewis Ray, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell F. Ray, 502 East Ellsworth street, escaped serious injury at about 8 p.m. Tuesday when he rode his bicycle into the side of a car at the intersection of Main and Ellsworth streets. He suffered only a bruised elbow.

The car, driven by Gerald Lee Pensinger, 24, of R 4, Albion, was westbound on Ellsworth street and the Ray boy was riding his bicycle south on Main street when the collision occurred. The bicycle hit the left side of the automobile. No damage was caused to either the car or bicycle.

New Violence If Freedom Is Not Restored

Is Forecast Of Peron's Opposition

BUENOS AIRES (UP) — Argentina's chief opposition party, in its first radio address in 10 years, Wednesday night forecast new violence if President Juan D. Peron fails to restore full freedom.

Arturo Frondizzi, head of the Radical Party, said Argentina would enjoy internal peace only when the state of internal war is lifted, a general political amnesty is decreed and full constitutional rights are restored.

Peron promised these changes earlier this month to back up his request for a truce with his political enemies. He pledged to forego the special dictatorial powers given him under the state of internal war.

Frondizzi's broadcast lent weight to Peron's pledges. Opposition parties have been deprived of the use of radio for nearly a decade. For Wednesday night's 30-minute address over Radio Belgrano, one of the nation's largest networks, the Radical Party paid $750.

Frondizzi said his party would not accept any truce that would "in any way restrict or violate the federal republican representative system."

"Pacification," he said, "cannot mean submission of any kind. We want peace, but not at the cost of freedom or of renouncing our democratic ideals. We would rather be persecuted than to sacrifice any of these."

He added, "In its hour, the people will decide who they want directing the country's destiny."

Peron touched on the subject of pacification himself Wednesday night. In a speech to a workers delegation at General Labor Confederation headquarters, he said, "We will restore all liberties provided they are not used to attack those of others."

The president said his decision to end the revolutionary period was due only to sober thinking, "not to any other cause."

2 Union Township Youths Report On 4-H Camp To Kiwanians

A first-hand report on the Kiwanis 4-H Junior Leaders Camp held at DePauw University June 29 to July 2 was given to the Kiwanis Club Wednesday night by two Union township youths who attended.

The reports were made by Marlyn Beeching and Dick Kyler, both of Union township. Max Sponhauer, Cleveland township, and Joe Krider and Shirley Nix, Washington township, also attended the camp but were unable to attend the Kiwanis Club meeting.

Miss Beeching told the club about the activities of the first two days at the camp and Kyler related the experiences of the second two days.

Miss Beeching explained that nine Kiwanis districts were represented with from 50 to 60 4-H youths from each district at the camp.

Both the youths emphasized the leadership and citizenship which was stressed at the camp along with recreational activities.

Prior to the talks by the 4-H youths, the club received a report from Harold Murphy, president, that a total of $640 was realized on sale of concessions at the Kiwanis operated stand at the Boy Scout Camporee the first part of June. Since expenses of the Camporee were expected to be about $600, a slight profit was made. The concession sales was the only means of income at the Anthony Wayne Council event.

At next Wednesday's Kiwanis Club meeting, Dr. Otto Lehmberg will illustrate his Hawaiian trip with pictures.

Hospital Patient

Mrs. Clifton Spurrier was taken to the Lutheran Hospital Wednesday morning in the J. A. DeMoney and Son ambulance. Mrs. Spurrier was admitted to the hospital for medical treatment. Her room number is 404.

Psychologist Is Rotary Club Speaker

Dr. Roy L. Standahl, psychologist from Reedsville, North Carolina, spoke at the local Rotary Club meeting Wednesday evening. Dr. Standahl spoke on "Placement of Personnel In Business." He enumerated a number of different techniques psychologists use in evaluating capabilities of people and pointed out that a psychologist has developed a series of tools with which to classify individuals.

Roy Duncan, Blue Bell manager, introduced the speaker.

Eisenhower Sees Delegates Of Boys' Nation

Including Counterpart President Hopper

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower met President Hopper today.

What's more, Mr. Eisenhower received a cultivator from his counterpart.

The other chief executive is 17-year-old Douglas Joseph Hopper, president of the American Legion's 1955 Boys' Nation.

Douglas presented the motorized cultivator — for Mr. Eisenhower's vegetable garden on his Gettysburg, Pa., farm — as he and 93 others in the Boys' Nation group called at the White House.

Douglas, from Glendale, Calif., also presented President Eisenhower with a Boys' Nation lapel pin.

After Douglas met his real-life counterpart, junior senators in the Boys' Nation adjourned to Capitol Hill to conduct their own Senate sessioin and meet some real-life senators.

Tonight, after tours of the Smithsoniain Institution and the National Museum, President Hopper, his vice president, Kenneth Jennison, Carthage Mo. and his secretary of defense Kenneth Evans, Pompano Beach, Fla., will review a retreat parade of 3,000 2nd Army soldiers at Ft. Meade Md.

The "presidential" party will be welcomed to the base — after a heliciopter ride down with Sen. Strom Thurmond (D - SC) — with a roaring 11-gun salute and a handshake by Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, Army Secretary Wilbur Brucker and 2nd Army commander, Lt. Gen. Floyd L. Parks.

Each of the three Boys' Nation officials will be made "honorary troopers" in the 3rd Cavalry Regiment's honorary society, "The Order of Brave Rifles." Only a dozen such honors have been extended in the regiment's 110-year history.

Loss Was 58 Lives, Including 13 Americans

Communist Bulgaria Admits Its Guns Shot Down Airliner

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States today declared that it is "indignant" over the loss of 13 American lives in Red Bulgaria's destruction of an Israeli airliner.

The State Department at the same time revealed it will send a protest to Bulgaria as soon as complete reports on the air disaster have been received.

The protest will be delivered through Switzerland. The United States has no diplomatic relations with Communist Bulgaria.

In a brief statement, the State Department said it had "learned with deep regret of the great loss of life in the plane which crashed in flames on Bulgarian soil.

"We are indignant at the shooting down of this passenger aircraft even if it may have been a few miles off course. . .

Dress Revue Set For August 3

The annual Whitley county 4-H dress revue has been scheduled for Wednesday, August 3, according to Miss Joan Martin, county 4-H Club leader. It will be at the 4-H Community Center.

Modelling done by junior girls will begin at 9 a.m., and the senior girls' revue will be at 12:30 p.m. All girls participating will wear the clothes made for their 4-H clothing project.

Those applying for State Fair exhibit entries will have their items judged at the same time.

The public is invited to attend the junior and senior programs.

Leaves Hospital

Mrs. Edith Bodley was dismissed from the Whitley County Hospital Wednesday morning and taken to her home at 207 S. Elm street in the J. A. DeMoney and Son ambulance.

BULLETIN

Whitley County residents had already donated 103 pints of blood — three more than the 100-pint quota-at 2:15 p.m. 1 hour and 45 minutes before the blood bank closed.

A complete list of workers and donors will appear in the Friday editions of the Columbia City Post and Commercial Mail.

U. S. Army Bomber Crashes Into 78th Floor Empire State Building—10 Years Ago Today

By OTTO E. STURM
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—You're filing a United Press wire on a cloudy, muggy Saturday morning 10 years ago today. A few minutes before 10 o'clock you hear a muffled explosion.

Distant thunder, you think. But somebody in the newsroom yells "Look at the Empire State Building!' You glance up and see what you won't forget. Flames are shooting out of the upper stories of the world's tallest building. A second later, the whole top of the structure is shrouded in thick smoke

In about 20 minutes you're in the Empire State lobby. Debris is crashing down elevator shafts. Somebody says all the elevators have been knocked out. But you follow a couple of white-clad doctors and some firemen to another elevator bank and crowd into one?

The elevator stops at the 67th floor. That's the last stop right now for any elevator in this 102-story building. You take the stairs.

At the 78th floor you see what happens when a two-engined airplane rams through the overcast into a skyscraper at four miles a minute. There's a gaping, fire-blackened hole in the brick and concrete outside wall through which the rooftops of Manhattan show in the haze.

Engine Smashes Through Building

On the floor is a propeller blade from the Army B25 bomber. One of the plane's big engines is imbedded in the wall of a wrecked elevator shaft. The other smashed through the building and out the other side to an adjoining rooftop.

There wasn't anybody on this floor when disaster struck. You go up to the 79th floor.

Ironically, on this floor is the office of an organization engaged in a work of mercy—the War Relief Services of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

Some two dozen persons, most of them young women, were working here when the bomber exploded just beneath them.

Emergency cops are picking up burned and broken bodies. Still sitting, stiffly grotesque, at a desk facing a scorched typewriter is what's left of a girl who never had a chance to get up before she was enveloped in flaming gasoline. On a burlap-covered desk are two blackened torsos, later identified as those of the pilot and co-pilot of the plane.

You call the office with the cold

President

Senate approval it will go to the White House. It provides about $500,000,000 less than President Eisenhower asked for military and economic aid overseas.

Geneva: enate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif) in his first comment on the Geneva Big Four conference called it a success. But he said basic problems still exist and warned against "letting down our defenses."

Wage-Hour: A Senate Labor subcommittee approved the nomination of Newell Brown of New Hampshire to be federal wage-hour administrator. The AFL and CIO opposed the nomination.

Hospitals: The Veterans Administration said it will ask Congress for money to repair 56 VA hospitals and replace 15 others. The agency said it hopes to get the request approved for the fiscal 1957 budget. The repairs alone would cost about 50 million dollars.

Highway: It appeared certain that Congress won't do anything until next year, if then, about the nation's overcrowded highways. Wednesday's House action appeared final for this session.

The President's plan was defeated by votes of 184-178 and 221-193. It proposed a 10-year, $38,600,000,000 program to be financed largely by non-Treasury bonds.

The Democrats proposed a 13-year, $50,477,000,000 program to be financed by higher gasoline, tire and other highway "user" taxes. The House rejected that 292-123.

With Congress days away from adjournment, there was no chance of reviving the highway legislation until it reconvenes next year. But Speaker Sam Rayburn said that "with the House divided as it is" he doubts a highway measure could be passed even then.

Democratic leaders blamed pressure from the trucking industry for leading to the defeat of their bill.

Other congressional news:

Natural Gas: The House, meeting two hours earlier than usual, opened debate today on a bill to exempt producers of natural gas from the direct controls of the Federal Power Commission. A close vote was expected. Opponents contend the measure would lead to higher gas prices.

Dixon-Yates: Democratic members of the Senate Monopoly subcommittee renewed demands that presidential aide Sherman Adams testify on the Dixon-Yates power project. The investigators want to know why he sought a recess in Securities & Evchange Commission hearings on the now-cancelled contract. President Eisenhower told a news conference Wednesday it is up to former Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge, instead of Adams, to give Congress full details on the contract.

Foreign Aid: House-Senate conferees agreed Wednesday on a compromise foreign aid bill providing $2,700,000,000 in new funds. This was about 500 million dollars less than President Eisenhower originally requested.

Minimum Wage: A House-Senate conference committee agreed Wednesday on a compromise bill to raise the federal minimum wage from 75 cents to $1. The conference committee threw out a Senate provision extending the increase to workers in Puerto Rico, but accepted a House proposal to make the expanded program effective by next March 1 instead of Jan. 1 as recommended by the Senate.

Churchill: The Senate Foreign Relations Committee unanimously approved Wednesday a resolution paying tribute to Sir Winston Churchill for his long service to the cause of peace.

Welfare Fund: A Senate labor subcommittee accused a union official and an insurance broker of embezzling more than $900,000 collected for the Laundry Workers International union's welfare fund. The charge was made against Louis B. Saperstein, Newark, N.J., insurance broker, and Eugene C. James, secretary-treasurer of the Laundry Workers' union. The subcommittee also reported that most of the money collected for the welfare fund of the Painters, Cleaners and Caulkers Union local at Chicago "went to the benefit" of the union president, Edward Gallagher. Its report said Gallagher received more than $200,000 without an accounting.

Politicians Who Doubt Ike Will Be Second Term Candidate Get Support From Optimism

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The small minority of politicians who doubt that President Eisenhower will be a second term candidate will get some support from the rosy feeling of optimism whomped up by the Big Four conference.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was rather pessimistic before the summit meeting. He told his news conference Tuesday that the danger of war has receded. The thought is echoed from London and Paris, even Moscow.

The most logical argument against a second Eisenhower term has run like this: If world tensions can be substantially relieved and the danger of war put away for some reasonably assured span of years, the President could say his contribution was complete, and step down.

The Bone Crusher

There is cause to believe such reasoning has passed through Mr. Eisenhower's mind. There are opposing arguments, of course. The bone crusher iis that the Republicans do not as of now have another candidate with even a fair chance of beating a good Democratic candidate.

But, if peace were assured for some years, the President might feel that he could turn his back on the party which plucked him for the highest honor an American citizen may enjoy. That's the way the argument goes.

It goes along pretty well until it hits a solid political fact. That fact is that the ponderous machinery of international relations which began turning in a new direction at Geneva is not likely to move very fast.

The foreign minister's conference which is to begin to seek solutions to the problems discussed by the Big Four will not meet until October. The whole field of European security must be canvassed. That probably will involve amendment and rearrangement of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. After the foreign ministers work out security details there will be the problem of how to hold German unification elections. And much of the work of the foreign ministers will have to be submitted to parliaments, congresses and such in the appropriate capitals.

Little Time To Decide

That is not a work of weeks or, even, of a few months. Mr. Eisenhower has only about five months after the foreign ministers meet to decide and declare publicly whether he will run again. He is committed to that schedule two ways. First, he told his news conference last March 2 that he would detail his 1956 plans about one year from then. Second, if he fails to move one way or another by March 15, or thereabouts, he will bring down on the Republican Party in one of its key states a calamitous brawl.

The state is California, now with the second largest population in the union. It is a political powerhouse and powder keg, to boot. If Eisenhower pledged delegates to the Republican National Convention are to be elected in California's early June preferential primary, his consent to run must be public property not later than April 5 which is the deadline for filing. As a matter of practical politics, Mr. Eisenhower will have to say publicly not much later than March 15 that he is a candidate if an adequate California delegate slate is to be set up in his name.

Failure to announce his own candidacy would leave the field open for a bruising three-way contest among Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Sen. William F. Knowland and Governor Goodwin J. Knight. Or, worse, from the standpoint of Eisenhower Republicans, Knowland and Knight might gang up on Nixon, and lick him badly.

A battle like that would severely damage the Republican Party in California and cloud election day prospects. Mr. Eisenhower is not likely to invite that, if he intends to run, by delaying beyond mid-March an announcement of his intentions.

On the other hand, it does not seem possible in the few months intervening between October and March that the diplomats will have so improved conditions that the President can be sure in his own mind peace has come to stay a while—long enough for him to retire.

Hoosiers Buy More Savings Bonds In '55

INDIANAPOLIS UP — U.S. Savings Bond sales in Indiana were 18 per cent higher in the first half of 1955 than they were in the same period in 1954.

Sales were more than 92 million dollars, compared with 78 million. The Indiana gain was well above the national increase of 13 per cent.

Talking Elevator Makes Its Debut

NEW YORK (UP)—The world's first "talking elevator" made its debut Wednesday, much to the astonishment of unwary passengers in the National Distiller's Building on Park Avenue.

The operatorless elevator gives you instructions like a worried mother.

A "phantom voice" out of nowhere reminds you to press your floor button; politely asks you to stop blocking the doors; tells you which direction the car is going and consoles you if the elevator gets stuck.

The electronic elevator with the friendly voice was made and installed by the elevator division of Westinghouse Electric Corp.

Phyllis Shoda Is Guest Of Honor At Miscellaneous Shower

Miss Patricia Byall and Miss Sharon Hewes of Jefferson township and Miss Sylvia Schmidt, Fort Wayne, were hostesses for a Friday evening shower party complimenting Miss Phyllis Shoda, who will become the bride of Roy Hinen on August 20.

The pretty affair was given at the Byall home in Jefferson township. Twenty-six guests were entertained with contests in which prizes were awarded and in turn presented to the guest of honor.

An improvised wishing well in pink and white in one corner of the living room held the lovely gifts brought by the guests. Bride and groom figurines marked each serving of ice cream. Cup cakes, lemonade, nuts and mints were served. Mounted on each cup cake was a tiny pink umbrella.

The guests included Miss Shoda and her mother, Mrs. Carl Shoda and her grandmother, Mrs. Ella Shoda; Mrs. Henry Hinen, mother of the bridegroom-to-be; the Mesdames Ralph Hinen, Alva Hartley, Jack Smith, Guy Wagoner, Paul Putman, Robert Taylor, Harry Byall, Ned Byall, Ben Byall, James Davis, Albert Shonefeld and the Misses Mary Hasty, Barbara Jo Bishop, Theresa Diamond, Mary Lou McNabb, Karen Giant, of Jefferson township and community; Mrs. Lillie Shipley, Ray Tflueger and Bill Edmunds, Fort Wayne.

Garden Flowers Form Setting For Pretty Party, Fisher Home

Mrs. James Fisher, formerly of this city, entertained with a pretty bridge function, Wednesday evening, at her home, 3525 Felician Ave., Fort Wayne, her guests being eight local women.

Garden flowers formed the decorative note of the Fisher home. Prizes in bridge were awarded to Mrs. Robert Phillips and Mrs. James Johnston. Mrs. Fisher served a dessert following the card game.

Guests included Mrs. Robert Fisher, Fort Wayne, and the Mesdames Douglas Clapp, Robert Phillips, James Johnston, Paul Morsches, Jr., Robert Williams, Robert Fahl and Jackson Peabody.

Dunfee Couple Wed In Ceremony Read At Jefferson Chapel

Miss Pearl Herriott and Leonard Taylor announce their marriage read last Friday evening at Jefferson Chapel by Rev. Battle Miller, who was assisted by Rev. Richard Wood, in the presence of 100 guests.

Miss Marilyn Taylor, sister of the bridegroom, attended the bride, whose twin brother, Earl Herriott, served the bridegroom as bestman.

Dark red gladiolus decorated the altar and the church social room where an informal reception was held.

The bride chose a street length dress of blue nylon and Miss Taylor was in a street length dress of rose silk.

The couple attended school at Jefferson Center. They are now residing in Fort Wayne.

Bill Affecting Gas Producers To Get Action

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House agreed today to take action on a bill to exempt the producers of natural gas from the direct controls of the federal government.

By a vote of 272-135, it agreed to a resolution of the House Rules Commitee formally putting the bill before the House.

In so doing, it ignored the pleas of some big city congressmen that the measure is too complicated to be considered in the closing days of the session.

Speaker Sam Rayburn, in one of his rare speeches to the House, pleaded that the House allow the measure to be debated and voted up or down on its merits.

He said that under the bill, "there will be more and more gas, more and more competition, with a probability of a reduction in price" to consumers.

The average American is expected to eat about 77 pounds of beef in 1955.

Queen Elizabeth Keeps Waist Trim

LONDON —(UP)—Queen Elizabeth II, who boasts the trim figure a movie star might envy, keeps it that way with lots of walking and will power.

The young British monarch faces more temptations to go overboard on good food and drink, simply because she is royalty. She never is without state banquets, official lunches and parties on her schedule. With them go elaborate foods, champagnes and other wines.

But the Queen, who once had to go on a diet and drop a few pounds, has become expert at sitting out a few courses and sipping only a little wine. And she never eats between meals.

She gets more exercise than you'd think, despite her hectic official schedule.

The mere performance of her public duties calls for a lot of walking. When at home in Buckingham Palace, she takes her dogs out for a brisk walk around the grounds every afternoon.

Goes Fishing

Weekends at Windsor Castle, the Queen and Prince Phillip often walk the five miles around the Great Park, and usually go riding before breakfast. On a holiday in Scotland at Balmoral Castle, she goes fishing and deer-stalking. She also spends a lot of time in the gardens, playing with Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

It all helps to keep her waistline a neat 22 inches and her lovely pink and white complexion clear and youthful.

When possible at official functions the Queen drinks orangeade instead of alcoholic beverage. Sometimes courtesy requires her to take a little wine. But she just takes a few sips and puts the glass down.

The menu for any lunch or dinner she is to attend always is sent in advance to her lady-in-waiting. The lady-in-waiting promptly eliminates any dishes the Queen considers fattening.

Elizabeth skips rich soups, creams or pastry dessert. She prefers grilled to fried foods, and does not eat elaborate sauces.

Fresh fruit dishes, such as her favorite, Pear Cardinal, replace ices and souffles when possible.

One Main Dish Only

Her footman arranges to skip one complete course of every elaborate banquet, when the Queen entertains with a state banquet at Buckingham Palace.

Her guests may enjoy the chef's creations, but the Queen sticks to her "one main dish only" rule. She may eat the fish course and ignore the chicken which follows, doing it so quietly her guests don't always notice.

If the Queen is lunching with her husband, the couple usually will have one meat or fish, vegetables and fresh fruit.

Like most Englishwomen, she enjoys tea in the afternoon, usually sipping two cups with a small sandwich and perhaps a slice of cake.

Dinner is at eight and is another one main dish meal with cheese or fruit afterwards, unless the Queen has guests.

After the birth of Princess Anne, Queen Elizabeth began adding pounds. She went to one of the court doctors for a planned diet, and started counting calories.

In eight weeks, she had regained her slenderness. The Queen's measurements are model ones—bust and hips 34, waist 22, to go with her five-foot, four-inch height.

ALASKAN WATER

NOME, Alaska — (UP) — Water is sold in this Arctic town by the bucketfuls. The price is eight buckets of water for $1. The ground freezes so deep that conventional pipe systems are out of the question.

Farmers can lessen the danger of bloat in cattle by feeding some dry hay before turning the cows out on legume pasture, according to the veterinary department at Purdue University. Keep plenty of salt and fresh water available at all times.

While most Hoosiers sweated and gasped in temperatures up to 99 Wednesday and high humidity, the Rushville Chamber of Commerce had cool thoughts. It decided to renew a contest for residential Christmas lighting during the yuletide.

Fort Wayne got the 99 high Wednesday. Other high temperatures were South Bend 98 and Lafayette and Evansville 96. Indianapolis got a 95, tying the highest this year.

Todays forecast indicated only slight relief—for northern Indiana. Scattered showers were forecast for the extreme north, while the rest of the state gets more hot and humid weather.

No Relief in Sight

Highs today will range from 90 north to 98 south. Indianapolis was expected to get its highest temper ature this year—a 97. Highs Friday will range around 95 and 96.

Lows early today ranged from 73 at Fort Wayne to 76 at Evansville, mingled wih thundershowers at Goshen and Fort Wayne and light rain at South Bend. Lows tonight will range from 72 to 78.

The outlook for Saturday was partly cloudy and continued hot and humid with a few widely scattered thunderstorms. Lows Friday night were expected to range from 74 to 78 and highs Saturday were expected to range from 94 to 98.

Around The Clock: Around The World!

PRINCETON, N.J. UP) — Former Judge Willia mClark had his long-fought-for passport in his possession today and said he intends to leave for Germany as soon as he can.

The former chief judge of the American Appeals Court in West Germany finally won the passport to Germany last Saturday. He had brought suit to force the State Department to issue it.

He said his reception of the passport in the mail Wednesday ended a two year fight against "oppressive bureaucracy."

He was ousted from his post in Germany in June, 1954, after a feud with then High Commissioner James B. Conant.

CLEVELAND (UP)—Harold E. Stassen, President Eisenhower's peace secretary, Wednesday night called the Geneva summit conference a "hopeful step towards world peace and disarmament."

In a talk before 5,000 Sunday school convention delegates, Stassen said he was optimistic of the eventual outcome of the conference. He said the attitude of the Russian delegates was a "hopeful sign for world peace."

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP) — A polio expert said Wednesday night there is no clear cut evidence that Salk polio vaccine is both safe and effective.

The expert, Dr. David Rutstein of the Harvard Medical School, said he was in complete agreement with British expert Dr. Graham S. Wilson regarding Salk vaccine.

Wilson recently cancelled the Salk polio inoculation program in England. He was quoted as saying he did not believe there is any way to make Salk vaccine safe.

Rutstein gave his views in an interview by Joseph A. Del Porto, chairman of the Boston University School of Journalism, over a non-commercial Boston television station.

"There is no clear cut evidence at this date that you can consistently produce polio vaccine by the Salk method that is both safe and effective," Rutstein said.

RIO DE JANEIRO (UP)—South American Catholic leaders studied the possibility today of bringing foreign clergy to Latin America to relieve the shortage of priests.

Delegates to the general conference of Latin American hierarchy considered the clergy shortage a major topic of their 10-day meeting, regarded as the most important Catholic assembly ever held in South America.

A communique released after Wednesday's secret session attended by eight cardinals and 90 bishops noted that clergy in Latin America numbers only 25,000. It added that the United States, which has only one-fifth the number of Catholics as Latin America, has 47,000 clergymen.

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (UP)—The United States Air Force conducted tests at nearby International Falls Airport today in a study of cosmic radiation.

Stratosphere balloons were released in connection with the project at dawn.

Major David G. Simons, project officer, said the tests were part of a series under the direction of Dr. Frank McDonald, University of Iowa physicist working in the American "Skyhook Program."

"The purpose of the flights is to study the biological effects of cosmic radiation at very high altitudes," Simons said.

LONDON (UP)—The roof caved in at London's famed Palladium Theater Wednesday night just 85 minutes before singer Rosemary Clooney was to appear. Plaster fell from the ceiling, injuring five persons. Firemen cleared the auditorium and cleaned up the debris in time for a delayed opening.

KUMAMOTO, Japan (UP)—Volcanic Mt. Aso rumbled and shook for 36 minutes today, throwing up a pillar of rock, dust and smoke. Ashes covered the entire area and officials closed the mountainside roads.

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UP)—Greta Garbo was a guest at the Hotel de Paris today. She arrived on the yacht of shipping magnate Socrates Aristotle Onassis after a cruise to Italy and Greece. Onassis, his wife and George Schlee, Miss Garbo's long time friend, also arrived on the yacht Christina Wednesday.

TOKYO (UP)—Typhoon Georgia toned down today in its journey over the ocean south of Japan. Packing winds of 63 miles an hour, Georgia was downgraded by U.S. Air Force weathermen to a tropical storm. It was located nearly 230 miles southeast of Kyushu today, the southernmost island of Japan.

MOSCOW (UP)—Russia's information office plans to establish a daily news bulletin in English for the convenience of foreign embassies, it was announced Wednesday night. Nutrition Experts Say Average Week's Food Cost Is $4.28

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department said today that a young couple can get along fine on $4.28 worth of food per person per week.

This average food budget figure, which works out at about 20 cents a meal, was supplied by nutrition experts at the Utah experiment station.

The experts conducted a three-week diet research project with a young college couple performing the eating roles voluntarily in the interest of science. The couple finished the project in good health and with no loss of weight.

The $4.28 was parceled out this way:

Milk and cheese, 83 cents; eggs, 22 cents; potatoes, 4 cents; leafy green and yellow vegetables, 33 cents; citrus fruits and tomatoes, 16 cents; other fruits and vegetables, 55 cents; meat, fish, and poultry; 66 cents, dry beans, peas, and nuts, 22 cents; baked goods, flour, and cereals, 61 cents; fats and oils, 36 cents; sugar, sirup, preserves, 25 cents; condiments and spices, 5 cents.

During the three weeks the couple bought nine quarts of homogenized milk and enough dry milk solids to make 21 quarts of skim milk. The 15 per cent of the food dollar that went for meat and fish bought 2½ pounds of ground beef, eight ounces of frankfurters, 12 ounces of yellowtail (fish), two pounds of frozen fish, three pounds of chuck roast, and 11 ounces of liver.

Russian Farmers Hold Out Against U. S. Salesmanship

PEORIA, Ill. (UP) — Visiting Russian farm leaders emerged the winners today in clashes with high-pressure American salesmanship.

The Russians have been sorely tempted. But so far they aren't buying.

Aleksandr Ezhiviski, for instance could have driven away from Peoria in a free used car. But he turned down the chance "because I have one."

George Zosky, a Peoria car dealer, tried to press a 1950 Chevrolet on Ezhiviski when the Russian engineer toured the Caterpillar Tractor Co. plant here Tuesday.

Zosky sent a letter to Ezhiviski, who is assistant to the minister of automobile, tractor and farm implement production in Russia. The letter included a bill of sale for the car.

But at a news conference later, Ezhiviski said "no thanks."

"I already have a car—a Zim, made at the famous Gorky works in the Soviet republics," Ezhiviski said through an interpreter.

An Iowa salesman had no better luck with the main body of Russian tourists.

At Laurens, Iowa, the group spent a half hour with Glen Simons, owner of the Twin-Draulic, Inc. firm which manufactures post hole diggers, hydraulic farm lifters, and crop sprayers.

Simons thought it was a good chance to sell the Russians some equipment for their farms back home.

"Better get them now," he urged. "The price is going up."

It was no sale, but Simons wasn't discouraged.

"We didn't clinch the sale this time," he said, "but maybe we can do it later."

While the bird's owner, Edd Coates, was tidying up things a bit, Repeat suddenly diappeared. Coates retrieved Repeat from the cleaner bag, ruffled and missing a few tail feathers.

Professor Decides You Can't Beat The Horse Races

By JO-ANNE GOVERN
United Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (UP)—A professor spent a year studying horse race betting for a thesis and came up today with the learned conclusion that "you can't beat the races."

Marvin Zastrow confirmed what many fans have suspected all along in an exhaustive mathematical study at 29 of the nation's top tracks.

Whether you win or lose at the betting window, Zastrow decided, depends on two main factors: .....

1. How many winners you can forecast correctly.
2. How much time elapses between your correct forecasts.

Mr. Average Fan's trouble is he can't pick enough winners often enough, the mathematician concluded.

An Expensive Thesis

Zastrow, 28, went into his project a mathematics student at Marquette University, and came out a confirmed racing fan.

Zastrow, who will head the mathematics department at Carroll College in Waukesha, Wis., next year, confined himself to top tracks and "class" races in working on his thesis for his graduate degree. He explained that these are easier to predict but admitted it was a "rather expensive" thesis just the same.

Zastrow started with the Bowie meeting last year, and wound up with Lincoln Downs at the end of the season. The daily racing form was his constant companion, and scratch sheets his best doodling pads.

He tried several mathematical formulas in his search for a way to "beat" the races—the standard of deviation, squares of the differenses, and the number of horses scratched.

Zastrow found the "consensus" selections of newspapers and racing publications have a record of about 30 per cent winners.

He's Still Hopeful

These consensus pickers work under a handicap, though, because they have to make their selections 12 to 15 houur before race time and can't be certain of the condition of the horse or the track, he said.

About 45 per cent of all races are won by non-choices, the remaining 55 per cent by one of the three choices of the consensus selectors for win, place or show, Zastrow found.

But he said thats better than John Q. Fan can do, with his record of about 10 per cent winners on random choices.

Zastrow discussed the old "progressive" system, which requires the bettor to double his wager after each loss until he wins. This is foolproof, Zastrow agreed, but it takes a lot of capital, which most racing fans don't have.

Although Zastrow concluded that you probably can't beat the races, like most fans who have got the track bug he hasn't given up hope. He's now at work on a secret mathematical formula for betting. "It just might work," he said.

Stewed Pearl

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. —(UP)— The oyster stew business boomed in the Palmer Grill here after a nurse, Mrs. Nine Clark, discovered a pearl in her serving. The pearl was appraised at $60.

Tree Chameleon

KENT, O.—(UP)— The boxelder is the chameleon of treedom. It is really a member of the maple family, but it has a strong resemblance to the ash, according to Martin L. Davey, tree expert. For many years, it was not generally accepted as a maple. However, it will produce a sap from which sugar can be made.

Double Cross

DES MOINES —(UP)— Kenneth Weeks, 6, won a dog from the Animal Rescue league by writing a letter telling why he wanted it. "I'd sure like to have a boy something around the house," Kenneth wrote, explaining that he had six sisters and no brothers. But four months later his "boy dog" had puppies.

White Sox Give Yankees Less Than 24 Hours To Get Out Of First Place; May Change Lead

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

The cocky White Sox gave the Yankees less than 24 hours to get out of first place today and warned them beforehand that they have every intention of moving in themselves.

Marty Marion's optimistic Chicagoans can take over the American League lead by beating the Yankees today and to hear the White Sox talk after beating the league leaders, 7-4, Wednesday, they're all but in already.

"I can feel it in my bones," declared a jubilant Marion, "we're gonna lasso 'em and I think they know it. Tomorrow at this time those American League standings may be scrambled quite a bit."

White Sox outfielder Bob Nieman, mindful that only three games separate the Yankees, White Sox, Indians and Red Sox, put it this way:

"Somebody is going to catch those Yankees soon and it might as well be us. If we stop here to rest, Boston and Cleveland will climb over us before we have a chance to turn around."

Chicago Routs Old Nemesis

The White Sox had a minimum of difficulty cutting the Yankees' lead to a single game and a mere eight percentage points Wednesday. They routed an old nemesis, veteran Ed Lopat, with a three-run burst in the second inning, then hammered three more runs in the fourth. Ex-Yankee Harry Byrd gained his sixth victory although he needed relief in the eighth when the Yanks picked up their final three runs. Minnie Minoso and Walt Dropo each banged out three hits in Chicago's 13-hit attack.

Like the White Sox, the red-hot Red Sox also put together a pair of three-run clusters to defeat the Indians, 6-2, and climb within three games of the top. Jim Piersall blasted a three-run homer in the fourth inning off Art Houtteman and he drove in his fourth run of the contest in another three-run burst during the fifth inning. Tom Brewer scattered six hits for his eighth triumph as the Red Sox made it 37 wins in their last 48 starts. Vic Wertz homered for Cleveland.

As Beat Senators Twice

Kansas City swept a twi-night doubleheader from Washington, winning the 11-inning first game, 6-4, and the second game, 4-1.

Tom Umphlett's two-run homer in the ninth inning of the opener tied the score at 4-all, but an error by catcher Clint Courtney paved the way for the Athletics' two winning runs in the 11th. In the nightcap, an error by Senator shortstop Jose Valdivielso helped the Athletics break a 1-all deadlock. Art Ditmar and Bill Harrington were credited with the victories.

Steve Gromek gained his 10th victory although he needed help from Joe Coleman as the Tigers won the opener of a doubleheader, 8-4, but Jim Dyck's seventh inning single dissolved a tie in the nightcap and drove in the run that gave the Orioles an 8-7 decision. Reno Bertoia hit a three-run homer for the Tigers in the second game.

The Braves, still harboring some slight hope of catching the Dodgers while batling for second place, beat the Phillies, 2-1, and moved to within 12½ games of the National League lead as Cincinnati beat Brooklyn, 4-3, in 10 innings.

Milwaukee snapped Robin Roberts' six - game winning streak when they put together three singles and a hit batsman for both their runs in the seventh inning. Lew Burdette chalked up his eighth victory although he didn't finish.

Rookie Milt Smith's 10th inning single beat the Dodgers after the Redlegs tied the game in the ninth to wipe out a Brooklyn lead built up by Duke Snider's 35th homer with one on. Don Hoak also homered for the losers.

Harvey Haddix pitched a three-hitter and Wally Moon slammed a homer with the bases full to lead the Cardinals to a 6-1 victory over the Pirates. Elroy Face was the loser.

The Cubs, losers in 14 of their last 15 games, defeated the Giants twice, 4-2 and 9-8. Chicago jumped on Jim Hearn for six hits and four runs in the first three innings of the opener while in the nightcap, Dee Fondy's second homer of the game capped a five-run rally that won the game in the eighth.

Willie Mays slammed his 31st and 32nd homers in the second game and teammate Dusty Rhodes hit a grand-slam home run. Ernie Banks clouted his 29th for the Cubs.

Young Fit And Ready

WESTMINSTER, Md. (UP) — Buddy Young, pro football's fastest runner, described himself "fit and ready" today for his race against a horse next Monday.

The Baltimore Colts' halfback warmed up for the race Wednesday by dashing 40 yards in his bare feet in 4.5 seconds. He removed his shoes because of a blister on his foot.

Next week's heralded race at Memorial Stadium will pit Young against "Dixie," the Colts' equine mascot, in another 40-yard dash.

Seven On Waiver List

DETROIT (UP) — The Detroit Lions today placed seven players on their waiver list, including Steve Johnson of Rutgers, Bill Swanson of John Carroll University and Harry Lovell of South Carolina.

Maybe It's The Heat

MARSHALLTOWN, Iowa (UP)—Police reported a boy they found breaking up his bicycle, piece by piece, said: "It's my bicycle and I can do as I please with it.'

The officers figured maybe it was the heat.

Team Is 'Champ', No Place To Go

CHARLESTON, S.C. (UP) — A Negro team left all alone in the South Carolina state Little League championships when all the other teams withdrew found itself a "champion" today — but a champion with no place to go.

National officials of the Little League program have ruled that the Cannon Street YMCA team of Charleston is not eligible to compete in the regional tournament at Rome, Ga., Aug. 13-18, which leads to the national finals at Williamsport, Pa., Aug. 26.

But the Cannon Street team became the champion of South Carolina when the other 55 league representatives withdrew.

The withdrawals came after national officials had ruled the Cannon Street team was eligible for the state championship tournament. The South Carolina Recreational Society announced it would sponsor a "Little Boys" state tournament at Columbia, S.C., for the other 55 teams.

Robert Morrison, president of the Cannon Street YMCA, said, "We feel our children should have the same right as any others to at least attempt to go to Williamsport. If we lose, that's all right."

Barring of the Cannon Street club from the regional play was announced at Williamsport "with extreme reluctance" by Peter J. McGovern, president of the national Little League baseball program.

Willie Pastrano Has Perfect Day

CHICAGO (UP) — Youthful Willie Pastrano's "perfect day" began when his wife gave birth to their first child and ended when the 19-year-old New Orleans battler jabbed out a 10-round decision over tough Chuck Spieser in the Chicago Stadium.

In the dressing room, it was hard to tell which feat pleased the victor most. Clutching a towel around his midriff, he passed cigars to all well-wishers, announced the baby's weight at 8 pounds, 3 ounches, and said that Spieser was a "good strong boy."

Pastrano, the 2-1 favorite for the fight, weighed 175½ compared to 171½ for Spieser. But Pastrano had to give ground frequently to Spieser's rushes and he won because he piled up points with sharp left jabs and infrequent hard right hands.

Neither fighter had any plans for the immediate future. Pastrano's manager, Whitey Esneault, reported he had plans for "something in September," while Hector Knowles, Spieser's manager, said he would "wait and see."

"We'll fight Spieser again," Trainer Angelo Dundee said. "It sounds like we wouldn't gain anything, but it would draw a good gate, and Willie would get a lot of experience. Spieser, too, was willing for a rematch and there was a chance that it could come off, if neither scrapper could find a more suitable foe in the near future.

It was Spieser's third loss in 18 fights and ended a string of nine straight wins, the last four by knockouts since his discharge from the Army in April.

Pastrano, who gained his 32nd win in 40 pro fights and extended to 12 his string of fights without a loss, ever since he began tying his wedding ring into the face of his left boxing shoe when he goes in the ring, left early today for home.

"I'm going to name the baby Johnny," he said. "Not Willie. Not for what Willie stands for. My name's Wilfred."

Dolores Del Rio Returns To Hollywood After 12 Years

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Mexican actress Dolores Del Rio, who has returned to Hollywood after a 12-year absence, blamed some parts of the Mexican press today for reports she had Communist leanings.

The 47-year-old beauty, once one of Hollywood's top stars, arrived by airliner from Mexico City for a weeks visit Wednesday and promptly declared she is not now and never has been a Communist.

"I am a Catholic," she said, "and I regard this country as I do my own. I am terribly excited and happy to be back."

She said reports she had Communist leanings arose nine months ago when she applied to the U.S. Department of State for a visa to come to Hollywood to appear in a film. Because the visa was slow in being granted, she said some parts of the Mexican press "jumped to conclusions."

Miss Del Rio said the visa never was denied and the U.S. embassy in Mexico City told her three months ago she could pick up her visa whenever she desired.

She came here to act as maid of honor at Wednesday night's wedding of her friend, wealthy hotelman Hernando Courtwright, and Marcelle Eva Cuillery, prominent Mexico City socialite.

Miss Del Rio, still regarded as Mexico City's top star, said she had made numerous pictures in her native country, Spain and Argentina in the past 12 years.

Backstairs At The White House

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

WASHINGTON (UP) — Backstairs at the White House:

It was at the windup of the recent Big Four meeting in Geneva. Two lower echelon members of the American delegation staff were talking about the efforts of a particularly well - known American correspondent to get a visa to Russia.

"He's probably trying to get the visa in time for President Eisenhower's trip to Moscow," said one of the staff members with a perfectly serious face.

While this would seem to be more facetious than factual for the moment, it still was Mr. Eisenhower, himself, who told America last Monday night that there was "the greatest possible degree of agreement" at Geneva on a greater flow of travel between East and West.

If the President is so desirous of greater travel between this country and Russia, he could take the lead himself—but probably won't. The Russian leaders undoubtedly would have to visit Washington first. In all of the international meetings of the past on the chief of state level, it has been the American who flew either into or near the Russian orbit.

Colorful figures that they are, if Messrs. Bulganin, Khrushchev and Zhukov decided to visit the Unitied States, they would constitute one of the greatest crowd attractions of many years, just as Mr. Eisenhower would in Moscow.

Mr. Eisenhower must have had the sound engineers half-daffy during his Monday night broadcast. Throughout his 15-minute speech, he fiddled constantly with his glasses, banging them on his desk and frequently hitting the tips of the ear pieces together as he sought to emphasize particular points.

The President's delivery and performance were convincingly natural, but he seemed unusually "busy" as he played with his glasses, shuffled notes on his desk and kept poking his thumb into a left vest pocket.

The chartered press plane that accompanied Mr. Eisenhower to Geneva did not exactly accompany him back. The big TWA ship, carrying a much heavier load than the President's aircraft, started out the return from Geneva about 30 minutes late because the plane had to be held for Press Secretary James C. Hagerty.

When the press plane landed at Prestwick, Scotland, for gas, Mr. Eisenhower's plane was refueled and ready to go. The press ship would have been off in a hurry, too, but the truck hauling gas for the plane broke down far on the other side of the field.

Rather than wait all night for a new truck, the press plane then flew to Shannon, Ireland, for gas and on to Gander, Newfoundland for another refueling stop.

Mr. Eisenhower, meantime, hightailed it for Bangor, Maine, where he refueled and beat the press into Washington by several hours.

statistics, the stories of heroism, panic and mercy, and wonder: What if this had happened on any other weekday than Saturday, at a time when most offices in the building would be occupied and when the streets around 34th and 5th would be teeming with people. You hate to think how much you'd have to multiply this day's final toll of 14 dead and 26 injured.

Ten years later, another question comes to mind, can it happen today with the strides made in aeronautical safety in the last decade?

"Almost impossible,' says Edward E. Slatter, Civil Aeronautics Board official in Washington. He said that with the precision approach radar now installed at LaGuardia, Idlewild and Newark airports no plane around New York would find itself as much off course and as low as the 913-foot altitude as the ill-fated bomber of July 28, 1945.

Craig Scoffs At Reports He May Succeed Talbott

WASHINGTON (UP) —Gov. George N. Craig of Indiana scoffed today at reports he is under consideration as a possible successor to Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott.

Craig went to the White House for lunch with presidential assistant Sherman Adams. He said their meeting was "purely social."

Asked whether he had been approached about the Air Force post Craig said: "Of course not—Mr. Talbott is still the secretary."

Asked whether "anything" could lure him into federal service, Craig brushed aside the inquiry by saying he is not in Washington for that purpose.

been received we will make an appropriate communication to the Bulgarian authorities with regard to the American lives which were lost."

"Sincere Regret"

ATHENS, Greece UP) — Communist Bulgaria admitted with "sincere regret" today that its anti-aircraft guns shot down an Israeli airliner Wednesday with the loss of 58 lives, including 13 Americans.

Israel immediately sent a "sharp" protest to Bulgaria and demanded that the Iron Curtain on the border between Greece and Bulgaria be lifted to permit an Israeli delegation waiting there to investigate the disaster.

The Bulgarian regime, in a broadcast by Sofia Radio, said Bulgarian anti-aircraft batteries shot down the El Al Israel Airline Constellation near the Greek border. But the broadcast claimed the plane had wandered over the border into Bulgarian air space.

It was the first official word from the Communist government of Bulgaria on the fate of those aboard the blue and silver airliner which crashed in flames some five miles behind the Iron Curtain in one of the costliest incidents of the Cold War.

The Bulgarian Foreign Ministry first telephoned Israeli diplomats "there were no survivors," then broadcast to the world the admission that Bulgarian guns shot down the plane barely a week after the Big Four agreed at Geneva to seek an end to East-West tension.

The Sofia broadcast, ending 24 hours of Communist silence, came shortly after the Israeli legation in Athens announced the plane exploded in air and fell to earth in three flaming segments after Greek border guards heard four gunshots.

The plane began smoking when hit and some fire was seen. The pilot tried for a forced landing near the small Greek village of Patrizia but the explosion came then and the plane fell some five or six miles across the Iron Curtain.

First announcement of the fate of the 58 perosns aboard the aircraft came from the Israeli legation in Athens. It said the Bulgarian Foreign Ministry had informed it all aboard died in the crash.

The Bulgarian broadcast said Foreign Minister Mincho Neichev would head a commission to investigate the disaster—fifth greatest in the history of commercial aviation.

But even before the formal investigation began Sofia broadcast a communique expressing "sincere regrets" to Israel and the families of the victims over the deaths of those aboard.

Iron Age Paints Sad Picture Of Steel Industry

NEW YORK (UP) — The Iron Age today painted a sad picture of the nation's steel industry—an industry with orders piled mountain high and no way to speed production to catch up and satisfy the customers.

"Customer relations in steel are at a low ebb,' said the national metalworking weekly.

"Consumer complaints over deliveries and allotments have steel sales executives hanging on the ropes. Top-level customers are knocking at the door to make a bid for their share of available steel."

It all started with a short strike in the industry July 1. That one-day shutdown set back production, "and brought the situation to a head."

Then came the railroad car-building program "now gathering a full head of steam." This has cut into the available supply of plates, sheets, and structurals already in urgent demand from other customers.

"Furthermore," Iron Age adds, "railroad buying will extend well into 1956 at a high level. A heavy car repair schedule is adding to the problem."

The magazine finds that the industry with incoming orders running as much as 20 per cent above capacity at some of the large mills is finding it hard to maintain ingot production. Actual production, Iron Age says, has been falling behind estimates since the strike ended.

Failure to meet production schedules is due to maintenance, hot weather, and fat paychecks for steel workers, Iron Age said.

On maintenance, the mills took a chance that demand would ease this summer and give them an opportunity to catch up with needed maintenance. But business boomed. And maintenance can't be deferred any longer.

"Hot weather has reduced worker efficiency,' the magazine said, 'even more so this year than in previous summers.

Another inefficiency loss can be chalked up to the fact that steel workers have enough money in their kick to afford a vacation. Some who might have taken extra pay in lieu of vacations are taking time off. Production suffers through resultant dislocation in work schedules."

of their country.

To condone the actions of the men who, for personal favors of protection, disclosed valuable information or were helpful in any manner to the enemy, or caused the mistreatment or death of a fellow prisoner, to me is unthinkable.

The three turncoats returning July 2 realize they have failed in their duty and they have given evidence that they expect to serve time for their deeds.

Despite their apparent willingness to take the consequences, we must do what is right, regardless of the excuses they may give.

The main question now is how much time each must serve to pay a just debt to those fellow prisoners who suffered because these men disregarded basic moral principles.

No doubt, evidence has been accumulated as to the number of American men who have been tortured as a result of their dishonorable conduct.

These three men will have to live with their consciences the rest of their lives, which will be one form of punishment, unless they have become imbued sufficiently with the Communist ideology which regards as moral anything that promotes the progress of communism.

While we must be judicious and deal with each individual case, in our temperance we also must be mindful of our heroes, many of them martyrs all by themselves when no one knew whether they were dead or alive.

In dealing with those who failed in their missions, who turned against and endangered their country and their fellow prisoners to gain an easier time for themselves, let us remember those heroes who refused to give up, even in the throes of the most tortured types of punishment.

These three men who are returning are not heroes. May their punishment be commensurate with their crimes and misdemeanors and may it come swiftly, surely, fairly and without fanfare.

Unfinished Symphony

LONDON (UP) — Radio Moscow's announcement Wednesday night of the Bulganin-Khrushchev invitation to London came immediately after a broadcast of Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony."

70 Cents, Too Much

OAKLAND, Calif. (UP) —Mrs. Eva Sutherland took a look at the meter after an eight block taxi ride and decided 70 cents fare was too much.

Police said she refused to pay despite the fact she was carrying over $32,000 in government bonds in her purse.

Christmas In July

NAPERVILLE, Ill. (UP)—It will be Christmas in July here tonight, complete with carols and snowballs. The Naperville Municipal Band will present its annual "Christmas in July" concert in Community Park. The snowballs have been kept in a freezer since last January.

Dispatch Snake

KINSTON, N.C. (UP)—The ladies of the Eastern Star dispatched a chicken snake in strict parliamentary fashion when the 40-inch reptile invaded their meeting.

When the snake crawled under the desk of Mrs. Ruth Harper, the secretary, she sought and obtained permission of the worthy matron, Mrs. Annie Nobles, to vacate her post.

Then H. A. Edwards, a Mason and associate patron, killed the snake with a sword held by the doorkeeper at Masonic meetings.

Good Argument

CONCORD, N.H. (UP) — Rep. Joseph Ecker, of Manchester, used the following argument in favor of a bill which would ban nudists from New Hampshire:

"From an economic point of view, New Hampshire has always fostered the textile industry which has played an important part in the economic life of our state, and it is incumbent on us to suppress any movements which discourage the use of clothing."

Foolproof Plan

DETROIT (UP) — Two thieves had an almost foolproof plan for stealing watches from a jewelry store Wednesday—one was to distract the jeweler by having his watch repaired while the other filled his pockets with new watches from the showcase.

But the jeweler's wife interrupted the man who was pilfering the showcase, police said, and both thieves fled—leaving the loot and their own watch as well.

Asher Gray Found Dead This Morning; Dies In His Sleep

County Surveyor In Wabash County

Asher Gray, 51, well-known in this city, died in his sleep at 4 a.m. today at his home in Wabash. Mr. Gray served as surveyor in Wabash county for 22 years, having resigned that position this spring.

Well known here as an engineer, Mr. Gray was a hospital patient in this city a few years ago when he suffered a heart attack while doing work in the county. He had been working in both Whitley and Huntington counties.

His wife survives, also a daughter, Phyllis and a son, William, both at home. Mr. Gray was a past president of the State Association of County surveyors and served under Ralph Gates on the Indiana Flood Control Commission. He served one term as chairman of the Republican Central Committee in Wabash county.

The body is at the Eddingfield Mortuary in Wabash where services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday with burial in Wabash.

Rites Held Tuesday For Joseph L. Bakle

Memorial services were held Tuesday morning at St. Paul of the Cross Catholic Church for Joseph L. Bakle. The Rev. John J. Frawley officiated at the services and also at the committal services which followed in the Catholic cemetery.

American Legion post 98 conducted military rites at the cemetery.

The pallbearers were George Bakle, Wilfred Bakle, William Schuldt, Raymond Bakle, Loel Bakle, Harry Anderson, Sherman Kneller, A. K. Strouse, Ralph Brockenhamer, Galen Adair, Herbert Kneller and Donald Deeter.

Wisconsin Man Gets $50 Fine, 20 Days In County Jail

John Genslak, Jr., 48, of Chilton, Wisc. was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 20 days in the Whitley County jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge in circuit court Tuesday of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Circuit Judge Lowell Pefley sentenced Genslak to six months at the Indiana State Farm, but suspended all except the 20 days in the county jail. He is to be given credit for the time already served at the jail. Genslak's driver's license was also ordered suspended for one year.

A second count of public intoxication against Genslak was continued indefinitely.

Genslak was arrested in the city last week by City Policeman Morris Carlile while the Wisconsin man was driving a car on U.S. highway 30.

Hog Prices May Be Between $13 And $16

LAFAYETTE, Ind. UP — Hog prices are expected to fluctuate between $13 and $16 from next December to next May after working irregularly downward for the balance of 1955.

J. Carroll Bottum and John O. Dunbar, Purdue University agricultural economists, made that prediction in the current issue of Economic and Marketing Information.

The downward trend will be due to a 9 per cent increase in the spring pig crop and an increase in farrowing, they said.

President Must Decide Future Of Harold Talbott

Without Verdict From Investigators

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower must decide the future of Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott without a verdict from Senate investigators, authoritative sources said today.

At least two members of the Senate Investigating subcommittee urged a speedy report on the group's inquiry into the $60,000-a-year business partnership which Talbott kept while in the Pentagon.

Talbott announced Wednesday at the end of the investigation that he is pulling out of the firm.

But a high source said the staff could not draft a report and get agreement of the subcommittee members before this session of Congress ends and the seven senators scatter.

This probably would delay the official report until January.

The delay would leave Mr. Eisenhower to decide for himself whether Talbott violated government ethics. He would have available the testimony in the case, but not the subcommittee's opinion.

Will Make Personal Study

The Chief Executive told his news conference Wednesday that he will make an intensive personal study of the Talbott case. He refrained from passing any judgment then on Talbott.

Mr. Eisenhower said there was no suggestion of fraud or illegality in the case. But he said it is not enough for a man in public office merely to be innocent of illegal actions—there are also questions of ethics, and on such matters, he said, a public official must be impeccable.

He said Talbott had performed almost brilliantly as Air Force secretary, and had been his personal friend for some years.

But Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) told newsmen he thought the subcommittee should study the evidence over the weekend and begin work on a report next week.

"It should be a comparatively simple report, because the areas of criticism are relatively limited," Mundt said. "I hope it won't be approached in a partisan spirit.'

And Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) said, "I think there should be an early report by the subcommittee. We have the problem of last-minute legislation which will necessarily slow down issuance of a report. Nevertheless, I hope a report will be made without delay."

Flood of Resignation Rumors

Rumors that Talbott would—or would not—resign from his post flooded Washington in the wake of his withdrawal from Paul B. Mulligan & Co., management engineers.

Talbott told a United Press reporter firmly that he did not intend to resign as secretary. When an aide intervened with "no comment," Talbott amended his answer to "no comment." Later, when pressed by other newsmen, he denied making the statement.

Talbott told the subcommittee he did nothing illegal or dishonest in his relations with his firm, which had clients who held defense contracts.

He said he never used his position as secretary "to pressure a living soul to give the company contracts."

But "in retrospect," he said, "I now see that I was mistaken in permitting myself to make phone calls or write letters about the company."

Talbott said he gave Mulligan & Co. scarcely 2½ days of his time during 2½ years in the Pentagon.

Mrs. Hobby Says Her Department Will Grow Bigger

Has Great Future, Is Only Starting

WASHINGTON (UP) — Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby believes the big Health, Education and Welfare Department she is leaving will grow even bigger as the years go by.

"This department has got a great future. It is only starting," was her farewell prediction in an interview with the United Press Wednesday.

Mrs. Hobby, who has headed the department since its founding in April, 1953, will leave the government Sunday for "public service of a different kind." She will start to work on Monday as president of the Houston Post Publishing Co., taking her ailing husband's place.

Marion B. Folsom, now Treasury undersecretary, will succeed her as health, educat' n and welfare secretary.

Looking back over her 31 months as head of the department and its predecessor, the Federal Security Agency, Mrs. Hobby said:

"I think I can be a much better citizen and newspaperwoman from what I've learned."

Under her stewardship, Social Security coverage was expanded, more money provided for hospital construction and vocational rehabilitation, a state-national system of educational cnoefrences established, plans worked out to distribute polio vaccine and enforcement of pure food and drug laws surveyed.

Mrs. Hobby was optimistic that the unfinished business she is leaving behind will be accomplished. She mentioned the administration's proposals for health, school construction and juvenile delinquency prevention programs.

She said she wished they had been approved before she leaves, but "they will come . . . it's just a question of being patient."

Her appointment as the first health, education and welfare secretary was the second precedent the handsome 50-year-old Mrs. Hobby has set in government service. During World War II, she was the first head of the Women's Army Corps.

Turncoats Arrive In U. S. Today; To Be Put Under Immediate Arrest

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—Three American turncoats who embraced and then spurned life in Communist China arrive in the United States today and will be put under immediate arrest.

The three GIs, Lewis Griggs, 22, of Jacksonville, Tex. Wiilliam A. Cowart 22 of Dalton Ga., and Otho G. Bell, 24, of Olympia, Wash., will be allowed one hour to visit with their families aboard the S. S. President Cleveland the ship returning them here.

Lt. Gen. Robert N. Young, commander of the 6th Army, said he would take the turncoats into custody for pre-trial investigation. They have been under jurisdiction of the State Department since they departed from Red China.

Young said the three will be charged with aiding the enemy and informing on fellow American prisoners who were punished by their captors as a result of the information.

The turncoats face possible life imprisonment or death sentences if convicted on these charges.

They also will be accused of conspiring and soliciting to desert.

The court martial charges will be based on information from other returned American prisoners of war.

The offenses allegedly occurred by the Communists in 1950 and 1951 and their dishonorable discharges from the Army in January, 1954.

The Army stressed that the charges against the three are in no way connected with their refusal to accept repatriation to their homeland when other POWs were repatriated.

The three men boarded the S.S. President Cleveland in Hong Kong three weeks ago after leaving Red China with permission of Communist authorities.

The turncoats will be transported to Fort Baker for processing and confinement. There they will wait under special guard while military officials plow through a 3-foot stack of documentary evidence to determine whether there is sufficient cause to hold a court martial. This will take several weeks.

Army officials said they will resist any moves by the three to seek writs of habeas corpus in a federal court. They pointed out that an act of Congress gives the Army jurisdiction for crimes committed while in the service, even though a man has been discharged.

State Police Troopers Sent To Hagerstown

To Prevent Further Strike Skirmishes

HAGERSTOWN, (UP) — More than 150 Indiana State Police troopers arrived in Hagerstown today to prevent further strike skirmishes at the Perfect Circle Corporation's plants. Additional troopers were ordered to the two Richmond plants by Governor Craig.

While the troopers watched, non-striking workers filed through orderly picket lines at the plants at Richmond and Hagerstown. A temporary restraining order forbidding mass picketing was issued Thursday.

Company officials said they would file for an injunction in Henry Circuit Court Monday to stop mass picketing at the New Castle plant. There has been no violence reported at the New Castle unit.

The state troopers were sent to the Richmond and Hagerstown plants after cars of non-strikers were stoned and several persons beaten. Fourteen strikers were arrested in Richmond Thursday for throwing stones through cars of employes trying to return to work.

Reliefer Jailed For Eating Too Much

Thomas Rush was sent to jail because he eats too much.

Rush, an electrical engineer, said he finds it easier to live on relief than work because "If I work I eat more and it costs me more to live.'

Judge R. W. Gunton, who sentenced him said, "It appears you want to live on the community for the rest of your life.'

United States Sends AngryNote To Red Bulgaria

Note To Be Delivered By Swiss Diplomats

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States wrote Red Bulgaria an angry note of protest today over the killing of 13 Americans aboard an Israeli airliner. The note also demanded indemnity payments for survivors of the 13.

The note was to be delivered in Sofia by Swiss diplomats as soon as the State Department assembles final data on Bulgarias destruction of the big plane by anti-aircraft fire. The Swiss will make the delivery because the United States and Bulgaria do not have diplomatic relations.

Diplomats said the "unprovoked and unwarranted" destruction of the Israeli airliner was [illegible] to be embarrassing to Moscow and its entire satellite brood. Fifty-eight persons were killed. The bloody incident contrasted sharply with the improved East-West atmosphere set at the Big Four Geneva conference.

This may be why the Bulgarian government quickly acknowledged its "sincere regret' over the disaster.

Officials said Bulgarias responsibility for the incident would not be eased even if it is found that trigger-happy gunners shot without top-level orders.

The State Department said the United States government was "indignant" at Bulgaria's action even if the passenger plane "may have been a few miles off its course" when shot down.

In addition to demands for indemnity, the note to Bulgaria is expected to demand an apology, assurances against a repetition of further incidents and insist that the United States be informed through Switzerland as to what action Bulgaria is taking.

Craig Says He Doesn't Want Talbott's Air Force Job

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP)—Republican Gov. George N. Craig of Indiana said today he would not serve as Air Force secretary if the office is offered to him.

"I wouldn't take the job if it were offered to me," the governor said. "I like Indiana so well I want to stay there."

Craig said there was "absolutely nothing to reports" that he might be offered the job now held by Harold E. Talbott.

Johnson Hopes Negotiations To Lead To Success

In Freeing 51 Americans Jailed By Reds

WASHINGTON (UP)—Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson, who meets in Geneva Monday with Red Chinese diplomats, today expressed hope that the negotiations will "lead to success" in freeing 51 Americans jailed by the Communists.

Johnson voiced his hope directly to 77-year-old Mrs. Addie Rigney of Chicago who called on Johnson at the State Department to "help get my son free" along with the other Americans. Mrs. Rigney's son, the Very Rev. Harold W. Rigney, has been jailed by the Chinese since July 25, 1951.

"If you would help get my son free, I will be very grateful," Mrs. Rigney said to Johnson, who leaves Saturday for the Geneva talks.

Johnson, a carrer diplomat, said he had been involved in the prisoner problem for a long time in his diplomatic work. He said that Father Rigney's case was well-known to the State Department and the over-all prisoner issue is "very close to me." He said some of the people held are his own personal friends "from a long way back.'

"Weve had some success (in freeing prisoners), and I earnestly hope a renewal of talks will lead to success," Johnson said.

Johnson promised Mrs. Rigney he would do all he could to free her son and asked the "hopes and prayers of all you people."

John Hazen Suffers Minor Finger Burns In Flash Gasoline Fire

John Hazen, 129 Hilltop Drive, received minor burns on fingers of the right hand at about 2:30 p.m. Thursday when fumes from gasoline being drained from an outboard motor were ignited by the pilot light of the water heater at his home. The burns were not considered serious.

City firemen were called to the scene, but Hazen extinguished the blaze with a cloth and dirt before they arrived. No serious damage was caused to the motor.

Hazen said that he was draining the fuel from the motor's tank into a pan in preparation for taking the boat on a trip to Wisconsin. Some of the fumes from the gasoline were evidently ignited by the flame from the nearby water heater. The fire engulfed the motor but Hazen quickly closed the drain plug on the fuel tank. In doing so, his fingers were burned.

Israeli Official Visits Scene Of Plane Crash

In Which 58 Lost Their Lives

ATHENS, Greece (UP) — The Israeli charge d'affaires in Sofia, capital of Communist Bulgaria, today visited the scene of the crash of an El Al Israel airliner in which 58 persons died when the plane was shot down by Bulgarian anti-aircraft guns.

Thirteen of the victims were Americans.

But Bulgarian frontier guards stubbornly barred an official Israeli investigation team from entering the crash area from nearby Greece.

The frontier guards told the Israeli investigators their commander was "sleeping' and could not be disturbed and kept the Iron Curtain drawn as tight as it had ever been.

The guards took the action despite a series of bitter diplomatic protests by Israel, an apology from the Red Bulgarian government and a Bulgarian promise to let an investigating team visit the scene.

The Israeli government disclosed it received a note from Bulgaria today promising that the Sofia government will "assume its respective part of the material damages' resulting from the downing of the airliner "after they have been duly established."

The note also expressed Bulgaria's "profound regret" for the incident and informed Israel that a special government commission has been appointed to "investigate this deplorable incident.

The latest development in the air disaster came as the United States and Britain were reported preparing their own protests to the Communist regime in Sofia against the incident and as Washington prepared to demand indemnity payments to survivors of 13 Americans aboard.

Air authorities in London already were predicting that international outrage against the incident might force Russia and its satellites to submit to a new international agreement to forestall such incidents in the future.

They said this could be one of the first black-and-white follow-ups of the Geneva conference as a means of helping to restore the Cold War thaw that appeared to be setting in after the summit conference.

4-H Winners' Trip, Scheduled Thursday, Re-set For August 9

The Whitley County 4-H Achievement Winners' trip scheduled for Thursday has been postponed until August 9, it has been announced by Harold Buckenmeyer, county 4-H leader.

A mix-up on arrangements for bus transportation for the youths caused the cancellation of Thursday's trip.

The trip by the 45 three and four year 4-Hers will be the same as originally scheduled, Buckenmeyer said. It includes a tour of the Kalamazoo, Michigan Vegetable Parchment Paper Company and a visit to the Post Cereals Company at Battle Creek. The trip will also include a visit to Pokagon State Park at Angola.

The youths were selected for the trip on the basis of their past achievement in 4-H work.

40-Pound Tumor Successfully Removed

CHICAGO (UP) — A 40-pound tumor has been removed successfully by surgeons from the lower abdomen of a 43-year-old Chicago woman, St. Mary of Nazareth Hospital reported today.

The tumor, neglected for more than 10 years, measured 20 inches in diameter and was so large that the patient was almost unable to walk during the past two years, the hospital said.

But she has recovered fully and has returned home.

The hospital withheld the patient's name and the identity of the surgeons.

'No TV, No Me' Charges Detroit Wife

DETROIT (UP)—Television led to an uncontested divorce for Mrs. Marian Borrusch, 51, on the ground her husband, George, 66 was too frugal to put up with feminine nature.

Mrs. Borrusch testified Thursday her husband took their television tube to work with him every morning so she wouldn't waste electricity and forbade her to move furniture or have friends visit because "it wore out the rug and used up all the coffee."

Combat Versions Super-H Bombs Are Pouring In

AEC Also Reports New Strides Toward Atomic Airplane

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Combat versions of the Bikini super-H bombs have been pouring into the U.S. atomic arsenal for the past six months.

This was disclosed by the Atomic Energy Commission today in a report which also noted jubilantly new strides toward an atomic airplane and "the swift advance of the atoms-for-peace program around the world."

In its 18th semiannual accounting to Congress, the AEC reported new high record production of nuclear explosives and fuels, and of atomic raw materials from both domestic and foreign sources.

It revealed that science may be on the track of chemical substances which could minimize the threat of genetic doom posed by the possibility of atomic war.

Atom Power Gains

And it reported or hinted at scientific breakthroughs which will hasten the nation's progress "into a nuclear power economy."

"The commission's program of developing reactors for industrial and military power and for naval and aircraft propulsion made greater strides during the first six months of 1955," the AEC said, "than in any earlier half-year."

In particular, "the promise of nuclear-powered flight considerably brightened." Although the commission did not say so, there is reason to believe an atomic aircraft engine will be built in 157 and that the world's first atom-driven plane will get into the air in 1958.

It was the Bikini test bomb of March 1, 1954—the so-called fission-fusion-fission bomb — that convinced the world's leaders that a global nuclear war could wipe out civilization.

Judge Suspends Commitment Of 2nd Boy Involved In Theft

Judge Lowell Pefley suspended Thursday in Whitley Juvenile Court the commitment of the second boy involved in the theft of merchandise from the Marathon Service Station the morning of July 9. The boy, 14, had also admitted defacing the front windows of 10 downtown stores the evening of July 20.

The youth, along with a 16-year-old boy, had confessed to the theft of the items valued at about $215. Both youths were ordered committed to the Indiana Boy's School in a hearing in juvenile court Tuesday. The older boy was subsequently transported to the school to stay until he is 21 or until released by the Board of Trustees.

The second hearing Thursday was requested by the parents of the younger youth.

The sentence was ordered suspended until further order of the court which may order the commitment carried out if the boy has any further difficulty with law-enforcement officials. The suspension was conditioned upon the youth's compliance with regulations set up by the court, by the probation officer, and his parents. He was also ordered to maintain a financial record showing money received and spent.

Rotary Club Favors Marking County Roads

Commissioners To Complete Budget Tuesday Morning

A number of community-minded people have been studying a plan of numbering or naming all the county roads in this county for the past six months. The project had been discussed in previous years, but during recent months more interest and discussion has been raised.

The Columbia City Rotary Club appointed a committee to study the possibilities of such a suitable plan. On the committee are Elmer Heinley, who is also assistant fire chief of Columbia township, Richard Holden, and Robert Thomas. At this week's Rotary Club meeting, Chairman Heinley reported that Purdue University has devised a plan of marking county roads and suggested that the Purdue plan be seriously considered for Whitley county. He added further that such a project would cost the county approximately $8,000. The signs would be substantially erected, the posts being placed in cement. The fire department would be greatly aided by this program, Heinley stated.

As a result of the encouragement of the committee, the Rotary Club adopted a resolution which was sent to the county commissioners, urging them to appropriate funds for this purpose. The commissioners report that the biggest share of the $8,000 would be derived from the state gasoline tax, but some would have to be appropriated by the county.

People in favor of this program should indicate their feelings to the commissioners anytime before Tuesday morning. Tuesday morning the commissioners will meet in the Courthouse to complete the budget for next year. If no appropriation is made for the program of marking county roads, the job will of course be prolonged another year.

$200 Damage Caused To 2 Cars In Accident At Main-Chicago

Damage estimated at $200 was caused to two cars when one sideswiped the other at the intersection of South Main and East Chicago street at about 9:10 a.m. Thursday during the heavy rain.

The driver of one car, Cecil C. Egolf, 42, of R 6, told city police that he was northbound on Main street stopped waiting for traffic going west on U.S. highway 30. The other car, westbound on East Chicago street and driven by Esther Belle Hawn, 55, of R 2, struck the Egolf car as she was attempting to make a left turn into South Main street.

The right front fender of the Hawn car struck the right side of the Egolf car causing an estimated damage of $75. An estimated $125 damage was caused to the right front fender, headlight, bumper and hood of the Hawn car.

Both cars had been moved when police arrived to investigate the accident.

Ike And Others Have Pre-Adjournment Get-Together Today

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower had breakfast today with Republican members of Congressat an informal get-together prior to congressional adjournment.

The White House staff and some members of the cabinet also attended the affair, held at a Washington hotel.

The President planned to leave Washington in the early afternoon for a weekend at his Gettysburg farm.

Before his departure, he scheduled a conference with Secretary o fState John Foster Dulles, U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. and Harold E. Stassen, special assistant on disarmament matters. This was to be followed by a cabinet meeting.

Mrs. Langohr is the former Martha Jean Smith.

Battery Of Six Atomic Cannon Reach Okinawa

Launchers Cause Political Furor

By LEROY HANSEN
United Press Staff Correspondent

TOKYO (UP)—A battery of six U.S. atomic cannon landed today on Okinawa and the Army announced that atomic rocket launchers would be sent to Japan for their first deployment in the Far East.

A political storm already was brewing for the government of Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama over the impending arrival of the rocket launchers, with Socialists and left-wing groups rallying to protest even though atomic warheads might not be present.

An Army spokesman said deployment in the Far East of the 85-ton cannon and the "Honest John" rocket launchers "is evidence that the United States is prepared to defend the free world with the most modern weapons in our arsenal."

A Washington announcement said the atomic cannon and rocket launchers had been assigned to Far East stations. A short time later the Army said the 663rd Field Artillery Battalion equipped with six 280-millimeter guns landed today on Okinawa. Some troops in the battalion landed two weeks ago.

Another Army spokesman in Tokyo disclosed that the 5th Field Artillery Battery, equipped with six launchers which fire "Honest John" rockets, will be sent to Japan in the future. The Honest John can be armed with atomic warheads.

Foreign Minister Namoru Shigemitsu was asked about the report when he appeared before a parliamentary committee today but he replied that he needed more time to study the issue before answering questions.

Premier Hatoyama had said previously he would have no objection to the United States stockpiling nuclear bombs in Japan if the occasion warranted it but that he expected to be notified in advance.

The foreign office said the U.S. government had not notified Japan that the rocket unit would be stationed in Japan. However the Army announcement did not mention the storing of any atomic warheads.

16-Year-Old Legal Battle Is At An End

Government Hoped To Strip Him Of Citizenship

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The government today lost its 16-year-old fight to deport longshore boss Harry Bridges.

The ruling by Federal Judge Louis E. Goodman that Bridges was not and never had been a Communist at the time of his naturalization dashed the government's hopes to strip him of his U.S. citizenship and deport him to his native Australia.

The judge held the government had failed to prove its charges that Bridges had fraudulently obtained his citizenship by falsely swearing about his alleged Communist affiliations.

Goodman's decision was made seven days after he had taken the civil suit under submission.

Goodman, who heard the case without a jury, decided the fate of the Internatioinal Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union president on the sole issue of whether he was or had ever been a full party member at the time he was granted his citizenship in 1945.

The decision meant the long legal struggle was at an end.

Three previous attempts by the government to deport Bridges failed.

Radkes Move To Crabill Property

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Radke have purchased the Frank Crabill property at 415 East Van Buren street, and completed moving from Arcola this week. Mr. Radke is employed at the International Harvester Company. They lived near Tunker until last January.

The Radkes have five children Michael will be a junior in the Columbia City Joint High School. Paul will enter the eighth grade, Patricia the sixth, and Lynnette, kindergarten this fall. Sandra is 3 years old.

Mr. Crabill is making his home with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Howenstine, 415 North Main street. He is employed in the furniture department at Montgomery Ward and Company.

Wilting Citizens Dig Deep Into Their Stocks Of Stunts

By UNITED PRESS

Heat - happy Americans were ready to try anything today to gain relief from a blistering mid-summer heat wave which gave no sign of relenting.

Temperatures in the 90s were expected again over all except the Far West and northeast sections of the country.

Wilting citizens dug deep into their stocks of stunts to try to beat the heat, mentally at least.

It was "Christmas in July" Thursday night at Naperville, Ill. — complete with snowballs, Christmas carols and Santa Claus.

Farmer Frank Keller made the snowballs last winter and stored them in a freezer for the occasion, an annual Naperville event dreamed up to escape the commercialism of Christmas in December.

Snowballs will also figure today at St. Louis, Mo., where Sharon Shell will celebrate her 13th birthday with a snowball fight with a few girl friends. The snowballs were made last February and have been stored in the family freezer.

At Waynesburg, Pa., 5,000 residents counted on a tradition for rain today despite a prediction of fair weather. It has rained on July 29 for 71 of the past 78 years. One man draped a dead blacksnake over his fence, following an old story that it was a sure rainmaker.

Around The Clock: Around The World!

STUTTGART, Germany (UP)—There's one man in Germany who likes umpires.

Sgt. Elmore L. Hobbs of Puxico, Mo., returning to his barracks after umpiring a baseball game saw a car in the river and its driver struggling in the water.

Hobbs quickly inflated the rubberized chest protector he uses in ball games and tossed it to the floundering man, who seized it and reached shore safely.

LONDON UP)—Moscow Radio joined an international hookup Thursday night for the first time since the start of the cold war, but it required two conferences at the summit to arrange it.

The first was the Geneva conference itself which brought a request from the British Broadcasting Corporation to Moscow Radio to join London, New York, Paris and Bonn in a program called "After Geneva."

The head of the Moscow Radio telephoned the BBC and demanded to talk with Sir Ian Jacob, the BBC director-general, shortly before the program was to go on the air. He agreed to participate if BBC promised not to cut the Moscow script. BBC agreed.

TAIPEI, Formosa (UP) —Nationalist authorities reported today that the junk "Free China" was still afloat in rough seas on its transpacific voyage to the United States.

The most recent message from the craft indicated it was adrifit after breaking two rudders. The 30-ton sailing vessel carries a crew of five Chinese and a U.S. embassy official from Taipei, Calvin Mehlert.

LONDON (UP)—U.S. Ambassador Winthrop Aldrich leaves today aboard the liner United States for New York. He will have consultations in Washington, followed by a month's vacation.

HAVANA, Cuba (UP) — Police fired automatic weapons into the air to break up Thursday nights mass meeting of University of Havana students. One student was injured and several others were arrested.

The demonstration was the second in 48 hours in protest against a jail sentence given a member of the students federation convicted of possessing explosives illegally.

RIO DE JANEIRO (UP)—Brazil is planning to buy 500,000 tons of U.S. wheat under a surplus commodity foreign sales program, it was announced today.

The purchase will be made in Brazilian cruzeiros through the National Bank for Economic Development. Observers said this indicates the United States will loan the major portion of the purchase amount back to Brazil.

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer and Gen. Isaac D. White, the two top U.S. Army commanders in the Far East, fly back to Tokyo today after a whirlwind three-day visit that helped move Far East Army headquarers to Seoul from Japan.

TOKYO (UP)—Police questioined saddened teachers today to determine whether their carelessness was responsible for the drowning of 36 school girls during swimming lessons.

Civic groups bitterly criticized school authorities for failing to take adequate precautions and study the water conditions before beginning the lessons Thursday. Education Minister Kenzo Matusumura said he would take "strict measures" if it were found the teachers were careless.

The girls drowned at the town of Tsu when a giant ocean wave rolled without warning into the midst of 400 students learning to swim.

NIEMEGEN, Holland (UP) — More than 10,000 persons, who walk because they like it, trudged Holland's roads today in a four-day walkathon. Teams of American and British soldiers joined the army of walkers in what is considered the worlds biggest individual sporting event. There is no clocking or competition. All finishers at the end of four days are given a bronze cross.

MANILA P.I. (UP)—The first jet aircraft assigned to the Royal Thai Air Force landed at Clark Air Base in Pampanga Province today on the last lap of a journey to Bangkok. American and Thai pilots were flying the six T33's.

GLOUCESTER, England (UP)—William Bingham was fined $8.40 Thursday for delivering his wife of a child.

He unknowingly broke the midwives law of 1951 which makes it mandatory to call a doctor or midwife to attend a woman in childbirth since two lives are at stake.

Church News

The Rev. Ervin Wilcoxson is in charge of non-denominational services now conducted in the Council Chambers at the City Hall in Columbia City. The services, which consist of special music, singing, and preaching, are at 2 p.m. each Sunday.

The public is invited to attend.

Persons from Pleasant Chapel Evangelical United Brethren Church who attended the youth assembly at Oakwood Park during the past week will make reports at the evening worship services at the church Sunday. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m.

This announcement was made by the church's pastor the Rev. D. H. Pellett.

The Sunday evening service at the First Baptist Church will be conducted by a group of students and a faculty member from the Southeastern Bible College, Birmingham, Ala.

A musical program will be given by the gospel team, composed of two young women and two young men.

The sermon will be delivered by John Lehman.

According to the Rev. Dale T. Heinbaugh, pastor of the church, the service, which begins at 7:30 p.m., is open to the public.

Lutheran Women Hold Picnic At Cotterly Farm Home

Forty Lutheran women attended the picnic of the General Mite Society of Grace church, Thursday, at the Robert Coterly home south of the city on what is known as the old Peabody farm.

Tables were arranged on the large porch and in the yard for the picnic dinner. Mrs. James Bodley was in charge of the devotions. The group visited, and in the afternoon, Mrs. Stuart Smith, president of the general group, presided over the short business meeting when $1000 was voted toward the expansion program of the church.

It was also voted to hold the supper and bazaar, held annually by the five groups of church women, the middle of November.

Picnic Is Held Thursday At The Lake Home Of McKowns

Seventeen members of the Thorncreek Community Aid Society attended the picnic held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ralph McKnown at Big Lake. The guests included Ilene Frutchy and Mrs. Jack Schuman.

For devotions Mrs. Robert Adams read the 112th Psalm, Mrs. Ratio Smith gave a reading titled "What is a Boy" and the program included vocal and instrumental numbers.

The August meeting will be in the form of an ice cream festival for the families at the home of Mrs. Adams.

MAKE SHORT VISIT IN THIS CITY

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hillsman of Indianapolis spent Wednesday night in this city with their aunt, Mrs. John Q. Adams. They were en route to Lowell where Mrs. Hillman's family resides.

New Safety Car Door Latch Tested

SOUTH BEND (UP)—An automobile was crashed deliberately at 40 miles per hour against a barricade of concrete and railroad ties Thursday to test a new safety door latch.

All four doors equipped with the latch remained closed and did not burst open from the impact in the test conducted at the Studebaker-Packard Corp., proving ground.

The company said it would start production of the latches and make them standard equipment on Studebaker cars as soon as possible.

The doors opened easily after the crash, although the front end of the car was smashed.

The latch has been in the laboratory development stage four years. This was the first time it was tested under crash conditions.

Safety experts, including a representative of the National Safety Council, watched the test.

Craig Gives Warning On Russian Leaders

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP)—Russian leaders, while not the bogeymen they once were, still are building up their military potential, Indiana Gov. George Craig warned today.

He spoke to the Ohio American Legion convention while enroute home from a visit in Washington.

In his prepared text, Craig said President Eisenhower's leadership "overshadowed" the Communists at the Geneva conference and "completed the stripping of the mask of invincibility and infallibility from the Russians, a mask which has been slipping since the death of Stalin."

That improved the prospects for peace, Craig said.

"But we must not be over-optimistic or over-confident," the governor added. "The Russians are still moving full speed ahead with their programs to build up their air force and improve their weapons.

"This is no time to let down our guard. Before rejoicing, we must await an actual agreement and decisions."

House Turns To Public Housing, Last Major Issue

Blocking Early Congress Adjournment

By UNITED PRESS

The House today turned to the last major issue blocking early adjournment of Congress—public housing.

Called up for debate was an omnibus housing bill including President Eisenhower's program for 70-000 additional public housing units in the next two years, plus 20,000 more earmarked for old folks. But Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott (R-Mich) was ready to offer a substitute bill to continue the basic housing laws but to provide no new public housing.

The President's program faced an uncertain future in the House. But he was expected to get eventually about what he requested when the House and Senate settle down to a compromise on the matter. The Senate went far beyond the President's program and approved construction of 572,000 publici housing units in the next four or five years.

Mr. Eisenhower's program reached the House floor after a reluctant rules committee finally cleared it for debate Thursday. The measure had been bottled up in the committee on a 6-6 tie vote since July 1. But under pressure from Republican leaders, one or more of the committee's GOP members—all of whom had voted to stymie the program — switched votes.

Other congressional news:

Natural Gas: The House passed 209-203 Thursday night a bill exempting natural gas producers from direct federal controls. But the Senate already is on record as unwilling to act on it at this session. Opponents charged during the 10-hour House debate that the measure would lead to higher gas rates for consumers.

George-McCarthy: Sens. Walter F. George (D-Ga) and Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) swapped barbed remarks Thursday on the floor of the Senate. McCarthy objected when George refused to assure that his Senate Foreign Relations Committee would give immediate consideration to a McCarthy resolution. The resolution calls for Nationalist China to be included in forthcoming U.S.-Red Chinese talks at Geneva. George said he "did not care" what McCarthy thought of him. McCarthy attacked George's "brightness" and his handling of the foreign relations committee.

Defense: A pamphlet prepared and circulated by the staff of the Senate Republican Policy Committee claimed that the administration has achieved a "significant increase' in the nation's military strength despite drastic manpower reductions. The pamphlet cites this as one of the major "Republican accomplishments" in the national defense since the administration took over. Democrats have attacked the manpower reductions.

Adjournment: House leaders are aiming for adjournment next Tuesday or Wednesday. They called the House into session an hour early today and scheduled a Saturday session. The Senate claimed to be ready for adjournment anytime the House is.

and heat, the super bomb sowed deadly radioactivity over a 7,000-square mile area. This fallout menace helped shape the views on avoidance of war which were manifest at the Big Four heads of government meeting in Geneva.

The commission's report on super bomb stockpiling was brief, blunt, and packed with disclosures. It revealed existence of a "family" of giant weapons.

Immediately after the 1954 Pacific tests, the AEC said, it began to develop "weapons whose design was based on results of those tests."

"During the first six months of 1955," it added, "weapons produced in accordance with the President's directive included types incorporating such designs."

Because of the big bomb's unprecedented power to broadcast radioactive poison over vast areas, scientists have been warning that it carries a genetic threat to survival of the race apart from its capacity to inflict sudden death and destruction.

Swashbuckling Chicago White Sox Vow They Are Going To Hang Onto That Top Spot

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

The swashbuckling Chicago White Sox, who walked into the Yankees own back yard and took first place away from them in a no-quit battle, vowed today that this time they're going to hang onto it for a while.

Twice before within the last six weeks the Windy City whiz-bangs grabbed the top spot in the American League— on June 18, when they held it exactly one day; and on July 22, when they lasted only two days.

But, now, buoyed by confidence after Thursday's 3-2 thriller in which Billy Pierce fanned pinch-hitter Jerry Coleman of the Yanks with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning, the Sox feel it will be different.

"That was a mighty big one," beamed Sox skipper Marty Marion. "And it's still a mighty tough race. But this time we're on top."

Actually, the Sox lead by only two percentage points over the Yankees— and by only one game over the defending champion Cleveland Indians, who bounced Boston Thursday, 6-4. And fourth-place Boston is only three games behind, with fifth-place Detroit just 5½ games away.

A Dramatic Game

The White Sox' big triumph at Yankee Stadium came in one of the most dramatic games of the current season— a game worthy of being a turning-point in the pennant race, if that's what it eventually proves to be.

For eight innings lanky Connie Johnson, called up from the minors earlier this month, shut out New York on four hits. Meanwhile, the Sox notched an unearned run off Bob Turley in the first inning on a walk, Billy Hunter's error, and Jim Rivera's single and two more earned tallies in the third on Minnie Minoso's single and Walt Dropo's 14th homer of the year.

The Yankees almost scored in the sixth when Yogi Berra hit a fly to deep right field with Andy Carey on third base. But Riveras brilliant throw nailed Carey at the plate.

The Yankees suddenly kayoed Johnson in the ninth when, in order with none out, Berra singled, Mickey Mantle homered, and Bobby Adams erred on Bill Skowron's grounder. Marion went for his best in the clutch— Pierce. After a fly out the Yankees loaded the bases on a walk, a ground out, and an intentional walk. But then Pierce struck out war-hero Coleman on a 2-2 pitch to end the game.

For Cleveland, stout relief pitching by Don Mossi and Ray Narleski saved Early Wynn's 13th victory. Mossi fanned Ted Williams with two on in the eighth; Narleski fanned Faye Throneberry with two on in the ninth. Al Rosen hit his 16th homer for Cleveland.

Detroit continued its drive on first place by beating Baltimore, 7-5. Rookie Frank Lary gained his 10th victory, with relief help, and bonus baby Reno Bertoia blasted a three-run double in the first inning to lead his support.

Kansas City and Washington were not scheduled in the American League.

In the National, the Brooklyn Dodgers retained their 12½ game lead by beating Cincinnati, 10-2, as unbeaten rookie Roger Craig fanned 11 batters and Roy Campanella hit two home runs. Craig has won three games during his 11-day major league career. This was a five-hitter.

Second-place Milwaukee downed Philadelphia, 4-2, as Bob Buhl pitched an eight-hitter and Ed Mathews whacked his 25th homer; the thirdplace New York Giants beat Chicago, 4-1, as reliever Paul Giel fanned nine batters in seven innings; and rookie Willard Schmidt pitched a five-hitter for the Cardinals to beat Pittsburgh, 4-1.

Meyer Reinstated

ST. LOUIS (UP)— Veteran right-handed pitcher Russ Meyer, who has been on the disabled list the past 30 days, has been reinstated by the Brooklyn Dodgers. Meyer suffered a broken bone in his chest in a collision with teammate Gil Hodges and Bill Bruton of the Milwaukee Braves, June 26.

Aiming At Mile Mark

HELSINKI, Finland (UP)—Now that he has smashed one of John Landy's world records, Sandor Iharos of Hungary declared today he is taking dead aim on the Australian's mile mark of 3:58.

The Hungarian army officer ran 1,500 meters in 3:40.8 Thursday during a Finnish-Hungarian track meet, clipping one second off the accepted world standard set by Landy last year.

Following his record-breaking run, Iharos announced he will shift his attention to the mile when he competes in a British-Hungarian meet at London next month.

Auto Pinspotters To Replace Boys At Schuman's Alleys

Automatic pinspotters will replace the pin-boys at the Schuman Bowling Alleys for the 1955 season which will get underway sometime in September.

The new AMF manufactured pinsetting machines will be installed the latter part of next month and will be ready for bowlers before the league season starts.

Schuman's Alleys are undergoing extensive remodeling and redecorating of the interior of the building. The new pinspotting equipment being installed will harmonize with a new fall color scheme of julep green, Monterrey red and cream.

To add more room for the bowler's comfort, a lounge and snack bar are being installed on the ground-level floor with tables and chairs replacing the snack bar on the upper floor. Food, prepared in the kitchen below, may also be served to bowlers on the upper floor by means of a dumb-waiter. The office is also being moved downstairs allowing additional space above for a check room.

The installation of automatic pinsetters on the eight lanes at the alleys is expected to assure the bowler more relaxation and comfort as well as more exact pinspotting and consequently more accurate scores.

Leagues are now being organized for the coming season at the alleys and the opening date will be announced soon, owner Errol Schuman announced .

Manager Ruel Puts Ray Schalk Up Above Them All

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (UP)— Yogi Berra of the New York Yankees doesn't rank with the all-time catching greats, General Manager Harold (Muddy) Ruel of the Detroit Tigers said today, and before too much longer he may not even be the best in the American League.

Ruel, who was a catcher of some note himself not too many years ago puts Berra in a class by himself at present— as far as the American League is concerned. But he rates the Yankee backstop behind such as Mickey Cochrane and Billy Dickey. And he puts Ray Schalk up above them all.

Muddy, who ranked as one of the truly fine "defensive" catchers, doesn't attempt to classify Berra and Roy Campanella of the Brooklyn Dodgers, indubitably the National League's best. His defense is that he simply hasn't seen enough of the Brooklyn backstop.

Watch Sammy White

Yet he does insist that Boston's Sammy White has a "good chance" to become the premier catcher in the American League before too long.

"Dickey and Cochrane both were better than Berra," the astute Ruel insists. "Trying to rate those two is just about impossible."

But for the all-time best behind the bat Ruel goes for Schalk, who came out of the Chicago Black Sox scandal with a clean bill of health.

"Cochrane and Dickey could outhit Schalk," Muddy mused, "and they were real powers on attack. But Schalk was the greatest, strictly as a catcher. He never came out of his crouch to throw. And don't forget that a catcher's main job is a defensive one."

The trouble with catchers in baseball today, according to Ruel, is that "the defense is aimed at getting more runs than the other guy."

Schalk's Era Different

"Schalk played in the era of the dead ball," Muddy said. "It was an era of greater base stealing and more defense was necessary. That's why I've got to go for Schalk."

Muddy admits that Berra is "the best catcher we've had for some time in the American League."

"But keep your eye on that Sammy White of Boston," he advises. "Right now he is maturing. He's feeling his way and making some mistakes. The question seems to be whether he can hit. His one trouble, I think, is that he keeps going for that home run ball. He could hit much better straight away and let them fall where they will.

"But when Sammy's throwing and judgment improve," Muddy asserted, "he'll be a hard one to beat. Because White is an attacking catcher— the kind who will be tough on those baserunners."

But take it from Muddy, the catcher's big job is being a defensive player. That's the first requisite.

"He should prevent more runs than he drives in," Muddy holds.

Which is the artistic side of baseball. But would you rather have Berra or White? Personally, I think even Muddy would rather have the guy who wears the "tools of ignorance" for the Yankees.

Trabert And Moyland Run Into Japanese Opponents Today

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y. (UP)— Favored Tony Trabert of Cincinnati and defending champion Eddie Moyland of Trenton, N.J., ran into Japanese opponents today in the quarter-finals of the Meadow Club invitation tennis tournament.

Trabert was pitted against Atsushi Miyagi, while Moylan faced Kosei Kamo in the round of eight.

The other pairings were Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., vs. Sammy Giammalva of Houston, Tex., and Hal Burrows of Charlottesville, Va., vs. Grant Golden of Chicago.

Burrows pulled off the biggest upset of the tournament Thursday by posting a 6-2, 6-2 victory over Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, a two-time finalist at Wimbledon.

Trabert, the new Wimbledon champion, coasted to a similar 6-2, 6-2 triumph over John Lesch of Los Angeles, while Moylan trounced Cliff Mayne of San Francisco, 6-0, 6-1.

Both Japanese players impressed the small gallery as they became the only foreigners to gain the quarter-finals. Kamo outlasted Barry MacKay of the University of Michigan 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, while Miyagi was leading Sid Schwartz, 5-2, in their first set when the Brooklyn player retired with an aching elbow.

Flam advanced with a 6-3, 6-2, victory over Ronald Moreira of Brazil; Golden turned back Bill Quillian of Seattle, Wash., 7-5, 7-5, and Giammalva eliminated Gerry Moss, junior champion from Modesto, Calif., 6-4, 6-4.

Intensive Program In Lake County To X-Ray Adults

GARY, Ind. (UP)—About 1,000 Lake County adults are being x-rayed daily in an intensive program to survey the chests of all persons 15 years or older.

The Lake County X-ray Foundation, a group of citizens who are spearheading the project, regards it as unique in that several civic groups are lending their weight to the program.

It started May 2 and will continue to Aug. 19. To July 28, a total of 86,862 x-rays were taken and Lester Ingram, executive secretary of the foundation, predicted a total in excess of 100,000 by mid-August.

Ingram figured the county will x-ray half its adults this year— through the current program, a Jauary-to-May program which covered 20,000 persons including school children, and periodic industrial programs.

The cost of the summer drive, about $150,000, will be shared by the State Board of Health, volunteer contributors, and the county's tuberculosis heart, and cancer organizations.

The populous Calumet area was divided into 13 sections initially, with four committees in each to plan publicity, location of the mobile x-ray unit, transportation and community participation. The mobile units park at central points like schoolhouses and banks.

Residents can obtain a free chest x-ray in minutes. The films are checked by specialists and negative reports are sent to those cleared by the x-ray.

Ingram said if a "suspicious' finding is indicated, the individual is sent a letter urging him to vist a referral center staffed by public health interviewers. They in turn suggest that a family doctor be consulted.

A diagnosis is left for the family doctor.

Ingram said "suspicious" findings were reported in .1 per cent of 62,683 persons x-rayed through July 8. Of that group, experts suspected tuberculosis in 474 cases, cardiac conditions in 509 and other chest pathology in 967.

The x-ray disclosure and resultant treatment might offset more serious health complications to an individual in the future, Ingram said.

Ag Department Reports Lamb Crop

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department said today the 1955 lamb crop totaled 20,272,000 head 1 per cent under the 1954 crop.

The crop is 12 per cent larger than the 1950 low, but is still 6 per cent below the 10-year average.

In 13 western states (including South Dakota and Texas), the lamb crop is 3 per cent smaller than last year totalling 12,490,000 head this year compared to 12,863,000 last year.

Marion Grable, 78, Dies Early Friday At Home North Of City

Thorncreek Farmer For 20 Years, Funeral Services Monday

F. Marion Grable, 78, Thorncreek township farmer, died unexpectedly at approximately 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Although he had been in ill health for the last year, he had not been bedfast, and this morning was able to do the morning's farm work. He had returned from the barn to the house where Mrs. Grable found him unconscious on the floor in the bath room. He was rushed by ambulance to the Whitley County Hospital where he was pronounced dead upon arrival.

He was born September 2, 1876, on the same farm where he died, a son of George and Sarah Lamon Grable. On June 3, 1903, he was married to Nettie Paulus. With the exception of only a few years, which were spent at Valparaiso, Fort Wayne, and Wilmot, they have made their home in Thorncreek township.

For the past twenty years they have resided on the farm six miles north of this city on state road 109. Mr. Grable was a member of the Big Lake Church of God and for many years had served as a teacher in the Sunday School.

Survivors, in addition to his wife Nettie, include five sons, twins, Ernest K. Grable of Butler and Earl K. Grable of Dimondale, Mich., David A. Grable, Kokomo; Robert G. Grable, Thorncreek township; Roland M. Grable, Fort Wayne; one daughter, Mrs. Esther Lane, Fort Wayne and eighteen grandchildren. One daughter, two sons, a brother and a sister have preceded him in death.

The body has been removed to the Charles Smith and Sons Funeral Home where friends may call after noon Saturday. At 9 o'clock Monday morning it will be taken to the Big Lake Church of God to lie in state until the hour or the service. The church pastor, the Rev. Frederich Wraight and the Rev. A. F. Dreger of Fort Wayne, will officiate at the rites to be held at 10:30 o'clock. Burial will be in the Christian Chapel Cemetery at Merriam.

Memorial Services Held For Glick Child

Memorial services were held at the J. A. DeMoney and Son funeral home Thursday morning for Kenneth Eugene Glick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Glick, who was fatally injured when struck by a car last Monday.

The Rev. Paul Clark, pastor of the Saturn Church of Christ, officiated at the services and also at the comital services which followed in Jefferson Chapel church cemetery. Mrs. Delmar Wagoner and Mrs. Guy Wagoner sang "Safe In The Arms of Jesus" and "Jewels." Their organ accompainment was played by Mrs. Mrs. Marshall Graf.

Paulbearers were Eugene Platter, Paul Dean Wagoner, Robert Kehmeyer, Richard Phillips, Donald Shaw and Phillip Miller.

Weekly Report On Indiana Employment

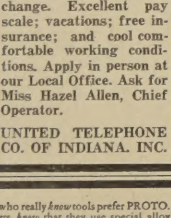
INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—The Indiana Employment Security Division reported today that 27,519 claims for jobless compensation were filed last week, but claims from newly unemployed workers were down.

Continued claims from those out of work a week or more were up, making the total for the week about two per cent above that of the last previous week.

However, the 5,008 new claims represented a drop of almost 1,700 from the week before. Director William C. Stalnaker attributed the decrease to fewer plant vacation layoffs.

The reduction was more than offset, however, by an increase of 2,100 in continued claims.

The 27,519 total was less than half the figure a year ago.



Applications now being accepted from young women, 18 to 30, to train as telephone operators in the Columbia City Exchange. Excellent pay scale; vacations; free insurance; and cool comfortable working conditions. Apply in person at our Local Office. Ask for Miss Hazel Allen, Chief Operator.

Churubusco Man, William E. Crabill, Dies At His Home

Funeral Rites Set For 2 P.M. Sunday

William E. Crabill 87, a lifelong resident of Smith township, died at 9:15 a.m. today at his home in Churubusco.

He had been in failing health for two years.

Mr. Crabill farmed in Smith township until his retirement 17 years ago, when he moved to Churubusco. He was a member of the Churubusco Evangelical United Brethren Church and IOOF.

Survivors include a brother, Albert, of Churubusco, and a sister, Mrs. Etta Bemis, also of Churubusco. Several nieces and nephews also survive. He was preceded in death by his wife, Lenora, and one sister.

Friends may call at the Sonday Funeral Home, at Churubusco. Services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Sunday at the funeral home, the Rev. R. R. Wilson, former Churubusco pastor and now a minister at Atwood, officiating.

Burial will be in the Eel River Cemetery.

Rites Held For J. J. Moore Thursday

Memorial services were held Thursday afternoon at the J. A. DeMoney and Son funeral home for John Joseph (Jack) Moore of this city.

The Rev. E. H. Lane, of Fort Wayne, officiated. Mrs. B. V. Widney played the ten minute prelude as well as the postlude. Members of the Moose Order who served as pallbearers were Ira Webber, Allen Becker, Kenneth Roberts, Thomas Swing, Firmer Keppler, and Jack Cook. Committal services were held in the Greenhill cemetery.

Budget Director Predicts Increase In Gasoline Tax

In 1957 So State Can Keep Pace In Highway Building

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) — State Budget Director Don Clark said today it looks very much as if the Indiana Legislature will have to increase state gasoline taxes in 1957.

Clark said an additional tax of two cents a gallon, raising the present 4-cent tax to six cents, would enable Indiana to keep pace with other states in highway building.

A highway study commission created by the 1955 Legislature discussed gasoline taxes Thursday but reached no conclusions.

Clark said a 2-cent increase would bring in more than 25 million dollars a year.

The State Budget Committee, meeing earlier this week at Mackinac Island, Mich., where members attended a meeting of the Council of State Governments, approved a controversial $265,000 loan from highway funds to the State Toll Road Commission to finance final surveys of a proposed north-south superhighway.

The committee also approved a $6,300 allotment to the School for the Deaf for emergency boiler and kitchen repairs, and $3,000 to the Conservation Department to purchase a public fishing site on Oliver Lake in Lagrange County.

The commitee will spend next week at the governor's cotage at Dunes State Park. While there, it will inspect the State Prison and Beatty Hospital nearby and give "serious consideration" — according to Clark—to airconditioning the Statehouse and all other state offices in Indianapolis at a cost of $150,000.

255 Cities Charge For Industrial Waste

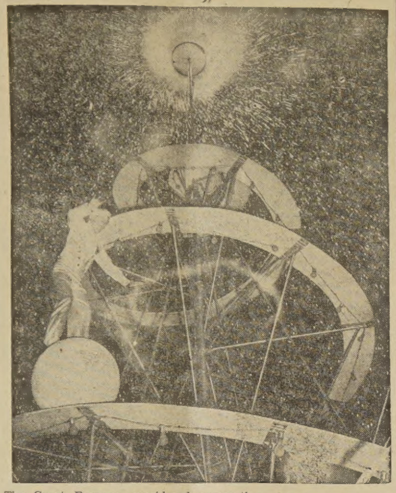
CHICAGO —(UP) —More than 255 U.S. cities of over 5,000 population make industries pay for discharging industrial waste material into municipal sewers, according to a recent report of the American Public Works Association.

Most of the cities base the charge on how much water an industry uses. But 41 have flat charges and 32 base their charge on both quanity of waste discharged and the kind or quality of the waste.

Cities questioned considered dairy wastes and those from meat packing as rendering the most objectionable discharged in their sewer systems.

Listed in descending order as less objectionable were wastes from metals and metal plating, food processing, canneries, oils and oil products, chemicals, poultry, textiles, garages and gas stations, dye and dry cleaning, breweries, laundries, tanneries, paper, tobacco, paint, glass, photographic laboratories and restaurants.

New Type Aerial Act Here For Old Settlers Day



The Great Fussner, considered by the press and the public to be one of the most beautiful and sensational aerial attractions of the present day, will be appearing with Dave Malcolm's "1955 Cavalcade of Stars" at City Hall Square in Columbia City on August 11, 12, 13 under the sponsorship of the Old Settler's — American Legion Association.

His numerous engagements throughout the country are highlighted by his repeat engagements at the Chicago Stadium and the Police Show at St. Louis for two consecutive years.

While toying with death on a treacherous See-Saw high in the air, the night performance is brilliantly illuminated by incandescent lights attached to the performing tower. At a given signal, these lamps are extinguished and instantaneously the entire Spiral Tower is transformed into a gloriously spectacular fountain of fire.

The entire presentation is truly the acme of equilibristic perfection on the world's most unique apparatus.

Officials Trying To Settle Bitter Kohler Strike

CHICAGO (UP)—Company and union officials hammered at details of a "package deal" again today in a concerted effort to settle the bitter 16-month-old Kohler Co. strike.

Lyman C. Conger, a company negotiator, said officials were trying to resolve all the questions in dispute in the strike against the plumbingware firm near Sheboygan, Wis.

Conger conceded that negotiators had only "touched the surface' in the three-day session here.

The company was seeking a "package deal," Conger said, and admitted: "We're still apart, but we dont know how much.

Robert H. Moore, the chief federal conciliator, said he was "hopeful' that an agreement would be forthcoming. The fact that the negotiating sessions still were underway, he said, was itself "certainly a hopeful sign."

"Both parties are making every effort to settle this," he said, "and I don't think either has abandoned hope."

The union's chief negotiator, UAW secretary - treasurer Emil Mazey, declined any comment.

Russian Farmers End 13-Day Tour

By ROBERT L. ROSE
United Press Staff Correspondent

CLARINDA, Iowa (UP)—Touring Russian farm leaders wound up their 13-day visit to Iowa's tall corn country today.

The Soviets headed into wheat-growing Nebraska by auto caravan after visitiing corn research projects and an Iowa State College experimental farm here.

Local farm and civic leaders hosted the Russians at their last big Iowa dinner Thursday night.

For the first time on the trip, the visitors weren't asked to speak. Instead, they were merely introduced.

From Iowa, the Russians will go to Nebraska, South Dakota, Minnesota, Chicago and then California.

The Russians spent most of Thursday visiting the "poor land' area of Iowa around Osceola.

The area marked by thin top soil and higher average temperatures, has the widest variation of crop yield in the state. Top average corn yields run only about 35 bushels compared to 60-62 in the rich central part of the state.

Iowa State College officials conducting the tour said the area was included to prove to the Russians that they were not siimply being shown farm "show cases.'

Another switch for the Russians was a "dutch treat" lunch at the Osceola Country Club where the visitors plunked down $1.25 for a meal of ham, beans and potato salad.

Sweltering in 102 degree temperatures, the Russians visited the 400-acre farm of Floyd McComas and the 160-acre farm of Ralph Long near Mount Ayr.

Economist Warns Farmers Depression May Be Repeated

CHICAGO (UP)—There is danger that the agricultural depression of the 1930s soon will be repeated, market research economist H.M. Conway warned in the August issue of National Live Stock Producer magazine.

"The value of the farm dollar now is 85 cents, a level that eventually wrecked a generation of farmers during the 1930's," Conway wrote.

He explained that hog prices are averaging 77 per cent of parity and lambs 78 per cent. In terms of cost of products the stockman buys, the livestock industry has a purchasing power of between 75 and 80 per cent of normal.

Even if the present economic situation is helped by a continued upward industrial and inflationary trend, it would not correct the cause but only aggravate and temporarily delay pending adjustments, according to Conway.

This Summer Hotter In Northern Indiana Than In Southern

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) — This is ONE summer when, perhaps, the hot-weather haters in southern Indiana are not sorry they don't live in northern Indiana.

Normally, people who live downstate look at the temperature readings upstate a bit wistfully. For often it's 95 around Evansville and only 85 at South Bend. Sometimes there's even a greater spread between the day's high readings.

But not this year. For some reason or other—the Weather Bureau either isnt exactly certain or is just being non-commital—it has been hotter in the north than in the central and south.

LaPorte, for instance, only 10 minutes from Lake Michigan's cool beaches, has had at least 16 days of 90-degree or higher weather this month. But Indianapolis, almost 200 miles south, had only 10 days of such maximum readings.

A heat wave around the Fourth of July sent the mercury as high as 101 at Fort Wayne, near the state's northeast corner. For four days in a row, Fort Wayne's official temperatures led the rest of the state. At Indianapolis during that period, the high was 93, and even normally broiling Evansville didn't taste temperatures as high as 100.

Weather experts said the answer may lie in the fact the weather has been clearer upstate than down this month. Sunshine helps the mercury mount, while clouds and overcast keep the temperature lower.

The concentration of high temperatures up north this summer reminded weather observers of the hot summer of 1936. That was the year the highest temperature ever officially recorded in Indiana was placed in the records, a mark which has stood ever since.

The all-time record for Indiana, 116 degrees, wasn't recorded at Evansville. Nor at any othe rpoint in southern Indiana. Central portion, either.

It was at Collegeville in Jasper County, about 45 miles south of Young Lutheran Minister Found Guilty Of Heresy

Still Maintains His Innocence

MILWAUKEE (UP) — A young Lutheran minister found guilty of heresy maintained his innocence today even as the church invited him back to the fold.

A seven-minister committee of the Northwest Synod of the Lutheran Church unanimously found the Rev. George Crist, 31, guilty of nine charges of heresy but cleared him of six other accusations.

The committee, which handed down the precedent-setting decision Thursday after two days of closed hearings, recommended his immediate suspension.

But Dr. Paul Wagner, chairman of the committee, apparently left the way open for Crist to return to the church, in a brief address to the Milwaukee preacher before announcing the verdict, he said:

"We find ourselves holding different standpoint, we considered them but do not find any way to reconcile them.

Doors Stay Open

"Therefore, we all would be most happy if you would make the supreme sacrifice of your intellectual doubts and differences as a Bearer of the Cross and a follower of Christ. At any time you wish to do so, the doors are open," 'wagner added.

But Crist maintained his innocence after being informed of the verdict.

"I am not guilty as charged," he said. "I expected it, but I'm surprised at the breakdown. It does not seem to me to be consistent."

The committee ruled that Crist fell into "doctrinal deviations" by denying the Virgin Birth and physical resurrection of Jesus Christ; by abandoning "fundamental principles of scriptural interpretation" which guided Martin Luther; by doubting some miracles and the Transfiguration of and Ascension of Christ; and by denying that Adam was responsible for man's sinfulness.

Cleared of Six

Crist was cleared of six accusations, including one of "adulterating the word of God . . . by mingling freely and openly with the criptural word, his own opinions and surmises."

The young preacher steadfastly maintained his innocence during the trial. He said his viewpoints were permissible in the church.

Wagner announced that the committee wanted the young preacher suspended until the Northwest Synod convention here May 15, 1956. Suspension would prevent Crist from preaching or conducting church services.

Wagner said the committee would make a final recommendation on reprimand or "de-frocking" before the convention. A four-fifths vote of the synod is necessary to de-frock Crist, a spokesman said.

The committee, however, also recommended that the synod give Crist, the father of three children, financial aid until the convention.

Denies all Charges

Crist denied the validity of all 15 of the heresy charges because they "all lack constitutional definition. Fourteen charges were filed originally but one was broken down into two.

Crist thought the trial would be beneficial to the Lutheran Church. "It will make the church decide and state clearly what its structure and nature is," he said.

The trial was the first in the 60-year history of the Northwest ynod. The Rev. Charles Burmeister, prosecuting officer, agreed that the trial was significant because the church "officially" declared itself on the "doctrine of deviation."

Crist, pastor of the Bethlehem Lutheran Church in nearby Durham, earlier admitted that some of the charges represented his views and some of them did not. After the trial, he said the charges, as stated, did not represent his viewpoints.

Plants are most susceptible to weed killers during rapid growth and this is the time weeds should be sprayed, if possible.

CIO Charged With Aiding Democratic Party

DETROIT (UP)—The CIO United Auto Workers union will be arraigned today on charges its television shows supporting Democratic candidates in Michigan last fall violated the federal Corrupt Practices Act.

A UAW spokesman said CIO President Walter Reuther and the union's Secretary - Treasurer Emil Mazey will represent the union along with their attorney.

The union was indicted by a federal grand jury July 20 on four counts accusing it of illegally using its general funds to support Democratic candidates during the 1954 election through UAW - sponsored television programs.

Mazey has charged the indictment was a "frantic effort" by Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield and state Republican Chairman John Feikens to "save face' after last fall's Democratic victories in Michigan.

Review Board Upholds Fleming Court Martial

Conviction On Charge Of Collaborating

WASHINGTON (UP)—An Army review board has upheld the court martial conviction of Lt. Col. Harry Fleming on charges of collaborating with the enemy while a Korean War prisoner. It also approved the sentence of dismissal from service.

But the court threw out two sets of charges against the 47-year-old Racine, Wis., officer based on alleged collaboration between June and December, 1951. It also set aside the court martial's finding that Fleming extolled the virtues of communism while leading prison camp discussion groups.

The board, however, ruled that Fleming was guilty of collaboration between February and May, 1951.

During that period, he was held guilty of "wilfully, unlawfully and knowingly' collaborating by leading discussion groups 'refecting views and opinions that the United Nations and the United States were illegal aggressors in the Korean conflict."

He was alleged to have helped prepare propaganda recordings aimed at U.S. troops and attacking U.S. war aims.

In throwing out similar charges for the June-December period, the court said that at that time Felming in discussion groups tried to show the shortcomings of communism and on one occasion, reprimanded an enlisted man who did not pay attention to a description of the U.S. Congress.

Besides dismissal from the service if the review board action is upheld, Fleming loses pay and allowances of about $700 a month.

He may appeal to the U.S. Court of Military Appeals, a civilian body, or the Army judge advocate general may decide to send the case to that court. The case originally was heard at Ft. Sheridan, Ill.

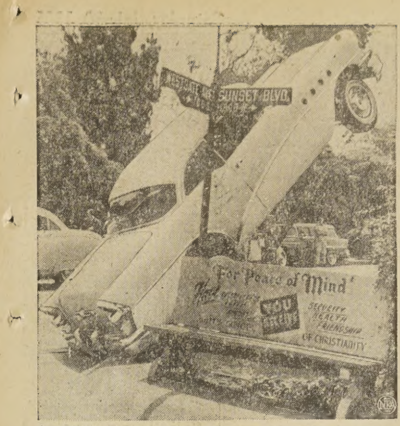
United States Announces Plans To Launch Unmanned Satellites



LENDING ENCOURAGEMENT—An accident like this one in Los Angeles, Calif., could raise anyone's blood pressure, which is why the sign on a nearby bench is so appropriate. "For Peace of Mind, Have Cheerfulness," it reads. And cheerfulness is just what 63-year-old Mrs. Angela Tanny needed after driving her car up this telephone pole guy wire. She accidentally touched the gas pedal instead of the brakes while making a turn.

Alexis Johnson Leaves For Europe Today To Confer With Red China

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson flies to Europe today to demand that Red China free 40 Ameican civilians and 11 U.S. airmen.

Johnson received last - minute instructioins at the State Department before taking an afternoon plane for New York (at 2:35 p.m. EDT) and departing later (at 4 p.m. EDT) for Paris.

Johnson will meet Monday at Geneva, Switzerland, with Red China's ambassador to Poland, Wang Ping Nan. Johnson is this countrys ambassador to Czechoslovakia.

As Johnson prepared to depart, hopes for getting the Americans freed were raised by a prediction by Communist Premier Chou En-lai that the problem should "be easily settled."

Chou, in a major policy speech broadcast by Radio Peiping, said the "people of all countries demand an end to the Cold War" and urged concrete actions to reach this goal through negotiations.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles have stressed that the problem of captive Americans is the outstanding barrier to improved U.S.-Red Chinese relations. They have said that if this problem is settled, the question of a ceasefire in the Formosa Straits miight be taken up.

Future Talks Possible

Both have left open the possibility that there might be talks later with Red China on the foreign ministers level if there is progress at Geneva, Chairman Walter F. George D-Ga) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has urged a higher - level conference to forestall a new crisis in the Formosa Straits.

Wang, arriving in Geneva Friday told reporters he hopes his meeting with Johnson will lead to negotiations on the foreign ministers' level.

Wang said the purpose of his talks with Johnson is "to discuss and eliminate tension in the region of Taiwan (Formoa)."

The United States has conceded it will seek to discover at Geneva Communist Chinas attitude on a cease fire in the Formosa area. But it has emphasized that the talks are primarily to discuss the prisoner issue.

Bargaining Wins Wage Increase For Workers

Of Aluminum Company 2 Days Before Deadline

PITTSBURGH (UP)— A coordinated bargaining effort that won a wage increase for 27,000 Aluminum Company of America workers gave added strength today to rumors that the AFL Aluminum Workers union may be about to merge with the CIO Steelworkers Union.

The wage agreement, announced Friday night, resulted in an average 15-cent hourly wage increase for the Alcoa production workers. Alcoa employs 17,000 members of the Steelworkers Union and 10,000 AWU workers but this was the first time the two unions coordinated their wage negotiations.

The settlement Friday night came barely 48 hours before a Sunday midnight strike deadline.

Across-The-Board Boost

The two pacts were based upon an 11½ cents across-the-board wage hike, plus an additional 3½ cents for adjustments in job classification rates.

The increase was equivalent to that granted 600,000 workers by the basic steel industry July 1, but the job classification adjustments were expected to push hikes up to as much as 20-cents an hour for some of the higher rated Alcoa production jobs.

Geological Maps Of Area Lakes Available

Lake vacationers will now be able to study their retreats from the bottom up, since eight more in the series of maps of major Indiana lakes have been completed and are ready for distribution by the division of fish and game of the Indiana Department of Conservation, 311 West Washington, Indianapolis.

New maps include, in Kosciusko County, Hoffman Lake, McClure's Lake, Crystal Lake Muskelonge Lake Rock Lake, and Ridinger Lake; Marshall County; Meyers Lake; and Fulton County; Nyona Lake. Maps of Beaver Dam Lake Loon Lake, and Yellow Creek Lake, in Kosciusko County, have been available since February.

Financed with Dingell-Johnson funds and prepared by the United States Geological Survey and the water resources division, the maps show depth contours, maximum depths, acreage, and volumes of the various lakes. Roads wooded areas, lake-guaging stations, and other features are shown.

Responsible for the actual preparation of the maps was the surface water branch of USGS which collected field data by using a sonic sounder.

The maps are available in two sizes — 17"x22" maps, for $.50, of particular interest to laked wellers, and 8½" x 11" maps for $.25, useful in locating fishing sites. Other lakes will be mapped as soon as necessary data can be collected, according to conservation director Harley G. Hook.

Police Scalp Indian

NEW YORK (UP) — A policeman "scalped" a full-blooded Indian suspect Wednesday to get evidence on the suspected narcotics peddler.

Detective Frank Martorella, a former barber, failed to find any narcotics on Henry Serrette in a preliminary search so he tugged hard on Serrette's fine black head of hair. Serrette's wig came away in the detective's hand and five packages of narcotics fell on the sidewalk.

Big Decision To Launch Earth Satellites Calls Attention To Military Field Aspects

By CHARLES CORDDRY
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)— The United States decision to launch earth satellites called attention today to large and previously secret strides in the military field.

The White House described the project as "entirely scientific,' emphasizing the quest for new knowledge of the universe for everyone's benefit.

But the venture into "regions beyond the earth's atmosphere is based on years of military research, conducted in deadly competition with Russia.

And purely military devices of previously undisclosed power will be used to thrust the unmanned vehicles into the fringes of outer space, 200 to 300 miles from earth.

Four Times Rocket Speed

Unitil Fridays announcement, only those privy to top national secrets knew that the Defense Department now can launch multiton rockets with the gigantic thrust needed to reach a speed of 18,000 miles an hour. That is four times or more the top speed of rockets used so far in upper atmosphere research.

Nor was it understood before that science now can devise materials able to withstand temperatures of several thousand degrees such as will be encountered on the trip in and out of space.

Just as science will expand its knowledge, so will the military services garner vital data needed for intercontinental ballistic missiles of the immediate future and manned space ships of a period that may be 25 to 30 years away Such ships will travel 25,000 miles an hour, free of earthly gravity.

Authorities said the purely military importance of earth satellites and more advanced vehicles can be gauged by imagining this nation's position if Russia got them first.

Nutritionist Approves Water With Meals

BURLINGTON, Vt. — (UP) — "Keep the water glasses filled" at meal time is a suggestion made by a Vermont extension service member.

Anna M. Wilson, extension nutritionist, says some people think water should not be drunk with meals. Their reasoning is that water dilutes the saliva and decreases its effectiveness in digesting carbohydrates.

Mrs. Wilson contends that instead of interfering with digestion, water stimulates and encourages greater secretion of gastric juices and helps dilute and keep the food one eats in solution.

State Allots Delegates For 1956 Convention

Republicans Can Send 11, Democrats 10 From Whitley County

The apportionment of delegates to the 1956 State Political Conventions allows the Whitley County Republicans to send 11 delegates and the Democrats to send 10, according to a report prepared and distributed by the State Election Commissioners. Members of the commission are Gov. George N. Craig, chairman, Ewing Emlson, James E. Noland, and J. Otto Lee, clerk.

The allotment of delegates to the conventions places Whitley County among the counties with a low voting population. The apportionment is based upon the percentage of registered voters casting ballots for the secretary of state in the last general election.

Marion County which includes the city of Indianapolis, is permitted the largest number of delegates to both the Republican and Democratic conventions. That county is alloted 271 delegates to the Republican convention and 220 to the Democratic convention. Allen County, which includes Fort Wayne, is alloted 91 and 65 respectively to the Republican and Democratic conventions.

The county with the smallest number of delegates is Ohio with 3 and 3. Brown County is a little higher with 3 and 4.

By districts, the Third District which includes Whitley County has a total of 169 Republican delegates and 130 Democrats. This gives it one more in the combined total of delegates than the smallest Ninth District which includes Ohio and Brown Counties. The Eleventh District, which includes only one county, Marion, also is the district with the largest total number of delegates.

The over-all number of delegates apportioned throughout the state shows 2032 to the Republican convention and 1923 to the Democratic convention.

Harley King Hurt Seriously In 1-Car Accident

City Employe's Auto Leaves Road About 3 Miles West On Old 30

Harley King, 39, of R 7, was seriously injured in a one-car crash shortly before 7 p.m. Friday on old U.S. highway 30, about three miles west of the city.

He was taken to Whitley County Hospital by a Smith ambulance. Preliminary examination there revealed that King is suffering from a brain concussion, a possible skull fracture and internal injuries, multiple lacerations of the face, and several broken ribs. King's wife, Viola(who was also in the car, was uninjured.

King's car, which was bound for Columbia City, evidently was forced off the road when a right rear tire blew out. According to skid marks at the scene of the accident, the vehicle swerved to the left across the center line of the highway, and continued until it struck the base of a high mound then turned over. It appeared that the automobile then bounced about 50 feet before turning over a second time and came to rest right side up after rolling down one end of the hill.

With the rim of the right rear wheel exposed because of the flat tire, that part of the car buried into the ground up to the axle. The tire blow-out was to be futrher verified by scraping marks which were left in the path of the automobile as it swerved diagonally off the highway.

Mrs. King said that she could not explain how the accident happened. She said that she and her husband were on the way to the city.

The car was a total loss in the accident. The top of the vehicle was pushed down almost to the top of the back of the seats as the car appeared to have landed upside down each time it turned over.

King is an employe of the Columbia City street department. The accident occurred at a curve in the highway directly in front of the home of Clifford Adams, R 6.

Maine Youth Wins National Road-E-O

WASHINGTON (UP) — Bill Ledger, 19, Portland, Me., perhaps had a head start on the other amateurs in the national teenage Road-E-O which ended Friday night.

He came in ahead of 50 other contestants to win the title of the best young driver in the country, a $1,500 scholarship and ib ag trophy as top prize.

His father is a driving instructor in a high school at Portland. And Bill, himself, is an "assistant" professor without portfolio or salary.

Prices Of Crops, Livestock Fall

WASHINGTON (UP) — Prices farmers received for crops and livestock fell 2 per cent during the month ended July 15, the Agriculture Department reported today.

The decline left farm prices 3 per cent below a year ago. It occurred as the cost of farmers' living and production goods fell a fraction of 1 per cent from June 15 to July 15.

As a result, farmers' returns in mid-July averaged 84 per cent of the so-called parity level against the mid-June average of 86 per cent of parity. In mid-July last year, farm prices averaged 88 per cent of parity.

Parity is a price calculated to give farmers a theoretically fair return for their products in comparison with cost of things they must buy.

New TV Sets Could Get Signals From Moon

CHICAGO — (UP) — The newest television receivers have enough power to receive a radar signal from the moon 250,000 miles away, according to Ray De Cola, a director of engineering (Admiral Corporation).

De Cola said the receivers have twice the power of the radar equipment used by the U.S. Army's Signal Corps in its history-making experiment in which a radar signal was transmitted to the moon and picked up when it "bounced" back t oearth.

4-H Parking Area To Be Doubled By New Paving

Two New Signs And Additional Kitchen Improvement Planned

The parking area at the 4-H Community Center will be doubled by fair time, August 25 to 27, if plans of the 4-H Corporation are completed.

The base for the new lot is being made from the cement block walls of the former Whitley Products factory destroyed by fire May 5.

John Lillich has been assisting with the salvage operations at the factory site and made the block material available to the fair board for the price of the hauling and dumping.

The new parking lot is being constructed just west of the present lots. Robert Pontzius, board chairman, reported that the blocks will be broken up with a heavy roller and covered with crushed stone.

An additional exit onto the Squawbuck is being made near the Richard Duffield residence. Additional lighting will also be added at the new area.

Two new signs will be added at the grounds. A large sign over the south entrance to the main building will read "4-H Community Center." It is to have a green background with gold leaf letters.

The other sign will be placed on the hill nearest the Art Wigent corner.

The kitchen committee, composed of Mrs. Sidney Gebert, Mrs. Preston Gregory and Mrs. Talmadge Leedy, will meet with the fair board Tuesday evening to discuss plans for the 4-H Community Center kitchen.

Mrs Herbert Gross Is Named Homemaker Of Year By NEO Club

Mrs. Herbert Gross was named Homemaker of the Year by the Northwest Smith township Neighborhood Extension organization, at a meeting of the club held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bixler.

Harold Sheets was named conservation man of the year; Clyde Zolman, poultry man of the year; Esli Shively, dairy man; Guy Gross, beef producer and Herbert Gross, swine man of the year.

The organization appointed Mrs. Eugene Darr to judge scrap books at the 4-H Fair, and names for farms were discussed. Mr. and Mrs. Bixler, hosts for the meeting, have their farm registered as Maple Grove farm. Other names are tentative.

After serving refreshments, they took their guests on a tour of their attractive home and farm. The next meeting of the Neighborhood Extension Organization will be held at the Clyde Zolman home.

A2C Paul Thompson To Go To Guam Tuesday

Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Thompson, of R 2, received word Friday that their son, A2c Paul Thompson, now stationed at Biggs Air Force Base El Paso, Tex., will leave for Guam Tuesday.

Thompson told his parents he will probably be there until after Christmas. He has been in the Air Force for more than 2½ years. Prior to entering the service he attended Jefferson Center high school.

Talbott Says He Is 'Sitting Tight' In Job

Has No Idea Of Resigning

WASHINGTON (UP)—Air Secretary Harold E. Talbott says he has "no more idea than a jack rabbit" of resigning now.

He told a reporter Friday night he is "sitting tight" in his job and branded as "not true" reports circulated by at least two Republican senators that his resignation was imminent.

One highly-placed Republican had quoted an "unimpeachable" informant as the source of his report that Talbott would quit.

The Senate Investigating subcommittee has been looking into partnership which Talbott maintained after taking his government a $60,000 a-year private business job. Talbott gave up the business connection as a result of the investigation.

President Studying Transcripts

President Eisenhower is now studying a transcript of the hearings to determine whether Talbott's activities violated ethics. Some Democrats have demanded that he be fired.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) renewed his demand that Talbott resign or be dismissed in a Senate speech Friday night. Morse also added two new items to the Talbott controversy.

He said a high official of the Air Force called and told him that retention of Talbott would drive Air Force morale "lower and lower."

He also quoted from 1952 hearings of a House subcommittee investigating the Justice Department. He said the testimony included a statement by the vice president of a distilling company that the whisky executive handed an envelope to Talbott in 1952 in New York's Chrysler Building.

Money Content Indicated

Morse said the testimony indicated that the envelope contained $20,000 in cash for the 1952 Republican campaign.

Talbott said that even if he did plan to resign he would not do so while the President is out of the capital. Mr. Eisenhower left for his Gettysburg farm Friday afternoon and is not due to return to the capital until Sunday night or early Monday.

James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary, said the White House had nothing to say about the Talbott resignation reports.

Talbott said he is "going ahead and try to run the Air Force just as I have tried to do through all of this."

Sheets Charged With Furnishing Alcoholic Beverage To Minors

An affidavit charging Robert Paul "Sawdust" Sheets, R 5, with furnishing alcoholic beverage to minors was filed in Whitley County circuit court Friday by Edward J. Meyers, Jr., county prosecuting attorney.

In the affidavit, signed by Sheriff Galen Adair, Sheets is charged with furnishing alcoholic beverage to the two youths, one 14 and the other 16, who confessed earlier this week to stealing merchandise from the Marathon Service Station July 9. The younger youth also admitted scratching the front plate glass windows of 10 downtown business places the night of July 20.

The older youth was committed to the Indiana Boy's School and the other was given a suspended sentence to the same institution.

Sheets was ordered retained in Whitley County jail Tuesday in court when he stated that he desired the services of an attorney. His bond was set at $500.

The Kessies Are Parents Of Daughter Thursday

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kessle, R 2, are the parents of a daughter, Mary Elizabeth, born Thursday at the Whitley County Hospital. The baby weighed 8 pounds 1½ ounces.

The mother is the former Annabelle Conner. The couple has one other child.

Seven-Day Food Supply Recommended By CDA

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. —(UP) —Families should keep a seven-day reserve food supply in their homes as a defense against nuclear attack, according to the Federal Civil Defense Administration.

The FCDA originally recommended only a three-day supply. It increased the suggested amount because of the hazards of hydrogen bomb fallouts.

"Weapons have grown bigger and our planning must change accordingly," said Theodore Willcox, acting director of the FCDA Welfare Office. "Fall-out might keep people in shelters for anywhere from a few days to a week. If families plan against the larger hazard, it stands to reason that there would be considerably less suffering."

Tired, Touchy Congress Hopes For Adjournment

Last Big Item Is Out Of Way

By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—A tired, touchy Congress today hacked an uncertain trail toward adjournment. House leaders insisted this won't come before Monday, but many members still were hoping to wind things up late tonight.

Adjournment fever reached epidemic proportions as members surveyed the legislative debris that still blocked the way. With House passage late Friday of a housing bill, the last big item was out of the way.

Hundreds of lesser measures remained on the calendars of both House and Senate, every one important to somebody. But most of these odds and ends were sure to be dumped.

The House was ordered into session at 10:30 a.m. EDT today; the Senate at 11 a.m. The House plunged into debate on a bill to extend the defense production act for another year. A hot fight was expected oves efforts to curtail the government's hiring of so-called "dollar-a-year" businessmen who serve the government as advisers without compensation.

Otherwise, matters still to be settled by either House or Senate or both included:

Polio Vaccine: Economy-minded Rules Committee members cleared the way for a House vote on a bill to buy Salk vaccine — but only for those who can't pay. The Senate has approved its own version without such a restriction.

Appropriations: Still awaiting final House and Senate action were two compromise money bills to pay Congress' expenses (and boost them a little) and to tide over the Atomic Energy Commission, cover military construction

Scientists Say Man Is Headed For Planets; Russia Plans To Launch Man-Made Moon

WASHINGTON (UP) — Man is headed for the planets.

Responsible scientists agreed on that today in the wake of a White House announcement that this country will launch a tiny artificial moon some time in 1957-58.

The first man-made earth satellite — for which the components already exist — will be an awkward, fledgling flight.

But it will demonstrate man's power to snap the gravitational shackles which have kept him and his workers earthbound until now.

In the words of Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson it will mean "breaking the space 'barrier." It also will mean that the no-trespassing signs are coming down among the planets. The first satellite will be followed by improved versions as the science develops.

Scientists have long been prodding each other and the government to get going on a project to launch small unmanned "space ships" to explore the vast unknown which exists at the top of earth's atmosphere. Their unanimous conclusion was: It can be done.

Friday President Eisenhower said go ahead. So jubilant were the proponents of rocket flight that no one thought to ask who would do it first.

It could be the Russians. They announced six months ago that "creating an artificial satellite of the earth" was feasible. A little later they said they were establishing a laboratory for satellite research. Friday night, after the U. S. announcement, they said they too were preparing to send up a man-made moon.

Friday's White House announcement said the United States would launch a satellite approximately the size of a basketball some time during the International Geophysical Year (IGY) which starts in July, 1957, and concludes in December, 1958.

The IGY is an undertaking of some 40 nations to explore all possible aspects of the earth, its atmosphere, and the solar and cosmic radiatiions which constantly bombard it.

The U.S. announcement carried no overtones of competition with Russia or any other nation. It said merely that this country, for strictly peaceful scientific purposes, will blast into the sky an artificial moon which will circle the earth between 200 and 300 miles up at a speed of 18,000 miles an hour.

All nations, including Russia, will benefit equally fro mthe information it gleans in its 90-minute revolutions around the earth

To Circle Earth At 18,000 Miles An Hour Speed

Data Available To All Scientists Throughout World

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States Friday announced plans to launch small, unmanned satellites which will circle the earth at an altitude of between 200 and 300 miles at a speed of 18,000 miles an hour.

President Eisenhower gave the project his approval Friday.

Spokesmen for the National Science Foundation and the National Academy of Sciences outlined the project at the White House.

They predicted that a satellite about the size of a basketball could be blasted by rocket int oan orbit around the earth sometime between July, 1957, and December, 1958.

Data Available to All

Speaking for the President, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty stressed that the project was entirely for scientific purposes and that data collected in the experiment would be made available to all scientists throughout the world, including the Russians.

Preliminary estimates placed the cost of the initial project at 10 million dollars, exclusive of the cost of the rockets needed to propel the satellites beyond the earth.

The scientists who joined Hagerty in explaining the project to a crowded White House news conference were not definite on the materials from which the "bird"—as the scientists referred to the satellite — would be constructed. Nor did they know how many satellites would be attempted.

Depending on the weight and construction of the satellite, the scientists estimated that the object would whiz around the earth every 90 minutes for a period of days with an outside possibility it would go on for some weeks.

Object of Experiment

The project will be part of this country's participation in the international geophysical year which takes place between July, 1957, and December, 1958.

Object of the experiment will be to study air density at between 200 and 300 miles above the earth, explore the ionosphere which af-

Big Meter Money

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Revenue Commissioner George S. Forde today will trade a $10 gold piece mistakenly dropped into a West Philadelphia parking meter for a nickel.

Forde said the monogrammed gold piece is obviously a keepsake and the owner may have it by calling at City Hall and identifying it.

But he also has to pay the nickel for parking, Forde said.

CONGRATULATIONS!

Columbia City went over its quota during the Red Cross blood drive here Tuesday.

That's something to be very proud about. Many Hoosier communities fall far short of their quotas when the bloodmobile is in town.

The one hundred eighteen donors should feel quite satisfied with themselves—when the call came, they answered it loudly.

But it would not have done much good to have had persons wanting to donate blood it there hadn't been others there to assist.

Every one of those forty-four persons, from the persons who set up equipment to those who served sandwiches to donors, was just as important as the donors themselves.

There was a good turnout—but cooperation was what made Thursday's blood drive a success.

Our congratulations!

Kefauver Asks Check Of Talbott's Stock Disposal

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver urged today that the Senate conduct "a very full and detailed" investigation of how Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott disposed of stock he held before taking his government job.

Talbott told the Senate Investigating subcommittee earlier this week that he gave a block of Chrysler Motors stock to his children and sold securities he held in such other firms as Electric Autolite and Standard Packaging.

He said the stock he disposed of has since depreciated some three-quarters of a million dollars in value. The only stock he retained, he told the subcommittee, was that in firms having no dealings with the government.

Talbott, like Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, was required before the Senate Armed Services Committee would confirm his nomination to rid himself of stock in firms having defense contracts.

Kefauver said Talbott "should make a very full and detailed explanation of exactly what he did with his stock."

"I do not believe a gift of stock to minor children is the sort of divesting the Senate Armed Services Committee had in mind," the Tennessee Democrat said. "It does not seem to me to constitute a severance of interest."

Kefauver suggested that the new investigation be made by the armed services committee or the investigating subcommittee.

The investigating subcommittee Wednesday wound up four days of hearings into Talbott's continued association with the Paul B. Mulligan Co., a management engineering firm, after he became Air Force secretary. Talbott was a partner in the firm and was paid $132,032 from it during his first two years in the Pentagon.

At the conclusion of the hearings, Talbott announced he was pulling out of the partnership. He admitted he was "mistaken" in retaining a connection with a firm that services defense contractors.

A blue-bound volume of Talbott's testimony before the subcommittee was in President Eisenhower's office today for the Chief Executive's personal study.

Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday he would make an intensive personal study of the case and decide whether to retain or fire Talbott in the light of the air secretary's admissions.

Chamber Of Deputies To Discuss Death Of Red Party Leader

BUENOS AIRES (UP) — The Chamber of Deputies scheduled a special session today to discuss the death of a Communist Party leader during police questioning about the June 16 revolt.

Chamber President Alberto Rocamora called the meeting at the request of opposition party leaders who demanded further investigation of the death of Dr. Juan Ingalinella.

The Peron government partially solved the mysterious Ingalinella case Thursday with a simple announcement that the physician had died while being interrogated by police in Rosario. The announcement said violence was used, but added that the body had not been found.

Federal Commissioner Rafael Cesar Tabanera, who made the announcement, said the seven police officers responsible for the Communist leaders death "have been placed at the disposal of justice." They included the head of the Rosario Bureau of Investigation, two police commissioners and four other officers.

Indian Or White Law Question To Get Hearing

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. UP — A hearing will be conducted here on Aug. 12 to determine whether Indian law or white man's law takes precedent in a custody dispute over five motherless Seminole children.

Two Miccosukee Seminole chieftains, Jimmy Henry and Tommy Buster, stoically refused to enter a plea when arraigned Thursday on charges they contributed to the delinquency of the children.

The Indians were aided by the children's maternal grandmother, Lillian Stone Bowers, who is hiding with the children in the Everglades swamps on the Indian reservation.

Their lawyers charged that Florida law has no jurisdiction in the case. They have appealed to President Eisenhower to intervene in the matter.

Seminole tribal law gives custody of motherless children to the mother's clan. But Indian alligator wrestler Joe Bille, after his wife's death, invoked white man's law giving custody to the father.

Cattle Feeding Has Changed, Says Purdue Specialist

"The cattle-feeding enterprise is undergoing a great change in Indiana and other midwest states," Henry Mayo, Purdue livestock specialist, told cattlemen on the feed lot tour, Wednesday.

"More attention is being given the production of low cost beef on pasture and roughage, as opposed to the feeding of high value grains," he said.

The tour was sponsored by the Cattle Feeder's Association and conducted by County Agent B. V. Widney.

At the Basil Miller and Albert VanVoorst farms in Etna-Troy township, the tourists saw feeders which they had inspected on a similar tour last spring. The results of the feeding methods since used were thus observed.

At the Archie Hartman and the Larry and Everett Schuman farms, steers receiving stilbestrol were examined. Older cattlemen expressed some skeptician about use of the drug. Forty pasture fed steers at the Birdie Schuman farm were viewed by the cattlemen.

"Our most successful cattlemen have a sharp eye for the detailed comfort of the feeders," Mayo told the group at the afternoon meeting in the County Agent's office. "A log chain back scratcher, treated with DDT is considered a must by many cattlemen. Good clean drinking water and lots of it is another must. Plenty of shade and the control of flies will contribute to more rapid and cheaper gains in weight," he said.

The cattle feeders will continue their get-together tours in 1956, Dale Reiff, association president, said. Directors of the organization, in addition to the president, are Chris Doenges, Willis Miller, Albert VanVoorst, Basil Miller, Herbert Gross and Tom Rosentrader.

Camera Flash Bulbs Are 25 Years Old

WASHINGTON (UP) — Flash bulbs for cameras will be 25 years old in August. Before that day fingers were scarred, havoc was rampant, rooms were clouded with smoke, and case-hardened colleagues in the lens set wished they could work out in the open.

My first contact with the forerunner to the flashbulb was in Iowa City. I had no actual part in the taking of the picture, but I was close enough to the flash to miss a good part of a basketball game in the Iowa fieldhouse between Iowa and Wisconsin on account of the smoke.

A bunch of powder at the time was dumped into a metal tray in front of the camera. There was a cap which set off a detonation. Smoke welled up and filled the nostrils and half of the crowd left the premises.

Along For Ride

A friend of mine, Bob Boyd, now a respectable photographer for the Milwaukee Journal, likes to tell about the first time he had his fingers burned.

It was on Feb. 14, 1929, St. Valentine's Day. The day of the big shoot down of the George Moran-Dean O'Banion gang in Chicago.

My old friend, Bob, was going to school at Northwestern and was hanging around the city room in the Chicago Tribune building. There came a flash over the ticker. There was a bunch of people killed at 2122 N. Clark St.

Bob Boyd was asked to go along for the ride. He went.

The killing of seven was the infamous St. Valentine Day's massacre of one gang by another.

Less To Carry

Bob was commissioned, for the price of a steak ($1 in those days) to handle the powder gun for a photographer.

The first shot filled the small garage on Chicago's near-north side. Bob reloaded. Forgetting his own safety, he cut loose again when the smoke cleared.

Bob Boyd and the professional photographers of the time have come a long way since then.

Today, there is no muss or fuss or going off of powder in one's eyes.

The inventor of the flash lamp was one Johannes Ostermmeier of Germany. General Electric bought the American patent rights for this new gimmick.

As of now, a cameraman doesn't have to bend his shoulder under a lot of heavy equipment, although that once was the badge and pride of the profession.

Modern equipment is a might lighter and, according to our United Press photographers, much easier on the feet.

Two More Cases Of Polio Reported

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) — Two more cases of polio among Indiana children who received Salk vaccine under the free immunization program were reported today.

Rickie Weston, 7, Black Oak, was in Methodist Hospital at Gary with what physicians said was "an exceptionally mild" case. The ailment was diagnosed Thursday, a day after the child was admitted to hospital. Rickie received a first-round shot while a first grader in a Lake County school last April.

Earlier this week, Timothy Gannon, 8, a second grader in Porter County, was taken to Porter Memorial Hospital at Valparaiso with polio. He also had received one dose of the Salk vaccine.

Only one case was reported previously by the State Health Board among more than 100,000 Hoosier youngsters vaccinated in the spring program. That was in Jennings County. The case also was mild. It occurred two months ago.

Meanwhile, only a handful of Hoosier communities planned to go ahead now with the second round shots. Most preferred to wait until school starts in September due to vacations of doctors, nurses and school administrators.

However, eight of 58 counties notified early this week that enough vaccine is on hand to finish the second round have received their supplies or have indicated they will go ahead now. They were Posey, Kosciusko, Morgan, Clay, Greene, Cass, Vanderburgh and Tippecanoe. Twenty-one smaller counties previously accepted second-round vaccine from a 16,000-shot "leftover" supply from the first-round shots.

Man Sheds Trousers In 102 Degree Heat

LIMA Ohio (UP)—A policeman who rushed to the public square where witnesses said a man walked out of his trousers, found the trousers.

Witnesses said the man wore long underwear, in spite of Thursday's 102 degree temperature.

Barkley Doesn't Want 'Mixed Up' In The Mint Julep

WASHINGTON (UP)—The junior senator from Kentucky doesn't want to get mixed up in a controversy over who invented the mint julep.

Alben W. Barkley says he doesn't even have his own recipe for a julep. All he knows is that the best kind of course, has to be made with good, old Kentucky bourbon.

The former veep didn't say so, but his friends say he seldom drinks the things, anyhow. The impression is left that a lot of Kentuckians would as soon take their home-grown bourbon straight, with a little branch or crick water on the side.

All of which didn't prevent the American League for Sanity in Drinking to pitch a little howdown Thursday night at the Raleigh Hotel. The stress, of course, on the julep with the mint; but more particularly to mark the 175th anniversary of the invention of same.

Members of Congress were aboard. There was much clinking of glasses and smacking of lips and not a few arguments between the gentlemen from Kentucky, Virginia and Missouri—all claiming a hand in starting this julep business.

All of which put my friend, Willard Ferrier, president of the Mint League, in somewhat of a spot. He speaks southern with a northern accent, and Thursday night he was doing his job, although he stoutly contends, facing criticism, that one Milto Oglethorpe stirred up the first julep in Mount Vernon, Va.

Anyhow, what happened 175 years ago was toasted again and yet again in all kinds of southern accents.

Not long back the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in Missouri and Richmond, Va., Times-Dispatch got into a not very neighborly argument.

The P-D asked editorially if anybody ever had heard of Virginia bourbon? The T-D replied in kind that from coast to coast a certain Virginia brand is heard of often, and is so popular elsewhere that native Virginians have to stand in line when word is whispered about that a new batch has been aged and released from the barrels.

The P-D concluded that Virginia ought to be happy to rest with George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Pickett's charge "and leave the mint julep where it belongs—on ice.'

The T-D countered that the Post-Dispatch's contention that Kentucky, not Virginia, invented the julep was "of course a grevious perversion of history. Since Kentucky was a part of Virginia until 1792, that almost settles the argument."

The Richmond editor quoted an historian as saying at that time "Kentuckians were all Virginians." All of which settles very little.

Balance Sheet Of Good And Bad In The Week's News

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet:

The Good

1. President Eisenhower and the prime ministers of Great Britain, France and Russia agreed that their "summit" conference in Geneva was a success. "It is my judgment that the prospects of a lasting peace with justice, well-being and broader freedom are brighter,' Mr. Eisenhower said in his closing statement. Reporting later to the people of the United States in a television-radio statement, he said the "acid test of good intentions will come when the Big Four foreign ministers enter detailed negotiations in Geneva in October. British Prime Minister Anthony Eden announced that Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin and Communist Party Leader Nikita S. Khrushchev had accepted an invitation to visit London next spring.

2. Hope was strengthened that 51 Americans now held in Communist China might be released. It was announced that negotiations would start in Geneva next Monday between the United States ambassador to Czechoslovakia and the Chinese Red ambassador to Poland on the release of Americans. The State Department emphasized that no question of recognition of Red China was involved. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said the Geneva talks might lead later to a meeting between him and Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai on broader issues.

3. Austria regained its sovereignty as the result of the ratification of the recently concluded Austrian treaty. The flags of the four occupying powers — United States, Britain, France and Russia—were hauled down from their staffs on the Allied Council building in Vienna. Austria had lost its independence when Nazi Germany seized it on March 12, 1938.

The Bad

1. Trigger-happy Bulgarian anti-aircraft gunners shot down an Israeli airliner which inadvertently crossed a few miles into the territory of the Communist Iron Curtain country on a flight from London to Israel. Fifty-eight persons including 13 Americans — and 5 Russians — were killed. Bulgaria apologized. But the tragedy emphasized the fact that despite some relaxation of East-West tension, the situation along the Iron Curtain frontier facing Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey is still bad.

2. The armistice in Korea entered its third year, with no peace treaty in sight. The Communists have cheated ever since the truce was signed. South Korea threatened, on the anniversary day Wednesday, to throw the Polish and Czechoslovak Communist members of the truce supervisory committee out of the country.

3. The situation in Indochina continued to get more threatening. South Viet Nam forces still were fighting troops of rebel political-religious sects. Viet Nam Premier Ngo Dinh Diem has resisted United States, British and French pressure to discuss with Communist northern Viet Nam the national election which, under the Indochina armistice, is supposed to be held next year to unify the country.

Westward Ho for Summer Parties

"Howdy, Partner. Step right up to the chow wagon and lasso yourself a plate."

That's the way to welcome guests for an easy-going summer party. Out west hospitality overflows with good food and a happy relaxed spirit. Take a tip, fair hostess, wherever you are. Follow suit.

Bend your efforts to round up one colossal main dish — like WESTERN BURGERS (let beef be King of the table). For trimmings, such simple, beloved morsels as corn on the cob, sour pickles and redhot little radishes. If anyone has room left, he can help himself to a luscious peach and a chunk of chocolate cake (with white frosting and chocolate chips).

North, south, east, or west. All the cowbelles and cowboys will shout about your chow wagon.

Western Burgers

1 pound ground beef
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup
¼ cup sliced stuffed olives
1 bay leaf
Dash cayenne pepper and/or thyme

Brown beef in butter, stirring to break up particles. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer 5 minutes or until vegetables are tender. (For milder olive flavor, add them last.) Scoop portions onto buttered, toasted buns. Enough filling for 8 WESTERN BURGERS.

—SOUP SCOOPS—

Franks and Macaroni Win Salad Award: An award-winning salad at summer outings is the team of macaroni with franks and crispy chopped greens. Use 2 cans of macaroni with cheese sauce as the base . . . that's 3½ cups macaroni. Stir in 4 franks (thinly sliced); 1 cup chopped celery; ¼ cup chopped green pepper. Season with 2 tablespoons minced onion and 2 teaspoons prepared mustard. Chill through and through. Picnickers will welcome this macaroni and frank salad to eat with cold sliced tomatoes . . . maybe corn on the cob . . . and iced tea. A happy change from the old-timer, potato salad.

Bonita Mullendore And Forrest M. Arnold Married This Afternoon In Grace Church

Picardy gladiolus and Majestic white daisies formed a background for the nupital rites solemnized this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Grace Lutheran church, for Miss Bonita A. Mullendore of Road 9 North and Forrest M. Arnold of Churubusco.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Mullendore are parents of the bride.

Miss Rita Mullendore attended her sister as maid of honor and Ronald Arnold, brother of the bridegroom, served as groomsman.

Miss Judy Fisher presided at the organ during the musical program that preceded the ceremony. The Rev. Graham L. Kleespie received the marriage vows. More than 150 guests, which included members of the two families and intimate friends witnessed the ceremony and attended the informal reception held at the Mullendore home.

Gowns in Blue and White

The bride chose a gown of Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over crystal white satin. The fitted bodice of lace, with its long tapering sleeves, was highlighted by a scalloped neckline on a soft fold of tulle. The scalloped motif was repeated on the first of a series of circular tiers of tulle which formed a bouffant floor length skirt. The orchid presented to the bride by the Lincoln Life Insurance Company, where she is employed, topped the white Bible she carried. Her father gave her in marriage.

Her maid of honor wore a light blue gown of crystalette. The fitted bodice with cap sleeves and scoop neckline was detailed by crystal pleating outlining the neckline and extending through the back to the hemline of the waltz length skirt. She carried a crescent shaped bouquet of Rubrum lilies.

Mrs. Mullendore chose a dress of blue linen with which she wore navy accessories and a corsage of pink asters. Mrs. Lela Arnold, Churubusco, the bridegroom's grandmother, wore a corsage of asters. Men of the bridal party wore carnation boutonnieres.

The bride is a member of the 1953 graduating class of Columbia City High School. Her husband who graduated from Churubusco High School, is employed by the General Electric Company in Fort Wayne.

Informal Reception

Gladiolus and other garden flowers formed a decorative note of the Mullendore home for the reception. Mrs. Eugene Allen and Mrs. Virgil Meyers, cousins of the bride, and Miss Barbara Arnold, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the lace covered table highlighted in its appointments with the bride's three tiered cake decorated with pink roses.

The couple has purchased a small farm on Road 109 North where they will reside on their return from a short wedding trip.

Guests at a Distance

Brothers and sisters and other relatives of the bridegroom attended the wedding from Illinois, Churubusco and Fort Wayne, and relatives of the bride were present from Kirksville, Mo., San Antonio, Texas, and Ligonier.

Women's Relief Corps Holds Its Annual Summer Picnic

The annual summer picnic of the Women's Relief Corps, was held Wednesday with Mrs. Homer VanOrsdoll, president of the Corps on Walnut street. Twenty women attended the summer affair.

A large cake was served with a picnic dinner marking the birthday of Mrs. Augusta Lundblad, who has long been active in the organization. She will be 90 years old next Tuesday.

A program which included readings was given by Mrs. Della Baker, Mrs. Charles Harshbarger and Mrs. John Mayberry. The Corps voted a contribution of $5 to the Mental Health Drive.

The proceeds from an auction held during the day, will help defray the expenses of the local group of women at the district convention to be held this fall.

Mrs. Moore Honored With Pretty Party Wednesday Evening

Mrs. Robert Harrold, Mrs. Roy Whetstone and Mrs. Burton Downing entertained with a pretty shower Wednesday evening at the Harrold home, when the guests brought pretty gifts for the guest of honor, Mrs. James Moore.

Games formed the entertainment, and the hostesses served cake and iced tea.

Guests included Mesdames Leon Alter, Robert Born, Ernest Brittian, Furlow Burd, Harry Early, Lyman Goodyear, Freeman Goodyear, Mont Harrold, Hiram Hazen, John Jagger, Gerald Jagger, Eugene Jagger, Keith Maggart, Paul Rhoads, Richard Harrold.

Spanish Dancers Will Highlight La Fiesta De San Gabriel In September

Preparations are well under way for the Fiesta San Gabriel at Old San Gabriel Mission September 2 to 5. Music and dancing will give a festive air at the celebration of the 184th Anniversary of one of the oldest of missions in America at San Gabriel, California.

Visitors will come from all over the country to join in this Fiesta on the mission grounds and to view one of the finest collections of mission relics in existence. Especially interesting to all visitors are the original Indian paintings representing the Fourteen Stations of the Cross. Strikingly primitive, these canvasses are probably the oldest existing samples of native Christian painting.

Other paintings on view are Mexican and Spanish works, many over 400 years old. One fifteenth century Italian painting is revealed in a portrait of the Virgin Mary by Correggio.

The missions museum collection also boasts several ancient wooden statues and handwrought objects of copper, brass and silver which form a part of the extensive antiques display.

The baptistry, with its hammered copper font brought to the mission from Spain in 1771 as a present from King Carlos III, has been the scene of more than 25,000 baptisms.

Visitors to California during the Fiesta period as well as all through the year are invited to take a complete tour of the Missions grounds, buildings and museums to enjoy all of the countless interesting historical features of Old San Gabriel Mission.

May I Present Mr. Average Home Buyer

CHICAGO (UP) — Mr. Average Home Buyer, the man responsible for America's biggest housing boom, is 35 years old and has a wife and two kids.

His yearly income is around $5,800. He pays about $12,750 for his house, and his mortgage runs about $9,700 or 76 per cent of the purchase price. This means a down payment of $3050.

This composite portrait of the average house buyer is derived from statistics compiled by the United States Savings and Loan League, national trade organization of savings and loan associations.

The old rule of thumb is that you should spend no more than one-fourth of your income for housing

According to the Savings and Loan League, Mr. Average Home Buyer's monthly mortgage payments run about $81 per month, including taxes and insurance.

This is about 17 per cent of his gross monthly income, but then there are heating costs and maintenance to be considiered.

Norman Strunk, executive vice president of the league, said the figures show that "today's housing boom is on a fairly sound basis.'

"In paying much less than 25 per cent of his monthly income for housing, the average home buyer appears to be acting conservatively.' Strunk said.

"It must be remembered, however, that the figures in this analysis cover the three major types of home financing—conventional, FHA insured and GI loans.

"I think you would find that those home buyers with conventional loans pay less of a percentage of their monthly income for housinig than buyers with government-type mortgages.

"This is beacuse conventional financing generally involves a higher down payment and lower monthly payments.".

The government's own figures show that the average veteran who bought a home under a GI loan last year was 32 years old, earned $5,780 a year and paid $11,640 for his house.

According to the government, the GI's average monthly housing expense was $95.15, including payments on principal, interest, taxes, insurance heat utilities and maintenance.

For the average price of $12750, the Savings and Loan League said, the buyer gets a five or six room house plus garage facilities.

That might sound strange to big city dwellers. In the booming Chicago suburban area, for example, it would be almost impossible to find such a deal.

The selling price of a standard five-room brick ranch house in Detroit, Mich., is $19,500, the league said. The same house would sell for $16500 in St. Louis $15500 in Philadelphia $13,500 in New York, $13,000 in Miami, Fla. (without a basement) and $11000 in Los Angeles.

Domenico, Unusual Cobbler, Fashions Shoes For The Pope

ROME — (UP) —Only a few of the thousands of visitors to Vatican City know of the little old shoemaking shop on the Borgo Pio not far from the grandeur of St. Peter's Square. But about the shop and its owner 30-year-old, dark, tousle-haired, Domenico Cangiulli, there is a special distinction.

For Domenico Cangiulli is no ordinary cobbler and the shoes he fashions are of a special kind.

This short and stocky ex-sailor from Taranto will tell you the story of how he started in business, if you have the time to listen. How, when he was an apprentice, the founder of the shop, old Giuseppe Cottafoglia, called him to his sickbed and said:

"Domenico, my son, the inheritance I leave you is burdensome. But you have clever hands and a quick skill. If you conduct yourself with seriousness and wisdom and put to good use my instructions, you may do even better than I have done for a long time, to make the precious shoes for the Santo Padre ."

Yes, Domenico Cangiulli, together with his beautiful wife, Rosa, makes the "precious shoes" for Pope Pius XII. They are a special kind of shoe fashioned from fine leather of cloth or multicolored velvets.

With the shop, old Giuseppe left the 'forms' made to the measurements of the Pope's feet besides many other 'forms' of the dignitaries, the monsignors, and the bishops of the Vatican.

"It takes nearly three days to make these kinds of shoes," says Domenico. "You have to be very patient, but I'm a shoemaker of quality and my clients are exceptional."

To fashion a pair of shoes for the Pope, Domenico works on the soles and the cloth or velvet cuts to fit the special shoe-forms while Rosa meticulously embroiders the golden cross on their instep and the delicate golden olive leaves around the borders.

Together they have made two pairs for the Pope. The first pair was of red velvet and the other was of fine white leather.

Domenico has many many shoes for clients not in the Vatican, but he intends to close the shop on Borgo Pio soon and open elsewhere in Rome to "work until the end only for the Vatican, for the monsignors and the Santo Padre."

Domenico has never seen the Pope. It is his ambition to be allowed to kiss the hand of the Pope and hear from the Pope's own lips some words of praise for the shoes he has made. Many people in the Vatican have praised his work, Domenico said, "and have told me the Santo Padre was pleased, but it is not the same thing."

Will Cousins Gary And Cathy Crosby Last On Their Own

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Two of the brightest young stars on the summer programs are cousins Cathy and Gary Crosby, but they're the subject of a current controversy over whether they'll last on their own.

Sixteen-year-old Catny sings on her father Bob's afternoon TV show. Gary, son of Bing, croons on his own CBS radio program and appears once a week on Uncle Bob's show.

One trade paper summed up Gary's show as "nothing to get excited about, but nothing to run away from either . . . pleasing and light . . . patterned after his father's . . Trade experts agree Cathy "does not have the vocal talent Gary has but is so cute and ambitious she may wind up bigger in pictures.

Cathy sounds vaguely like a member of the Crosby family but she plans to expand her skills with dancing and dramatic lessons so she can stand on her own talent.

"I know I wouldn't have gotten the job as easily as I did if I hadn't had the Crosby name the pert brunette said. "And the name is a disadvantage in a way because you have to liveup to it — I have to be as good as every Crosby.

"I'm taking the dancing lessons because that's what I've always wanted. They can say I inherited my voice, but the dancing will be my own.

Cathy plans to take only one more year of high school. Gary quit school after his junior year in college to go into show business.

He had tasted it when he subbed for his father last summer on CBS.

"I felt I was wasting my time at school and accomplishing nothing, he said. "I was going to make show business my life career and I wasn't getting any place with it through Stanford.

Gary said his agent "got me the summer radio show although Dad probably helped a lot that I don't know about.

Chittagong, the principal port of East Pakistan, is a bustling city of 260,000 people. It has trebled its population since 1941. In 1946-47 the port shipped only 5,566 tons of jute. In the fiscal year 1950-51 it handled 370,000 tons.

Five Months Required To Air Charges On Brownell's Petition

WASHINGTON UP) — Government officials predicted today at least five months will be required to air charges by Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. that the independent mine-mill union is controlled by a Communist clique, subservient to the Kremlin.

Brownell asked the subversive Activities Control Board to make this determination late Thursday and SACB officials later expressed the private opinion that hearings in the case would start in early fall and continue perhaps into 1956.

Brownell's petition charged that the mining organization, officially known as the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, has been controlled for three years by persons dedicated to the furthering of the world Communist movement.

It was the first case of its type brought by the Justice Department under the Communist control act of 1954 against an allegedly Communist-infiltrated union.

DENVER (UP) —The Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union promised today to fight all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell's petition seeking to have it register with the trated organization.

The independent union charged in a long statement the Brownell petition was an attempt by the Justice Department to break is strike against leading copper com panies.

"The (Communist control) law was passed not quite a year ago yet Brownell waited until our members had been on strike for a month before he suddenly ordered it used for the first time," the statement said.

Americans Say Russians Treat Them As Heroes

By KENNETH BRODNEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NOVOROSSIISK, Russia (UP)— The 12 touring American agriculturists said today the Russians were beginning to treat them more like heroes than plain dirt farmers.

They said that agriculture is being pushed further and further into the background by the cheering throngs that greet them in every provincial town.

Delegation leader Dean William E. Lambert, of the University of Nebraska, conceded that goodwill was becoming a mighty factor in the visit.

"In addition to giving us an understanding of Soviet agriculture," he said, "our visit seems to be doing a great deal toward creating goodwill for Americans among the many groups of Russian people we have met.

Biggest Crowd So Far

"We are not only agriculturists, but we are men of goodwill."

The rousing welcome given the Americans here Friday night is becoming typical. It was the type of welcome usually reserved for heroes.

More than 10,000 shouting, clapping, smiling, pushing citizens of this Black Sea port jammed the dock to greet the Americans on their arrival from Odessa. It was the biggest crowd encountered by the farmers so far.

The throngs were so thick that for 45 minutes the Americans could not leave the ship.

Red Carry Signs

For the first time, the Russians included painted signs in their official welcome. Written in both English and Russian in huge white letters on red background, the signs read:

"Long live the friendship and cooperation between the American and Soviet people."

The smiling Soviets handed the Americans so many bouquets that the flowers filled the visitors' hotel rooms almost to the ceiling. It was all the Americans could do to get some rest for their trip to Krasnodar, the rich Kuban agricultural area, and the virgin land where a new great Soviet farming experiment is being conducted.

The Americans came here from Yalta, the lush Crimean resorts where the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Sir Winston Churchill and the late Josef Stalin held their historic wartime conference.

The farmers visited the white marble palace of Tsar Nicholas II where the conference took place. It is now a rest home for Soviet workers.

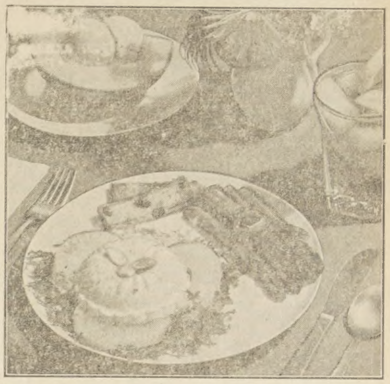
Presto! Transform Soup Into Salad



First it's a soup. Then it's a salad.

You may not believe your own eyes. But this is one kitchen wonder that's much easier than pulling rabbits from hats. Honestly, you can turn out a beauty of a salad from that can of creamy soup. Stir it up with gelatin plus chopped fruits or vegetables. And you've got it made.

Which soups? Two of the best for salads are cream of celery and cream of chicken. Delicate and scrumptious is chicken with rice soup. Stir it up with cream cheese plus pineapple chunks, toasted almonds and gelatin. How elegant! Perfect piece de resistance for your summer luncheon. Plate mates to serve with it are buttered asparagus and toast fingers.

Queen's Chicken Salad

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup cold water
- 1 3-ounce package cream cheese
- 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed chicken with rice soup
- ½ cup drained pineapple tidbits or chunks
- ¼ cup slivered toasted almonds

Soften gelatin in cold water; set container of gelatin in a pan of boiling water until dissolved. Mash cream cheese with a spoon until soft; blend in soup a little at a time. Add pineapple, almonds and gelatin. Pour into 4 individual molds or a 1-quart mold (coated with oil). Chill until firm. Unmold. Place each salad on extra rings of pineapple, on top of crisp lettuce or other greens. Top each portion with more toasted almonds.

Use frozen cream of shrimp soup for another cooling salad, fresh as a sea breeze.

"In The Pink" Shrimp Salad

- 1 can (10 ounces) frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup
- ½ cup softened cream cheese (3-ounce package)
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup cold water
- 1 cup chopped celery with tops
- ¼ cup sliced, stuffed olives
- ¼ cup toasted almonds

Thaw soup completely; blend with cream cheese. Soften gelatin in cold water; set container of gelatine in a pan of boiling water until gelatin is dissolved. Blend soup, celery and remaining ingredients; pour into a 1½-quart mold or 4 individual molds which have been coated with oil. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve on crisp salad greens. 4 generous servings.

Florists Will Give Nursing Scholarship

A program set by the officials of Indiana Florists Telegraph Delivery Association a year ago is going forward with the announcement of a two year scholarship to the Indiana University Medical Center, School of Nursing.

This announcement was made by Chairman, J. Ross Hunt of Union City after going over the presentation plans of the award with Miss Crystal Halstead, Director of the School of Nursing.

The scholarship will be presented at the annual meeting to be held in Indianapolis Wednesday evening, August 3rd, at the Marott Hotel.

NEW RECORD POSSIBLE

If the electrical appliance business sales total for 1955 increases by eight per cent over 1954, as has been predicted by one economist, dollar volume this year will hit $7,381,934,000 -- edging out the previous record, set in 1950, by $1,500,000, according to Electrical Merchandising, MrGraw-Hill Publication.

GETS 17 MONTHS—Ursula Schmidt, 28, beautiful, red-haired German divorcee, once employed as a stenographer at a U.S. air base in Frankfurt, Germany, was sentenced to 17 months in prison for being a spy for the Russians. The German judge, Englebert Pawlitt, who sentenced her said, "Your beauty made you especially dangerous." Fraulein Schmidt was returned from Canada to Frankfurt to stand trial.

Iced Coffee, Greatest Refresher of All

WE doubt whether the First Aid Book gives any hints on the care and feeding of slightly wilted friends on hot summer afternoons, but we're going to remedy the deficiency, right now. Our suggestion is that you feed them iced coffee — lots of iced coffee — in tall, elegant glasses with little droplets of frosty coolth clinging to the outside of each glass!

Of course, you must be certain that the coffee is just the best you know how to make. It will always be that if you bear in mind the very simple rules of good iced coffee-making.

First, remember that good iced coffee starts with good hot coffee, and that takes two level measuring tablespoons, or one Standard Coffee, Measure, of coffee to each three-quarters of a measuring cup of fresh cold water. You have a choice of several ways to convert it into iced coffee.

Quick Method with Coffee Ice Cubes

Freeze regular strength coffee in your freezer tray to make coffee ice cubes. (This may easily be done by brewing extra coffee at breakfast time for the purpose.) When the time comes that you need your iced coffee, make it regular strength and pour it immediately into tall glasses filled with coffee ice cubes. They will cool the coffee quickly without diluting it.

Quick Double Strength Method

Make coffee double strength by using half the amount of water to the usual amount of coffee. Pour over regular ice cubes in tall glasses. The extra strong coffee allows for the dilution caused by the melting of the ice.

Pre-Cooled Method

Make regular strength coffee. Cool in a non-metallic container for not more than three hours or, if the container is tightly covered, chill in the refrigerator. Pour over regular ice cubes when the iced coffee is needed.

Finally, don't forget that instant coffee, made according to the directions on the label of the jar, makes a truly delicious brew with a minimum of fuss and bother.

Serve all iced coffee with a pitcher of cream and sugar, or a simple sugar syrup, to taste.

Someone Is Bound To Give Ground Soon In Dog-Eat-Dog American League Flag Race

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

Someone's bound to give ground soon in the dog-eat-dog American League pennant scrap but the way big Walt Dropo is manhandling those pitchers, it doesn't figure to be the White Sox.

Dropo helped put the White Sox in first place to begin with and now it looks like he aims to keep them there. He slammed out three hits in a 5-2 victory over the Senators Friday night and his third hit of the game in the ninth inning drove in what turned out to be the deciding run.

Since the All-Star game, the 6-foot, 5-inch Dropo has been the hottest hitter in the circuit with a batting mark of .403 during that stretch.

Dropo's hitting Friday night and Virgil Trucks' six-hit pitching kept the White Sox atop the league standings by two percentage points over the Yankees, who beat the Athletics, 3-2. The Indians stayed a game behind with a 7-1 victory over the Orioles while the sizzling Red Sox blanked the Tigers, 5-0, to remain only three games back.

Collins Sparks Yanks

Joe Collins' pinch single with two out in the eighth inning scored Mickey Mantle from third base with the run that won for the Yankees. Lefty Whitey Ford pitched a five-hitter for his 12th triumph and appeared to have won his own game when he homered to put New York ahead, 2-1, in the seventh. But ex-Yankee Enos Slaughter connected for a pinch homer that tied the score again in the eighth. Vic Raschi started for Kansas City and Tom Gorman, another former Yankee was the loser.

Cleveland teed off on two former teammates—Bill Wight and Ted Gray—for 15 hits in humbling Baltimore behind the steady four-hit pitching of Mike Garcia. Larry Doby collected three of the Tribe's hits while Vic Wertz slammed his 11th homer with one on in the seventh.

Everyone in the Red Sox line-up, except Jackie Jensen, hit safely in the victory over the Tigers but even so Jensen tied Al Kaline for the league runs-batted-in leadership at 77. Nixon hurled a four-hitter and received all the margin he needed for his 10th victory when Ted Williams smashed his 17th homer off rookie Jim Bunning in the first inning.

Cincinnati catcher Smoky Burgess blasted three homers, including one with the bases full, added a single and was robbed of another extra base hit during a seven-run rally in the fourth inning. All told, Burgess drove in nine runs while increasing his season home run total to 15. Southpaw Joe Nuxhall eased to his 10th triumph as the Redlegs pounded out 22 hits, including homers by Bob Thurman and Milt Smith.

The Dodgers came from behind to edge the Cardinals, 5-4, and stay 12½ games ahead of second-place Milwaukee in the National League race.

Brooklyn chased starter Larry Jackson amid a four-run rally in the seventh and after St. Louis tied the score with the help of a pinch single by Manager Harry (The Hat) Walker in the bottom of the seventh. Carl Furillo doubled in the eighth to score Junior Gilliam from first with the key run.

Eddie Mathews' two-run triple in the first inning highlighted a three-run rally which powered the Braves to a 5-2 triumph over the fading Giants. Given that first inning margin, Ray Crone racked up his sixth conquest while southpaw Johnny Antonelli absorbed his 13th defeat.

The Phillies rallied for four runs in the ninth to beat the sinking Cubs, 6-4, after Ernie Banks drove in three runs with his 30th homer and two singles to give Chicago a 4-2 lead going into the final frame.

RUPTURE
EXPERT COMING HERE AGAIN
R. K. Shallenberger

Nationally known expert will personally demonstrate his method without charge at Clugston Hotel, Columbia City, Wednesday, Aug. 3, from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

Mr. Shallenberger says the Shallenberger method contracts the openings in remarkably short time in the average case, regardless of the size or location of the rupture, and no matter how much you lift or strain, and puts you back to work the same day as efficient as before you were ruptured.

The Shallenberger Rupture Shield has no leg strap; waterproof, sanitary, practically indestructible, and can be worn while bathing. Each shield is skillfully molded and fitted to the parts under heat, which gives a perfect fit and satisfaction.

Large and difficult ruptures, following operations especially solicited.

Do not overlook this opportunity if you want gratifying results. Mailing address Angola, Ind. (adv.)

Coach Satisfied

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Joe Kuharich, Washington Redskins coach, was satisfied today with the condition of his squad but said there still is much work to be done.

Kuharich said that the battle between Eddie LeBaron and Al Dorow for the No. 1 quarterback post is just about even.

Intra-Squad Game

STEVENS POINT, Wis. (UP)—An intra-squad game is on tap for the Green Bay Packers tonight at nearby Marsh Field.

The two squads, divided into green and gold units, worked out separately Friday and tonight's game will involve most of the rookies.

Forty Niners

MORAGA, Calif. (UP)— Nearly every member of the San Francisco Forty Niner's squad of 53 is expected to see action today in an intra-squad game.

Only halfback Hugh McElhenny, end Bill Jessup and rookie defensive halfback Clarence Norris of UCLA will be excused, all having suffered minor injuries previously.

Cannady Released

OLEAN, N.Y. (UP) — Veteran John Cannady, a standout New York Giants' lineman for eight seasons, apparently reached the end of his professional football career today when he was released by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Cannady, who came to Pittsburgh after being released by the Giants at the end of the 1954 campaign, was cut from the squad along with Jim Speralazza, a guard from Weirton, W. Va., Friday. The Steelers now are down to 54 men.

Mutscheller Makes Outstanding Show

WESTMINISTER, Md. (UP) — Jim Mutscheller, an end from Beaver Falls, Pa., who captained the Notre Dame football team in 1952, is making a determined bid to win a starting offensive job with the Baltimore Colts.

Mutscheller, who spent the past two seasons in the Marine Corps, sparkled in a passing drill Friday and made several outstanding catches.

Diringer, Lesser Meet In Finals

CHICAGO (UP)— Carol Diringer of Tiffin, Ohio, and Pat Lesser of Seattle, Wash., meet today in the finals of the 55th annual Women's Western Amateur Golf Tournament.

Co-medalist Miss Diringer and 21-yearlold Miss Lesser, who advanced to the finals with easy victories over semi-final opponents Friday, will play 36 holes over the Olympia Country Club course.

Miss Diringer took a 4-and-3 triumph over Mary Patton Janssen, Charlottesville, Va., in Friday's semi-finals. Miss Lesser eliminated 17-year old Anne Quast, Everett, Wash., 5 and 4.

Sidelined

SALEM, Ore. (UP)— Eight New York Giants were temporarily sidelined today with various minor injuries suffered in Thursday's brisk two-hour contact drill.

On the shelf were halfbacks Ken Stout, Wayne Berry and Dick Nolan; guard Russi Carroccio; ends Barney Poole, Bill Hillen and Ed Stowers and tackle Chuck Kubes.

Dillon Pleases

HIRAM, Ohio (UP)—Glen Dillon, rookie end from Pittsburgh, appears to have clinched a job with the Cleveland Browns as an offensive end to spell veterans Dante Lavelli and Darrell Brewster.

Coach Paul Brown said he's very pleased with the way Dillon has been handling himself in camp drills.

Compton Doing Well

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (UP)— Ogden Compton, Hardin-Simmons quarterback and a protege of Sammy Baugh, drew praise again Friday from Chicago Cardinals Coach Ray Richards.

Compton, a native of Dallas Tex., reported to camp Wednesday and has stood out in drills since then.

Rams Open Schedule

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP)— A crowd of about 12,000 is expected to be on hand tonight in Long Beach Memorial Stadium when the Los Angeles Rams open their exhibition schedule against the Fort Ord (Calif) Warriors, one of the top service teams in the nation.

The game will mark the debut of Sid Gillman as a coach in the National Football League.

General Motors Sets Production And Sales Record

NEW YORK (UP) — General Motors Corporation shattered every sales, production and profit record in existence during the first six months of 1955 and expects the full year to be the best in history.

The worlds largest manufacturing concern announced Wednesday that sales soared to $6,512,672,139 for the six-month period which will mean a gross income of more than 13 billion dollars for the year if it maintaiins the same startliing pace.

GM President Harlow H. Curtice and Board Chairiman Alfred P. Sloan Jr. announced jubilantly that the American public was in a "buying mood."

The auto industry has shown "the greatest vigor and vitiality in its 56-year history," they said. "It has played a key role in pushing economic activity in the United States to a new all time high."

Americans and Canadians purchased 2,437,335 cars and trucks from the giant automotive manufacturer during the six month period ending June 30.

The tremendous sales boosted net income of General Motors to $660,961,942, equal to $7.23 per share of common stock. During a similar six-month period of 1954 net income was $425,250,383, or $4.79 per share.

The greatest previous sales year in General Motors history was 1953 when it sold $10,027,980,482 worth of automotive and defense products. Volume for the first half of that record income year was $5,440,545,856.

Sales for the first half of 1955 amounted to considerably more than for any full year previous to 1950, the corporation announced.

ELECTRIC CLUB

The 4-H Farm and Home Eelectric Club held its regular meeting last week at the REMC building. In the absence of presiding officers, Harold Buckenmeyer opened the meeting and introduced Jim Sherwood, REMC electrical advisor.

The electric club tour was discussed, and the date of August 4 was decided upon. Karlene Ray gave a demonstration on "Proper Lighting,' after which the group discussed the subject.

Jon Pontzius led the group in the Pledge to the Flag, and Karlene Ray led the group singing, accompanied by Nancy Carper.

Refreshments were served following the adjournment.

Horse Racing Is Slated For Local Track On Sunday

Horse racing will be introduced to this area Sunday afternoon at 2:00 at the Meadow Terrace Race Track located one mile north of this city on State road 9 by the Michigan Racing Association. The 18 racing events will be run on the quarter-mile track of what is better known as the Columbia City Saddle Club grounds.

A. L. Gardner, promoting manager for the racing association, states that 25 horses will race during the afternoon, and included in the field will be horses owned and ridden by local enthusiasts. There will be five elimination races around the quarter-mile track, and the five winners will race for the section purse. The horses stand from 56 to 59 inches tall.

This evening round and square dancing will be held in the club house on the grounds for local members of the Hoosier Hoofbeaters and out of town guests. The Hoofbeaters are arranging the racing.

Book On Communism To Be Published By I. U. Press

BLOOMINGTON — An important book on Communism will be published Aug. 8 by the Indiana University Press, titled "Betrayal of an Ideal' by G. A. Tokaev, Russian army officer who escaped to freedom from East Germany.

The first of two volumes deals with Communism in Russia from the time of the 1917 revolutioin to 1935. It tells the story of how a young Russian gradually lost his faith in the belief that the revolution would bring liberation to his country, and became a member of a " resistance" group within the Communist Party. This "resistance" is here described for the first time.

The I.U. Press was unable to obtain photographs of the author for publication because he is still officially considered in danger.

A second printiing of Richard Moodys book "America Takes the Stage" will be out in August, also.

Books listed for fall publication by I. U. Press Director Bernard B. Perry include "The Stature of Theodore Dreiser" by Alfred Kazin and Charles Shapiro on the 55th anniversary of publication of the first novel by the Hoosier writer.

Others are "Diary of a Dying Empire," a translation by Oscar A. Winther of an eyewitness account by a German minority leader of World War I; "Woodrow Wilson and the Balance of Power,' by Edward H. Buehrig; the first volume of the six-volume new edition of Stith Thompson's "Motif-Index of Folk Literature"; two books of poetry – "The Deaths of Paragon, Indiana' by John Woods and "Prefabrication' by Josephine Miles; "The Age of Worth," a biography of the Englishman who became the czar of fashion in Napoleon Bonaparte's France, by Editih Saunders, and "Horned Moon," a travel-adventure narrative about Southeast Asia by Ian Stephens.

Also on the fall list are "The Moral Decision — Right and Wrong in the light of American Law" by Edmond Cahn; "Santana and the Sense of Beauty" by Willard Arnett; "The Love Ethics of D. H. Lawrence' by Mark Spilka; "The Challenge of Existentialism" by John Wild, and "The Work of Art" by Stephen Pepper.

GI Begins Serving Term For Desertion

NEW YORK (UP)—A GI who borrowed a name, built a thriving business and reared a devoted family during an 11-year period, today began serving a 25-year sentence for desertion from the Army in wartime.

The GI, Pvt. Arthur Athans, was sentenced by a court-martial Thursday after pleading guilty to the desertion charge.

He left behind a sobbing wife and five children who learned his true identity only after his arrest on May 18.

Athans deserted from the Army on Dec. 7, 1944, while serving a five year sentence at Fort Knox, Ky., for being absent without leave for the third time.

He worked as a farm laborer for a year and then settled in Levant, N.Y., where he took the name Joseph Trainer and went to work as a mechanic.

Founded Motor Sales Company

In 1946 Trainer married and founded the Levant Motor Sales Co. in Jamestown. The business flourished. As Joseph Trainer, Athans became a respected member of the community. He had five children who now range in age from 8 years to 20 months.

"I couldn't wish for a better husband," said his wife, Marjorie, at the time Athans was sentenced. She gave her name as "Mrs. Trainer."

She presented at the court martial a petition signed by 600 "friends, customers, and townsmen" asking for leniency.

Captured

RALEIGH, N.C. (UP)—Officials of the Dix Hill State Mental Hospital captured an escaped patient by television.

They were watching a program when the escapee wandered into camera range. They dashed to the spot and apprehended him.

Two Boys Hatch Plot To Dethrone Davy Crockett

HOLLYWOOD (UP) A revolution that may topple the nation's economy, or at least the fur business, is brewing here today. Two boys have launched an "Anti-Davy Crockett" club.

This movement to de-throne the current idol was hatched over bicycles and spraying hoses on a hot afternoon down the street from some friends of mine.

When word filtered through the palm trees of this simmerin gplot I crept into the circle to report on the conspirators.

The leaders of the insurgents are Anthony Wilde, 11, and Hilary Silver, 10.

They are collecting neighborhood anti-D.C. members because:

1. Davy was a low-living gambler and a drinking man and not "as perfect as Disney says."

2. It was all a commercial plot to get kids to buy coonskin caps, anyway.

"We're starting a club and Hilary's cousin in Salinas, Calif., already has one," reported young Wilde.

"No man is that good. Davy is just a superman in a coonskin cap and we don't swallow that stuff. It's nothin' the way he really was.

"Disney said he died last in the Alamo!" continued Anthony. "Actually the whole battle was a terrible military mistake.

"Davy used to gamble, we learned in school. But Disney shows him as such a clean guy, discouraging gambling 'n everything. Nobody could be that good. My dad's great but he gets traffic tickets sometimes."

"The good pioneers are the ones like Daniel Boone," added Hilary. "He didn't stand around and go to Congress. He went out and pioneered."

The kids' first job is to change a proposed "Davy Crockett High School" here to "Albert Einstein High School."

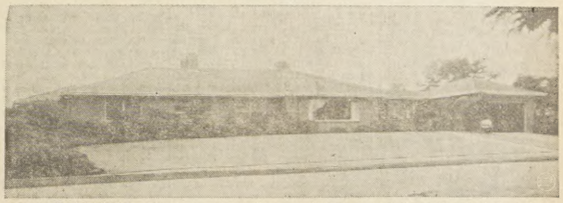
JUST A TOY FOR A BOY—This $50,000 observatory belongs to Charles Michael, 16-year-old honor student of Bucyrus, Ohio. His father built it on the family's 13-acre estate so Charles would have a good place to conduct his hobby, which is astronomy. It's equipped with a huge telescope with a 10-inch lens and a three-inch astrograph camera. Built in modern stone, the observatory houses a chart room, photographic laboratory and a library-study.



BOUGHT BY UNION—This is the Seattle home of AFL Teamsters' Union President Dave Beck, which the union bought from Beck for around $160,000 and in which Beck will continue to live rent free. Beck said the deal was "just as regular as you please" and that the seven-room, ranch-style brick home "is worth more than they paid for it."

Death Of Charles Nichols, Thorncreek Farmer, Is Sudden

The Father Of Kenneth Nichols, County Clerk

Charles C. Nichols, 66, resident of Road Nine North, died at midnight Friday night. His death was unexpected although he had complained of chest pains for two days. A resident of Thorncreek township, Mr. Nichols had resided in Whitley county since he was 16 years old.

The son of William and Carrie Kelsey Nichols, he was born in Elkhart county on May 29, 1889. He later resided at Cromwell. His marriage to Eletha Maud Egolf occurred December 1, 1907, the late Rev. L. A. Luckenbill of this city officiating.

Mrs. Nichols survives, also four daughters and three sons. The children are Kenneth Nichols, clerk of the Whitley county circuit court; Ralph E., Thorncreek township, Mrs. Donald Stephan, Fort Wayne, Mrs. Gale Thomas, Colon, Mich., Thomas Nichols of this city, and Mrs. Ralph Baker, Richland township, Mrs. M. H. Patton, Fort Wayne.

Also surviving are 18 grandchildren, two great grandchildren, a brother, Leo Nichols, Liberty Mills, and a sister, Mrs. Pearl Walb, Mt. Vernon, Wash. One brother and two children are deceased.

Mr. Nichols had long been active in the Thorncreek Bethel Church of God. For the past 16 years he had served as chorister of the church choir.

Friends will be received at Hollingsworth Memorial chapel after 7:30 this evening. The Rev. R. A. Wood, pastor at Thorncreek Bethel, will officiate at the memorial service to be held at 2 p.m. Monday at the mortuary. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Duplication

WESTFIELD, N.J. (UP)— Howard Cox of Westfield will take more heed of his daughter Joan's observation in the future.

Joan reported last month she had seen a 1955 Dodge with the license plate NC7, identical to the one on Cox's car. Her father scoffed.

Last week the state Motor Vehicle Department notified James F. Casale of Garwood it was ending him another set of plates and told him to turn in his NC7. The duplication was discovered during a routine check, the department said.

Chou Predicts Repatriation Issue Can Be Settled

TOKYO (UP) — Chinese Communist Premier Chou En - lai predicted today the repatriation of American prisoners in Red China should be "easily settled" in the U. S. - Red Chinese negotiations opening Monday in Geneva.

Chou in a major policy speech broadcast by Radio Peiping, said the "people of all countries demand an end to the cold war" and urged concrete actions to reach this goal through negotiations.

"If all countries concerned will work together in the spirit of sincere negotiation, all pending international issues can be settled step by step and in relation to one another," he said.

The talks opening in Geneva on Monday between the Red Chinese ambassador to Poland and the American ambassador to Czechoslovakia chiefly concern 40 American civilians and 11 U.S. airmen held on "spy' charges.

Chou said settlement of the return of the Americans to their homeland should "be easily settled" because there are only a few American civilians held in Red China.

But he claimed at the same time that "thousands" of Chinese students remain in the United States and are unable to return home.

Chou reiterated in his speech that Red China still was "determined to liberate' the Nationalist-held island of Formosa and said the means could be "peaceful" or by "war." He warned at the same time his Communist nation must be prepared to be "suddenly attacked."

One of the aims of the United States at Geneva is to find out Red China's official position on Formosa. Chou said today Red China was willing to negotiate with "local authorities' there for its "peaceful liberatioin."

Chou, in a speech before the first National Peoples Congress (Parliament) at Peiping said the Geneva talks between the Americans and the Peiping representative also would "facilitate" the settlement of other problems between Red China and America.

The Geneva talks are between U. S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson and Chinese Communist Ambassador Wang Ping Nan, German speaking veteran of the Chinese Civil War and long powerful in the Red hierarchy.

Customer Doesn't Like New-Fangled Nightcap Material

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WA SHI N GTOol(N cUalP)—A WASHINGTON UP) — A local department store was embarrassed recently about a complaint against the quality of its merchandise.

Seems an old-timer about town had bought himself a night cap. He was back the next morning, howling mad.

"Never had that trouble with the old-fashioned flannel caps,' he said. "Something about this new-fangled material."

Seems the cap itched him the night long; and something in the tassel tickled his wife's nose every time the old man turned, and gave her a fit of sneezes.

Can Still Buy Nightcaps

He got his money back.

Believe it nor not, you can still buy nightcaps, among other relics of the past that the oldsters demand. In fact, according to the oldline "factoring firm' of William Iselin, the demand keeps several factories busy. The firm is a financing specialist in the textile industry and has made a study of out of fashion garments which still are being produced and sold for a small but insistent public.

Take high-buttoned shoes, for example, you still can buy them, if you look real hard, but its a dickens of a job finding a button hook.

'Gaiters' Also Available

And take spats, which with a steady hand can be buttoned with the fingers, or if you go modern can be zipped up. "Gaiters" still are made for sale in a lot of department stores. The "sales leader" at the moment is the four-botton kind in pearl gray, although spats also come in black, pink, brown and pastels, yet. (I once had a friend who used to wear spats the year around so that the only shoe-shinning he had.

In small towns according to the Iselin people, vest-piping remains popular among some old - line politicians, doctors and professors.

In rural areas you'll often still find sleeve garters. Also black half sleeves, held up by elastic. A saving on cuffs and elbows.

Drop-seat underwear, for both summer and winter, is making a remarkable comeback. They say that the long under-wear with the buttoned tail-gate is selling fairly well in some quarters.

Detachable Collars Exist

Thousands of men still are buying shirts with those detachable collars, in a wide variety of colors. The old-fashioned paper collars are hard to find but many a die-hard, anxious to hang on to the tin-type era, still insists on celluoid collars that can be washed with a damp rag.

The four-button coat has its customers in considerable numbers, and a lot of men still require their tailors to put buttons on their pants, instead of zippers.

Requests, according to one Chicago firm, still come in for raccoon coats for men. Davy Crockett, if his memory holds for a time longer, likely will fix all of that. Every available coonskin will be used up for Davy Crockett hats.

Red China Jumps On Friendship To The West Bandwagon

GENEVA (UP) — Communist China, all smiles, appeared today to be jumping on the Soviet friendship - to - the - West bandwagon with both feet.

It was all cordiality in this Big Four conference city where negotiations begin Monday at the Palais des Nations between the United States and Red China.

And the Chinese Communists lost little time in letting newsmen know they hoped the meeting of ambassadors would lead soon to a meeting between Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Red Premier Chou En-lai.

The most surprising demonstration of the new attitude to date was the arrival of Chinese Communist negotiator Wang Ping-Nan, Peiping's ambassador to Communist Poland.

He stepped off a train Friday night in a natty, chalk-striped flannel suit amidst a sunburst of gold-toothed smiles from seven members of the Geneva Chinese Communist Consulate on hand to greet him.

The Peiping consulate had telephoned newsmen all over town, including Americans, the first timie this has happened here in the memory of any correspondent.

Wang, chunky and businesslike, quickly read a statement aligning Red China's views with those of the Russians.

"We are convinced the Sino-U.S. talks at the ambassadorial level will obtain results if the two sides have a sincere desire to regulate their problems mutually,' he said. "If this is true I am sure the talks will produce results." He then said in reply to questions he hoped the talks would lead to ministerial level talks.

Wants Concession On Space Satellite

HUNTINGTON PARK Calif. (UP)—Fun shop owner David Steward didn't realize that the world's first space satellites will be only the size of basketballs when he wired President Eisenhower Friday.

"I would like to have the exclusive rights to open a fun shop on the new satellite being planned by the government," Steward wired the President. "I know visiting men from Mars and Venus would appreciate a good gag gift to take home to their wives and sweethearts."

Individual Must Eradicate Insects

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Combatting the insect enemy in Indiana is largely up to you and four million other Hoosiers, an expert said today.

The state continues its research at Purdue University to develop improved combatants and protect Hoosiers with its regulatory powers. But the individual must eradicate teh insects, said Paul Ulman, assistant state entomologist.

Sprays, fogging machines, dusts improved screening, better sanitary conditions and additional new chemicals aid the Hoosier in kayoing the insect pests.

These provisions keep the insect problem from getting out of control, except in neglected areas.

This year the insect problem is "about normal," Ulman said.

More Mosquitos Now

Mosquitos are increasing, especially in the lake areas and the rain-dampened central area. Because of the drought last summer, the population is more formidable this year. Communities where mosquitos are most populous have been attacked with sprays and fog machines.

The fly population is "not too great," Ulman said. New insecticides, screening and the lack of breeding places of yesteryear, like manure piles, have reduced effectively their number Chiggers fleas and ticks can make a person mighty uncomfortable, even though they aren't deadly. Primary weapons against chiggers are sulphur dusted in clothes, chemically sprayed or dusted lawns and the use of other repellants, Ulman said.

Hoosiers who take care of their dogs and cats will have the flea and tick problem almost licked before it starts.

Bark Beetle Threat

While the army worm, leaf hopper and virus are deadly enemies to farm crops, one of the most prominent plant killers in Hoosierland is the European bark beetle.

Since it began plaguing Indiana's elm trees in 1934 with the Dutch elm disease, the killer has grown steadily worse despite the regulations and research of the State Department of Conservation. This beetle carries the disease from a sick tree to a healthy one.

The most common building damager in Indiana is the termite. Ulman said it is present in every section of the state.

Wage Increase

ald, who announced the joint settlements, said the only clause not included in the pact with the AFL affiliate was a provision for a lump sum payment for the steelworkers under a wage rate study agreement negotiated last year. He said the AWU was not included because it did not have the job study provision in its contract.

Other Terms Similar

McDonald said all other settlement terms were the same for both unions, including an additional three cents an hour to be set aside for the continuation of the job classification study. Both sides agreed to conclude the study within six months with an extension of an additional six months if necessary.

The settlement also provided for a reduction of "certain differentials and elimination of others" in wages at the 21 Alcoa plants across the country.

The two unions made their unprecedented cooperation pact at the start of negotiations with the industry's biggest producer on July 12. Although each conducted separate negotiations, negotiators for both unions met daily to compare notes on progress of the individual talks.

Alcoa officials said price increases on its products to cover higher labor costs probable will be announced within a few days. Pig aluminum now averages $430 a ton.

Scientists

on the frontier of space.

This information is expected to be of tremendous importance. For one thing, it may give science data which will revolutionize weather forecasting. It also is expected to clear up deep mysteries about the floods of energy which constantly pour upon the earth from the sun and from now unknown sources vastly deeper in space.

But the profoundly significiant thing about both the U.S. and Russian announcements is the revelation that the means are at hand to break the space barrier.

Up to now no object launched by man has managed to break or balance the pull of gravity. All of the experimental rockets launched at White Sands, N.M. — including one two-stage device that sored to an altitude of 250 miles - have fallen back to earth. None has managed to sustain itself, like the moon, in orbital flight around the earth.

But scientists of many countries agree that the propellants and heat resistant materials are now at hand to pierce the atmosphere and hang at least a small "moon" in the sky for a matter of days or weeks — possibly, later on, for years.

At 18,000 miles an hour the U.S. satellite will be plunging some four times faster than any other man-made device ever traveled. Increase the speed to 25,000 miles an hour and it would escape entirely from earth's hold.

Veteran space travel enthusiasts like Willy Ley, the German-born rocket expert, said the earth satellite "will be the first step into space." Sen. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash) echoed the thought of many when he said "It will probably lead to further scientific knowledge and possibly to interplanetary communication and transportation."

The White House announcement said the satellite will clarify "the difficulties that would have to be overcome when man goes beyond the earth's atmosphere in his travels."

But the men directly responsible for the satellite program are more interested for the time being in the scientific conquests they believe are in immediate prospect.

The program will be carried out by the National Academy of Sciences, representing independent science; the government's National Science Foundation, and the three armed services. The military's role, according to Wilson, will be to supply launching sities and equipment plus the rocket techniques and test facilities it has acquired in years of development work since World War II.

Not counting the militarys contribution, the cost of the first satellite is expected to be around 10 million dollars—far less than even the most enthusiastic rocket experts were predicting a few years ago.

U. S.

fects radio transmissions, produce information on the dangerous effects of cosmic radiation from the sun and possibly assist the world in more accurate long range weather forecasting.

The scientists agreed, too, that information gained in the experiment would be of difinite value in the ultimate scientific goal of human travel in outer space.

The national foundation and the academy said in a joint statement that observations made possible by the satellites would "indicate the conditions that would have to be met and the difficulties that would have to be overcome if the day comes when man goes beyond the earth's atmosphere in his travels."

The highest man has been is about 18 miles in a rocket plane.

Dr. Athelstan F. Spilhaus, a member of the executive committee for U.S. participation in the geophysical year, explained that the basket-ball-type sized satellite could provide valuable scientific data even if it orbited around the earth for only a day or two.

He explained that the satellite, depending on its weight and density, would in a comparatively brief time be slowed somewhat by even the rarefied air of the upper atmosphere. This will cause the satellite to start a spiral down toward the earth and vaporize. when it hits the heavier, lower atmosphere.

According to Spilhaus and Dr. Allan T. Waterman, director of the National Science Foundation, who did most of the explaining at the White House, the satellite project will work in this way:

The "bird" will be mounted in which has been fired to announced a multi-stage rocket of the type heights of 250 miles above the earth. When the rocket reaches the area between two and three hundred miles, the satellite will be discharged with a side blast which will launch it on a flat trajectory paralleling the surface of the earth at a speed of about 18,000 miles per hour.

After days, or possibly weeks, of orbiting around the earth every 90 minutes, the satellite will slowly lose its speed, spiral toward earth and disintegrate.

The scientists who talked with reporters at the White House for nearly an hour said that because the first satellite still was in the planning stage, it had not been determined whether to send up a solid object or one containing automatic instruments which could automatically radio observations back to the earth.

Johnson

has been told in advance of the Geneva meeting that the United States is not prepared to negotiate there on any issues involving other nations, such as nationalist China.

No Talk On UN Seat

Officials told a reporter that the State Department in communications leading up to the Geneva meeting, emphasized it would not negotiate on Formosa's future or Red China's oft-repeated demand for a seat in the United Nations.

But the administration holds that it can discuss a Formosa ceasefire at Geneva without going into the problem of the future status of Formosa itself.

Johnson is likely to complain to Wang about violent anti-American propaganda turned on from time to time by the Peiping regime. He also is expected to warn the Red Chinese negotiator about the consequences should Red China shoot down any American planes or airliners carrying American passengers. Dulles has said that the destruction a year ago of a British airliner at the cost of three American lives, would be raised at Geneva.

Johnson expressed hope Friday, that he would be successful in his efforts to get American prisoners freed. He promised Mrs. Addie Rigney, 77-year-old Chicago mother, that he would do his best to free the Americans, including her son, the Very Rev. Harold Rigney, 54, who has been a hinese prisoner forfourye ars. Cs Chinese prisoner for four years.

costs, and pump up an assortment of agencies about to run out of money.

Housing: In the bill passed Friday, the House rejected President Eisenhower's public housing program. The Senate version, passed earlier, authorized at least 572,000 public housing units. A compromise committee was to work on the matter today and indications were that the public housing program would be revived.

Atomic Ship: Both houses previously had turned down President Eisenhower's atomic peace ship. Members called it a "dream boat." Late Friday the Joint Atomic Committee changed its mind and recommended that the plan be approved. At best, it faced plenty of rough water.

Minimum Wage: It was all over but the formalities on boosting minimum wages. The Senate passed a compromise bill Friday night raising the legal floor from 75 cents to $1.00 an hour effective March 1, 1956. The House was expected to approve it quickly.

Among other measures on the must list besides an extension of the defense production act were revision of sugar quotas, a 2-billion dollar increase in Commodity Credit Corp. borrowing authority for farm price supports, which the Senate approved Friday night, and an extension of the Small Business Act.

Decision

was emphasized anew Friday night when a Moscow dispatch reported Russia also is planning to launch satellites similar to Americia's.

Military research has been headed that way since World War II ended and both America and Russia learned of advanced German space ship projects, including one that would focus sun's heat on enemy countries and serve as a weapon launching platform.

Significantly, 100 of Germany's brightest rocket scientists, including Hermann Oberth and Wernher von Braun, are working now at the Army's Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala. Von Braun predicits that 1985 will see a space station circling the earth 1,075 miles away.

Other German scientists are sprinkled through other military serviices and industry. And many are in Russia.

The nation that first ventured into space, authorities said, would achieive a tremendous psychological advantage over any hostile nation. The space stations that ultimately would follow could serve as observation platforms for ceaseless global reconnaissance.

United States And Red ChinaOpen Secret Talks; One Item Is Removed

By KENNETH MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA (UP) IYhahUkcbsRed secret talks from which one major item of cold war friction was dramatically removed less than an hour before the meeting began.

Peiping Radio's sudden announcement of the "immediate" release of 11 imprisoned American airmen eliminated one pressing item from the agenda of the session between ambassadors of the two powers.

It left unsolved the question of 40 civilians still held by the Red regime but a broadcast by Red China last week had indicated that this problem would be a simple one.

The Peiping announcement was another step in an unprecedented show of Communist cordiality which the Reds frankly hoped would lead to a meeting at the foreign minister's level and eventual world recognitiion for the Red China regime.

It also was interpreted as a propaganda move which the United States had sought to eliminate in the Geneva talks by having them held in secret.

Besides the prisoner issue, other Far Eastern problems also were on the agenda.

Hovering on the outskirts of the sessions was India's roving ambassador, V.K. Krishna Menon, who had played a major role in their arrangements.

Calls it Tete-a-tete

The information blackout contrasted sharply with President Eisenhower's open information policy during the Big Four conference last month, but U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson hinted it was necessary under the circumstances.

"This is a tete-a-tete," the big, rangy American envoy said. "Remember these are talks, not a conference.' He said he would treat his meeting with Red Ambassador Wang Pingnan as' a restricted session in which he could speak frankly.

Aides of the two ambassadors met to decide technical details ahead of the ambassadorial talks which will center at first on exchange of American and Chinese nationals.

But there were other issues of even more importance: The U.S. hope of ending the threat of war in the Formosa Strait; Communist

4 Hurt Slightly As Car Hits Rear Of Farm Tractor

Accident Occurs 12 Miles South On Road 9

Four Whitley county persons suffered minor injuries at about 9 p.m. Saturday when a car struck the rear of a farm tractor on State Road 9 about twelve miles south of the city.

The driver of the tractor, Lawrence Hesting, 40, of R. 2, escaped possible serious injury when he was thrown from the tractor he was riding north. He was taken to Huntington County Hospital suffering from lacerations, abrasions and bruises about the head.

Driver of the car, James Pelfrey, 23, Columbia City, and two passengers in the front seat of his automobile, Judy Fisher and Donna Johnson, both 15, Columbia City, suffered minor injuries. The Fisher girl was treated at Whitley County Hospital and released. Pelfrey and the Johnson girl were admited to the same hospital. He is being treated for possible chest injuries and she for a cut forehead. A passenger in the rear seat, William Rouse, R. 6, was not injured.

Pelfrey told investigators of the accident that he saw the tractor's lights and thought is was an oncoming automobile. The right rear wheel of the tractor was torn off when the car hit and Hesting was thrown off, landing in a side ditch.

America's Asiatic Allies Reach Reluctant Conclusion; Cannot Understand U. S. Stand

By EARNEST HOBERECHT
United Press Staff Correspondent

TOKYO (UP)—Many of the United States's antii-Communist allies in Asia came to the reluctant conclusion today that Washington is moving closer to recognition of Communist China.

And the Asians, who have been urged by the United States to resist Communism, cannot understand U.S. willingness to negotiate with the Chinese Reds.

The talks opening today in Geneva between U.S. and Red Chinese ambassadors were seen as a strong indication of further Washington-Peiping talks at the foreign ministers level.

The Chinese Nationalists and the South Koreans, both of whom have put armies in the field against forces, said the United States was moving step by step, issue by issue, toward recognition of the Peiping regime.

An important Filipino leader raised the question in a private conversation on the matter:

"Is the principle of negotiation and compromise—or co - existence by any other name—more important than the principle of right and wrong?"

One of the chief fears concerned the 10 million overseas Chinese living in Asiatic nations other than China and what might happen if the United States finally recognizes Red China.

A well-informed student of Chinese affairs in Singapore described the situation as follows:

"If the United States recognizes Communist China or if Communisit China is admitted to the United Nations, you can be sure the Chinese will take over all the small countries which thus far have enjoyed freedom and independence.

"The large Chinese populations in the various countries of Southeast Asiai will have increased pres-

Housing Issue Offers Threat To Adjournment

Number Of Units Causes Deadlock

BULLETIN

...WASHINGTON (UP)-Senate-House conferees today agreed on a compromise housing bill providing for construction of 45,000 new public housing units in the coming year.

By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Members of the 84th Congress headed toward this session's finish line today with high hopes of adjournment before the night is over.

A deadlock over housing legislation appeared to offer the only real threat to adjournment plans as congressional leaders worked feverishly to clear away that obstacle to ending the 1955 session.

While a few other "must" bills remained on the calendar, they were scheduled to be acted upon with the same rapidity shown by the lawmakers Saturday in an overtime session in which the House unloaded 275 bills and the Senate 75.

House and Senate conferees were deadlocked over the number of public housing units to build. The Senate authorized 135,000 a year for four years, the House none. Senate conferees offered to settle for 50,000 for the next year alone. But House members on the conference committee refused to budge above 70,000 for the next two years, the figure sought by

Cold War Talks May Prove To Be More Difficult

Than Big Four Meeting With Russia

WASHINGTON (UP)Key members on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee feared today that the cold war talks with Red China may be more touch-and-go than the recent Big Four meeting with Russia.

The talks were opened in Geneva at the ambassadorial level.

Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) said the Chinese are "likely to prove much more difficult" than the Russians. He said their local problems are "almost insoluble, with so many people and so little land.".

Commit.tee Chairman Walter F George, who has called for a U..S-Red China meeting at the foreign ministers level, said the Formosa situation "may get out of hand unless we act wisely" in the talks.

George told reporters the "general uncertainty" in the Far East, and to some extent the Middle East, are "the greatest" dangers to world peace at this moment.

Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland (Calif) said recent cordiality by Russia may mean that the Soviets are "preparing to liquidate their tensions in Eastern Europe so that their Chinese allies can step up the tensions in Asia, or at least threaten to do so."

Knowland and Fulbright, appeared on a radio program (CBS' "The Leading Question"). They endorsed the Geneva talks, but Knowland opposed bringing up any problems involving Nationalist China, South Korea or Viet Nam when their representatives are not present.

Sen. Alexander Wiley (R - Wis), top Republican on the committee, said he was "hopeful that the Chinese Communists will be willing to seek a way for peace, but we must recognize that the whole East is in ferment due to adverse economic and political conditions."

Knowland and Fulbright agreed that German unification may be the big stumbling block in East-West negotiations.

They also agreed that President Eisenhower's offer to exchange military blueprints and aerial photography rights with Russia may be good propaganda for the United States.

But Knowland said he would insist on safeguards like furnishing Soviet photographers with U.S. planes because "I don't know how you could tell a plane that was well up in the air, whether it was carrying cameras or a real sting in it."

No Heat Records Broken, But July Was Wettest Ever

This July did not set any all time records for torrid temperatures in the Columbia City area, but it surely has been hot.

Altogether, there were 15 days when th emercury soared to 90 degrees or better. The al ltime record for the Whitley county area was in 1953 when there were 17 such days.

However, this July was the wettest July on record with a total of 7.63 inches of rainfall. Nearest to this was a 7.38 inches recorded in1950. However, that year there were but four days of 90-degree weather.

The Fort Wayne area experienced an all time record with 20 days of 90-degree temperatures, but this community had more days of rain than other surrounding areas, with 10 days of precipitation, including four occasions when the rainfall was over an inch.

On July 6 there was 1.15 inches; July 8, 1.30; July 15, 1.55; and July 28, 2.10 inches.

There were four days when the temperature reached 95 or better. Highest was 99 degrees recorded on July 4.

Last year during the month of July there were 13 days of 90-degree temperatures with a rainfall of 4.76 inches. Highest last year was an even 100 on July 14.

1954 was the year of the "big wind" when gales up to 86 miles

Coal Industry Officials Watch John L. Lewis

For Notice Of New Wage Contract Demand

By MAUREEN GOTHLIN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Coal industry officials watched John L. Lewis uneasily today for notice of new wage contract demands for his United Mine Workers.

Lewis has not gone after any new demands since 1952 when he won a $1.90 a day increase that brought his soft coal miners wages to $18.25 a day.

He is free to serve new contract demands along with a 60 - day strike notice at any time, and has been since Aug. 1, 1953.

But coal industry officials think that today would be a "logical" time. A 60-day strike notice served today would run out on the third anniversary of the signing of the 1952 contract and a strike in the autumn "coal rush" season would be tough on the industry.

May Negotiate With Moses

Lewis, however, could try his 1951 strategy. This was to negotiate secretly an agreement with Harry Moses, head of the Bituminous Coal Operators' Associaition, largest of the bargaining groups, without serving any notice.

Coal industry and union officials claim Lewis has given no indications yet that he intends to go after

Scientist Says Congress To Back Administration

In Its Plan To Let Russia In On Satellite Secrets

WASHINGTON (UP) Director Alan T. Waterman of the National cience Foundation predicted today that members of Congress, when they know "the facts," will back administration plans to let Russia in on secrets unlocked by the proposed earth satellite.

"So much (of the project) is purely scientific, everyone will be gainers, including us," Waterman said in commenting on congressional criticism that worldwide dissemination of such data would disclose vital U.S. defense secrets. The lawmakers objected most vigorously to Russia taking part in the proposed experiment.

But Waterman said any data from the earth - encircling sphere would have little if any direct military value.

The United States announced Friday that sometime in 1957 or 1958 it will shoot the object into space where it will make an orbit around this planet. The satellite will be about the size of a basketball.

Waterman said that since this country has "this much lead" in getting a satellite launched, "we shouldn't be afraid about the competence of our scientists in staying ahead."

But he emphasized that current plans do not call for disclosure of how the satellite is built or how it will be launched by rocket to an altitude of 200 to 300 miles before it begins traveling around the earth once every hour and a half at a speed of 18,000 miles an hour.

In announcing the plan, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the experiment will be "entirely for scientific purposes" and all data will be made available to all nations.

Upon learning this, Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga), chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he had "grave doubts" about giving "friend and foe" the "benefit of expenditures and effort that have gone into this development."

Rep. Carl T. Durham (D-NC), vice chairman of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, said he is "not in favor of swapping information with the Russians or anything."

Other influential members of Congress expressed similar concern and some suggested Congress may act to put the project under wraps.

Churubusco Turtle Day Queens Are Crowned Saturday

Climax of Churubusco's Turtle Days was the crowning of the "Miss" and "Mrs." Queens. Mrs. John Baughman and Miss Sarah Craig were declared winners Saturday night.

Runners up in the contest were Mrs. Leon McGaughey and Mrs. Benny McNeal in the "Mrs." division and Nancy Diffendarfer and Sandra Clark in the "Miss" division.

In the tractor pulling contest, Don Zeigler, R. 2, Churubusco, won the heavy-weight class, where competition was limited to 4,500-8,000 pound machines.

Other winners were 5,000-6,500 Frank Young, R. 1, Churubusco; 3,500-5,000 Everett Pippenger, R. 1, Avilla, and up to 3,000 Murray Gause, R. 2, Churubusco.

Proceeds of the three-day event, which commemorates Gale Harris' search six years ago for a fabulous turtle in Fulk's Lake, are used for civic projects in Churubusco.

It is planned to use this year's proceeds toward a swimming pool at Churubusco according to Orlo McCoy, chairman of the event.

The mother was the former Jo Anna Landis. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Leo Landis of near South Whitley and Mr. and Mrs. William E. Fry, Osgood.

Death Comes To Mrs. Brenneman SaturdayMorning

A Trustee Of Peabody Free Library 43 Years

Mrs. J. Forrest Brenneman, one of Columbia City's most outstanding women, died Saturday morning at 11:30 at Memorial hospital where she had been a patient since July 19. Her condition became critical the day following the arrival of her daughter, Mrs. James F. Burke of Forrest Hills, New York, who had come to spend a week's vacation with her mother.

Long active in club and civic affairs, Mrs. Brenneman was serving her 43rd year as a member of the Board of trustees of Peabody Free Library at the time of her death. In 1912 she was elected secretary of the board. She served as president of the Indiana Library Trustees Association in 1932 and 1933, and served as secretary of the association for three years.

In 1943, Mrs. Brenneman received a citation from the Indiana Library Association for long and distingushed service to the library cause. In 1901 she became a member of Coterie. She was a member of the Order of Eastern Star and was a charter member of Augustin de la Balme chapter of Daughters of the American Rebolution and was also a member of the First Presbyterian church.

Native of South Whitley

Mrs. Brenneman was a member of the 1891 graduating class of South Whitley High School and was graduated from Fort Wayne Business college in 1893. She was born March 23, 1875, Gladys Iola Heagy and was the daughter and only child of William E. and Emma Miller Heagy of South Whitley.

She worked for a short time at the Arnold Bank in South Whitley and later took a position at Goshen with Lincoln Byerle, postmaster and editor. She later took a position in the law office of Senator Lew Vail, and while with him was a stenographer in the Indiana State Senate during the legislature of 1895. In 1927 and 1929, Mrs. Brenneman served as a registry clerk in the Senate, Indiana Legislature.

Barely An Hour Before Opening Talks In Geneva

Should Reach Freedom Thursday In Hong Kong

By RUTHERFORD POATS
United Press Staff Correspondent

TOKYO (UP)—Red China today announced the release of 11 U.S. airmen, held in Communist jails for 2½ years, and said they should reach freedom in Hong Kong by next Thursday.

Announcement of the "immediate release" of the airmen, who had been convicted and imprisoned on espionage charges, was made by Peiping Radio, barely an hour before the opening of direct Chinese-American talks in Geneva in which their fate was the top item of the conference Agenda.

Chinese Ambassador to Poland Wang Ping-nan, who is Peiping's representative at Geneva, said the freed airmen should reach the British crown colony at Hong Kong by Aug. 4.

The 11 men were the crew of a U.S. B29 Superfort, shot down near the end of the Korean War. Red China's refusal to treat them as war prisoners and repatriate them with other Korean War prisoners had been the source of major tension between the United States and Red China.

Today's unexpected announcement by Peiping Radio said the Supreme People's Court of China on July 31 decided "to release these 11 criminals before the completion of their terms and notified the authorities in charge to carry out immediately the release procedures and to send them out of China."

The Peiping broadcast, monitored here and in London, was made barely an hour before the United States and Red China representatives at Geneva in which the case of the imprisoned airmen was scheduled to have been a

Segni Gives Reaction To Geneva Talks And 10-Year Plan For His NATO-Member Nation

ROME (UP) Premier Antonio Segni said today he intends to push a 10-year plan to wipe out unemployment and poverty, two chronic ills which have helped breed Communism in this NATO-member nation.

The newly - named government head also credited the decisive action of President Eisenhower at the Big Four Geneva conference with opening the way to peace with security.

In the first interview he has granted, the 64-year-old land reform expert disclosed that his new government plans to do the following:

1. Open the gates for productive private investment from the United States and other foreign nations.
2. Act quickly to speed the development of Italy's oil resources.
3. Press the land reform program he himself launched as agricultural minister five years ago.

The slim Sardinian-born professor, who heads a pro-Western, four-party centrist coalition, said he believes the Geneva conference has increased the chances for peace.

"I think we can be satisfied with the Geneva conference," he said. "If, as may be hoped, those who direct Soviet policy are convinced that the West does not have aggressive aims, that NATO and the Western European Union are defensive organizations, it will be less difficult to reach agreements from now on than it was in the past.

"The conference has markedly increased the chance of organizing peace with security. President Eisenhower's far-seeing action has contributed decisively to this precious result."

Segni said he is concentrating on economic and social issues. He said the reform program, which

Eisenhowers Spend Weekend At Farm

WASHINGTON (UP) —President and Mrs. Eisenhower were back in Washington today after a weekend of golf, picnicking and rest at their farm in Gettysburg, Pa.

They made a 77-mile drive back Sunday in the hot sun of late afternoon, with only one stop a brief visit with their Gettysburg friend and neighbor, George E. Allen.

At the Allen farm, Mr. Eisenhower spent a few minutes inspecting some new equipment.

Mr. Eisenhower left the farm only once during the weekend, for a 27-hole round of golf at the nearby Gettysburg Country Club, with Allen and another friend, Brig. Gen . Arthur S. Nevins, USA, (Ret.).

On Saturday night, the Chief Executive and his wife gave a farewell picnic party for Oveta Cul pHobby, whose resignation as secretary of health, education and welfare took effect today.

Backstairs At The White House

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

WASHINGTON (UP)Backstairs at the White House:

The rich food in Switzerland must have added to President Eisenhower's waistline. At breakfast the other morning with some Republican members of Congress at the Statler Hotel, the President requested and received saccharin for his coffee.

Normally Mr. Eisenhower does not eat much for breakfast. If there are no guests and he breakfasts alone, his meal usually is limited to fruit juice and coffee.

On occasion, he had been heard to yearn for such big breakfast items as cornmeal flapjacks and friend scrapple, but when it comes to actual eating he puts aside his dreams and sticks to juice and coffee.

He'll forget his diet, however, when he goes fishing this month in Colorado. "Camping out" on the western slope of the Rockies at Fraser, Mr. Eisenhower cooks for his entire party and his breakfast specialty is a pancake made of a standard mix combined with waterground corn meal.

Mr. Eisenhower's assistant, Sherman Adams, sees that the Chief Executive is well supplied with New England's best maple syrup.

All sorts of kissing went on in the White House press room the other day. It was quite pristine, however, as the girls on the press office staff said goodbye to John L. Cutter, the veteran United Press reporter who is leaving Washington to head up public relations for the Chevrolet division of General Motors.

A calm and collected magazine writer was sitting in the placid White House lobby the other afternoon when the door to the conference room smashed open and a horde of reporters boiled out at top speed, headed for the press room.

The writer stopped one of the thundering herd and asked what all the excitement was about.

"Space travel," shouted the impatient reporter.

"Don't hand me this foolishness," snarled the author. "If you haven't got time to talk, just say so."

The excitement naturally was about Mr. Eisenhower's approval of plans to go ahead with construction of experimental satellites to whiz around the world in outer space at 18,000 miles an hour.

The announcement led to all sorts of speculation around the White House about the future. Such as: Will the President establish a summer White House on Saturn?

Chances are good that the Eisenhowers this year will spend their first Christmas "at home" in Gettysburg, the theory being that they will want to be close to Washington rather than in Augusta, Ga., when the time nears for the arrival of their fourth grandchild.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower may, however, make a Thanksgiving trip to Georgia.

Robert Francis, Two Companions Killed In Crash

HOLLYWOOD (UP) Screen actor Robert Francis, 25, and two companions died instantly Sunday night when their single - engine plane crashed and burned near Lockheed Air Terminal.

Francis, who achieve stardom in his role as Ensign Willie Keith in the film version of "The Caine Mutiny," was identified by Burbank police as the pilot of the four-seat Beechcraft Bonanza which crashed shortly after takeoff.

The other two victims were identified as actress Ann Russell, 24, and Hollywood agent Irving G. Meyer, 36.

Miss Russell, whose real name was Mrs. Audrey Anne Dorsch, was believed to have been divorced from Lt. Edward Dorsch, stationed at Lowry Air Force Base, Colo. She is the mother of three children.

Francis, a fledgling pilot, was flying a plane registered to actor Joe Kirkwood Jr., the "Joe Palooka" of the movies. Meyer, a golf course business partner of Kirkwood, shared ownership of the plane with the actor.

Airport personnel said the three apparently had been on a day's air outing from Sant Monica where Kirkwood's plane was checked out earlier by Meyer.

Witnesses said the plane's engine started to sputter at about 150 feet up and the craft crashed into a parking lot near the end of therunway and burst into flames. Francis apparently had been learning to fly without the knowledge of his studio, it was reported.

Last Week To Be Remembered In History Of Market

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UP) — Last week will be remembered in stock market history for a batch of record earnings reports by the biggest companies and for a new government project on satellites that may have future stock market significance.

The performance of the market was not of the best, although many market men said it was good when one considers the heights to which this market has risen with only a modicum of consolidation.

On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the industrial average made a record high. On Monday and Tuesday the utilities set a new high for 24 years. Only one day saw a rise in rails and that only 24 cents on average.

So when the week's results were tabulated in the averages they looked like this: Industrial average, 465.85, up 1.16; railroad, 158.19, off 1.79; utilitiy 66.59 up 0.14; and average of the 65 stocks in these averages 67.84, off 0.25.

Market experts found consolation in the fact that volume was light when prices were easing. Sales averaged 2,232,981 shares daily, against an average of 2,316423 shares last week and 2609,804 a year ago.

Incidentally, a year ago, the industrial average was 117.93 points lower than at present and the rail average was down 38.63 points from the week's closing.

Earnings reports flowed in volume. Dozens of them were record highs. The biggest companies furnished the best ones—new tops for the six months in earnings of the steel giants—U.S. Steel and Bethlehem — for Standard Oil (New Jersey) and for General Motors.

The General Motors earnings were sensational even to blase Wall Street.

They totaled $660,961,942 for the half year, a record high and an annual rate of more than $13,000,000,000. Such figure has never been attained in corporate history.

At the fiirst reaction to these earnings General Motors dipped a bit on profit-taking. Then on Friday it shot forward again and hit a new high.

The steel earnings were received coldly because in the case of U.S. Steel the usual diviidend was declard and in the case of Bethlehem the directors took no action on an anticiipated stock splitup.

Purdue University agricultural engineers say to pipe water to livestock in pasture fields where there is no water supply. Plastic pipe may be laid with a subsoiling tool by using a special attachment.

Michigan is the nation's seventh largest producer of chemicals. More than 32,000 men and women are employed by chemical firms in the state.

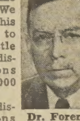
Loyalty Under Fire

Lesson for August 7, 1955

SOMETHING can be learned from history, even when it is the history of obscure men. Perhaps we can even learn more from the history of obscure, little-known, forgotten men, because we are mostly of that sort ourselves, than we can from the biographies of the rich and great. We are invited in this week's lesson to consider a little community of displaced persons more than 2,000 years ago.



Dr. Foreman

Most of those displaced persons were citizens of Jerusalem, or had been. That city had been laid flat by Nebuchadnezzar's army. That the little nation of Judah had brought the war on itself, that the prophets, and especially Jeremiah, had predicted exactly what happened,—all this did not soften the blow. Those people were exiles, but with a special bitterness. It is one thing to be driven from home hoping to go back some day; it is another thing to have no home to go back to. If those displaced persons could have been taken back to Palestine, to the exact spot where Jerusalem stood, all they would have found was rubble. They would have perished of starvation . . . They knew this all too well. Yet in their memories Jerusalem still lived, a dream-city unchanged by time. They wept when they saw it in their mind's eye; but tears did not wash away the picture they loved. Did it do them any good, this remembering and remembering a city that was no more, a city they would never see again? Yes, it did. For even if that city were less fair than their homesick minds portrayed it, the good which they remembered would remain as an ideal. The community they would build in exile would be as near like the best they remembered as they could make it. A remembered glory that comes no more may become an ideal for today's world. Loyalty to memory may be something better than laying posies on well-tended graves; it may be the channel through which the best of yesterday flows into today and tomorrow.

Loyal to Life's Must's

These exiled Jews often dreamed of going back. That was before Jerusalem fell, and before Jeremiah wrote them a famous letter. (Jer. 29.) You will never see your native land again, he told them. The captivity will end, but not in your lifetime. Meanwhile be good citizens where you are. Build houses, plant gardens live with your growing families. Seek the welfare of the city where I have sent you into exile . . . That may have been hard advice to take; but they took it. Dreams of the past can be slow poison if all they produce is tears. Dreams can make men crazy, they can keep people from looking at life's realities. Dream-wishes can keep men from doing what is possible under the circumstances. Jeremiah did not wish these people to forget Jerusalem. He wanted them to recognize the Must's of the situation where they were. There is such a thing as loyalty to the inevitable. "Shake hands with the Inevitable" is a good rule, for the really inevitable is the hand of Providence.

Loyal to God

The story of the young men who chose death rather than be disloyal to God by worshiping Nebuchadnezzar's golden image, reaches one of its high points in what the young men said to the king. God will deliver us, they said; He is able to deliver us and we believe He will; but if not—if there is no God, or if He is not able to save us, or if He does not choose to save us, if He forsakes us altogether, we will not be disloyal to Him. The story is a kind of parable about all the loyal servants of the true God in great pagan Babylonia during those exile years. Many Jews must have been tempted to take over the religion of their conquerors, just as after the second World War there was a rush toward Christianity in Japan. Certainly there in Babylon there were many voices whispering or calling aloud, Bow down! Conform, be like everybody else, when you are in Babylon do as the Babylonians do. Don't be peculiar, don't be stubborn, leave your invisible G and come worship the golden g to whom the nation prays! But t young men made the right choic hard then, hard always: They would be loyal to the true God, even if his deliverance was delayed.

846,000 Doses Of Salk Vaccine Being Released

WASHINGTON (UP) —The government is releasing 846,000 doses of Salk anti-polio vaccine to the states under the new voluntary distribution plan whereby the states will decide who gets it.

The Health, Education and Welfare Department said Sunday the vaccine may be used either by public agencies, such as local health departments, or turned over to physicians for vaccination of private patients.

No federal strings are tied to the distribution. But state officials are expected to follow recommendations of the National Advisory Council that priority be given to the 5-through-9 age group.

Meantime, with Congress trying to adjourn, legislation to buy Salk polio vaccine for children whose families are unable to pay awaited a House floor vote.

The Senate already has approved a more liberal bill to provide federal funds for free Salk shotsinall states, without restricting them to those unable to pay. There was a possibility that the legislation might be caught in the adjournment rush.

WASHINGTON (UP)—Indiana's share of the first allocation of Salk polio vaccine for distribution by public health agencies or on a commercial basis will total 18,000 shots.

It was expected that the Hoosier share will be used to supplement the inoculation program for first and second graders.

"I doubt very much that any would go to private physicians at this time," said Dr. Bertram Groesbeck Jr., chairman of the Governor's Advisory Committee for the vaccine.

Franklin Security Announces Change In Firm's Name

At a special meeting of the stockholders of the Franklin Security Company held last week at the home office of the firm in Hartford City, the name of the company was changed to the Franklin Finance Company.

In announcing the change Lowell Shearer, manager of Franklin's Columbia City office, explained the company felt the advantage of immediate public recognition of the nature of the business far outweighed the nostalgic value of retaining the old name.

Mr. Shearer said, "When the company was founded in Hartford City in 1921, it was common practice to use the word 'security' in the name of a finance company. During the past twenty years the name has become steadily less used, until today there are very few finance companies identifying themselves as a security company."

Franklin's Columbia City office was opened in 1929 and moved to its present location at 221 West Van Buren street in 1952.

Iowa Farmers Rebel At Banquets, Vodka, Champagne

By KENNETH BRODNEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

KRASNODAR, Soviet Union (UP)—Lowa farmers visiting the Soviet Union rebelled today against champagne, vodka and 10 course banquets.

From now on, they said, they would much prefer for the Soviets to "let us see what we want to see" and pop into any collective farm they want to visit.

The delegation, led by Lauren K. Soth, editorial writer for the Des Moines Register and Tribune who first proposed the exchange of agriculture delegations, explained:

"We appreciate the wonderful hospitality of our Russian hosts but we are simply unable to eat food and liquor set at the table everywhere we go."

Soth challenged Ivan Stretltsov, senior Soviet agricultural official conducting the tour, to let the delegation operate independently, stopping their tour along the road or turning in wherever they desired.

The issue arose at breakfast Sunday in the Proboi restaurant in Novorossisk when the Americans rebelled at a visit to a champagne factory—which would include a three hour banquet.

They pointed out that wine and grapes were of minor importance to the economy of the Soviet or the United States and that they already had seen a winery.

As result the delegatin broke into two groups. One visited the winery and reported it had learned nothing new. The other visited two Soviet farms and reported they were not as productive as other farms they had visited.

The two groups joined up before arriving at Krasnodar and a reception that topped anything previous on their visit. A crowd estimated at 20,000 or mroe swarmed around their cars, clutched the hands of the Americans, cheered and applauded and held up their babies to be seen. There were shouts of "welcome" and "all the best to you.'

Hotel Rolls Out Red Carpet

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Seymour Weiss, manager of the Roosevelt Hotel, rolled out the red carpet Sunday when he heard President Eisenhower's son was about to check in but got a disappointment when the guest showed up.

"It happens so often I've lost count," Maj. Adam John Eisenhauer said. "Sometimes when I see how happy they are to meet me and when there's no special treatment involved, I dont say anything. They feel so hurt when I disillusion them."

Workers Strike Against Eight John Deere Plants

MOLINE, Ill. (UP) — About 12,500 members of the CIO United Auto Workers went on strike against eight John Deere & Co. plants in Iowa and Illinois today, but union and company negotiators still tried to reach an agreement.

The strike went into effect at midnight as marathon negotiation sessions continued.

The company and union officials met off and on from 1 p.m. Sunday until 4 a.m. today. At that time a recess was declared so the negotiaitors could get some sleep. But they were due to meet again at 1 p.m.

Although an agreement appeared in sight, pickets were thrown up around the plants.

Pat Greathouse, the UAW's regional director, said "we still hope a settlement can be reached, but there'll be no production in the meantime. As long as we're still talking it's a good sign.

Earlier, Greathouse said "everythings in the hopper now—we're trying to rough out the contract language."

The union is seeking a guaranteed annual wage plan and is fighting a company proposal to convert its Des Moines and Dubuque plants from piece rate to uniform hourly wage rates.

Other Iowa plants of the agricultural machinery firm are at Waterloo and Ottumwa. There are four plants in the Moline area. Deere workers now average $2,24 an hour.

Officer Seeks Aid In Locating Widow

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP) — Oklahoma Crime Bureau Chief O. K. Bivins called on peace officers across the nation today to aid him in a search for the widow of a former Oklahoma governor-oil millionaire whom he fears may be a victim of amnesia.

The whereabouts of Mrs. Lydie Marland, 56, is a much a mystery to her relatives as to Bivins. It was only after conducting a private search on their own that they called on Bivins to help them find the missing woman.

After unsuccessfully trying to find her in Californiia and Oregon, Bivins ordered her physical description broadcast to all 48 states. The order was carried out today.

Mrs. Marland was last seen in Los Angeles in March, 1953. It was from there that she disappeared. Bivins said her relatives understood that she was to have driven from there to Oregon or Washington or in the general area of the Northwest.

Mrs. Marland made headlines from coast to coast when she became the second wife of former Gov. E. W. Marland in 1928. She was his wife's niece.

Marland's first wife, Virginia Collins Marland, died in 1926. They had adopted Lydie as a child and in 1928, two years after his first wife died, Marland had the adoption papers annulled and married Lydie in Flourtown, Pa.

Lydie was a nativeof Philadelphia. She married Marland before he successfully ran for governor in 1935. Before entering politics, Marland was a wealthy oil man but when he died in 1941 he left only a modest fortune to his widow.

Heat Wave Lifts Corn, Oats Futures

CHICAGO (UP) — The blistering heat wave over most of the nation's farm belt last week lifted corn and oats futures prices on the Board of Trade while other grains dipped.

Compared to Friday a week ago, bushel lower; corn 1-8 to 5-8 higher bushel lower; corn to higher; oats ⅝ to 1⅞ higher; rye ½ to 1 1-4 lower; soybeans unchanged to 1¼ lower; lard 5 points per 100 pounds lower to 8 higher.

Most cash grain prices were lower, except for a 2½-cent increase in soybeans brought on by a pickup in demand.

The Chicago Board of Trade announcement that it had reduced margin requirements for trading in wheat, corn, rye and soybeans had a strengthening effect on the markets early Thursday, but profit taking and a scattered hedgeselling brought a reaction before the close.

Soybeans showed signs of picking up gains Friday after the government's announcement that stocks of soybeans in all storage positions July 1 totaled 66,800,000 bushels, a much lower figure than traders had expected.

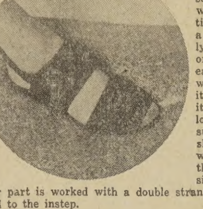
Cinderella may have looked fetching in her glass slippers, but the modern version of this enchanted miss believes in foot comfort as well as beauty. Today's Cinderella likes to tread softly in slippers that provide plenty of cushioning underfoot.

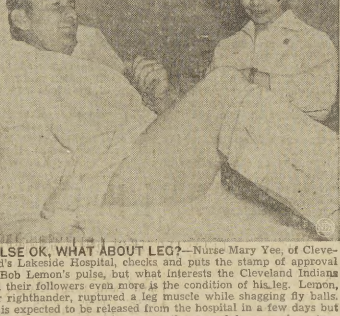


SLIPPER STYLES

For the ultimate in comfort, a slipper should have a soft, flexible sole. The woman who spends a good deal of time on her feet appreciates a slipper that conforms gently to the foot. The crocheted or knitted slipper offers foot ease because it has firm body while being light in weight; it has springy soles to add to its restful qualities, and good looks. Furthermore, slippers, such as the attractive style shown here, are completely washable. Easy to crochet, the soles are worked with a single strand of thread. The upper part is worked with a double strand. The vamp and band are sewed to the instep.

FOR ENCHANTED EVENINGS

She who takes life easy in these stunning slippers walks in glamor. These fancy steppers are crocheted entirely of black mercerized cotton intertwined with non-tarnishing gold metallic strands. An inner sole (foam rubber is ideal) is placed between the two sole sections. A perfect pair for lounging, they will complement any of your stay-at-home outfits. Complete crocheting instructions for making these GLAMOROUS SLIPPERS in small (4½-5), medium (6½-7) and large (8-8½) sizes are available to you. For your copy, simply send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper with your request for Leaflet No. 114.22.



PULSE OK, WHAT ABOUT LEG?—Nurse Mary Yee, of Cleveland's Lakeside Hospital, checks and puts the stamp of approval on Bob Lemon's pulse, but what interests the Cleveland Indians and their followers even more is the condition of his leg. Lemon, star righthander, ruptured a leg muscle while shagging fly balls. He is expected to be released from the hospital in a few days but won't be able to take his turn on the mound for a week or two.

Shoplifter

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UP) — Police arrested Howard D. Quinn, 61, an upholsterer, in a supermarket and charged him with trying to steal two steaks, two pounds of grapes, a bottle of punch and a jar of tartar sauce.

They said he had the loot tucked inside his shirt.

Discriminating

LONDON (UP) —John Spencer Churchill, artist nephew of Sir Winston Churchill, reported that a discriminating thief entered his Saturday night, selected a choice cigar from an open box, drank a bottle of champagne, picked up a silver watch and strolled out puffing the cigar.

Visit The Grand Canyon And The Utah National Parks

County treasurer Foster W. Riddick and Mrs. Riddick, have returned from a ten-day vacation jaunt to the Utah National Parks and Grand Canyon north rim. Their stay in the parks was during a four-day tour arranged by the Union Pacific railway system.

Enroute home they spent Sunday in Salt Lake City, where they attended the morning concert of the 375-voice choir at the Mormon tabernacle, and attended the afternoon recital in the tabernacle on the mammoth organ.

Their route home was by way of the Royal Gorge of the Arkansas river from Salt Lake to Denver, which they state is filled with magnificent mountain scenery for several hundred miles. After a "rubber-neck" Grey-Line tour of Denver they were on their way home.

An observation interesting to the visitors in Utah is the fact that there are no "county farms," the Mormon church people caring for those in hard circumstances. Salt Lake City is 60 percent Mormon church members, the state of Utah 70 per cent Mormon population and the small villages are 0 per cent Mormons in population.

Judy Langohr To Be In Camp For Two Weeks In Michigan

Miss Judy Langohr, 1955 graduate of Columbia City high school, left Monday to spend the next two weeks at Camp Miniwanca, near Shelby, Mich. This is her third year at the camp.

Craig Stymies Young Bandit's Efforts To Escape

BRAZIL, Ind. (UP)—A young suspected bandit was under arrest today because his efforts to escape capture were stymied by Governor Craig and state police.

Craig directed state police in a search through the Clay County hills Saturday that led to the apprehension of Paul E. Payne, 22, suspected of slugging and trying to rob Mrs. Mary Phillips, 26, a filling station attendant.

Craig, enroute to his home here from Indianapolis to visit his parents, heard the alarm broadcast on a police radio in his car, and because of his familiiarity with the area joined in the search.

Police said Payne hit Mrs. Phillips on the head with a hammer while she refueled his car at a combination gas station-grocery on Ind. 59 south of here. Payne fled when he was unable to pry open the cash register, authorities said.

Payne was arrested by state police Lt. Robert Dillon and Trooper Ray Byroad. Authorities said Payne admitted the attempted robbery and another robbery of a store earlier this week.

Mrs. Phillips was not seriiously injured by the blow on the head.

Craig was accompanied by his son, John, and an unidentified person.

tige, backing and confidence. The tide of Chinese expansion, directed from Peiping and Moscow, will be impossible to halt.'

Just the bare fact of sitting down with the Chinese Communists at Geneva was considered a bad siign by anti-Communists in Asia for two reasons:

1. It tended to give the Peiping government status and importance equal to that of Soviet Russia with whom the Big Three recently conferred.

2. It revived memories of the Indochina conference in Geneva which was a major defeat for the free world.

Most lavish praise came from India where Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru has been instrumental in getting the two sides together.

Burma, whose Premier U Nu was reported to have brought up the possibility of the conference during his American tour, greeted the talks with enthusiasm.

Pakistan, Indonesia, Ceylon, even the tiny countries of Afghanistan and Nepal, saw the Geneva talks a start in the right direction if not a cureall to Asia problems.

Japan also welcomed the talks and hoped for a relaxation of the trade embargo against Red China which is crippling Japanese economy.

Indiana's Weekend Traffic Fatalities Held To Four

By UNITED PRESS

Despite heavy travel by Hoosiers seeking cool recreation retreats, Indiana's weekend traffic fatality toll was held to a relatively light four.

Wilbur Hoots, 36, Chesterton, was killed Saturday night when his car struck a panel truck and another automobile rammed the wreckage. State Police said Hoots' car hit the rear of a truck driven by Clarence Sparks, Chesterton, as Sparks attempted to make a left turn off U.S. 20 east of Gary. A car driven by Michael Kadens, 20, Highland Park, Ill., smashed into the wreckage. Sparks and Kadens were unhurt.

Highland Hinich 17, Chicago, died in Gary Saturday of injuries suffered the night before when he fell from the fender of one car and was struck by another.

Bernard Jarema, 22, Greencastle, was injured fatally Sunday when he lost control of his car on U.S. 52 as he entered Fowler and skidded 250 feet into a tree. Joseph Caruso, 31, Greencastle, a passenger, suffered minor injuries.

James Drabing 38 New Albany was fatally burned when his truck ran off Ind. 3 south of Greensburg and caught fire.

Folsom Sworn In As Secretary Today

WASHINGTON (UP)—Marion B. Folsom was sworn in as secretary of health, education and welfare at a White House ceremony today.

Folsom, 61, has been undersecretary of the Treasury since the Eisenhower administration took office in 1953.

He formerly was an official of Eastman Kodak Co.

Folsom succeeds Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, who resigned because of her husband's health. Mrs. Hobby became the first secretary of the department when it was established in 1953.

China's drive to win recognition as a major power; the nervous dread of Americas antiCommunist allies in the East that Chiang Kai-shek might be sold down the river.

There also was fear in Washington the meeting would lead to gradual U.S. recognition of Red China.

Communists Predict Success

The Communists predicted success for the talks and said frankly they hoped the talks would lead to talks at a higher level — between Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Red Premier Chou En-lai.

Chou himself in a major poliicy speech Saturday predicted success for the talks and expressed belief the prisoner question could be solved. His un-warlike statements raised cautious hope for success of the Geneva talks.

The United States was more cautious but admitted the possibility of future high-level talks once it has sounded out Peiping on its official position toward Formosa and a cease fire.

The talks came against a background of Asian fears of "appeasement" of the Communists, Munich-style, of steady French and British pressure on the United States for closer contact with the Reds; the belief by some in Washington Red China had retreated not one iota from its earlier role of "international bandit.'

Nationalist China was not represented.

The principals in the Geneva talks that may last three weeks or more were:

U. Alexis Johnson, 46, U.S. ambassador to Czechoslovakia, a Far Eastern expert and veteran of negotiation with the Communists who attended last year's Indochina conference in Geneva. He said he was willing to remain in Geneva as long as necessary.

"Era of Good Feeling"

Wang Ping-nam, Red China's bullet-headed envoy to Warsaw, a long-time Chinese Communist revolutionary who signalled Peiping's new "era of good feeling" with a goldtoothed smile to Western newsmen when he arrived from the capital of Communist Poland.

Hovering in the background was the roving ambassador from India, V. K. Krishna Menon, who said his presence in Geneva was mere coincidence. But Krishna Menon, a proponent of high-level U.S. - Red Chinese talks, arrived as Red Premier Chou En-lai was calling for third party mediation on key disputed points.

The talks were being held in the Palais des Nations, the building built for the League of Nations and now United Nations European headquarters. The talks themselves were in a small room near the site of the historic Big Four meeting.

Krishna Menon made no prediction of the outcome beyond expressing India's hope that Dulles and Chou can meet later, a suggestion made last week by Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga), influential chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

the administration.

Leaders hoped they could reconcile the remaining difference since the housing bill—an omnibus measure — included such other housing legislation as a 4 billion dollar expansion in the federal housing administration's authority to insure home mortgages.

Special Session Unlikely

Other measures facing a final vote in one or both chambers included extension of the Small Business Administration, funds for farm price supports, new import and production quotas for sugar, extension of the defense production act, and the free olio vaccine program.

The last appropriation bill of the year — 92 million dollars to run Congress — was considered certain of passage.

The lawmakers drove themselves today with the thought they would have until next January to recuperate — unless a special session is called.

None is considered likely although House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr., said Sunday night there is "a possibility the President might feel he should call a special session to pass" the highway biill which Congress rejected earlier.

But Martin added that it is more likely President Eisenhower will try to work out an acceptable highway plan in the next few months and try to get it passed next session.

Four "Must" Bills Survive

The House, ignoring a Senate-passed highway bill killed both the chief executive's plan and a pay-as-you-drive Democratic substitute. House Democratic leaders have expressed doubt it will be possible to pass any kind of road legislation in the House next year.

Conspicuously absent from the final-day calendar were some of President Eisenhowers major legislative proposals. They either were shunted aside until next year or killed off outright.

Of the 13 "must" bills the President enumerated six weeks ago, only four have survived and they have undergone alterations. Besides housing, they deal with the military reserve program, foreign aid and the minimum wage.

Mighty Missouri Step Closer To New Partnership

With Man Today; Closure Complete

YANKTON, S.D. (UP) — The mighty Missouri River was a step closer to a new partnership with man today.

The "Big Muddy's" new phase was marked Sunday when huge bulldozers and cranes completed closure of the 63 million dollar Gavins Point Dam near Yankton.

The dam is the smallest of four completed so far in a project to bring the Missouri under man's push button control. Despite its size, Gavins Point is considered the key to the project.

Between 5,000 and 6,000 persons turned out in 106-degree heat to observe the U.S. Army Engineers' newest victory over the turbulent river.

The main speaer was Wilbur M. Brucker, making his first appearance at a public ceremony since his recent appointment as secretary of the Army.

Brucker said the nation can no longer treat water "as an inexhaustible resource and allow it to run a wayward and wasteful course to the sea.'

There have been more than 16 disastrous floods below Yankton in the past 100 years, Brucker said, but the Gavins Point project will "rob the great river of its power to destroy.'

The entire program to harness the Missouri iis scheduled for completion in June, 1958.

Gunmen Kidnap Store Managers And Families

RAPID CITY, S.D. (UP)—Three gunmen kidnaped the managers of two supermarkets and their families early today, forced them to admit them to the stores, burglarized the safes and left the victims bound on a hillside.

Kidnaped were Manager Hugh Boyd of the Super-Duper supermarket and his wife and Manager Milton Semrau of the Super Safeway store, his wife and two children.

Police said the burglars escaped with the entire weekend receipts of the two stores. The amount of the loot was not immediately determined early today.

The six persons managed to free themselves shortly after they were left unharmed near the state cement plant.

Red China

Contined from page one

major subject for discussion.

Red China's timing of the announcement was accepted by the west as a maneuver to achieve a propaganda victory in the Geneva talks, even before they began.

Early Release Assumed

The Peiping announcement did not say whether the airmen have as yet been released from jail or just when they will be returned to the free world. But it was presumed from the wording of the announcement that there will be little delay in complying with the order to "send them out of China."

Normally Americans and other esterners who are reeased bythe Westerners who are released by the Chinese Reds are handed over at the British Crown Colony of Hong Kong which has a frontier with Red China.

The men to be released are: Maj. William H. Baumer, Lewisburg, Pa.; Airman 1.C. Steve R. Kiba, Akron, Ohio; Airman 2.C. John W. Thompson III, Orange, Va.; Capt. Eugene J. Vaadi, Clayton, N.Y.; Col. John K. Arnold Jr., Montgomery, Ala.; Lt. Wallace L. Brown, Montgomery Ala.; Lt. John W. Buck, Armathwaite, Tenn; Airman 2.C. Harry M. Benjamin Jr. Worthington, Minn.; Sgt. Howard W. Brown, St. Paul, Minn.; Capt. Elmer F. Llewellyn, Missoula Mont.; Airman 2.C. Daniel C. Schmidt, Boise Idaho.

The 11 were the last of 15 United States airmen admittedly held by Red China.

Four others, all Korean War veterans, were ordered "deported" and released by Red China last May 31.

They were Lt. Col. Edwin L. Heller, Wynnewood, Pa.; Lt. Roland W. Parks, Omaha, Neb.; Lt. Lyle W. Cameron Lincoln Neb. and Capt. Harold E. Fischer of Swea City, Iowa.

No Mention of Others

The action by Communist China followed a mildly-worded foreign policy broadcast on Saturday by Red China's Uremier and Foriegn Minister Chou En-lai.

No mention was made by the broadcast of the status of 40 American civilians who are detained in Red China and whose status is to be discussed in the negotiations opening today in Geneva.

However, Red China in a broadcast last week indicated release of the civilians would be a simple matter.

The 11 men released today were the principals in a case that had provoked the wrath of the United States and raised a storm in the U.S. Congress.

The 11 were crewmen of an American B29 Superfortress shot down near Antung, Manchuria, while on a leaflet dropping mission Jan. 13, 1953, near the end of the Korean War.

Antung is just across the Yalu Riiver from Korea and at the northwest corner of the Mig Alley aerial battleground where U.S. Air Force and Soviet-built jets clashed repeatedly during the war.

Red China charged that the downed plane and its airmen were on an espionage mission over Red China and could not therefore, be treated as war prisoners.

The United States said the airplane was on a routine Korean War mission and that the 11 crewmen should have been treated as war prisoners and returned home in the prisoner repatriation that followed the Korean armistice. The U.S. position was that the plane was probably hit over North Korea and glided down across the river.

The 11 airmen were prosecuted and convicted amid heavy propagand trappings, including alleged confessions broadcast to the world.

President Hails Release

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today hailed the release of 11 U.S. airmen by Communist China and promised them "speedy reunion" with their families.

Mr. Eisenhower said this country "extends thanks to all who have contributed to this humanitarian result."

The President's statement was read to reporters by White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty.

Chairman Walter F. George (D-Ga) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and other congressional leaders also expressed delight at the news.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif), who has frequently demanded stern steps to secure release of the airmen, said "the American people will welcome home the 11 American airmen not as pardoned criminals as stated by Peiping Radio but as honored members of the Air Force who have been illegally held in violation of the terms of the Korean armistice."

However, Knowland told reporters, "this is not the solution to all the problems by any means." He said Red China is still holding at least 40 American civilians plus "an undetermined number of others that there is strong reason to believe are being held."

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in a impromptu remark before a State Department refugee meeting said the airmen "are being released today."

Dulles declined comment on the action, referring reporters to the White House statement.

Chicago White Sox Roar Into August Stretch With Best Lead Yet, Schedule Advantage

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox roared into the August stretch run today with their best lead yet and with a definite schedule advantage the rest of the way, because they have more games with the American League's three "weakling" teams than any of the other contenders.

By the same token, they have fewer games to play with the teams battling for the flag. From now on they have only four more games with the Yankees, six with the Indians, seven with the Red Sox, and nine with the Tigers for a total of 26. But they have 27 to go with the lowly outfits, 12 with the sixth place Athletics, 5 with the seventh place Senators and 10 with the eighth place Orioles.

The Yankees have a rougher row to hoe with 32 games against the contenders and only 19 against the lesser lights. They have 8 more with the Indians, 12 with the Red Sox and 8 with the Tigers. But they have only 4 more with Kansas City, 6 with Washington and 9 with Baltimore.

Cleveland has 30 more with the contenders, 12 with the Tigers and 4 with the Red Sox and 21 with the also-rans, 9 with Kansas City, 8 with Washington, and 4 with Baltimore.

Detroit Has Toughest Schedule

The Red Sox have to contend with the contenders 29 times, 6 with the Tigers in addition to the others. They also have 22 with the "cousins," 7 with K. C., 9 with Washington and 6 with Baltimore. Detroit has the toughest future of all with 35 games against contenders and only 17 with softies, 6 with K. C., 7 with Washington and 4 with Baltimore.

The White Sox, even though they have lost their ace, Dick Donovan, for a month with appendicitis while the Indians acquired Sal Maglie and the Yankees brought back Don Larsen, thus are not in a bad spot. They came through splendidly by winning, 3-1, in 11 innings and 6-5 at Washington. Trailing 1-0 in the opener they tied the score in the eighth when catcher Ed Fitzgerald dropped a third strike for what would have been the third out and Jim Rivera scored from third. With the bases loaded, pitcher Pedro Ramos hit George Kell with a pitch then walked Rivera to force home two runs in the 11th. Jack Harshman, filling in for Donovan, pitched a two-hitter for his seventh victory.

In the second game Rivera collected four hits to pace the White Sox. Washington rallied for two runs in the ninth but a fine relay play, Rivera to Nellie Fox to Sherm Lollar nipped the tying run at the plate.

Welcome Home Party

Hank Bauer, Micey Mantle, and Yogi Berra staked Sarsen to a welcome home party with first inning homers in a 5-2 Yankee victory over the A's, but the Kansas Citians bounced back with a 7-1 second gam triumph. Trailing 1-0 in the second game, Gus Zernial bopped a two-run homer in the eighth and the Athletics piled on five more with a barrage of singles in the ninth.

The oncoming fourth place Red Sox were the only other contenders to show a profit, beating Detroit, 8-3 and 3-2. In the opener Ted Williams' grand slam homer helped Frank Sullivan to his 14th victory, a four-hitter. Bonus baby Frank from Army chores twirled the second victory, scattering 11 hits and leaving 12 Detroiters on base. Jim Piersall's ninth inning homer broke that one up.

Cleveland licked Baltimore 6-0 on Art Houteman's six-hitter after the Orioles rallied for four runs in the eighth to win the opener, 4-3. The Indians kicked in with a triple play to help Houtteman to his triumph. Rookie Bob Hale's key single drove home the winning run in the opener for Baltimore.

Newcombe Wins 18th

Don Newcombe won his 18th game against one loss, a five-hitter while the Dodgers pounded out 14 in an 11-2 triumph at St. Louis. Roy Campanella had four hits including his 3rd homer.

The Giants ended Milwaukee's six-game winning streak with a 7-3 triumph in which Willie Mays hit his 33rd homer. Jim Hearn struck Joe Adcock with a pitch and broke his arm, putting him out of action at least a month. Del Crandall and George Crowe hit Milwaukee homers.

Ted Kluszewski tied Duke Snider for the major league home run lead with his 35th homer as Cincinnati won a pair from Pittsburgh, 7-4 and 6-5.

In the opener Joe Black won his fifth game despite two homers by Dale Long and one by Toby Atwell.

The Cubs came out of the doldrums by defeating the Phils, 7-1 and 6-5. Warren Hacker pitched a five-hitter for his 10th victory in the opener. Ernie Banks hit his 31st homer off loser Robin Roberts. In the second game Dee Fondy drove in three runs with a double and homer and earlier Jim King hit a three-run homer.

Sentiment Strong To Change PGA Antiquated Rule

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NORTHVILLE, Mich. (UP) — Sentiment is strong today to change an antiquated rule which makes a mockery of the PGA Golf Tournament.

Eight of golf's 20 money-winners weren't even on the scene at Meadowbrook Country Club as Doug Ford won the PGA championship. They were barred by an ancient rule that entrants must have been professionals for five years.

But at long last the growing feeling among the pros is that the rule is passe and should be changed for the benefit of the paying public as well as for the good of the rich PGA tournament.

"Name" Players Barred

The unfortunate eight included Mike Souchak, the year's second leading money-winner; Gene Littler, touted as the coming king of the game; Bob Rosburg, Billy Maxwell, Dow Finsterwald, Bo Wininger, Bud Holscher and Dick Mayer. Because of an outdated rule they had to sit this one out, and the tournament stupidly lost the attraction of their "names."

A number of others have suffered in the past because of this ruling inserted originally to protect the veteran pros against the "fly-by-nights."

Previous victims were such as Cary Middlecoff, Lawson Little and Julius Boros. They won the U.S. Open and still were forced to sit out the PGA merely because they hadn't been professionals for five years. The PGA tournament thus lost the lure of presenting the new Open champion and the individuals were prevented from shooting for "doubles."

The five-year rule is a hangover from the old days when there were only a few lucrative tournaments and the veterans jealously cut up the swag at hand. They didn't want the "fly-by-nights" stepping in and making off with the loot.

Outgrew Clubmaker's Rule

Another factor then was that, in the old days, to be a true golf professional a man had to be able to make clubs. Thus it was essential that the newcomers learn to make shafts and put the clubs together. Five years' apprenticeship was deemed highly necessary.

But these days there is no such necessity. Nobody makes clubs anymore. It is a factory proposition.

The new suggestion is that the U.S. Open and Masters champions as well as the top 30 money-winners be permitted to play in the PGA as well as any players, passed by the tournament committee, who have played a majority of the year's tournaments.

Certainly it's about time the PGA got on the ball and gave the young fellows a break. They, after all, are the future stars of the game and they'd be a terrific asset, not a hindrance.

Tam O'Shanter Tourney Begins

CHICAGO (UP) — Non-exempt players in three phases of Tam O'Shanter's annual "All American" golf tournament begin play today with qualifying rounds for men and women amateurs and women professionals.

More than 600 golfers were entered in the event, with 5 daily rounds of 18 holes to settle the championship and distribution of the purses of $25,000 for men pros, $5,000 for women pro sand $1,350 in merchandise for both amateur sections.

Women pros play today with the 12 low scorers joining the same number of exempt players in the tournament. Men amateurs play for 17 positions with seven exemptions and women amateurs for eight places with eight exemptions.

Henry Ransom Pulls Ahead To Cop First Money

AKRON, Ohio (UP) —The subpar efforts of six top pros failed Sunday to stop Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill., who pulled ahead of three others in a sudden death playoff to cop first money in the Rubber City Open golf tournament here.

Ransom, Jackson Bradley of Houston, Tex., and Jack Burke Burke and Doug Ford of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., all finished the 72-hole grind knotted at 272 strokes.

But Ransom sank a 12-foot put to birdie the par-four, 375-yard first hole of the playoff and win $2,400. Ford, Burke and Bradley each copped $1,467 in sharing second money. Burke's effort was conceded the toughest. He needed — and picked up—seven strokes to be in contention.

The par-72 Firestone Country Club course had been "toughened" for the tourney, which featured most of the regulars of the tournament circuit.

Ransom, leading after the third round, saw his advantage fade. Ford, newly crowned PGA champ seeking his second tournament victory of the year, pulled ahead of Ransom at the end of nine and held on until Ransom birdied the deciding hole.

Ransom had a 201 at the end of play Saturday and was two strokes up on Ford. But Ford carded a 33 o nthe first nine of the final round for a 236 while Ransom had a 36 for a 237.

Tightening his game to the limit, Ransom managed to even with Ford while Bradley and Burke came along, forcing the four-way tie and playoff.

Ransom, Burke, Ford, Bradley, Jerry Barber of Los Angeles, Dutch Harrison of St. Louis, and Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, Ohio, all finished the 72-hole grind without firing an over-par round.

Harrison and Burke tied on the "toughened" course and came up with 31's on the front nine for the lowest nine-hole totals of the event. And Al Mengert of Mamaronek, N. Y., who ended in a six-way tie for ninth money, carded a 64 on the final round for the lowest 18-hole total of the tourney—eight under par.

FUTURE PLANNED

PORTLAND, Me. — (UP) — Edward S. Hall, 92, who has been a printer for 72 years, doesn't plan to retire until he is 102. So he's had to buy a new press for his printshop.

Harness Racing Indubitably In Big-Time Status

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) —There's a man who has one of the favorites for Wednesday's Hambletonian, the Kentucky Derby of trotting, who is living proof that harness racing indubitably has reached big-time status.

He is 31-year-old Bill Haughton, who hopes to score in the big one at Goshen with a young trotter named Galophone. And, in a sport where the old-timers once dominated the driving end, the young husky from Fultonville, N. Y., has been a sensation.

Which serves to substantiate harness racing's claims to being a big business.

As example, Haughton in this, his seventh year on the big time, will run his earnings to better than two million dollars. And if that doesn't sound like much (is he kidding?) just bear in mind that in roughly 60 years as one of flat racing's leading trainers, ancient Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons has won "only" nine million dollars.

Leads In Earnings

Haughton led the world's harness racing drivers in earnings through each of the last three years, setting a world record of $374,527 in 1953 and breaking it with $415,577 last year. He also was first in number of victories with 116 in 1953 and set a world record with 153 last year. He threatens to surpass both those marks again in 1955.

Which is, in a way, the payoff on enthusiasm. Because Haughton never wanted to do anything except be a harness driver for almost as long as he can remember.

When he was 8 years old his parents gave him a pony with a two-wheeled basket cart. Young Billy hacked off the basket and came up with a home-made sulky by nailing a board across the shafts for a seat and tacking two right angle shelf brackets on for stirrups. Two years later they gave him a bigger pony and a second-hand sulky.

Haughton from then on was on his way. He studied animal husbandry at Cobleskill College and worked in the summers first as a flat jockey at the Fonda Fairgrounds and later, when he became too heavy, as a groom.

Builds One Of Top Stables

Now he has built one of the top stables, training some 70 head. These include Galophone; Quick Chief, favorite for the Little Brown Jug pace at Delaware, Ohio, in September; Faber Hanover, one of the outstanding free-for-all trotters, and Wilmington Star, a top free-for-all pacer.

For each horse in his charge he receives $100 a month as well as 10 per cent of the horse's earnings. This necessitates a large staff, so trainer-driver Bill has a bookkeeper, an accountant, two assistant trainers and a groom for each two horses in the stable. Bill has them spotted at various tracks and himself jumps from Indianapolis to Sedalia, Mo., to Springfield and Du Quoin, Ill., to Delaware, Ohio, Lexington, Ky., Reading, Pa., or the New York tracks, wherever the action is hottest—and most lucrative.

His philosophy is simple: "The day you start loafing the other guy will win 'em all."

As the records show, Bill never seems to take a day off.

Braves' Pennant Hopes Take Dive

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP) —Any faint pennant hopes held by the Milwaukee Braves took a nose dive today with the loss of Joe Adcock for probably the rest of the season.

The strapping first baseman suffered a fractured right forearm Sunday when New York Giants pitcher Jim Hearn hit him with a 1-1 pitch in the second inning.

Adcock was taken to Milwaukee Hospital where X-rays revealed the fracture and a cast was applied. Braves trainer Dr. Charles Lacks said Adcock would have to wear the cast for "four or five weeks," and probably couldn't get back into shape in time to join the club.

Dr. Albert Schmidt, who set the fractured bone, said Adcock would "definitely be out of action the remainder of the season."

Pat Lesser Wins Over Carol Diringer

CHICAGO (UP) —Pat Lesser, a senior at Seattle University, has already graduated from one tough course, the 55th Women's Western Amateur golf tournament.

The 21-year-old lass whipped Carol Diringer, 29-year-old Tiffin, Ohio, secretary, 7 and 6 to win the title at sun-baked Olympia Fields Saturday.

Miss Lesser won the first seven holes behind a scorching putter and coasted the rest of the way.

Her best previous was a semi-final defeat at Los Angeles in 1952. Miss Diringer lost once before in the finals.

Collinwood Guernsey Produces 614 Pounds Of Butterfat

PETERBOROUGH, N.H. — A registered Guernsey cow, Russ-Glo Slogan's Betty, owned by M. U. & R. L. Holden, Collinwood Farm, has produced 12,502 pounds of milk and 614 pounds of fat in her last lactation. This production represents approximately 6047 quarts of high-quality milk. This is according to the official Herd Improvement Registry record released by the American Gurnsey Cattle Club. "Betty," a senior three year-old was milked two times daily during the 365 days she was on test, and met calving requirements. As a two-year-old, she produced 513 pounds of butterfat.

This record was supervised by Purdue University.

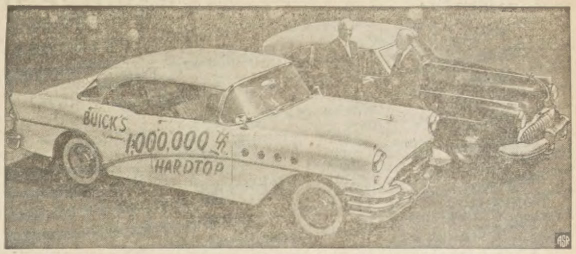
Buick Builds 1,000,000th Hardtop



Ivan L. Wiles, left, general manager of Buick and vice-president of General Motors, congratulates Edward T. Ragsdale, general manufacturing manager, on the production of Buick's 1,000,000th hardtop. Buick, which pioneered the hardtop styling in 1949, was the first manufacturer in the industry to reach the million mark. The 1,000,000th model was a four-door version which Buick introduced this spring. It is shown with the original two-door hardtop.

LAFAYETTE — "Don't make the mistake of forgetting the storage battery on farm power units this summer," warns C. L. Hill, extension agricultural engineer at Purdue University.

Although winter is commonly thought of as the season for battery failure, statistics show that more replacement batteries are bought in the summer.

One common occurrence is that the water level in the cells is lowered rapidly by hot weather with a consequent failure of the battery. Dust and dirt, as shown on the battery in the above picture, are a source of trouble and should be removed frequently during summer months.

All connections of the ignition system on the tractor should be bright and tightly fastened to insure good tractor performance and proper charging of the battery while operating, according to Hill.

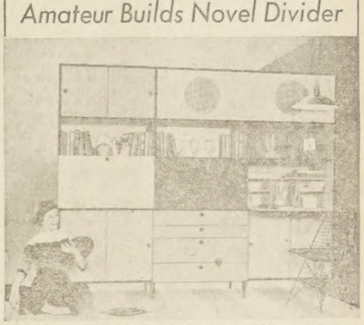
ENTERTAINMENT CENTER

Amateur Builds Novel Divider



This glamorous entertainment center and room divider was built by an amateur craftsman at a cost under $75 for material. Using framework construction covered with Masonite hardboards, he created a colorful device having a high fidelity recording unit and amplifiers, bar (over girl's head), desk, record and game storage behind sliding hardboard doors and drawers for linen storage. "Peg-Board" panels cover the other side, facing the dining room. The perforated panels are used for hanging works of art. The entertainment center is colorfully painted in two shades of yellow, three of blue, two of tan, one of red.

HE HAS A SWELL HEAD—With heads together are 5-year-old Charles Enochs and a 13¼-pound cabbage. The giant head was grown by Charles' Columbia, Mo., neighbor, N. B. Proffer, a high school teacher.

Church Rites To Be Held Tuesday For Mrs. Lelia Geiger

Noble County Woman Dies Sunday Morning

Mrs. Lelia N. Geiger, 51, died at her home in Green township, Noble County, eight miles northwest of Churubusco, at 12:45 Sunday morning. She had been in failing health for the last three and one-half years, and since last December had been bedfast most of the time. Her death was attributed to carcinoma.

Mrs. Geiger was a native of Wilshire township, VanWert county, Ohio, and was born June 14, 1094, a daughter of Orla and Nettie I. Hartzog Shlater. In the year 1920, she was united in marriage to Orlando Geiger. They spent their married life in Green township and for the past eleven years have been on the same farm at Green Center. She was a member of the Charter [illegible]k Grove.

The surviving relatives, in addition to her husband, include one son, Robert C. L. Geiger, Fort Wayne; one daughter, Mrs. Ray Boggs, Jefferson township, Noble County; two grandchildren, Vickie Sue and Mark Allen Boggs; her father, Orla Shlater, Churubusco; one brother, Bud Shlater, Churubusco; two sisters, Mrs. Berniece Guiff, Noble County; and Mrs. Idora Mowrey, Fort Wayne. She was preceded in death by her mother, and two sisters.

The body, taken to the Sonday Funeral Home, has been returned t othe family residence where friends may call until noon Tuesday, when it will be taken to the Green Center EUB Church to lie in state until the hour of the service. The church pastor, the Rev. Harry Huffman, will officiate at the rites to be held at 2 o'clock. Committal services and burial will be in Eel River Cemetery south of Churubusco.

Rites Held Today In Huntington For Former Local Man

Thaddeus L. Clark. Was Native Of County

Funeral services were held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Briggs Funeral Home in Huntington for Thaddeus L. Clark, 83, former resident of Columbia City. Burial was held in Mt. Hope cemetery in Huntington.

Death occurred at his residence in Huntington after three years of failing health.

He was born in Whitley county and was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Clark; North Main street residents at one time.

His wife survives, also a son, Harlan of Huntington and a daughter. Mrs. Waneta Chenoweth of LaGrange. A sister, the former Irma Clark of this city, now Mrs. Homer Cox of Battle Creek, Mich., six grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren also survive.

Mr. Clark had been a resident of Huntington since 1905. He was in the real estate business for many years. Lee Aker of near this city is a nephew of Mr. Clark.

Kiwanis And Rotary Members Take Boys To Baseball Games

About one hundred fifty boys from the Columbia City leagues saw the Chicago Cubs defeat the New York Giants, 4-2 and 9-8 in a National League double header game at Chicago last Wednesday.

The boys saw Dusty Rhodes grand slam home run making the score 8 to 4 and appreciated Willie Mays two consecutive home runs in the second game.

The group left Columbia City about 8 o'clock and had seats in the shade in the grandstand. Some groups returned by the airport and some by the parks.

Transportation was in charge of Forrest Crr, and was furnished by members of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs. Names of drivers supplied by Mr. Orr and Roy Kilby included the following: Raymond Fleck, Thomas Ford Sales car by Delbert Ballard, Scott Holderbaum, Dale Pence, Ira Webber, Robert Shook, L. D. Leeka, Joe Pittinger, Homer Pully, Roy Kilby;

Rex Grable, Ted Pequignot, Royal Clapp, Carl Loxley, Willard Phillips, Herschel King, Paul Martin, Garland Stickler, Dale Gamble and Edwin Heupel.

Two From County Enter Chicken Of Tomorrow Contest

INDIANAPOLIS — One hundred and sixty-three entries have been made in the Indiana Junior Chicken of Tomorrow contest by 163 poultry minded boys and girls in 33 counties. Contestants from Whitley county are Jerry McCoy, R. 2, Churubusco, and Dick H. Richards, South Whitley.

The contest, according to R. L. Hogue, Purdue Extension poultryman, is designed to encourage youngsters in 4-H and vocational work to raise broilers to market weight in the shortest possible time on the least amount of feed.

Working in close cooperation with their local hatcherymen, vocational teachers, county agents and 4-H leaders, the Chicken of Tomorrow contestants start at least 100 chicks. The birds were housed the week of June 13 and will be fed 10 weeks. On August 29 each contestant will take 6 of the best birds in the flock to Indianapolis where they will be dressed and judged.

The top 3 birds from the best 20 entries in each of the sections: north, central and southern—will be on display at the Indiana State Fair, August 31 through September 9.

. The Fair Board is offering $450 in prizes and the Indiana Poultry Association Inc. will award appropriate prizes to the top contenders. The Indiana Poultry Processors Association will give a trophy to the champion exhibit.

The dressed birds will be on display in the north-east corner of the poultry buildnig during the fair, in three modern eleven-foot sub zero refrigerator display units, according to Michael Meyer, Jr., director of the Poultry building.

The coolers are being furnished by F. D. Gardner Refrigerator Inc. of Indianapolis.

"Girl Crazy" To Be Presented At Franke Open Air Theater

Director Douglas Conway said today: "Girl Crazy" gives promise of being our best show of the season. It has one of the most 'willing' casts I've ever met. They not only know how to work, but they want to work, too, and that's what makes 'good theater'."

What Mr. Conway was referring to is the current Festival Music Theater production—"Girl Crazy" —written by the immortal George Gershwin. This laugh-filled, tune-packed musical comedy holds forth on the stage of the Open Air Theater in Franke Park, Fort Wayne, August 4—7.

The show contains 17 of Gershwin's greatest hits, including "I've Got Rhythm," "Embraceable You," "Lady Be Good,' "Somebody Loves Me," and "Bidin' My Time.'

Mollohan Says Swing's Plan Could Develop Trouble

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Robert H. Mollohan (D-W.Va) said today the U.S. Immigration Service under Lt. Gen. Joseph M. Swing is "secretly plotting a barrier of bayonets along our borders."

Mollohan, chairman of a House government operations subcommittee investigating Swing's administration of the agency, said the secret plan "reeks of military planning and operation and, if not stopped, could develop into trouble."

Mollohan, in a seech prepared for House delivery, also attacked Swing for "a continued and contemptuous effort to thwart the will of Congress and to circumvent the law" by hiring two other retired generals as $50-a-day "consultants."

Mollohan disclosed a report of an investigation by Chairman Phillip Young of the two generals—Brig. Gen. Edwin B. Howard and Maj. Gen. Frank H. Partridge. Mollohan said Young's report showed that Howard and Partridge were actually helping to run the Immigration Service and not acting merely as "consultants" as the law requires.

The secret border patrol plan, Mollohan said, involves recruitment of about 8,000 "volunteer patrol inspectors" and the purchase of jeeps, trucks, airplanes, rifles revolvers submachine guns, ammunition roadblock signs and flares.

Mollohan said he was disclosing the secret plan "as a thoroughly disquieting example of what happens when we permit the militaristic mind to dominate the operations and functions of civil government."

Segni rejected charges that Italy had failed to live up to its postwar agreement with Austria on the treatment of the German-speaking minority in the Italian south Tyrol. He said "I think few minorities in the world have such liberal treatment as the 214,000 Germen-speaking Italians."

While holding a position with the law firm of Draper, Davis and Hollister at Duluth, Minn., she was called home on account of the health of her mother. Later she became associated with the law office of Marshall, McNagny and Clugston in this city where she was employed for seven years.

Mrs. Brenneman took a position as secretary to Harry T. Yoder, County Superintendent of Schools in 1939, resigning that position in July 1952.

Her marriage to Dr. John Forrest Brenneman, a dentist in Columbia City, occurred August 1, 1901. Dr. Brenneman died October 12, 1938. Her only immediate survivor is her daughter, Helen, now Mrs. James F. Burke of Forrest Hills, N.Y., who has been located in New York since 1935 and is now executive director of the Planned Parenthood Committee of Mothers Health Centers. Also surviving is a granddaughter, Miss Sheila Burke, who was graduated this year from Forrest Hills High School.

Friends are being received at the Smith Funeral Home where memorial services will be held Tuesday morning at 10:30, the Rev. Robert W. Crosby officiating. Burial will be in South Park cemetery.

Honeymoon Plans Postponed Pending Congress Adjournment

WASHINGTON UP) — Rep. Usher L. Burdick (R-ND) and his bride the former Mrs. Edna Sierson, of Newton, N.H., a congressional secretary, postponed honeymoon plans today pending adjorunment of Congress.

They were wed Sunday at the Sixth Presbyteriian Church.

The 76-year-old congressman and his 45-year-old bride planned to go to Burdick's Williston. N.D. ranch "if we ever get this congressional session over with."

Burdicik said he met his bride, formerly of Haverhill, Mass., "around the Capitol.' Mrs. Burdicik, a widow and former "Welcome Wagon' hostess, has been employed on the secretarial staff of Rep. William H. Bates (R-Mass)

Burdick was divorced 35 years ago from his first wiife. He was married again a few years later but that marriage wa short and also ended in divorce.

Russian Farmers Head Happily For Cowboyland

By CHARLES WIESER
United Press Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Neb. (UP) The visiting Russian farm experts headed happily for the wide open spaces of Cowboyland today.

After two weeks of touring the broiling farmlands of Iowa and Nebraska, the 12 Russians appeared delighted to move into the South Dakota plains.

Three of the visitors warmed up to western life Sunday by playing cowboy in western Nebraska's sandhills. They donned 10-gallon hats, took turns riding a horse, and boisterously tossed a bathiing beauty into a pool.

The rest of the Russians said goodbye to the corn country today and all 12 headed for Yankton, S.D.

There was also a chance that a side trip might be arranged to the Keeline Ranch in Wyoming. It is one of the nation's largest and is also rich in uranium ore.

Delegation Leader Vladimir Matskevich and two other Russians behaved like boys let out of school on Sunday's trip to the Nebraska cow country.

They left the nine ther tourists trying to beat the heat in their air-cooled Omaha hotel rooms as the mercury mounted to 107 degrees.

Andrei Shevchenko chose a more dramatic way of cooling off as the three Russians toured farms around Valentine, Neb.

He spotted a 2,000-acre lake and announced "I'd like to take a swim.'

The motor caravan stopped, Shevchenko stripped to his shorts, and jumped in.

Later he and John Strohm, American coordinator of the tour, started teasing 20-year-old Lou Ann Ross at a Fremont, Neb., picnic.

Shevehenko wanted to know whether the girl looked as good in her bathing suit inside the water as she did at the edge of a swimming pool.

When Miss Ross declined a dare to dive into the pool, Shevchenko and Strohm tossed her in.

The full party of Russians came to Columbus today for a tour of irrigation sites and inspection of several manufacturing companies. Earlier, they toured the University of Nebraska tractor testing laboratory.

Postpone Strike On Taft-Hartley Law Technicality

NEW YORK (UP) — A Taft-Hartley law technicality today held off a strike by truck drivers which threatened to cut off the milk supply of some 12 million consumers in the New York area.

Samuel Gelman, chairman of the negotiating committee for 15 locals of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, AFL, announced in Poughkeepsie, N.Y. that the strike had been postponed shortly before the midnight deadline.

Gelman also said talks with the Dairy Transport Association, representing 23 companies operating milk trucks between farms and city dairies had been suspended with no agreement reached.

The Taft-Hartley law requires that a union give 30 days notice of an intended strike to federal and state mediation services. The 15 locals did not give such notice until July 14. They would not be legally free to stage a walkout until Aug. 14.

The unions said they might strike at "any time after tonight" and refused to assure company representatives that "cargo in transit would be delivered in any such event."

Mayor Robert Wagner called a meeting today with both groups to provide for distribution of milk to hspitals and other institutions in the event of a strike. The meeting also will be attended by city health officials.

Truckers' Counsel Robert E. Jones said the unions rejected the companys' wage offers and said talks "would resume only at the associations request or by direction of governmental authority."

Tropical Storm Roars Toward Mississippi Delta

Second Major One Of The Year

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—The second major tropical storm of the year roared toward the Mississippi delta today at near - hurricane force.

The storm, code-named Brenda, howled across the Gulf of Mexico in an apparent west-northwesterly direction toward the Louisiana coast. The U.S. Weather Bureau expected the storm to grow slowly in size and intensity.

The Weather Bureau in a midnight advisory located the storm center, packing winds of 50 to 60 miles per hour, in the Gulf about 90 miles southeast of Burrwood, La., on the tip of the delta.

Gales swept outward from the center for 80 to 100 miles.

The apparent course would carry the center just south of the Mississippi River mouth.

Winds and tides along the Louisiana and upper Texas coast were expected to spread the storm's punch. Storm warnings were hoisted from the river mouth to Galveston, Tex., and small craft warnings were raised from Mobile, Ala., to Brownsville, Tex.

The storm was first spotted Sunday night at a point 100 miles southeast of Burrwood.

Brenda is the first major tropical disturbance to be spotted in the hurricane - spawning waters since the summer "season' began but a first hurricane occurred off-season in the Atlantic last January.

Indiana University Reports Findings In Television Survey

BLOOMINGTON — If a group of Indianapolis parents questioned in an Indiana University television survey had their way, such programs as "My Little Margie," "Corliss Archer," "Our Miss Brooks," "Robert Cummings Show" and the "George Boebel Show" would be scheduled much earlier in the evening.

Confirming that the hours of 6 to 9 p.m. are the favorite watching times of youngsters, the parents argue that these programs would be better juvenile fare than "Climax," "Dragnet," "Suspense."

The networks are doing a pretty good job of providing programs of value and interest to children, the survey reported—it's just that the scheduling is wrong, and until that can be corrected, a firm adult hand on the "on" and "off" knob of the TV set is what is needed.

The survey, answered by 361 parents of first to fourth graders, in five Indianapolis schools, was conducted by Miss Negia Gilpin of the I.U. Radio and Television Service with the assistance of Miss Betty Barth, radio-television consultant of the Indianapolis public

Among Miss Gilpin's findings were:

11. The amount of time a family spends in front of the TV set is related to the family's income-the lower the scale the more hours a day the set is turned on.

2. First to fourth graders watch TV more during the first half of the evening (6 to 9 p.m.) than at any other time in the day.

3. Cartoon programs and "westerns" rank first with the youngsters, while science and instructional children's programs are relatively unpopular.

4. Many of the parents consider light adult comedy equally as beneficial for children as the special juvenile shows.

5. While they condemned "crime-mystery-violence" shows, a good percentage of the parents praised "westerns" as juvenile fare.

Although the Jackie Gleason program ranks as the tops nationally, some parents wondered if it gave children the right impression of married life. "All that shouting, ranting and raving is totally-unnecessary and uncalled for..."

Another thought Arthur Godfrey's "cynical and sarcastic attitude toward everything in general is much too prevelant these days."

Still another parent commented that "Programs containing excess killing, torrid romances, fighting, crime and tension, and scantily-clad chorus girls and women are rapidly changing our young one's sense of values."

Michigan State University Plans On 500,000 Visitors

By WILLIAM T. McGRAW
United Press Staff Correspondent

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UP)—Michigan State University, celebrating its centennial year, plans to entertain 500,000 visitors at its giant Agricultural Worlds Fair, Aug. 15-20.

Featured guests at the formal opening will include 14 Russian farmers, who are touring the nation for a first-hand look at American farming methods.

Thecentennial of farm mechanization on the MSU campus will feature more than 600 exhibits of farm machinery and buildings, valued at 20 million dollars, university officials said.

Five indoor displays and huge outdoor exhibitions will cover about 100 acres of the nation's first land grant agricultural institution.

Visitors to the farm festival will see farm machinery of the past, present and future — everything from cast iron plows dating back to 1797 to the latest developments in tractors equipped with two-way radios and "electric eyes."

Some of the ancient farm machines on display will include the first combined harvester and thresher, invented by two Kalamazoo farmers in 1836 and the first tractor with reverse drive, perfected in 1902 by John Deere.

Ultra-modern farm implements will be demonstrated, including a corn planter which opens the beds, plants the seed and places fertilizer—all in a single operation.

Automation on the farm also will be exhibited by mechanical peanut harvesters, self-propelled one-man combines and a machine which pulls, tops and loads sugar beets.

Many of the farm machines of tomorrow feature electronic safety devices designed to prevent costly and dangerous farm accidents.

Of interest to women will be home equipment exhibits which trace the development of kitchens, sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, home lighting and other domestic equipment from 1855 to the present.

Cool Water

PERU, Ill. (UP)— City authorities reported today water in the municipal swimming pool became so hot after bathers crowded in to escape the heat that they dumped in a ton of ice.

Lewis

has brought land to more than half a million persons, 8ill pass a milestone this year.

Here is what he reported on his plans:

Ten Year Plan: "My government has accepted the 10-year plan for increasing employment and the national income-the Vanoni plan-as the basis for its economic policy. The plan revolves around the coordination of private enterprise and state enterprise.

Land Reform: "After four years of land reform, the 100,000th family of landless peasants will receive a farm this year.

"The policy which led to these results in the most backward regions will be pressed forward strongly. In addition, we intend to new wage contract demands this year.

But representatives of the soft coal industry and of steel producers who own their own coal mines say they fear the pickup in coal production this year may draw Lewis out of his three-year silence on wage contract matters.

They speculate that he may demand either a wage hike equivalent to the steel and auto industry wage contract settlements — 15 to 20 cents an hour — or a shorter work day for his miners. There is also some thought that he might ask an increase in the royalty of 40 cents per ton that finances the UMW soft coal welfare and pension fund.

Reduce Eight-Hour Workday

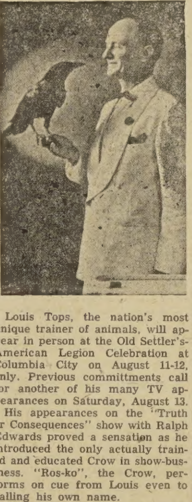
Some observers are inclined to bet on a demand to reduce the soft coal miners eight-hour workday without any reduction in daily pay. Miners' wages still rank with steel and auto wages. The shorter work day would help spread out available work in the industry. Unemployment is still high and union officials estimate the average soft coal miner works only 3½ days a week.

Lewis has kept his long silence on wage contract matters presumably because of the depression in the coal industry.

In the antracite coal industry, union officials say, unemployment is still running about 65 per cent.

But soft coal production has started up again in the wake of the big boost in steel production this year plus expansion in the power industry, both of which use coal.

Famed Animal Trainer Here Two Days, August 11-12



Louis Tops, the nation's most unique trainer of animals, will appear in person at the Old Settler's-American Legion Celebration at Columbia City on August 11-12, only. Previous committments call for another of his many TV appearances on Saturday, August 13.

His appearances on the "Truth or Consequences" show with Ralph Edwards proved a sensation as he introduced the only actually trained and educated Crow in show-business. "Ros-ko", the Crow, performs on cue from Louis even to calling his own name.

Too, Louis Tops, presents "Mickey," a trained monkey that provides a world of laughs for young and old.

You must see this amazing attraction to believe what patience and understanding can do with animals. Remember, only two days for this feature—August 11-12.

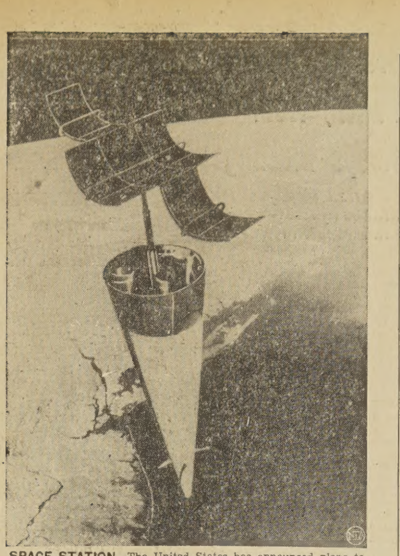
Red China Reported To Have Proposed Neutral Third Power



SPACE STATION—The United States has announced plans to launch small, unmanned earth-satellites which will circle the earth. The announcement, made in Washington, says they will rotate at an altitude of between 200 and 300 miles at a speed of 18,000 miles per hour. Talbott Resigns; Strategists Say Case Will Not Harm GOP IN 1956

By HERBERT FOSTER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—A leading Republican political strategist said today the Harold E. Talbott case will not harm the GOP in the 1956 election.

Talbott resigned as Air Force secretary Monday night in the wake of a Senate investigation of the $60,000-a-year private business partnership he retained while holding his Pentagon post.

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater (R-Ariz), chairman of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said Talbott's resignation could hardly be made into a political issue because of "the absence of criminal intent" in Talbott's actions on behalf of his firm.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD) said Talbott made errors in judgment and added that his resignation shows that President Eisenhower had installed a "new standard of ethics and propriety" in government.

Administration sources said flatly that President Eisenhower, who accepted the resignation effective Aug. 13, did not ask Talbott for it.

No Decision On Successor

The White House said there had been no decision on Talbot's successor.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark), chairman of the Senate Investigating subcommittee, said the group's inquiry into Talbott's relations with his firm had been "satisfactorily resolved."

McClellan said the subcommittee soon would consider a report—which he said should be brief and unanimous—on the Talbott case. Mundt suggested that the subcommittee act this week if it write a report at all.

Mr. Eisenhower accepted the resignation in a letter telling Talbott he made the right decision under the circumstances. But the President told the departing secre-

Local Students Have Scholarships At Ball State

More than 500 of the students attending Ball State Teachers College during the 155-56 college year will have assistance from scholarship funds of one kind or another, according to a list of such awards prepared this week by Robert Primmer, coordinator of the college's student aids and scholarships program.

The following area students have 1955-56 state scholarships at Ball State Teachers College:

Martha A. Chapman, sophomore; Earlene Kniss, senior and Sally McKinney, freshman; Columbia City.

Jane Lynn Harley, and Daniel Harshman, freshmen, South Whitley.

Robert Baker and Barbara R. Bowman, freshmen, Pierceton.

The scholarships are provided by college operated funds or through the generosity of individuals or organizations helping young Hoosiers become Indiana teachers. Most scholarships available have been awarded; however, some still will be made available late in the summer.

The 1955-56 college year gets underway September 6 when campus housing facilities become avail-September 7 in orientation activities. Registration is September 8.

Scholarship funds administered by Ball State officials include:

A total of 184 scholarships are authorized by the State of Indiana for freshmen students, ranging from two to six per county. These scholarships are renewable by upperclassmen.

Children of veterans disabled in the world wars or the Korean conflict, or of veterans suffering from disabilities suffered in those wars, may also enroll without paying the contingent fee providing they have lived in Indiana for at least five years.

Information concerning the programs may be obtained from the Director of Scholarships.

Commissioners Name $8,000 For Marking Roads

Rotary Group Appears; Several Neighborhood Areas Endorse Plan

The Whitley County Commissioners decided to place $8,000 in the 1956 budget for marking of county roads as they began their second day of meeting Tuesday morning.

The decision was made following the appearance at the meeting of a committee from the Columbia City Rotary Club recommending numbering the roads.

The commissioners designated $6,000 of the estimated cost of the project to come from the county highway fund's share of the state gasoline tax. The remaining $2,000, the cost estimated to map and plan the marking system, would come from the county general fund and would require an additional tax levy of about ½ cent, it is believed.

Elmer Heinley was spokesman for the service club group which also included Robert Thomas, Richard Holden, and Preston Gregory.

In addition to talking with the group, several of the commissioners said that they had discussed the project with various neighborhood groups throughout the coun-

Wedeking Has Millions Of Dollars Worth Of Headaches And Most Controversial Job

By KEITH L. MARTIN
United Press Staff Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) — Albert Jesse Wedeking has millions of dollars worth of headaches and one of the most controversial jobs in Indiana state government.

Wedeking is executive director of the State Toll Road Commission. To Hoosiers in and out of public life, he's "Mr. Toll Road."

Had it not been for World War I, Wedeking might still be teaching German in a Nebraska classroom. Instead, he coordinates one of the biggest financial ventures in Indiana history from a modern office overlooking the Statehouse.

For that, he draws $25,000 a year, $10,000 more than Governor Craig is paid.

A "Hot" Job

Despite its air-conditioning, Wedeking's office is a hot spot. He draws the ire of toll road critics, sits as arbitrator in construction disputes, and bears the burden of satisfying the four-man commission that its operations are progressing smoothly.

Wedeking has been in public life 21 of the past 34 years. But he attained statewide fame only since 1951, as Indiana's toll road program took shape.

Wedeking wasn't sold on toll roads at the outset. But now, he enthusiastically plans an immediate 540 million dollar turnpike program for Indiana and envisions a broad expansion of that within the next two decades.

Wedeking is a banker and former school teacher. He is an Indiana University "distinguished alumni" and also studied at Wisconsin State University, Valparaiso University and the University of Marburg in Germany.

His grandparents were born in Germany, and he taught German at Indiana and Nebraska high schools and at the University of Nebraska.

Cashier to Prexy

"I was going to be a teacher all my life," he said. "Then in the first World War, the German language was unpopular and was abolished in all but universities. There was antagonism to everything that was German."

This prompted Wedeking to return to his native Dale, as a cashier in the family's bank. He's now bank president in the community of 750 residents.

Perry and Spencer County Republicans elected him their joint state representative in 1922 and again in 1926. Wedeking said he was defeated for the post in 1924 "because I wouldn't endorse the Ku Klux Klan."

After the 1927 session of the General Assembly, Gov. Ed Jackson appointed Wedeking to the State Highway Commission. That started him on the road to fame.

Studebaker Plant Closed By Walkout

SOUTH BEND (UP)—The Studebaker Corp. was closed again today by a walkout of 55 final assembly line workers.

The workers left their jobs this morning, just as they did 9 out of the last 11 working days, despite a decision of CIO United Auto Workers at a mass meeting last week to stay on duty while negotiations continued ini a seniority dispute.

About 9,000 production workers were sent home.

Economy Brakes Considered By Administration

To Prevent Booms Or Busts

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Eisenhower administration is carefully considering applying "precautionary restraints" on the national economy to prevent any possibility of a boom and bust, it was learned today.

Under particular scrutiny are "credit excesses," one of President Eisenhower's top advisers told the United Press.

"Generally speaking," he said, "we are doing even better than is supposed. But we want to keep it that way."

This presidential adviser, who declined use of his name, emphasized that the administration is not worried about any recession or falling off of present prosperity. But at the same time he said some "restraining influences" may be advisable.

"We have been deliberating strongly on these questions for a long time," he said.

Out of these deliberations, he said, came the decision last week to tighten mortgage credit.

The Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration announced simultaneously Saturday that they were increasing down payment requirements 2 per cent on all houses mortgaged under government insurance programs, and shortening mortgage terms from 30 years to 25.

"This is a mild measure," the official said. "It will restrain mortgage credit slightly. It certainly means a tightening of credit, but credit is still pretty easy."

Asked whether this action reflected the administration's thinking on the overall economy, this official said: "Yes, of course it does."

But he said that there is no immediate prospect of similar actions in other areas of the economy, although some may be taken later.

"These problems have to be thought through," he said, "and it takes time."

Three Girl Scouts Win Cameras For Salesmanship

Winners Sell 270 Boxes Of Cookies; Total 3,400 Boxes Sold This Year

Three Girl Scouts, Jean Ann Fesler, of the Brownie group; Barbara Paulus, of the intermediate group and Kaye Dean Platner, of the senior group, together sold a total of 270 boxes of cookies. These girls sold the most cookies in each of their groups, and each received a camera as an award for her salesmanship.

Columbia City and Tri-Lakes Girl Scouts sold a total of about 3,400 boxes of Girl Scout cookies this year.

Jean Ann Fesler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fesler and is a member of Troop Four, led by Mrs. Otto Lehmberg and Mrs. Robert Erne. Jean Ann sold 121 boxes of cookies.

Runner-up in the Brownie group was Sharon Dexter, member of Mrs. Forrest Bevington's troop, who sold 100 boxes of cookies.

Mrs. Bevington's troop sold 419 boxes of cookies, the most of any troop.

Barbara Paulus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Paulus, was the camera winner in the intermediate group. Barbara, a member of Troop Three of Tri-Lakes, led by Mrs. William Stellhorn and Mrs. Herman Hauser, sold 7 boxes of cookies.

Carol Roe, of Troop 17, led by Mrs. Victor O'Brien and Mrs. D. M. Johnson, and Carol Kessler, of Troop 13, led by Mrs. Leland Williams and Mrs. Garland Mullendore, were runners-up with 60 boxes sold.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Platner are the parents of Kaye Dean, who sold the highest number of cookies among senior scouts. A member of Troop Eight, led by Miss Joan Heinley, Kaye Dean sold 52 boxes to wi nthe camera award, Brenda Gawthrop, also a senior scout, was runner-up with 31 boxes.

County Producers To Get Ballots For Referendum

Whitley county wool and mohair producers will get ballots this week giving each one an opportunity to vote on a marketing agreement.

Under the agreement one cent per pound would be deducted from each grower's 1955 clip-incentive payment.

If the agreement is favored by the producers of at least two-thirds of the sheep and lambs, the fund will be used for advertising and sales promotion programs, to be conducted by the American Sheep Producers' Council, Inc.

Deductions for the same purpose in an amount not exceeding 1 cent per pound also will be made from wool and mohair payments for the 1956, 1957, and 1958 clips.

The referendum is being conducted in each county by the county Agricultural Stabilization Committee. The ASC address here is Box 107, Columbia City.

ASC chairman Clarence W. Keck urges all wool and sheep growers in the county to mail their marked ballots before August 19.

The plaster cast was removed and replaced and he was returned to his parents home northwest of Larwill.

It will be necessary that he remain in the cast until September 10th when further X-ray examinations will be made. He is making satisfactory progress.

Rain, Electrical Storm Causes Damage In Area

2½ Inches Of Rain Recorded; Service At Hospital Disrupted

The heavy rain and electrical storm Monday afternoon caused some damage in the area in addition to disrupting service, although it lasted only slightly more than an hour.

In that time 2.5 inches of rain was recorded in the city, most of it falling within one-half hour's time. The temperature also dropped from 93 at 2:30 to 70 at 3:30 p.m.

Most of the damage was in the disruption of electrical service within the city. The lead-in wires of two primary transformers servicing the Kissinger Addition area were burned out early during the storm. This left the Whitley County Hospital, among others, without current. However, the hospital was switched over to another line within a half-hour while the transformers were being repaired. Service was restored to other patrons in the addition in about three-fourths of an hour, according to Wilbur Steel, superintendent of public utilities.

The blowing of several cut-out fuses also disrupted serivce momentarily at individual locations within the city, including the Mullendore Garage. Service to the home of Richard Holden in the Collinwood Farm area was interrupted for nearly an hour when a transformer was put out of order by the lightning. City utility employes were delayed in repairing the break when a call reported that the trouble was at the Collinwood Farm.

The REMC office reported no serious damage from the storm, although individual transformers were out of order for short periods of time.

No serious damage or curtailment of service occurred when lightning struck a voltage battery chargshorted causing a minor blaze, er at the United Telephone Company office. A switch on the charger was burned out and wires were

Miss Burwell And Mrs. Stuckey Named To IMHA Roster

Miss Carolyn Burwell, of Churubusco, has been appointed vice-chairman of the Whitley county drive for funds for the Indiana Mental Health Association at Churubusco, and Mrs. Edward Stuckey will serve as vice-chairman of the Tri-Lakes area.

The two appointments complete the personnel list for the IMHA drive.

Several organizations and groups have already contributed to the drive. Advance gifts are being made to Mrs. Charles Guse, county campaign treasurer.

The drive officially begins August 22. Mrs. James Rohrbach, residential chairman, will release a detailed schedule of dates for the solicitation of various sections in Columbia City.

"A goal of $1,617 has been set for Whitley county. The goal for the state is $300,000. We are heavily depending on the support of all local businesses for aid in reaching our goal, thereby making Whitley county active in aiding victims of mental illness," said Mrs. Garland Stickler, industry chairman.

"Letters to business establishments and industries will be mailed soon according to Mrs. Stickler.

Robert E. Gates Receives State Legion Office

Appointed Judge Advocate By Cochran

Robert E. Gates

Robert E. Gates, local attorney, has been appointed judge advocate of the state department of the American Legion, it was announced today by Alton Cochran, the newly elected state commander.

Other appointments were Frank Myer, Henryville, state adjutant and William Brennen, Indianapolis, state membership chairman.

Gates, son of former Governor Ralph F. Gates who was state commander of the American Legion in 1931-32, was judge advocate of the Fourth District of the Legion last year. He was also Fourth District commander from 1953-54 and district adjutant in 1951-52 and vice-commander 1952-53.

Gates was commander of Columbia City Post 98 in 1951-52, and has served in various other offices at post level. He is the present Finance Officer of Post 98.

Gates has served as a member of the Permanent Rules and Organization committee of the state for the past six years, and was a member of the state executive committee for two years. He has served at numerous committees at district level.

Mr. Midnight Places Third; Is Seen In Missouri

Yes, a walking horse can cause excitment and give you a thrill, as did Mr. Midnight, a five-year-old owned by Mrs. J. D. Adams which placed third at the recent horse show at Seymour, Mo.

While on a vacation trip to Missouri with his wife, Randall Gregg, who had gone to Seymour to meet his little granddaughter, Angie Sue for the first time, attended the horse show with his son-in-law, Sgt. Jack Binkley, of this city, now stationed at Seymour.

In the minds of the two local men, Mr .Midnight placed first.

The two local men admired Mr. Midnight when he made his appearance and in their minds he was given first place, but the excitement came when it was announced that the owner of the horse was no other than a Columbia City woman.

After the show the two men made their way to the stables where they talked to Mr. Midnight's trainers, Maack and Son, who stated that they were showing him at Hartsville, Mo., and the Missouri State fair at Springfield.

$1,200 Fire Damages Sheffield Inn

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—A $1,200 fire damaged today the Sheffield Inn, a 125-room hotel which has been picketed by AFL bartenders since June 27.

Emil Noseda, president of the hotel, said he believed the fire was set deliberately. It damaged the roof over the kitchen of the hotel's restaurant.

Highball

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Harvey Highball was charged with drunkenness today.

Guardsmen To Train At Fort Knox

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—A two-week training camp for about 800 tank unit members of the Indiana National Guard will begin Aug. 7 at Fort Knox, Ky.

The guardsmen are located in Bedford, Seymour, North Vernon, Scottsburg, Greenfield Evansville and Logansport.

The tank battalions did not train at Camp Grayling Mich., with other guardsmen this summer in order to take advantage of the superior tank training facilities at Fort Knox.

The program will include classroom studies and fiiring practice with 90 millimeter tank cannons.

Knowland Says No 'Deal' Made With Red China

For Release Of American Airmen

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland said President Eisenhower gave congressional leaders his personal assurance today that he made "no deal to sell out" America's Asian allies at Geneva.

Knowland reported that Mr. Eisenhower also declared in a meeting with his GOP legislative lieutenants that "no deal or trade" was made with Communist China for the release of 11 American airmen which Peiping announced [illegible]

The senator made the statements to newsmen at the White House in the wake of a speech in which Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) charged President Eisenhower with advancing "the cause of tyranny and murder" and planning the "sell-out" of Nationalist China at the Big Four "summit" conference at Genva.

McCarthy's speech on the Senate floor late Monday drew immediate fire from Knowland and other Republican senators.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD), one of McCarthy's closest friends, told the Senate the Wisconsini senator had made a "false assumption" that Mr. Eisenhower was relying on Communist words alone.

Sens. George H. Bender (D-Ohio) and Barry M. Goldwater (R-Ariz) were similarly critical of McCarthy's speech. No Senator voiced support of McCarthy during the debate.

Be Picked To Supervise Return Of Civilians

India Might Be One Of Choices Of Red China

By KENNETH MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA (UP)—Red China was reported to have formally proposed that a neutral third power be picked to supervise arrangements for returning American and Chinese civilians to their homelands.

It was generally believed here that India might be one of the governments which Red China would like to have considered for the position of intermediary.

India's trouble-shooting, roving ambassador, V.K. Krishna Menon, left here today for New Delhi to report on the opening phases of the direct U.S.-Red Chinese talks on release of prisoners from Red China and on other Far Eastern problems.

Semi-official sources said the Chinese proposal was advanced formally during this morning's one-hour meeting between U.S. Ambassador to Czechoslovakia U. Alexis Johnson and China's Ambassador to Poland Wang Ping-nan.

The two sides exchanged lists of civilians whose return to their homelands is desired by each. The United States asked for the return of 40 American civilians either imprisoned or otherwise detained in Red China.

The Communist representative was reported to have asked that "several thousand" Chinese students now in the United States be returned to the Chinese mainland.

China informed sources said, requested a one-day break in the talks to consult with Peiping on the American list. The next talks will be held on Thursday.

Indiana University Produces Television And Radio Programs

BLOOMINGTON — Indiana University's Radio and television department in the 1954-55 school year produced a total of 572 television programs for a total TV air time of 251 hours.

Commercial radio stations in the state carried a total of 608 programs and commercial and educational stations carried 1,968 "School of the Sky" educational programs.

Soon to be in operation, a new kinescope, provided by a grant from the Ford Foundation, will make it possible for the department to furnish films of live television shows produced here to stations throughout the state.

A series of 13 recorded radio programs, each 30 minutes in length, on transportation in the state has just been completed by the university radio and television service for distribution to Indiana stations.

E. G. Sulzer, director of the I.U. department, said the series consists of tape recorded on-the-scene stories of examples of each of the typical transportation agencies of the Hoosier state.

Plans will be made for the national convention of the group to be held here Sept. 11-14.

Ventilation Aids Poultry Production

LAFAYETTE — Fan ventilation of poultry houses can assure higher egg production and greater broiler returns at reasonable costs, according to three Purdue University agricultural specialists.

W. L. Roller and A. C. Dale, agricultural engineers, and D. D. Jackson, extension poultryman, have compiled the latest information on this subject in an extension leaflet available to Hoosier egg producers and broiler growers.

Fan ventilation can insure drier litter with decreased disease, reduced egg soilage, and loss of fertility value of manure through nitrogen loss in ammonia form.

Ammonia, which in excess can cause blindness in chickens, and carbon dioxide concentrations in the air are reduced as is excess moisture and health hazards. Labor required for adjusting windows to control dampness and air movements is eliminated with fan ventilation.

Basic requirements for a fan ventilation system include sufficient fan capacity, enough inlets to give uniform distribution of incoming air, proper location and installation of fan, automatic shutters to prevent back drafts when fan is off, and proper controls for the fan.

Fan ventilation for both winter and summer conditions is covered in the leaflet which may be obtained by writing to the office of agricultural publications at Purdue.

Evangelist Billy Graham Says Moral And Spiritual Welfare Of Servicemen Is High

By BILLY GRAHAM
Written for the United Press
Copyright 1955 by United Press)

PARIS (UP)—The moral and spiritual welfare of our men in the Armed Forces is now at an all time high.

I have reached that conclusion after a tour of our bases in Europe.

I do not mean that every soldier and airman has suddenly become religious.

I do not mean that we do not have plenty of moral problems... put in comparsion to the "old days, it is as different as night and day.

In fact, I would say that the average teenage soldier or airman stationed here in Europe has a better opportunity for being disciplined and for growing spiritually than he would if he were at home.

Look at Facts

Lets look at the facts. Never in American history has the Top Brass been so interested in the spiritual and moral well being of our men.

Most of the commanding officers whom I have met, from the very top right on down, are doing everything possible to provide the very best religious opportunities for thier command.

The Chaplains Corps for the first time now has top priority on almost every base. The chaplains who a few years ago often had to fight with the commanding officer to get chapel space and have religious services, are now overwhelmed at the personal interest of the generals and the colonels.

General (Anthony) McAuliffe commanding general of the United States Army in Europe, and General (William) Tunner, commanding general of the United States Air Force in Europe, are not only interested in the spiritual and moral programs for their men, but are actually pushing the programs, and taking the lead themselves.

Older Chaplain Surprised

As one older chaplain told me the other day, "I never thought I would live to see the day when the Top Brass would be so interested in the work of the chaplains."

More officers are setting an example by attending religious services; as one chaplain put it, "the President is certainly setting a terrific pace, and his influence is definitely being felt."

The chaplains corps itself has taken on a "new look."

There was a day when church leaders looked on the chaplaincy as a spot to send their misfits—but no longer.

They are beginning to realize that being a chaplain is one of the greatest calling in the world. As a result, our chaplains are better trained, better equipped and of a higher calibre than at any time in history. Nearly every one I met had a sense of mission and demonstrated a genuine love and a burden for their men.

Certainly the chaplains of 1955 are the most evangelistic in the history of the corps. Their one ambition see smto be "How can we reach more men with the message of christianty?"

Discipline Stops Deliniquency

Teenage delinquency which is ing inmost American communities is at a minimium in the Armed Forces. The strong discipline—the moral teaching and the religiious training in the armed forces is far better for our older teenagers than racing around in hot rods, forming criminal gangs, becoming dope addicts, and engaging in sex orgies as has become so prevalent in many American cities.

If I had a 19-year-old son and had given him proper home trainin had given him pryoper home training and had reared him in the nurture and admonition of God, I would have less fear of his losing his character in the Armde Forces than in the average community at home.

His opportunity to develop morally, spiritually and physically is greater in the Armed Forces than at any time in history.

Boa Constrictor Feared Loose In Minnesota Town

Too Hot For Anyone To Get Very Excited

WABASHA, Minn. (UP)—A 12-foot boa constrictor was feared loose in this town of 2,500 people today, but it was too hot for anyone to get very excited.

The snake—about as big around as a man's arm—disappeared from it's carnival cage during the weekend.

But "people just can't seem to get worked up," according to Ray Young, editor of the weekly Wabasha County Herald.

"They're taking it as a lark," he said.

"I called the sheriff a little while ago," Young said, "and asked him f he was going to hunt snakes this afternoon. He said yes, but not until it cooled off a bit."

Temperatures were expected to be in the 90s today, the same as Monday.

Deputy Sheriff Carl Mickow had another explanation for the lack of concern. H esaid many of the residents don't know about the missing snake because efforts were made to keep th news quiet.

Young said a hole had been cut in the screen of the snake's cage and that it may have been released or stolen by several disgruntled carnival workers who were fired last Friday.

Officials of the Raney United Shows, which played here during the weekend, said the constrictor was not dangerous to humans unless provoked.

The snake was shedding its skin at the time it disappeared and in such condition would be nearly helpless, they said.

After the shedding process is completed, the carnival officials said, the giant reptile would get hungry and probably hunt rats or rabbits.

And maybe humans, too.

Young said a few families were keeping their children inside until the snake scare subsides.

But there was little organized searching for the snake, although Sheriff John Jacobs and others flushed a vacant lot and some lumber piles with a fire hose in an effort to bring the reptile into the open.

Brenda Loses Punch; Heat Keeps Blasting

Over 50 Persons Killed By Heat In Midwest In Week

By UNITED PRESS

Tropical storm "Brenda" lost its punch in the Deep South today, but there was no weakening of the heat wave blasts which baked most of the rest of the country.

The heat wave had no catchy nickname to set it apart, but millions of Americans were thinking up sulphurous words for the weather from the plains states to the Atlantic coast.

In the Midwest, focus of the most searing rays, it was estimated that more than 50 persons had been killed by the heat in the last week. Iowa, with a solid week of 100-plus temperatures, reported 24 deaths. Other high tolls were 12 in Illinois and 8 in Indiana.

The storm "Brenda" knifed inland at the Louisiana-Mississippi border late Monday, working up hurricane winds of 75-miles-per-hour. At least seven persons were reported dead or missing and squalls raged over a 200-mile front from New Orleans, La., to Pensacola, Fla.

The storm sent torrential rains through Dixie, soaking Mobile, Ala., with 4.45 inches and New Orleans with 2.15.

But "Brenda" lost its fury early today as it moved across Louisiana at a 15-mile-per-hour pace. Winds near the center died to 25 to 35 miles per hour.

Los Angeles residents also had their weather troubles as the first smog emergency alert in history was called Monday.

The 18-minute alert was sounded when the ozone polution content reached .57 parts per million parts of air at Pasadena to whip up the suburb's second worst smog on record. Burning of combustible rubbish was banned during the alert.

Also in Southern California, a woman and three men nearly drowned near Brawley when a flash flood caught their car with a 20-foot wave and rolled it over five times.

In the vast heat belt, meanwhile, it was even too hot for the famous tall corn of Iowa.

Hawkeye farmers generally excuse hot temperatures by saying "It's good corn-growing weather." But this year's heat wave has been so bad that officials estimated 15 per cent of the corn crop was already destroyed.

Heat Stretches Eastward

The heat stretched eastward, with New Yorkers facing a repetition of Monday's 96-degree temperatures and Boston's all-time August heat record toppling under a 98-degree reading.

Other highs Monday included 109 at Sac City, Iowa, 108 at Lincoln, Neb., 107 at Omaha, Neb., and an even 100 at Manchester, N.H.

New England hoped for some relief from a Canadian cool front, but Midwesterners were told to keep sweating it out. A cool front was coming in from Montana, but it wasn't expected to get very far south.

All weather forecasters could do was point out that every heat wave comes to an end sometime. But they weren't risking any predictions about a white Christmas.

Commissioners

ty. Two such groups from Washington township and one from Cleveland township voiced their approval of marking the rural roads. A group from Etna-Troy also indicated that it was in favor of the action.

The groups were advised that money taken from the highway fund would mean paving of less roads in addition to raising the tax rate slightly. The county groups still believed the marking project is important enough to be done in spite of the draw-backs, the commissioners said. It is estimated that the amount appropriated from the highway fund would pave up to eight miles.

The commissioners related that all fire departments in the county have voiced approval of the road marking plan, since it would cut down on the time in locating a fire and thus possibly save a life or damage to property.

Other service clubs, such as the Kiwanis and Lions have also endorsed the road-marking plan after discussion with rural members of the organizations.

Following the decision to include the appropriation for the road signs, the commissioners continued planning the remainder of the budget for the next fiscal year.

Another major item expected to be included in the budget is an appropriation to construct a new steam heat plant at the Court House.

The final decision on whether to include the money for marking the roads in next year's budget will be up to the County Council.

The commissioners spent most of Monday's meeting in approving bills.

Five-Fold Increase In Color Television

NEW YORK (UP)—A five-fold increase in color television programs will be presented this fall by the Natiional Broadcasting Co. the network announced today.

Robert W. Sarnoff, executive vice president, said the jump in air time to be devoted to full-color broadcasting is part of a drive by NBC and its parent firm, Radio Corporation of America, to make color television "a truly mass medium as rapidly as possible."

Live color programs from NBC studios last fall amounted to seven to nine hours a month. This fall the network will present 37 to 41 hours a month.

All World Series baseball games played in New York will be televised in color, Sarnoff announced.

Red China

The American list, this source said, gave detailed information on 40 Americans imprisoned or otherwise detained in Red China, including nine women and 15 priests.

The Chinese, this source said, are demanding the "release" of several thousand Chinese students sent to the United States for study by the Nationalist regime of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

American sources have said only some 450 of that number have expressed a desire to return to the China mainland and that all restrictions on their return were removed last April. The Chinese Reds have refused to believe that the students who remain in the United States don't want to return to Communist China.

Talbott

tary that there was no intimation "that your official duties have not been effectively and loyally performed."

He asked the secretary to stay on until Aug. 13 to wind up "critical programming activities" where Talbott's personal knowledge is needed.

Talbott's letter of resignation said he was quitting because "I would not in any circumstances wish to be a source of embarrassment" to the President or his administration.

Talbott told the United Press that he had encountered "a pretty tough deal . . . but anyway, I'm going back to business and make myself a little dough."

Talbott Deeply Concerned

Talbott wrote to Mr. Eisenhower that he was deeply concerned by "the recent unfortunate and I believe distorted publicity" given to his continued association with Paul B. Mulligan & Co., a management engineering firm which paid him $132,032 in his first two years at his Pentagon desk.

He conceded to Senate investigators last week that he had been "mistaken" in helping to land contracts for his firm, which numbers defense contractors among its clients. He announced he was pulling out of the partnership.

He said he told Congress in 1953 he would retain his partnership.

Talbott's letter of resignation said his mind and conscience were clear that his actions had been "within the bounds of ethics."

"This connection has never influenced me, or interfered in the slightest with the discharge of my responsibilities as secretary of the Air Force, and I have never used that office to further its business." Talbott wrote.

[illegible] Eisenhower, who had said he would personally read the record [illegible] the case, wrote to Talbott [illegible] have been sure that your ultimate decision would ignore any personal desire or inclination and would demonstrate your devotion to the Air Force and your concern for the security of our country."

Republican senators said Talbott erred in judgment in his actions, and therefore did the right thing in resigning.

Venue Of Seffle Death Suit Changed To Wabash County

A petition by the defendant to change the venue of the case of Frieda M. Seffle vs. Irvin L. Sievers, et al to the Wabash County circuit court was approved in Whitley circuit court last week. The other defendant in the wrongful death suit is Hildegarde H. Schaefer, of Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Seffle, administratrix of the estate of Lawrence Seffle, has instituted a suit for damages against the two defendants, charging wrongful death.

Mr. Seffle was killed in an accident last October 29 when his truck was upset when hit by a car driven by Mrs. Schaefer on State Road 9 just south of 14. Sievers, a rural mail carrier, was driving a car which pulled off the road ahead of the Schaefer woman just before the collision.

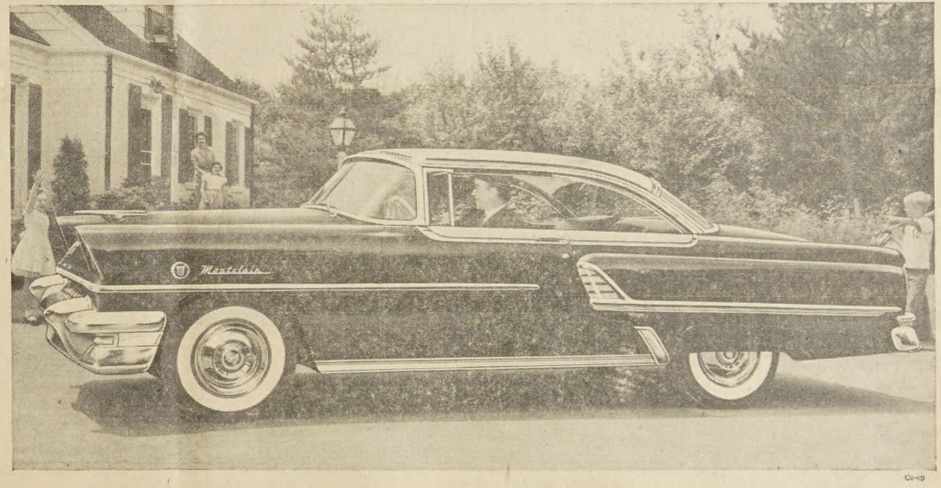
Mercury beauty, power and resale value boost sales to record high...



And record sales mean record deals. Cut your cash outlay by acting now—get a far bigger allowance for your present car.

It's worth a trip to our showroom just to hear the figures! For it's never been easier than right now to own a Mercury.

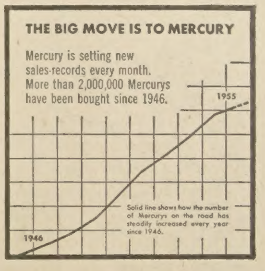
HIGH-VOLUME DEAL—Mercury's record-breaking popularity now permits us to operate on a much higher-volume basis. We can offer the best deals in our history. And, remember, a Mercury deal means far more than just a low price. Look at what you get:

EXCLUSIVE STYLING—No "look-alike" styling for Mercury. You get fresh, distinctive beauty—styling shared by no other car.

SUPER-TORQUE POWER—You get more than just high horsepower (188 and 198 hp)—you get far more usable power. More power is put to work in pickup and passing speed ranges—where you can use it for everyday driving, not just for high speeds.

EXTRA-VALUE FEATURES—Only Mercury in its field offers you so many important extras at no extra cost. For example, a 4-barrel carburetor on all models. Special 18mm anti-fouling spark plugs. Ball-joint front suspension. And dual exhausts on all Montclairs and Montereys, and Custom Station Wagons.

CONSISTENTLY HIGHEST RESALE VALUE—Mercury protects your investment better than any other car in its field. Independent reports show that Mercury consistently returns more of the original purchase price at trade-in time. In short, no other car offers you bigger reasons for buying it. And you couldn't pick a better time to get a deal on a new Mercury. So why wait? See us today.



IT PAYS TO OWN A MERCURY—FOR FUTURE STYLING, SUPER POWER

World Series, Eight Weeks Away, Appears Close As Dodgers Begin Smelling 'Melon'

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

The World Series still is eight weeks away but it appeared much closer today as the jubilant Dodgers began smelling that pennant melon and the disappointed Braves all but resigned themselves to a second-place slice.

Any lingering hope the Braves had of over-taking the Dodgers was virtually snuffed out when they dropped a 4-3 decision to Brooklyn in 10 innings Monday night and saw the league leaders stretch their margin to 14½ games—the most it has been all season.

Brooklyn's "magic number" now is 37, meaning any number of [illegible]ger victories or Brave defeats which add up to 37 will make Walt Alston's forces the 1955 champions of the National League.

The high-riding Dodgers, with five straight victories under their belts and six out of seven on their current Western trip, are now even in a position to clinch the flag on the earliest date in league history. They're shooting at the modern record they set themselves when they celebrated the National League's earliest pennant clinching by nailing down the 1953 flag on Sept. 12.

Dodgers Come From Behind

Trailing Milwaukee 3-0 Monday night, Brooklyn tied the score with three runs in the seventh on singles by Jackie Robinson, Carl Furillo, Don Zimmer and pinch hitter Don Newcombe, a fielders choice and a walk by Lew Burdette to Peewee Reese with the bases full.

The Dodgers pushed across the winning run in the 10th off loser Ernie Johnson when Don Hoak hit into a forceout at third with the bases full, allowing Junior Gilliam to score. Karl Spooner, the third Dodger pitcher, was the winner. Ed Mathews hit his 27th homer for the Braves.

-hander Don Liddle pitched his first complete game of the season in pitching the third-place Giants to a 91 victory over the Cards. Liddle struck out eight and yielded only five hits, three of them in the fourth inning when St. Louis scored its only run.

Willie Mays paced the Giants' nine hit offensive with his 34th homer, a double and a single that drove in three runs. Southpaw Harvey Haddix suffered his 10th setback.

Cincinnati climbed into sixth place over sinking St. Louis by edging Philadelphia, 4-3, for its fifth straight victory.

Redlegs Beat Phils

Art Fowler gained his sixth victory although he needed help from Hershell Freeman when the Phils acted up and scored their final run in the ninth. The Redlegs fashioned what proved to be the deciding run off Murry Dickson in the eighth when Wally Post, Gus Bell and Bob Thurman each singled after two were out.

Dick Hall, who failed to make the big league grade as a first baseman, went the route for the first time in the majors while pitching the Pirates to a 5-4 victory over the Cubs. Hall gave up nine hits, struck out five and walked none. He also singled in the run that decided the game in the ninth. Ransom Jackson homered for the Cubs while Dale Long connected for the circuit for the Pirates.

There were no games scheduled in the American League where the White Sox lead the Yankees and Indians by one game.

Young Shotmakers Get Words Of Wisdom From Ben Hogan

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UP)—A field of 128 young shotmakers got words of wisdom from Ben Hogan today before embarking on four days of match play for the eighth annual National Junior Golf championship.

Hogan was the feature attraction of an afternoon clinic as the youngsters fired their final practice shots over the tricky Purdue South course.

A new champion will be crowned Saturday, succeeding Foster (Bud) Bradley of Los Angeles, who has passed the 18-year age limit.

Among the top contenders were Allen L. Geiberger, Santa Barbara, Calif., last year's runner-up, but there was no "clear-cut" favorite. The home state favorite, however, was 17-year-old Don Essig, a skinny high school senior from Indianapolis and a consistent sub-par shooter.

Geiberger's first-round opponent Wednesday is Harper Pearse, Brigham, Utah.

The field was put together in 50 qualifying sessions. In all, 806 players sought spots in the championship flight.

Second and third rounds are scheduled for Thursday, fourth and quarter-finals Friday, semi-finals and finals Saturday. All go over the 18-hole route.

Holle Repeats As Top Winner At Warsaw Speedway Saturday

Archie Holle, Warsaw, was again the top-money winner in the Warsaw Speedway stock car races Saturday night as he drove to first place in the 50-lap feature event, second in the third-heat race and was third in the race between the six fastest qualifying cars. He was also given first-place money as the fastest qualifier of the evening. Holle was the top money winner last week.

In the feature event ten trophies were awarded in addition to prize money. Others in the first ten were Bob Staley, Warsaw; Cliff Gibson, Columbia City; Jimmy Hullinger, Bunker Hill; Tom Meadows, Sharpsville; Steve Osbun, Warsaw; Kenny Leiter, Warsaw; Harry Rhoades; Don Riley, Marion; and Gerald Bills, Columbia City.

Winners of the other events of the evening were in the first heat; Hullinger, Rhoades, and Bills; second heat: Gibson, Joe Hamsher, New Paris, and Osbun; third heat: Staley, Holle and Meadows; fourth heat: Bob Shlater, Churubusco; Gale Smith, Warsaw, who was the second fastest qualifier; and Junior Dear, Columbia City.

Staley and Meadows were the first two finishers ahead of Holle in the race between the six drivers with the fastest qualifying times.

In the consolation event, which included all drivers who had not placed in the money in other races, Rollin Smith, Warsaw, finished first. Behind him were Dick Parker, Columbia City; Kenny Leiter, Warsaw, and Arden Leiter, Pierceton; and Vernie Schrock, Nappanee.

Pealy Heckaman won the first-place trophy in the jalopy race.

Chuck Share Signs With St. Louis Hawks

Baseball Officials List Blames For Small Attendance

By ED SAINSBURY
United Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (UP)—Major league baseball officials pinned the blame for falling attendance on four major factors today and tried to figure out what to do about them.

A survey expert told the baseball executives that attendance is being hurt because of difficulty in getting to parks, television, costs, and slow games.

Stephen Fitzgerald, hired by commissioner Ford Frick to study what's wrong with the game, listed the reasons in a preliminary report presented to major league owners at a joint session Monday. The final report will be presented after the World Series, including full statistics on the atttiudes presented after the World Series, including full statistics on the attitudes developed in the questionnaires.

Spring Training Change

Before hearing Fitzgerald's report, the owners:

1. Voted in favor of changing the current rule prohibiting any spring training before March 1. Both leagues approved a suggestion by player representatives that players could be invited to report and work out before March 1, but could not be compelled to do so. The March 1 rule was in effect only this year.

2. Discussed the player proposal to change the rule to permit unrestricted winter baseball competition. Each league settled upon a recommendation for action but the recommendations were not announced at Frick's request. Players want free negotiation for all players to play winter ball. The present rule provides that no more than three veterans and two rookies from any one club can play in the winter league. Frick said final action on the proposal would be taken Aug. 12 at a meeting with representatives of the Caribbean Federatioin nd abseaablls' bean Federation and baseball's executive committee.

3. Discussed the current bonus rule, but took no action on the matter.

The National League also approved a proposal by the Milwaukee club to permit a cut of more than 25 per cent in a player's salary. The league resolution rovided that upon request by the player involved, the commissioner may approve a new or renewal contract for less than 75 per cent of the previous salary.

This spring, Frick ruled that Cleveland could not cut the salary of Ralph Kiner moje than 25 per cent even though Kiner volunteered to accept the slash.

Rule Changes Recommendations

The National League also recommended that any changes in rules must be approved by both major leagues and the minor leagues before they become effective.

The preliminary report on major league problem was based on 10,000 replies to 45,000 questionnaires mailed to 13 states, Fitzgerald said.

He said 49 per cent of the replies reported increased interest in the game in the past 10 years, and that 39 per cent had seen between one and five games last year.

In a separate poll of 763 sports editors, 80 per cent suggested that games should be shorter and faster paced, 74 per cent believed ball parks need better parking, and 67 per cent believed pay-as-you-see telecasts of ball games would receive support.

The difficulties of getting to parks, and the cost of attending games were mentioned by many who responded in the overall questionnaire.

Bobby Boyd Upsets New Yorker Anthony

NEW YORK (UP)—Bobby Boyd, young Chicago middleweight, explained today that his upset knockout over Tony Anthony resulted from "body hunting — not just going for the head."

An underdog at 3-1, Boyd knocked out New Yorker Anthony at 1:32 of the third round Monday night in their thrilling TV fight at St. Nicholas Arena.

A straight right to the chin dropped slender Anthony face-down on the canvas for the full count, but streamlined Boyd emphasized today, "it was a left-right to the body that nearly doubled him earlier in the round and set him up for the kayo."

Manager Bernie Glickman agreed. "It worked just like we expected. Bobby had been strictly a head-hunter in his previous 41 fights. But we changed his style for this one—shooting for the body. He's grown up now and he'll be going downstairs plenty.'

Boyd, who weighed 157¾ pounds to Anthonys 161 3-4, is 21, the same age as Anthony.

As a reward for the kayo, Bobby will get another television fight at St. Nick's on Sept. 12 or 19, matchmaker Tex Sullivan announced. His opponent will be Willie Troy or the winner of the Holly Mims-Milo Savage fight in Salt Lake City next Monday night.

Anthony, who belts 'em out or gets kayoed, suffered his fourth defeat and fourth knockout in 27 fights. Only five of his bouts went the distance. He knocked out 8. It was Boyd's 34th victory in 42 bouts and his 20th kayo.

Rides Three Winners

CHICAGO (UP) — Willie Shoemaker rode three winners Monday on Washington Park's opening day program and now trails Willie Hartack by only one wiinner in their battle for the natiional jockey championship. Hartack had two winners on the same card, increasing his total for the year to 225.

64-Year-Old Casey Stengel Scotches Retirement Rumor

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Sixty-four-year-old Casey Stengel scotched all talk about his retirement today by announcing a Yankee rebuilding plan that could take him another two or three years.

"Retire, my eye!" snorted the wrinkled, grey - haired Yankee manager, "I've gotta rebuild my entire pitching staff — from the ground up."

Stengel admitted he would be hard put to come up with adequate replacements for Allie Reynolds, Vic Raschi and Ed Lopat, the three hurlers whom he called "the money pitchers" in the Yankees' march to five straight world championships from 1949 through 1953.

"Now that we let Lopat go, we dont have any of those three pitchers any more," Stengel said slowly, almost sadly, "and it's up to me to find some other fellows who can do the job.

"So what would you do? You'd look to your younger pitchers, wouldn't ya? Well that's exactly what Im ding.

"Take those two young fellas I used against Kansas City last Sunday," Stengel said, referring to 25 - year - old Don Larsen, who pitched the opener, and 24-year-old Bob Wiesler who started the night cap but left while trailing 21 in the ninth inning.

Has Eye On Outfield

"Both of 'em looked pretty good to me," Casey continued. "Looks like maybe the right-hander (Larsen) did himself some good back in the minors. And that left-hander (Wiesler) should come around and be a first-class pitcher for us."

Stengel hastily added that the Yankees' pitching isn't the only department where he is thinking in terms of the future.

"I got my eye on our outfield," he said, "and I also got my eye on the infield. I sat up the other night thinking about all the changes I can make and I'll sit up tonight, too, thinking some more. Think you've seen changes? You ain't seen nothing yet.'

While Stengel mentioned no names, it is known that the Yankees are exceptionally high on young Bobby Richardson, who was with the club during spring training and is now playing a brilliant second base for the Yankees' Denture, he still couldn't help but show concern for the present plight of the Yankees, who are involved in a torrid pennantbattle with the White Sox, Indians and Red Sox.

Enjoys Close Pennant Race

"This thing gets tougher and tougher every year," he said, grinning, as if he actually enjoyed the close race. "So now Cleveland goes out and buys (Sal) Maglie from the Giants.

"Will he help 'em? Why not? He may fool 'em and get 'em out for awhile because nobody knows much about him in this league. We had a case like that in the fella who's relieving for us now (Jim Konstanky). Those fellows who got a few years on 'em like Maglie can help a club, for a while, anyway.'

Stengel hinted but did not come right out and say that the Yankees also were interested in Maglie.

"But you tell me who we should have cut off the roster," he said. made to try to help your ball club. You gotta always remember that.

"Yes, indeed," he concluded, "Theres a lot of work I still have to get done.'

Storm

but city firemen were called and put it out. The charger energizes the main battery which operates the plant telephones and could have caused curtailment of service had it been out of order for long. Operators were asking callers to limit conversations to three minutes while the charger was being repaired.

Floyd Shelton, manager of the office, reports that about 300-400 telephones were put out of order during the storm. Most of them are in the area just outside the city limits. Service is expected to be restored there within a couple of days.

Several hundred dollars damage was ccaused when lightning struck and killed a cow on the Robert Fahl farm.

Several street lights in the city also exploded when turned on later in the day. Most of them were of the old type and the shorting out was evidently caused by the moisture from the rain.

A large number of persons reported flooded basements after the downpour, as available sewer lines proved inadequate for the heavy deluge.

Scott Frost Is Heavy Favorite In Hambletonian

GOSHEN, N.Y. (UP) — Scott Frost, a high-stepping trotter from California, is such a heavy favorite for Wednesday's Hambletonian that some horsemen in this sleepy, litle New York hamlet aren't even betting on the outcome.

Instead, most of the wagering is centered around the winning time.

Hoot Mon, who sired Scott Frost, holds the Hambletonian record of two minutes flat for the one-mile spin around the kite-shaped Good Time Park track.

However, many members of the harness racing set gathering here the 30th running of the "Hfory-a for the 30th running of the "Hayseed Derby" think Hoot Mon's son has the stuff to smash that record Wednesday. In fact, Scott Frost already has a pair of two-minute miles to his credit.

The speedy bay colt, owned by Sol A. Camp of Shafter, Calif., turned in a 2:00 mile at Lexington, Ky., last autumn and duplicated that feat last week in the Hambletonian Prep at Vernon Downs, N.Y.

No two-year-old trotter ever before had uncorked a "miracle mile" and no Hambletonian candidate ever came into the trotting classic with two such efforts to his credit.

So that's what the longshot stabbers will have staring them in the face Wednesday as they search the records for a horse to beat the California comet.

Despite Scott Frost's splendid record, which shows four victories in four races this year, 10 other three-year-old trotters will join the post parade for the first heat at 3 p.m. EDT.

Scott Frost will be accompanied by a pair of rugged stablemates, Butch Hanover and Home Free, while Leopold Hanover, Colbymite, Wayahead, Indian Raider, Childs Hanover, Galophone, Flemington and Arvilla Hanover round out the field.

The Camp entry was being quoted at 3-5 in the pre-race odds, while Galophone is the second choice at 4-1 and Childs Hanover the 6-1 third choice.

Hoosier With Strong Competitive Spirit Has Acre Of Corn That Could Make Him Famous

AUBURN, Ind. (UP)—A.J. Custer, a ruddy-faced farmer with a strong competitive spirit, has an acre of corn which could make him internationally famous.

Custer is well on his way to producing 300 bushels of corn from a single acre of rich muck soil, an achievement which agricultural experts believe is without precedent.

The record is believed to be 260 bushels.

Furthermore, this has been such a great year for corn, weatherwise, there is a chance Custer's plot might produce as much as 350 bushels. But this is theoretical, and something could happen that would make it "Custer's last stand," if one can joke about something which to the Dekalb County farmer is a deadly serious proposition.

Grew 241 Last Year

Custer is the man who last year grew an average of 241 bushels per acre to win the Hoosier Five Acre Corn Club contest. It was the first time anybody in Indiana ever averaged as much as 200 in competition.

Flushed by victory, Custer determined to make more history in 1955. He set aside an acre on the 1,200-acre farm he operates with his five sons to see how big a yield he could get.

Custer applied 4,700 pounds of fertilizer, planted 73 pounds of corn and raised 42,500 stalks. That's about seven times the normal amount of seed corn, about four times the normal number of plants, and from 9 to 23 times the normal amount of fertilizer.

Custer simply hopes to be the first farmer to raise 300 bushels on an acre. He showed his crop to 150 fellow farmers at a horticulture muck crop field day tour last week.

Might Make 354

Roscoe Fraser, a Purdue University expert, was present. Fraser isn't inclined to make wild guesses. So he won't say Custer's acre will produce 300 bushels.

But he does say this:

If each stalk of the 42,500 on the plot produces just one ear of corn weighing one-half pound, Custer will get 354 bushels to his acre. That would be 21,250 pounds and it takes 60 pounds to make a bushel. A one-half pound ear isn't considered a "big" ear, either. Many weigh a pound or more.

Furthermore, Custer's corn is now in the silking stage and thus far the weather has been "ideal."

Fraser sees no chance of insect scourges to reduce the prospects. Wind and hail are the biggest threats.

Pollination Is Mystery

One thing was sure. Custer will have to harvest his crop by hand. No mechanical cornpicker exists which can handle a crop planted in such an unorthodox way, the experts said.

Custer is concentrating on his lone acre. He didn't enter the Five Acre contest this time. Dropped out as a "good sport" to give others a chance.

But there's an element of mystery in the outcome of the experiment. Custer planted four varities instead of one. They were planned to pollinate over a 10-day period, instead of all at once. The plot was planted in a long, narrow rectangle instead of a square, to gain more benefit from sunlight.

The pollination experiment could be disastrous. If the extended pollination doesn't work, Custer may have pretty stalks—without ears. Nevertheless, it was a good try and the experts believe Custer is on his way to fame.

Hoosier state parks are so situated that every Indiana community is within a 50-mile radius of at least one state park property.

Retired Railroad Man Dies Early Tuesday Morning

Memorial Rites To Be Held Thursday

John A. Travelbee, 64, retired Pennsylvania Railway agent and clerk, died at 12:30 Tuesday morning at the Whitley County Hospital. He had been in failing health for the past nine years following a stroke of apoplexy and a week ago Sunday morning was taken to the local hospital after suffering another serious stroke.

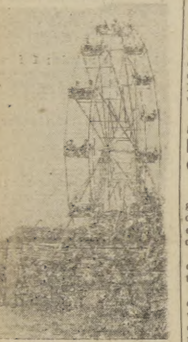
He was a native of Columbia City and was born February 22, 1891, a son of the late William and Susan Meyers Travelbee. July 17, 1913, he was united in marriage to Amelia Erdmann. They started housekeeping in Lafayette and after residing two years there, they returned to Columbia City where they spent their married life with the exception of two years while Mr. Travelbee was the railway agent at Arcola. For the past twenty-two years they have resided at 341 North Chauncey street. Mr. Travelbee retired in 1946 after having completed over 32 years of service with the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

He was a member of Grace Lutheran Church; the Brotherhood; The Columbia City Lodge 189 F and AM; the Columbia City Council and Chapter; and the Knights of Pythias.

The surviving relatives, in addition to his wife Amelia, include three sons, John E. Travelbee, this city; William Travelbee, Cochocton, Ohio; Robert Travelbee, this city; three daughters, Mrs. Margaret Jacobs, Kendallville, Mrs. Jean Black, this city; Mrs. Betty Sefcik, Tri-Lakes; nine grandchildren; and one brother, Harry Travelbee of Bloomfield.

The body has been removed to the Smith and Sons Funeral Home where friends may call after 7 o'clock this evening. The Rev. Graham L. Kleespie, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, will officiate at the funeral rites to be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Funeral Home. Burial will be in the Greenhill Cemetery.

Goodings Rides Here For Old Settlers Week



Goodings greater rides will again line the midway during Old Settlers Day and the American Legion Festival, August 10 through 13.

In addition to the ferris wheel, there will be the merry-go-round, loop-the-loop, and other thrilling rides for the young at heart and also kiddie rides for the wee ones.

There is nothing so radiant as the expression of sheer delight which lights up the faces of the small fry on the various kiddie rides during Old Settlers week.

Grable Rites Held Monday Morning

Funeral services for Marion Grable, Thorncreek township farmer, were held Monday morning at the Big Lake Church of God, with the pastor the Rev. Frederich Wraight and the Rev. A. F. Dreger, of Fort Wayne, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Willis Friskney sang three hymns. Their accompaniment, the prelude and postlude to the service was played on the church organ by Mrs. Ralph McKown.

Grandsons served as the pallbearers. These were David Grable, Phillip Grable, Neal Lane, Dean Grable, Leslie Grable, and Larry McKown. The floral tributes were carried by the grandchildren and members of the church. Committal services and burial followed the church rites in Christian Chapel Cemetery at Merriam.

Hold Rites Monday For Chas. C. Nichols

Services were conducted in the Hollingsworth Memorial Chapel Monday afternoon for Charles C. Nichols of Thorncreek township. The Rev. R. A. Wood, pastor of the Thorncreek Bethel Church of God, officiated. The Rev. and Mrs. Floyd Hedges sang the selected hymns. They were accompanied at the organ by Miss Mabel Parrish, who also played the prelude and postlude of sacred selections.

Members of the Sunday School class, of which the deceased attended, served as pall bearers. They were Lee Waugh, Clyde Anderson, Arthur Boggs, Alton Dailey, Preston Chapman, and Jesse Braddock. The committal service was held in the church cemetery.

Mississippians To Name Choice For Governor's Office

JACKSON, Miss. (UP)— Segregation-conscious Mississippians today name their choice for the governor's office from a field of five of racial integration.

More than 400,000 votes were expected, only about 20,000 of them by Negroes.

Party officials in Clay County candidates, each an award for warned a small group of Negroes on election eve that any ballots they might case would prove worthless.

In order to prevent "incidents' the Negroes would be allowed to vote if they wish, the officials said, but their ballots will be challenged afterward.

Four men and one woman, each a staunch defender of segregation, were seeking the office now held by Gov. Hugh White, who is prevented by state law from succeeding himself.

The candidates are former Gov. Fielding L. Wright, the 1948 States Rights Party candidate for vice president; Atty. Gen. J.P. Coleman, a leading segregation defender; Ross Barnett, a widely known southern attorney; Paul B. Johnson, son of a former governor; and Mrs. Mary Cain, an editor who champions "grass roots government."

11 U. S. Airmen To Start Home Within 3 Hours

After Arrival In Hong Kong

By WENDELL MERICK
United Press Staff Correspondent

HONG KON G(UP)—The 11 U.S. airmen to be released Thursday by the Communist Chinese will start home to their families within three hours after their arrival in Hong Kong, the U.S. consulate said today.

The consulate and the U.S. Air Force liaison officier here, Lt. Col. Dwighton D. Simpson, already have completed plans for receiving the men who were imprisoned in Red China on "spy" charges and freed from jail Monday.

Simpson will meet the fliers at the Hong Kong-China border and take them to the plush Hong Kong Jockey Club a few minutes drive from the border for baths, a drink, clean clothes and a medical examination by Air Force doctors.

Simpson said he did not have any messages or letters for the airmen yet. He said the Hong Kong government had not received any word from the British charge d'affaires in Peiping as to when the airmen may reach the border but that Peiping usually is lax in giving exact times.

Each airman will be hanedd a cardboard suitcase with a card attached giving the individual's name, and if the doctors pronounce the men fit to take off for Honolulu they will leave immediately.

The men will take off from Kai Tak airport sometime late Thurs day.

The press will be permitted to chat briefly with the airmen before they take off for Honolulu but questions will be restricted to their health and how they feel to be free.

It everythin gfollows as normal the airmen would cross the border between 1:30 and 2 p.m. Thursday.

Similar treatment wa sgiven four American fliers released last May 31.

The 11 airmen, all convicted on "spy" charges by Peiping:

Col. John Knox Arnold Jr., 41, Silver Spring, Md., and Montgomery , Ala., serving a ten year sentence.

Maj. William H. Baumer, 32, Lewisburg, Pa., eight years.

Capt. Eugene John Vaadi, 33, Clayton, N.Y., six years.

Capt. Elmer F. Llewellyn, 29, Missoula, Mont., five years.

Lt. Wallace Lamer Brown, 28, Banks, La., five years.

Lt. John Woodrow Buck, 35, Armathwaite, Tenn., four years.

T-Sgt. Howard W. Brown, St. Paul, Minn., four years.

Airman 1c Steve R. Kiba, 22, Akron, Ohio, four years.

Airman 2c John W. Thompson III, Orange, Va., four years.

Airman 2c Harry M. Benjamin Jr., 22, Worthington, Minn., four years.

Airman Daniel C. Schmidt, 22, Portland, Ore., four years.

The fliers' B29 reconnaissance bomber was shot down 15 miles south of the Yalu River in North Korea while the men were on a leaflet dropping mission on Jan. 13, 1953, and they were sentenced by a Communist "peoples court" on charges of "spying" Nov. 23, 1954.

The United States said they were on a legitimate war mission and should have been repatriated with other war prisoners during the exchange that followed signing of the Korean armistice.

Klein Takes Nixon To Task For Attitude Toward Umbrellas

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. Arthur G. Klein (D-NY) "on behalf of the umbrella industry of New York" has taken Vice President Richard M. Nixon to task for his attitude toward umbrellas.

Nixon banned umbrellas at National Airport when President Eisenhower returned, in the rain, from his Geneva conference. He said the umbrella had become "the symbol of appeasement."

Klein said in a floor speech Monday that Nixon's comment was "unfortunate.' There are 3,000 people employed in the umbrella industry in New York, Klein said, and it has been tough enough on them this year, what with no rain and all, without Nixon making it still tougher.

House Approves Housing Bill, Ignores Threat

Of Special Session; Several Items Remain

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House, ignoring a special session threat, today approved a compromise housing bill that President Eisenhower had labelled unsatisfactory.

This measure, which the Senate approved Monday night, was the last major item of legislation scheduled for action before adjournment. Speaker Sam Rayburn said he expected Congress to wind up tonight, although several troublesome items remained.

In approving the House bill by a vote of 187-168, House members brushed aside a warning by Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. (Mass) that President Eisenhower might call Congress back to a special session unless a "suitable" housing bill was enacted before adjournment.

Martin said the special session, if summoned by the President, would also be expected to act on the administration's highway bill, which the House defeated last week.

The Senate began its day in executive session. Before it were two controversial nominations—that of Harold C. Patterson of Richmond, Va., to be Democratic member of the Securities & Exchange Commission and Newell Brown of Concord, N.H., to be wage and house administrator in the Labor Department.

Democrats opposed Patterson because they said he supported Presidenth Eisenhower in 1952 and should not be named to a Democratic spot on the bi-partisan commission. Both the AFL and CIO objected to Brown.

A relatively minor issue — the annual appropriation bill for Congress itself — created Monday's biggest foul-up and generated much bitterness between House and Senate leaders. The two chambers disagreed on procedure for voting pay raises for a number of congressional employes and some more liberal allowances for congressional offices.

The upshot was that the House forgot about the appropriation bill and passed a simple resolution to authorize continued congressional spending for pay scales and other expenses at previous levels. The Senate was ready to go along with this plan.

Members of Congress and their employes were given pay raises in earlier legislation this year, but some specified officials were in line for additional increases in the appropriation bill.

Other unfinished business included:

Defense Production Act: A conference committee adjusted differences between House and Senate versions Monday. However, the Senate Monday night rejected by a 36-34 vote the proposed compromise provision dealing with dollar-a-year men from private industry. Another compromise try was expected today.

Sugar: The Senate Finance Committee Monday approved a bill, different than one passed by the House, setting new sugar import and domestic production quotas. Senate foes of the bill were resorting to parliamentary stalling tactics in an effort to prevent a vote before adjournment.

Polio Vaccine: The House passed a bill Monday to provide free vaccine for children and expectant mothers who could not afford to pay. A conference committee was trying to iron out differences between it and the more liberal bill previously passed by the Senate.

Small Business Administration: House action was still awaited on a bill to extend the life of this agency, which expired at midnight Sunday.

The House completed action Monday and sent to the White House a bill providing the Commodity Credit Corporation with the money to carry on farm price support operations.

Spreading Frost May Damage Coffee Crop In Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO UP)—Agriculture Minister Bento Munhoz da Rocha rushed to Brazil's coffee lands today for a first-hand examination of extensive damage caused by a spreading frost.

The minister and three directors of the Brazilian Coffee Institute planned a three-day inspection of the Parana and Sao Paulo regions to check reports that the current frost damage is worse than the 1953 attack which killed or damaged four million coffee trees. The 1953 frost sent coffee prices soaring.

The federal weather bureau said the cold wave, which is Brazil's worst in years, was far from being over. A cold air mass was reported moving northeast across the Sao Paulo and Minasgerais states, and the weather bureau said more frost could hit in the next few days.

The cold wave plunged the mercury below freezing in five states, leaving a death toll of at least four persons, destroying various crops and spreading snow in several areas where snow never before had been seen.

Coffee cirlces recalled that the 1953 frost damage set off reports of a shortage which sent prices to the highest level in history.

Wins Dismissal

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UP) — Frank Kurezaba won a dismissal in City Court Monday on a public intoxication charge lodged against him after a fire department hook and ladder crew hauled him down from a tree.

Police said Kurezaba climbed the tree on a dare and couldn't get down. He is 71.

Scientists Claim Anti-Poison Ivy Serum

PHILADELPHIA (UP)— Scientists at The University of Pennsylvania claimed today to have come up with an anti-poison ivy serum.

Dr. Donald M. Pillsbury, professor of dermatology, said Monday that tests on thousands of student volunteers have shown "there is absolutely no question the vaccine willl reduce sensitivity to poison ivy."

However, Pillsbury said there were "a few bugs to be worked out yet" on the vaccine. He said it would still have to be determined what the minimum dosage would be to desensitize a person.

Pillsbury said in each case where volunteers submitted to a series of six injections the new vaccine reduced sensitivity to the poison ivy plant and in some cases created immunity.

Yoshida Charges Jap Militarists Distorted Note

From Late Cordell Hull To Lead Japan Into Pearl Harbor Debacle

TOKYO (UP) — Former Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida charged today that Japanese militarists deliberately distorted a note from the late U.S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull to lead Japan into the Pearl Harbor debacle.

In his "personal reminiscences" appearing in the newspaper Asahi under copyright, Yoshida said the distortion of the so-called "Hull note" was the direct factor that drove Japan into war.

The note was sent by Hull, secretary of state at the time to the Japanese government 11 days before Pearl Harbor, Dec. 7, 1941.

Yoshida, pro-American prime minister who was unseated last December after a record five years in office, said the note carried the words "not definite" in a corner of the document.

He said the note itself merely stated accurately the two opposing stands of the United States and Japan, declaring that they were the basis for negotiations.

It also was preceded by a statement that these were preliminary positions.

Yoshida declared, however, that when the Hull note was presented to the Privy Council, supreme policy-making organ of the government, all these were omitted, just the U.S. position was stated, and presented as the formal reply of the Roosevelt administration.

"This," Yoshidia said, "was an act of trickery on the part of the military and amounted to conspiracy.'

The former premier also said he supported U.S. General of the Army Douglas MacArthur's stand during the Korean War that the United Nations should have crossed the Yalu River and bombed Communist China in 1951.

Strike Against Brinks Company

CHICAGO (UP)—Large sums of money were moved under police protection today because of a strike against the Brinks ,Inc., armored car firm.

About 436 AFL drivers, messengers and guards went on strike Monday after the company turned down a demand for a pension plan.

The walkout left many Chicago banks and business firms without protection for the movement of large sums of money. As a result, 48 detective bureau squads were assigned to guard the shipments.

Americans Shower Proposals To Bring Russians To America

WASHINGTON (UP) — Some State Department experts on Soviet affairs are beginning to wonder if they don't really work for a travel agency.

Officials report that Americans are showering the department with ideas and proposals to bring Russians to visit the United States. The heavy State Department load was prompted by the improved atmosphere following the Geneva conference.

"It seems like everybody wants to arrange something for the Russians," one diplomat said. "We think it is a good idea, but we are trying to keep it in bounds."

Americans are proposing that singers, orchestras, dancers, artists, housing experts athletes and Russians with other talent and skills be brought here. Others want to go to Russia to visit.

Officials said some people have the "mistaken feeling" that cultural exchanges could change Russia overnight.

So far the State Department believes the greatest enthusiasm for such exchanges comes from the Middle West. This has surprised some experts who count the Middle West isolationist.

Daisy Crockett, Latest Coiffure

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Hair stylist Samuel Dicaro today unveiled the latest thing in feminine coiffures — the "Daisy Crockett" hairdo.

Dicaro said the long part is in the back to resemble the tail of a coonskin cap and a little bleach completes the effect.

BADMINTON HAZARD

MILWAUKEE — (UP) —Patricia Fitzgerald, 24, suffered cuts on both feet while playing badminton. A runaway power mower zipped across the court and struck her.

BOSS TO EMPLOYE

SEYMOUR, Conn. — (UP) — Robert T. Miner resigned as chairman of the school board, explaining he'd like to become a teacher. The board fulfilled his request.

Democrat-Controlled Congress Puts Record Before The Country

WELL, AT LEAST IT'S COOL—Looking for a cool place? This young lady, Miss Barbara Apperson, found one—at the bottom of a swimming pool in Champaign, Ill. So if you want to stay cool and you're the calm and collected type person who can take his reading matter to the bottom of a pool, well, there's your answer. Don't ask us how the pop stays in the bottle.

Congress Investigated As Much As It Legislated But Pace Was Slower

By HERBERT FOSTER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Congress this year investigated nearly as much as it legislated — but the pace was slower and the headlines less frequent.

None of the investigations measured up to the marathon Army-McCarthy hearings, Congress' top story of 1954.

But the Senate in particular, did stage a series of major hearings, climaxed by the inquiry which caused the resignation of Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott Monday.

The Senate Investigating subcommittee, under Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) delved into Talbott's actions while secretary in connection with his $60,000-a-year business partnership.

After intensive questioning by Senate investigators, Talbott pulled out of the partnership, saying he had done nothing wrong in retaining it but admitting he made a mistake in giving it a helping hand.

President Eisenhower studied the record and accepted Talbott's resignation.

Best show of the year came when the same subcommittee questioned Harry Lev, millionaire capmaker, inventor of the foam-rubber grommet and his own brand of broken English. Lev, posing in the uniform caps he made for the military, denied in colorful language that he bribed government employes to get a contract for nearly 7 million white sailor hats. He kept the audience and senators laughing much of the time despite the seriousness of the charges.

Sixty-Year Hamburger Supply

School Boards Name Officers, Approve Budget

William Thomson City President, Crawford Joint Head; Tax Levy To Be $3.00

Officers for the Columbia City school and the Columbia City Joint High School Board were elected at a meeting Tuesday evening.

William C. Thomson, Jr. was elected president of the city board; Arthur Trier, Jr., secretary; and Forrest Orr, treasurer.

The organization of the Joint School Board includes Jay Crawford, president; Arthur Hilligoss, vice-president; Arthur Trier, Jr., secretary and Forrest Orr, treasurer.

The Columbia City board approved a proposed budget which was later presented to the City Council meeting at the City Hall. The budget calls for a total out-lay of $237,747.57, of which $189.462.50 will be raised from local tax levy. This will require a raise of 35 cents to make the city school tax levy $3.00 for 1956.

The remainder of the amount will be received from state aid, money carried over and other miscellaneous sources.

2 Boys Assessed $26.75 Each For Reckless Driving

Two city youths were assessed fines of $10 and costs of $16.75 each in City Court after they were arrested at about 10 p.m. Tuesday evening by police on charges of reckless driving.

City police arrested the two youths after chasing them over several streets in the northeast section of town. Mayor Thomas H. Hood also suspended the driver's license of the two boys each for one year.

The arrests were made after police received numerous complaints from residents of East Van Buren, Jefferson and Jackson streets and north Washington and Madison streets that the youths were racing recklessly in the area in automobiles.

It was reported that a third boy was involved in the "hot-rodding" and police said they also expect to apprehend him.

East-West Toll Road Across Northern Part Of State May Be Twice The Success Expected

By KEITH L. MARTIN
United Press Staff Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Indiana's east-west toll road across the northern part of the state may be twice the success investors expected it to be.

That's the prediction of Albert J. Wedeking, executive director of the State Toll Road Commission, who belies his 67 years with a crew cut and an infectious smile.

He feels certain the state's first toll highway will be completed on schedule—November of 1956—and expects it to attract enough revenue to pay off bonds in half the 40 years originally anticipated.

The project was budgeted at 280 million dollars, including financing charges and interest. By paying off bonds sooner, Wedeking figures the cost will decrease about 15 million.

Anti Toll Road Once

All this is as much high finance to Wedeking as to the average Hoosier. His first highway experience was as a member of the State Highway Commission in 1927 when the worries were about resurfacing projects costing a relative few thousand dollars.

Wedeking served on the commission under five governors—Jackson, Leslie, Schricker, Gates and Craig. His tenure under Gates was shortlived, because he was "at loggerheads" with his district GOP organization.

About half those years on the commission, Wedeking was chairman. He was a school teacher learning about highways from daily experience.

The experience proved invaluable to the embryo Toll Road Commission, which Wedeking served as an ex-officio member in 1951 though he once "didn't think toll roads were for us."

"There used to be antipathy by the people to pay tolls for apublic facility," Wedeking said. "But traffic conditions have changed, and now we can't build roads fast enough to take care of the de-

Cpl. Max R. Shelmadine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray W. Shelmadine of R. 3, participated in amphibious training exercises with the 1st Marine Division's 7th Regiment July 19-27.

The regiment sailed from San Diego July 19, with a Navy task Force. After five days of training off the Southern California coast, the Leathernecks assaulted a beach objective in an amphibious landing July 26, on the Camp Pendleton reservation near Oceanside, Calif.

Prisoner Killed, Two Wounded In Prison Riot

Sheriff Stops Riot With Blazing Pistol

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP)— A sheriff who stopped a prison riot Tuesday night with his blazing pistol said today the uprising occurred because the convicts were given too many concessions. One prisoners was killed and two others wounded in the brief outburst.

"The more you give them, the more they want," Sheriff Owen W. Kilday said after the riot was put down.

The prisoner killed in Tuesday night's riot was identified as Rodolfo Escobedo, 27, who was serving a theft sentence. The wounded prisoners were Pastriino Galvino and Rodolfo Reyes, 33.

The rioting started shortly after supper as some 65 prisoners in Bexar County jail were taking their recreation period outside their cells in the fifth-floor cellblock.

Kilday said he had two pistols loaded with cartridges filled with parafin that could "hurt a man but wouldn't kill him." He said he fired 12 paraffin shells down through the cell block, but the prisoners refused to quiet down.

The sheriff then put five "live shells into his pistol and fired into the dark cellblock. Escobedo was shot in the stomach as he advanced on Kilday and was caught in the glare of the sheriffs flashlight. He died a few minutes later.

"He was getting ready to throw a plate at me," Kilday said. "I tried to shoot him low, but the bullet went too high."

When other prisoners saw that Escobedo had been shot, they quickly quieted down

Tuesday night's riot apparently started when fifth-floor prisoners learned that two prisoners, Johnny Crawford and Manuel Penlaver, had been put in solitary confinement.

Proposed City Budget Calls For $152,420

Amount Is Increase Of $13,847 Above '55; School Levy Up 35 Cents

The City Council approved a proposed budget of $152,420.86 for 1956 at a special meeting Tuesday night at the City Hall.

The amount represents a total of $13,847.14 more than this year's budget, which was $138,573.72. However, the city expects to have a balance of $12,315.29 left from this year's budget. But, an additional appropriation of $10,000 is expected to be needed before the present year ends December 31, 1955.

The additional appropriations in 1955 are $4,000 for repair of the City Hall roof, $700 for the City Planning Commission, and $5,200 for labor on streets.

The $13,000 more for 1956 is for $1,200 election expense, $505.64 for the new City Hall steam heat plant, an addition of $900 in City Hall expense and insurance, and increases in salary and operating expense of the police department, and an additional $5,000 for labor on streets.

In addition, a general improvement fund of $6,264 was established to cover general type improvements, including street repairs, needed by the city. The council decided to set up a revolving machinery fund of $7,000 to provide money for unforseen purchases of equipment. It was decided that by having such a fund, machinery type equipment could be replaced before it is completely worn out. It should also mean an additioanl saving on trade-ins.

A $200 cut was made in appropriation for Fire department insurance; liability and workmen's compensation insurance was reduced by $700.

City Supt. of Schools Edward Glenn and Arthur Trier, Jr., school board member, appeared at the council meeting to outline the school's budget for 1956.

Glenn revealed that the school's budget of $237,747.57 will require an addition of 35 cents in the tax levy. The additional amount needed is for $12,900 as Columbia City's share in hiring an architect for the new high school, raises in teacher's salaries, the cost of the new heating plant, and an assessment for a storm sewer at the Mary Raber school.

The school tax levy this year was $2.65, but with the additional 35 cents will be raised to $3.00 for 1956.

3 Injured In Collision Of Car, Tractor 3 Miles East On 30

Three persons were injured, one seriously, at about 8:15 p.m. Tuesday when a car struck the rear of a farm tractor on U.S. highway 30 three miles east of the city.

Taken to Whitley County Hospital in a Hollingsworth ambulance were Joe Friend, 31, and his wife, 21, both of Fort Wayne, the occupants of the car. Friend was reported suffering from chest injuries and head lacerations and Mrs. Friend was suffering from head lacerations and bruises to both knees.

The driver of the tractor, Homer Studebaker, Jr., 27, of R. 5, was treated at the hospital for minor injuries and shock and released.

Both vehicles were westbound on the highway when the accident occurred. State Police Trooper Norman Pierce and Sheriff Galen Adair investigated the accident. Pierce said that the Fort Wayne couple had their car loaded with some household items, since they are moving to R. 4, Columbia City.

Both vehicles were extensively damaged; the tractor was a total loss.

Has X-Rays

C. Merrill Munns, 108 West Jefferson street, was taken to the St. Joseph hospital Tuesday evening in the Smith and Sons ambulance. While undergoing examinations and treatment he will be a patient in room 465, Mr. Munns is the husband of Mrs. Hazel Munns, music instructor in the local high school.

Red Bulgaria Will Punish Guilty Persons

Responsible For Shooting Down Of Airliner

LONDON (UP) — Communist Bulgaria admitted today that two of its fighter planes shot down an Israeli airliner with the death of 58 persons and promised to capture and punish the persons responsible.

The Bulgarian government aologized for the second time for the "rashness" of the fighter pilots and promised to pay indemnities to the families of the victims and to pay Israel for part of the material damages.

An official Bulgarian broadcast of a communique authorized by the government said the pilot of the El Al Israel airlines plane ignored signals to land at a Bulgarian airport and that he tried to escape into Greece.

The plane, with 13 Americans aboard, exploded in air and fell to the ground in flames a few miles from the Greek border inside a heavily fortified Bulgarian area near the Greek and Yugoslav frontiers.

Bulgaria defended the action with the assertion other planes had violated Bulgarian air and dropped arms, radio transmitters and "diversionists' — spies — into the Communist nation.

This time Bulgaria implied that its fighter pilots were trigger happy, said it hoped such misfortunes would not be repeated and that "it will establish and punish the persons responsible for the catastrophe.'

The Bulgarian apology, its second, came after strong diplomatic protests from the United States, Britain, Israel and other Western nations.

Israeli investigators had reported earlier they found bullet holes in the blackened wreckage of the plane although they had not been allowed to visit the scene of the crash until much incriminating evidence had been removed.

Darcey Stouder A Top Honor Student At Indiana University

Miss Darcey Stouder, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. T. Stouder, former local residents now located at Warsaw, wants to be a professor of sociology, she says.

The 18-year-old former local girl is spending the summer with her parents in Warsaw and in September will return to Indiana University, where last year she was one of 63 honor students out of a freshman class of 3,500.

A sociology major, Miss Stouder maintained during her freshman year a two-plus scholastic average out of a possible three points. She is interested in modern art and does some water color and crayon work. She likes poetry, and has done some peotry and short stroy writing.

Miss Stouder was asked why she chose sociology as a course of study. Her answer was she had always been interested in the origin and evolution of society and serious study was the honest approach to knowledge of the science.

Miss Stouder graduated from Warsaw high school in 1954 and numbered among the top ranking students of her classes.

Indiana State Fair Will Open In Four Weeks

Communications Is Theme This Year

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Four weeks from today, the Indiana State Fair opens the gates on its 103rd edition, an extravaganza generally conceded to be about the biggest drawing card in the Hoosier entertainment world.

The theme this year is "Communications—Its Role in Agriculture and Industry." But it is doubtful that many patrons will elect to go to the fair because of the theme, this year or any other year.

They are going because of the traditional attractions. The midway. The exhibits. The battle for blue ribbons in agricultural competition. The harness races. The grandstand and Coliseum entertainment.

The 10-day fair stretches from Wednesday of one week through Friday of the next. Barring unforeseen weather conditions that would make visiting the fairgrounds a misery rather than a pleasure, the fair will draw hundreds of thousands of Hoosiers from all over the state.

The opening day, Wednesday, Aug. 31, has been tabbed "4-H Club Day." Thursday is "Press and Publications Day," Friday "Transportation Day" and Saturday "Youth Achievement-Radio, TV and Movie Day."

Beginning with Sunday, Sept. 4, the fair days have been designated as "Church and Veterans Day," "Aircraft and Postal Service Day," "Governor's and Legislators' Day" "Telephone, Telegraph and Wire Service Day," "Farmers' and Farm Organizations' Day," and "Civilian Defense Day."

Nearly all the advance arrangements point up to records. A record prize kitty has been promised exhibitors. The attendance may set new records, if not for the entire fair, then for specific days. More bands have entered the high school band contest than ever before.

Two new buildings worth $800,000, a Farmers Building and a sheep barn addition, will be dedicated during the fair.

Special entertainment will include appearances by Frankie Laine, Nat "King" Cole, Russ Morgan's Orchestra, a wild animal show, Irish Horan's Lucky Hell Drivers, Tennessee Ernie, Ted Weems' orchestra, a horse show, and the usual Grand Circuit harness racing program.

South Whitley Triennial May Draw 700 Alumni

About 700 persons will return to South Whitley August 20, for the triennial alumni reunion at the high school.

"We've had reservation requests come in from Florida to Canada and from California to Maine—it's going to be pretty big," said Fred Fox, president emeritus of the alumni association.

Mr. Fox, who served as president of the association for 50 years, fell heir to position again this year. William Striggle, elected president of the association in 1952, recently became ill with pneumonia and will be unable to attend the event.

Mrs. Hattie Shriver Weybright, graduate of South Whitley high school in 1891 and oldest living alumna, will be honored at the reunion.

Portions of the celebration will be televised.

Everett Born, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Born of near this city, was taken to the Riley Hospital in Indianapolis on Tuesday where he received medical treatment to his left eye. He was returned to his home later in the day in J. A. DeMoney and Son ambulance.

Sun Beats Down On Indiana; See No Relief

Heat Wave Dates To July 4th Weekend

By UNITED PRESS

The sizzling sun beat down mercilessly again today on Indiana and no end was in sight for a heat wave which dates back to the Fourth of July weekend.

Temperatures climbed as high as 95 Tuesday in Hoosierland.

They'll do it again today and again Thursday, the weatherman said.

The humidity was awful. From Lake Michigan to the Ohio River, Hoosiers perspired through their daily routines, turned and tossed in the high heat at night, and hoped for a break in the monotonous weather now in its fifth week.

More heat deaths occurred, raising the 10-day total near a dozen in Indiana—and perhaps more. Mrs. Hazel Brenizer, 52, Fort Wayne, was the latest victim. She collapsed and died of heat prostration shortly after a shopping trip.

A rash of drownings continued as thousands sought relief in the water. Richard Ramseyer, 14 drowned in a pond near Bluffton and Albert A. Stergell, 23, Indianapolis in a gravel pit in the capital.

At Goshen, 200 employes of the General Tire Corp. walked off the job Monday and stayed away in protest to what they called improper ventilation during the heat wave.

Fair, hot and humid was the forecast for all around the state for today, Thursday and Friday. There was a chance of thundershowers in the central portion but forecasters said they would not lower the temperature appreciably.

High ranging from 95 north and central to 97 south today and Thursday were in the cards. Lows will range from 72 to 75.

South Bend, Fort Wayne and Evansville shared the 95-degree high mark honors Tuesday. Indianapolis and Lafayette had 92s for the lowest highs. The mercury dropped no lower than 75 at Fort Wayne and 71 at Indianapolis with other state points in between.

Indianapolis got a brief shower Tuesday afternoon but it was confined to the downtown area and didn't register at the Weather Bureau station at the airport.

Adjourns Last Night; Partisans Begin Debating

On What Was Really Accomplished

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Democratic-controlled Congress laid its record before the country today. Partisans immediately began debating whether it gave a new showing of "unity and achievement" or short-changed President Eisenhower on domestic legislation.

After false starts Saturday and Monday, Congress finally achieved its goal of sine die adjournment Tuesday night, the House quiting at 11:36 p.m. EDT and the Senate at 12:05 a.m. EDT today.

The dam broke when the House approved the compromise housing bill despite last-minute objections from President Eisenhower over some relatively minor provisions.

This was followed by settlement of the bitter squabble between House and Senate leaders over how to handle some pay raises for congressional employes in the appropriation bill for Congress itself.

Compromises were reached and approved over legislation to extend the defense production law and allotting federal funds for free polio vaccine. And in the scramble, the Senate shelved sugar production quotas until next year.

The windup marked the end of seven months in which Mr. Eisenhower got practically all he asked in terms of foreign policy and national defense from a Congress controlled by the opposition party.

The distribution to counties included: Allen $159,609; Bartholomew $58,812; Blackford $25,934; Cass $75,659; DeKalb $52,488; Elkhart $107,817; Gibson $68,026; Green $70,399; Huntington $52,863; Jay $50,718; Kosciusko $86,115; LaGrange $47,460; Lake $203,182⅛ LaPorte $97,175; Madison $111,795; Marion $320,083; Marshall $63,355; Miami $55,691; Monroe $66,945; Noble $59,411; Porter $61,167; Posey $51,973; Shelby $56,476; Steuben $43,212; Tippecanoe $74,253; Vigo $92,980; Wabash $57,155; Wells $50,033; White $61,029; Whitley $46,552.

Shoemaker Wins $32,000 On TV Quiz Show; Must Decide Whether To Risk Doubling It

NEW YORK (UP) — Gino Prato, winner of $32,000 on a television quiz show, secluded himself in his Bronx shoe shop today to begin a weeklong ordeal of deciding whether to risk doubling his fortune or losing it in a last-chance gamble.

The 55-year-old cobbler hammered his way through a four-part query in his category, opera, in his fourth appearance Tuesday night on CBS-TV's "$64,000 Question."

Next Tuesday night the Italian-born Prato will make his climactic appearance before the TV cameras and announce his decision.

If he decides to continue and answers the questions, he will take home $64,000. If he loses, he will win a Cadillac worth at least $7,000, as a consolation prize. If he feels he should not go on, he will be permitted to keep his $32,000.

Questioned after the show, the litle shoemaker appeared tense. "Fine, fine, I feel fine," he said. "And if you please I would like to go home now."

Before leaving he made a good-natured plea for privacy. "You people," he said, "please leave me alone this week or I go batty. And if I go batty, I can't answer the question next week."

Win, lose or quit next week, Prato has a surprise in store for him. It was learned that officials of the Metropolitan Opera in New York would present Prato next Tuesday with a pair of season passes, eighth row center in the Met's orchestra.

Prato, who spent part of Tuesday praying in St. Patrick's Cathedral, drew warm applause from the studio audience Tuesday night when he announced his intention of going for $32,000.

"The Lord has helped me all through my life," he said, "and I think He will help me now. I think I will go on."

He took the full 30 seconds to answer his long question: "The name of the opera which launched a pinch - hiting Arturo Toscanini on his career ("Aida"), the place in which Toscanini conducted the opera (Brazil), the place in which the opera was premiered originally (Cairo, Egypt) and the name of the holiday on the eve of which it was premiered (Christmas).

Is Dismissed From Hospital

Mrs. Willard Gebert, who underwent surgery last week, was dismissed from the Goshen General Hospital in Goshen and taken to her home near Larwill. Mrs. Gebert was taken to her home in the J. A. DeMoney and Son ambulance.

Around The Clock: Around The World!

By UNITED PRESS

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Actress Marie (The Body) McDonald told reporters today to talk to her attorney about reports her second marriage to shoe manufacturer Harry Karl was on the rocks.

Miss McDonald, who once divorced the wealthy manufacturer because she said she was allergic to him, refused to comment on the reports.

The actress and Karl were divorced in November, 1954, after a seven-year marriage. They remarried last June in Yuma, Ariz.

Shortly after their divorce, Miss McDonald said:

"We are two people very much in love but doctor after doctor has told me my illnesses have been caused by the conflict of temperaments between Harry and myself. When I'm with him I get sick and when we're apart I'm well."

VALDIVIA, Chile (UP) — The government rushed forage here today in hopes of saving 10,000 cattle facing starvation due to volcanic eruptions.

The animals were deprived of food when ashes and lava from Rininahue Volcano destroyed farms and pastures throughout the region. Thousands more cattle have died from asphyxiation or poisoning caused by sulphuric gas emitting from the huge crater.

BUNOS AIRES (UP)—The government took the precaution of announcing that a navy patrol boat division and trawler flotilla would leave Diosantiago Naval Base today for a series of maneuvers in the mouth of the River Plate.

Observers believed an official communique was issued in advance Tuesday to forestall any rumors of another revolt by the navy against the Peron government.

SANTIAGO, Chile (UP)—Chilean subsidiaries of the Anaconda and Kennecott Copper companies, which control about 90 per cent of Chilean copper production, are willing to discuss a price boost, a government spokesman said today.

The current prevailing price for Chilean copper is 36 cents a pound. The world market price has gone up to 40 cents a pound due to a copper strike in the United States.

BOGOTA, Colombia (UP) — A leading editor charged the government today with imposing censorship on all newspapers.

Fernandez Gomez Martinez, editor of "El Colombiano", said in a letter to President Gustavo Rojas Pinilla that since last Friday an official censor has checked every item in his paper before it was set up in type.

Three other Bogota dailies were reported to have civilian and military censors in their plants also.

MARINELAND, Fla. (UP) — An unnamed dolphin will have a chance at the "big time" at Marine studios here as replacement for the late "Flippy," the world's first trained porpoise.

Flippy was found dead in his private tank Tuesday. The seagoing mammal died at the prime of porpoise life—eight years.

But in his short career he delighted roughly a million persons with his antics. In his vaudeville act he jumped through hoops, raised flags, rang bells and caught footballs. He put on his act four times a day, seven days a week.

The understudy is a young female.

HANNON AIRPORT, Eire (UP) —Gov. Averell Harriman of New York left by plane at midnight for New York after a tour that took him to Israel, Italy, Ireland, Britain and an audience with Pope Pius XII.

Harriman's plane burst a tire when it landed at Shannon Tuesday night on a flight from Dublin but the pilot brought it down safely and there were no injuries among the 37 passengers.

Harriman changed planes and flew on to New York after a greeting from Mayor Red Russell of Limerick and a brief stopover.

SEOUL, Korea (UP—The Republic of Korea's top government and military leaders met in secret for two hours today at the defense ministry and it was believed they mapped plans for regaining Communist - held territory south of the 38th parallel.

The meeting followed a government announcement Monday of ROK intentions to recover the territory below the parallel which went to North Korea after the armistice. The ROKs have said they would use their armed forces to recover the territory if necessary.

Dr. Hong Kee Karl, official government spokesman who attended today's meeting, refused to say what had been discussed. It was Karl who told the United Press the ROKs will employ all means, including military force, to regain the lost territory.

RIO DE JANEIRO (UP) — Thirteen members of the crew of a Brazilian fishing boat were drowned Tuesday when the ship broke up in heavy seas outside the entrance to Rio harbor.

TV Shows Need For Audio-Visual Education In State

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Television has pointed up the need for audio-visual education in Indiana schools, more than 50 beginning principals attending a two-day state conference were told today.

Mrs. Altha Sullivan, audio-visual director for the State Department of Public Instruction, said school administrators learned that children from homes with a TV set have a two-year educational advantage over children from non-TV homes.

This learning by "vicarious experience" can be injected into the classroom through the use of films, she said. It worked in the armed forces and it "works even better" on elementary school pupils.

Mrs. Sullivan cautioned that frilms must be selected for different age levels and said discussion periods should follow the film presentation.

Official Skeptical Of Freeze Damage To Coffee Trees

WASHINGTON (UP)—An Agriculture Department official appeared skeptical today of reports of heavy "freeze damage" to coffee trees in Brazil, the world's leading coffee-producing country.

"Trade reports direct from Rio de Janeiro say a 'cold wave' hit the southern Brazilian states of Parana and Sao Paulo and extended as far north as the capital, "the official said. "The reports stressed a 'cold wave' and did not specify frost.

"We have asked further information from our agricultural attaches in Rio and Sao Paulo."

(News dispatches from Rio de Janeiro said Brazilian Agriculture Minister Bento Munhoz de Rocha had departed on a three-day tour of Sao Paulo and Parana states to investigate freeze damge to coffee trees. In New York, coffee futures rose the daily limit of 2 cents a pound Monday and Tuesday on strength of the freeze reports).

The official said any freeze at this time in Brazil could hardly affect the supply of coffee for the 1955-56 marketing year which began July 1. The coffee bean harvest in Brazil starts in March and continues through April. Blooms on trees now are for the coffee crop for the marketing year starting July 1, 1956.

Iowa Farmer Explains Rebel Against Hospitality

By RALPH OLSEN
Written for United Press

DNEPROPETROVSKY, U.S.S.R. July 27 (Via Airmail)—The agricultural delegation to the U.S.S.R. from the U.S.A. has been in Ukrainia nearly five days. Each collective farm, research institute or manufacturing plant we visit tries to outdo the ones visited before in extending hospitality.

As an example, here is what happened when we visited the Ukrainian Research Institute of Animal Husbandry and its experimental farm "Ukrainka." The institute carries on work of a typical Midwest experiment station, and the 15,000-acre farm feeds the animals as well as the 470 people working there.

Each member of our group was given a huge spray of flowers by the smaller girls of the farm village.

The whole population of the place seemed to be in the street with the exception of the ones needed to carry on the work to be shown for our benefit. And someone had to be preparing the terrific dinner we were served about 2:30 p.m.

Caviar Opens Meal

Here is the menu. Caviar from sturgeon and salmon, two kinds of sardines and three other kinds of fish, cold roast beef, chicken, cheeses, tomatoes, cucumbers, hard-boiled eggs, onions, two kinds of bread, butter (fresh churned on the farm).

This was the first course.

Then they brought a sort of pastry with ground beef cooked in the center of it. Also a clear hot soup.

Third course was a broiled beef filet and small buttered potatoes.

Fourth course consisted of ice cream and a fancy three-layer burnt sugar cake (I guess it was) with elaborate icing between layers and on top.

The dinner was followed with champagne. Naturally there was plenty of the well known vodka and some Russian wine and fruit drinks. There were then some speeches and toasts by the manager of the institute and other officials. Members of the American delegation responded with toasts, speeches and songs, including, as one might suppose, the Iowa Corn song.

Crowd Blocks Path

After dinner we went back to the Hotel Intourist to pick up our baggage and start by automobile for Dnepropetrovsk. The crowd in the street made it almost impossible to get moving.

The windows of the cars were open so we could talk to the people (via translators) and they pushed up so close to get their heads inside it looked like someone would surely get hurt.

On arrival here another mass of people were in the streets approaching our hotel and the square on two sides of the building. To get us from our cars to the hotel door the police had to form a lane and even then the pressure from the people back in the crowd forced the near ones right against us.

No one was hurt and we got to the second floor to a corner room facing two streets. The windows were open and we could look down on the faces of what must have been several thousand people.

They applauded the short talks made by the tired delegates. We were told some of them had been waiting seven hours to see us and it was then nearly midnight.

This was one day of our 33-day tour of the U.S.S.R., and it was not much different from the day before.

Feminine Intuition

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Diana Gibson of Indianapolis has displayed her feminine intuition at an early age.

She told her father Tuesday that she dreamed someone had stolen her newly-painted red bicycle.

Ruddie Gibson went outside the house to show Diana the bicycle was safely in its place.

It wasn't.

Group Tries To Prove That Life Exists After Death

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON (UP) — A group of churchmen and laymen are engaged in quiet but dramatic efforts to prove that life exists after death. They have formed themselves into "The Churches Fellowship for Psychical Study" and are conducting experiments designed "to confirm Christian belief that those who pass on continue in a fuller life."

The fellowship was organized late last year and although it has been mildly criticized by "orthodox" church circles, its membership, according to Lt. Col. Reginald M. Lester, one of the founders, has soared to well over 1,000.

Many clerics are adherents, he said, and supporters and consultants include the dean of St. Paul's, the bishop of Ripon, Prof. H.H. Price of Oxford and Dr. Leslie Weatherhead, a prominent London church figure.

Col. Lester said the fellowship was not anxious for publicity at the moment as it considered unfettered conduct of its experiments of the utmost importance. But another official said:

"Many of those seeking membership have intimated that they possess adequate proof of personal survival after death. We are conducting experiments to try to make contact with those on the other side."

Some of the criticism of the fellowship has been voiced by those who believe there is a criptural injunctive against trying to make contact with spirits.

"The kind of communications that the scriptures forbade," said Lester, "was with evil spirits of 'the dead,' that is, evil spirits dead in the sense they were separated from God."

Various spokesmen for the fellowship, mostly clergymen, have stressed that it is not a "spiritualist association but a church association."

"Our object is to help all who are engaged in the eternal search for truth," said Rev. F.S.W. Simpson, vicar of Shoreham in Sussex."

The dean of St. Paul's has told members of Parliament that phychical research has an important bearing on Christian theology and deplored that so many good Christians believe all spirit communication is the work of the devil.

Letters Approved For Garman Estate

This week Buick soars past the 600,000 mark!

Biggest-selling Buick of all time permits us to make the biggest trade-in deals ever possible!

HERE it is, just past July, and what do you think has happened?

Buick popularity has broken every past full-year record!

That's the gospel truth. And Buick, of course, has had many great years before.

At the beginning of this week, Buick production passed 600,000 cars for the 1955 model year.

That is over 155,000 more automobiles than the full model year of 1954—when we captured third place in total national sales.

It is more than 11,000 higher than the full model year of 1950—when the automobile industry had its greatest year, and Buick established an all-time record that stood unchallenged until now.

It is almost a quarter of a million more automobiles than the full model year of 1941—which was the greatest prewar record Buick ever reached.

In other words, there has never been anything before like 1955 in Buick history—when today Buick is building over three cars every minute to meet the public demand.

Doesn't this tell you something important?

Doesn't this soaring Buick success mean that you owe it to yourself to see and sample the car that's breaking every record in the Buick book?

Doesn't it mean that you ought to try Buick's mighty V8 power—Buick's great room and comfort—Buick's cruiser-steady ride and roadability—Buick's superb visibility and precision handling ease?

And doesn't it mean you certainly ought to try Buick's Variable Pitch Dynaflow*—the world's only transmission with the switch-pitch principle of the modern plane's propeller—and the most spectacular performance advance of the year?

Come in and see us—this week, at the latest—and learn for yourself why today's Buick is the biggest-selling Buick of all time—and how big a trade-in deal we can offer you with this tremendous volume to back us up.

*Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on ROADMASTER, optional at modest extra cost on other Series.

Thrill and buy of the year is Buick

Holycross Family Enjoys Camping And Traveling Experiences In Ten States

Mr. and Mrs. Eudolph Holycross and daughter Jane Ann, of Larwill, have returned from a 8,000 mile camping tour of 10 states, made in 40 days, through the north Central and Pacific Northwest—Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, Wyoming, Nebraska, and Iowa.

The purpose of the trip was to enjoy camping and traveling experiences in the National and State Parks, and to visit historical sites, educational institutions, industrial centers and scenic places of the western states.

Ten days were spent in National parks—Yellowstone and Grand Teton in Wyoming, Glacier in Montana, Mt. Ranier in Washington and Carter Lake in Oregon. They camped over night in the following State parks, Whitewater and Lake Chetek in Wisconsin, Custer and Spearfish in South Dakota, Sun Lakes, Lake Wanatchee, Saltwater and Yakima in Washington and Champay and Big Creek in Oregon.

Other overnight camping stays were at the National Monuments at Devils Tower in Wyoming, Craters of the Moon in Idaho, Mt. Rushmore in Wyoming and National Forests of Big Horn, Shoshone, Caribou, Medicine Bow and Yakima.

The Holycross family made conducted tours through the State capital buildings at Madison, Wis.; Helena, Mont.; Olympia, Wash.; Salem, Ore.; Boise, Idaho; Cheyenne, Wyo.; Lincoln, Nebr.; and DesMoines, Iowa. They were on guided inspection tours of industries including Homestake Gold Mine at Lead, S. Dak.; Del Monte Cherry Cannery at Yakima, Wash.; Publishers News Print Paper Mill at Oregon City, Ore.; and Weyerhaeuser Plywood Company at Eugene, Ore.

They spent two weekends with former Whitley county families, the Dr. Robert Chollar family at Bremetton, Wash., and the Paul Kessie family at Kennewick, Wash. Mrs. Chollar is the former Beatrice Landsdown, a Larwill high school graduate and Mr. Kessie is a graduate of Columbia City high school. Both were former students in Larwill high school of Mr. and Mrs. Holycross.

More of the many interesting and educational places visited by the Holycross family were the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn.; Corn Palace, Mitchell, S. Dak.; Grand Coulee Dam, Columbia River Basin Irrigation, Booneville Dam, Columbia River Scenic Drive, all in Washington. Still others were Sea Lion Caves and Pacific Coastline in Oregon and Famous Frontier Days Rodeo at Cheyenne, Wyo.

They visited university and college campuses at the University of Wisconsin, Montana State, University of Washington, Olumbia College, University of Oregon, University of Wyoming, and the University of Nebraska, and the museums and exhibits of unusual interest, found in the institutions of higher learning.

Mrs. Holycross took 175 colored slides for screen projection to be used in general business and civic teaching classes. Jane Ann particularily liked the Frontier Days Rodeo and parade at Cheyenne, Wy.; Mrs. Holycross liked the beautiful floral gardens and greenhouse on the Oregon State Capital grounds at Olympia, and Mr. Holycross enjoyed the lectures and a 20-mile crusier ride on Crater Lake.

Toll Road

mand."

As Indiana moved into action to meet the demand, Wedeking had a voice in selecting engineers to design the first toll road and in choosing personnel for the huge toll road staff.

Five-Year Contract

The commission signed him to a five-year, $25,000-a-year, contract as executive director on April 23, 1954, and he subsequently quit the highway chairmanship.

He moved into a conglomeration of daily problems, challenged by the constant spectre that each 24-hour delay in completing the turnpike will cost $27,000 interest.

That meant there should be no delays. But some were unavoidable with this innovation in transportation springing up.

Initially, there were problems about right-of-way, organized labor and materials tests. Now, headaches like disagreements on specifications and cement deliveries crop up for Wedeking's attention.

He said civic antagonism to toll roads as such has dissipated. This h ecredits to good public relations, fair land purchase prices and economic prosperity promoted by the army of turnpike workers.

A final obstacle about the superhighway's route in Lake County is being ironed out "satisfactorily" and Wedeking said upstate Hoosiers now "are toll road friends if there ever were any."

Congress

up that much hamburger in a hurry.

The Senate Banking Committee's investigation of the stock market promoted it to begin acting like a yo-yo. The Democrats concluded the government should keep an eye on the market, lest it get out of hand; the Republicans criticized the investigation and said prosperity and the rising stock market were due to the Eisenhower administration.

The Senate Monopoly subcommittee dug deep into the Dixon Yates power contract, and didn't let up when the President cancelled the agreement.

Turnabout witness Harvey Matusow appeared before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee where he once had informed on fellow Communists. This time he swore he had lied to Congress and the courts in calling persons Communists.

The same group heard CBS news commentator Winston Burdett admit he had been a Communist from 1937 to 1942. It questioned a number of newspapermen he had named as his associates.

Juvenile delinquency and the dope racket were investigated sporadically all year by a variety of subcommittees, which deplored them.

A Senate civil service sub committee investigated the administration's personnel security program. George V. McDavitt was fired as security officer for the Small Business Administration following testimony on his activities.

Army Bungles Peress Case

The Senate Investigating subcommittee went laboriously through the tangled Army career of former Maj. Irving Peress, who was honorably discharged after refusing to say whether he was a Communist. The subcommittee said the Army bungled the case from the beginning, then tried to hide its mistakes from Congress. The Peress case also played a big part in the 1954 Army - McCarthy hearings.

The subcommittee is now investigating defective grain storage bins in the Midwest.

Early in the session, the firing of State Department immigration expert Edward V. Corsi brought a rash of hearings at which Corsi attacked Scott McLeod, department security officer, and his handling of the administration's immigration program.

Congress Adjourns

was different. Mr. Eisenhower was given much of what he asked but generally the final bills bore a Democratic imprint. And big chunks of his program were ignored, stymied or sidetracked until next year.

"Unity And Achievement" Label

The record was one to which Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson attached a laebl of "unity and achievement." He said Democratic leadership had enabled the nation, "for the first time in many years," to speak with "a strong and single voice" to the world.

Johnson, whose tactical genius made him one of the outstanding figures of the 1595 Congress, was sidelined a month ago by a heart attack. But he kept his ear tuned to the congressional record until adjournment.

His view of congressional accomplishments was based largely on the foreign policy and national defense record.

In contrast, Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland said the congressional performance was "moderately satisfactory" from the administration viewpoint. A GOP-controlled Congress, he said, would have enacted more of Mr. Eisenhower's domestic program and more of it in accord with the President's recommendations.

Payoff Next Year

Two years—not one—make the record of a Congress and the payoff will come next year. On the basis of the record a year hence, the two parties will have to go before the country for the 1956 campaign. Most Republicans hope and believe, however, they will have a still bigger asset in an Eisenhower candidacy for a second term.

The Democratic cast to the legislative program was shown in the minimum wage bill, lifting the floor to $1 instead of Mr. Eisenhower's 90 - cent recommendation, and in a more liberal public housing program than the administration asked.

It also was shown in House-approved bills to restore 90 per9 cent price supports for basic farm crops and to pay more benefits fro mthe old age insurance system. These must await Senate action next year.

Tax legislation divided the parties this year, too, but a handful of Democratic votes in the Sneate enabled the administration to defeat moves to lower personal income taxes while the budget is still in the red. Tax cuts will be an issue again next year.

Major Administration Casualties

Major casualties of the Eisenhower program were proposals for highway and school construction legislation. Democrats rejected both and tried to write their own but failed to get them enacted.

Congress ignored administration plans for amending the Taft-Hartley law, reinsuring private health insurance plans, increasing postal rates and giving the vote to 18-year-olds. The House killed the Hawaiian statehood project.

The Republican Congress last year could pass none of these bills either.

However the domestic record is appraised, the Senate Democratic leadership regarded the greatest achievements of the session as those in foreign policy. These involved the Formosa resolution, the foreign trade bill and treaties affecting Austria, Western Germany, Southeast Asia and Formosa.

When Congress' voice was heard in foreign policy, it was most of all the booming voice of Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga), dean of the Senate and chairman of its foreign relations commitee. He first suggested a Big Four conference, and the administration agreed, and he proposed that a try be made at face-to-face talks with Red China, and the administration again agreed.

Peiping May Become United Nations Member

Say Western Diplomats Closely Following U.S.-Red China Talks

GENEVA (UP)-Western diplomats closely following the talks between the United States and Communist China said today it "may not be too long" before Peiping wins membership in the United Nations.

They said Red China must first make a genuine success of the Geneva talks and convince Washington it is ready for a cease fire in the Formosa Strait where the United States and Red China appeared close to war early in the year.

The diplomats paid particular attention to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' press conference statements in Washington Tuesday when he appealed to Red Chinas leaders to make a public declaration against using force to conquer Formosa.

Some believed Dulles might be holding out for Peiping the bait of American diplomatic recognition and a U.N. seat—two goals Chinese Communist Premier Chou En lai has been seeking for months.

The American and Chinese negotiators took a day off today to consult their home governments on the release of American civilians held by Red China while optimism that the civilians would be returning soon grew steadily.

Diplomatic sources said they believed arrangements for the return of the civilians could be worked out in three or more meetings between U. Alexis Johnson, U.S. Ambassador to Czechoslovakia, and Wang Ping-nan, Red Chinese Ambassador to Poland.

Professional Odds-Makers Say Second-Spot Yankees 7-5 Favorites To Win A.L. Pennant

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

Professional odds - makers in Las Vegas made the second-place Yankees 7-5 favorites today to win the American League pennant and it looks like they knew what they were doing because the weakest hitter in the lineup can break up a ball game like Joe Collins did Tuesday nigh.t

Going into Tuesday nights game with the Indians, Collins was low man on the Yankee totem pole with an unimposing average of 209.

Collins began boosting that mark with a home run in the first inning and by the time he hit his second homer of the game in the 10th, the Yankees had a sorely-needed 2-1 victory and his average was up to .221. That mark is still the lowest among the Yankee regulars but no one is complaining.

For Collins' second circuit, and his third hit of the game, snapped a 1-all deadlock that existed since the first inning and kept the Yankees hot on the heels and only one game behind the pace-setting White Sox, who squeaked through to a 2-1 triumph over the Red Sox.

Bynre Out-Duels Wynn

Southpaw Tommy Byrne out-duelled Early Wynn in the Yankee victory, yielding Cleveland's only run in the first inning on a leadoff triple by Al Smith and a sacrifice fly by Bobby Avila.

Gangling Connie Johnson was the winning pitcher for the White Sox although he departed in the ninth after Jim Piersall singled with two out. Faye Throneberry then tripled off Morris Martin but Dixie Howell came in to get Eddie Joost for the final out. Jim Rivera's fourth inning homer proved the winning margin.

The Tigers blew a six-run lead and then another two-run lead but rallied for three runs in the ninth to lick the Senators, 13-10. Harvey Kuenn paced Detroit's 17-hit attack with two doubles and two singles while Joe Coleman, the fourth Tiger hurler, was credited with the win.

Left hander Bill Wight, discarded by half the teams in the American League, limited the Athletics to four hits while pitching the last-place Orioles to a 5-1 decision. Baltimore capitalized on four Kansas City errors as Bill Wilson saved the losers from being shut out with a fifth inning homer.

Braves Beat Dodgers

In the National League, Milwaukee rallied for four runs in the eighth inning to defeat first-place Brooklyn, 5-3, with the help of Eddie Mathews' 28th and 29th homers of the campaign. Don Zimmer's throwing error with two out in the eighth enabled the Braves to score their winning runs. Duke Snider slammed his 36th homer in the fifth frame off starter Bob Buhl.

Cincinnati stretched its winning streak to seven straight games by beating Philadelphia twice, 2-0 and 4-0 in a twi-night twin bill.

Gus Bell drove in both runs in Gus Bell drove in both runs in the opener and three more runs in the nightcap with his 17th and 18th homers. Johnny Klippstein hurled his first shutout since 1952 in limiting the Phils to six hits in the first game while Joe Nuxhall posted his 11th victory in pitching a five hitter in the night cap.

Shortstop Ernie Banks tied a major league record with his fourth grand slam of the season to help the Cubs beat the Pirates, 12-4. Banks' 32nd homer was the key blow in a six-run fifth inning winning pitcher.

Johnny Antonelli hurled his first shutout of the season as the Giants beat the Cards, 5-0. Antonelli held St. Louis to five hits.

Doby Equals Record

NEW YORK (UP)—Centerfielder Larry Doby of the Cleveland Indians has equalled an American League record by going 157 straight games in the outfield without making an error, but he's not too happy about it.

Doby handled seven chances perfectly, including two spectacular catches, in Tuesday night's 2-1, 10-inning loss to the Yankees to tie the mark set by Sam Mele during the 1953 and 54 seasons with Chicago and Baltimore.

"What good is a record like that?" Doby asked bitterly in the clubhouse after the game. "Better I make an error and we win the game."

Jackson Meets Charles Tonight

SYRACUSE N.Y. (UP)—Young Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson will try to blast Ezzard Charles' dream of recapturing the heavyweight crown tonight.

Freakish Jackson, third-ranking contender, meets sixth ranking Charles, 34, in a TV-radio 10-round at War Memorial Auditorium.

With six straight victories under his belt 23year-old Jackson said confidently today, "I'll set such a fast pace, o'd Ez will just have to fold up."

However, sportsmen apparently did not share the Hurricane's confidence. Charles is favored at 11-5, despite Tommy's youth and higher ranking. The ex-champ was favored because of his experience in 104 fights and because of the punch that knocked out 54.

Weather Conditions Favorable For Crops

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Crop experts reported today that soil moisture was sufficient in 95 per cent of Indiana farming areas.

Only three per cent of the reports to M.M. Justin, agricultural statistician at Purdue University, showed moisture shortages and there was a surplus in only two per cent.

As a result of favorable weather conditions, Justin said in his weekly crop report that "pastures, corn and soybeans have made rapid growth."

"Corn is 77 per cent tassled, 60 per cent silked and 12 per cent has reached roasting ear stage. Pods are setting on 37 per cent of soybeans," the report said.

"The second cutting of alfalfa is 71 per cent done."

Iowa Weatherman Hot Under The Collar

DES MOINES, Iowa (UP)—C.E. Lamoureux, chief of the Des Moines Weather Bureau, said today he's getting hot under the collar at the number of people calling to ask the temperature. It they'd leave him alone, Lamoureux said, he might have some time to look for cooler weather.

Wertz Suggests You Hop On The Indians' Bandwagon

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Slugging Vic Wertz of Cleveland issued a gentle reminder today that "pitching wins pennants" and because it does, he suggests you hop on the Indians' bandwagon if you want to ride home with the victor.

"We're going to win because we have the best pitching,' declared the long-ball hitting Cleveland first baseman. "Don't take my word for it. Ask the experts. They'll tell you the club with the best pitching wins nine out of 10 times."

Wertz insists none of the other contenders — the White Sox, Yankees, Red Sox or Tigers — could match the Indians' pitching staff to begin with, and now that veteran Sal Maglie has been added, the others figure to fall even farther behind.

Know Maglie Is Tough

"We know all about how tough Maglie is," Wertz said, "not only from hitting against him in the World Series but also from facing him so often during those exhibition games with the Giants on the four different kinds of curves like Maglie. He gives us an extra starter to go with Early Wynn, Mike Garcia, Art Houtteman, Herb Score and Bob Feller. And now that Bob Lemon is about ready to join us, we're in excellent shape as far as the pitching is concerned.'

Wertz, the lone Cleveland hero in the 1954 World Series against the Giants, pointed out that the majority of his teammates feel the Yankees are the team to beat.

"I have to go along with them there," he said, "but now that our ball club is finally getting squared away after so many injuries, we're not especially worried about the Yankees or anyone else."

Suffered Early Injuries

Wertz, who only recently returned to the lineup after being sidelined with a severely wrenched thumb, was one of the many Cleveland regulars who was forced out of action this season with one kind of injury or another.

Wynn missed the early part of the season because of a virus in Doby was sidelined with a sore hand, third baseman Al Rosen fection. Center - fielder Larry with an injured leg, shortstop George Strickland with blood poisoning, second baseman Bobby Avila with an eye infection and Lemon with a torn tendon.

"Despite all those injuries, we're still right up there,' Wertz said, "and I think our pitching will make the difference the rest of the way. Do you know of any other club in the league that has a couple of relief pitchers like Don Mossi and Ray Narleski?'

Confident as Wertz and the rest of the Indians are, none is counting his World Series share yet.

"You can say that again," grinned the popular first sacker. "But when and if we do get in that World Series, you can bet all the rice in China we're not going to lose four straight again.'

Indiana's Death Toll Climbs To 574

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Indiana's 1955 traffic death toll climbed to 574 last week as fatalities remained moderately light for the second week in a row.

However, Indiana State Police who recorded the figures warned that August is a "peak accident month" and the record of safety during the last half of July was threatened by a traditional upswing during "dog days.'

The 574 deaths compared with 582 as of July 31 last year.

Fifteen deaths were added last week, compared with 18 for the corresponding week of 1954. Week before last, Indiana's fatalities were held to 12.

Quarterbacks Give Fine Performances

WESTMINSTER, Md. (UP)—It still is a tossup as to who has the lead for the No. 1 quarterback job for the Baltimore Colts.

Both Gary Kerkorian and Jack Scarbath have put on fine performances to date. Coach Weeb Ewbank says that "Kerkorian is much better than he was a year ago and Scarbath appears more impressive at every practice."

Ewbank also has Ray Graves of Texas A&M, Don Engels of Illinois and George Shaw of Oregon to pick from. Shaw is in Evanston, Ill., with the College All-Stars.

Moore, Marciano Train For Bout

NORTH ADAMS, Mass. (UP)—Archie Moore, who meets champion Rocky Marciano for the heavyweight title in Yankee Stadium, Sept. 22, expected to start punching today at his camp. The light heavyweight king ran the eight and one-half miles to the summit of Mount Greylock Tuesday, and announced later that he weighed 200 pounds.

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UP) — Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano was ordered to "take it easy" Tuesday at his camp by Manager Al Weill. Weill said that he didn't want Rocky to wear him self out in the excessive heat. Marciano defends his title against Archie Moore in Yankee Stadium on Sept. 22.

Pro's Blaze Away At Tam O'Shanter

CHICAGO (UP)—Some 150 non-exempt men pro's blazed away at the Tam O'Shanter Country Clubs par 72 course today in the second day of qualifications for the "All American' golf tournament.

Lionel Hebert, Erie, Pa., fired a seven-under-par Tuesday to lead about 150 other men pro's in the scramble for a starting berth. Bob Gajda, Bloomfield Hills, Mich., had a 66 while Pat O'Leary, Bismarck N.D. and Gene Webb St. Louis, each shot 67's.

Grouped at 68 were Bill Nary, Reno, Nev., and Bob Inman Detroit, Steve Blatnak Chicago; Max Evans, Utica, Mich.; Ray Glenn Ft. Campbell, Ky.; and Walker Inman, Augusta Ga. shot 69's.

The low 72 scorers in the two-day qualifications will join 85 exempted players in the tournament. Women pro's and men and women amateurs qualified Monday.

The tournament gets underway Thursday.

Herb Flam May Be In Elimination Danger

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. UP)—Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., appeared to be the seeded player in greatest danger of elimination today as play reached the third round in men's singles in the Eastern Grass Courts tennis championship.

Flam, seeded sixth here and ranked 11th among the nation's players, drew as his rival for a berth in the quarter - finals English champion Roger Becker.

Becker, seeded second among foreign entrants, proved his good form Tuesday by rallying to beat impressive newcomer Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, 6-4, 1-6, 6-2. Flam advanced with a strong 63 6-2 victory over Reynaldo Garrido of Cuba.

Other leading men's matches today included: Second - seeded Vic Seixas of Philadelphia vs. Cliff Mayne of San Francisco; third-seeded Ham Richardson of Baton Rouge La., vs. Ed Kauder of Los Angeles; and fourth - seeded Ed Moylan of Trenton, N.J., vs. Hal Burrows of Charlottesville, Va.

French Lick Names Head Basketball Coach

FRENCH LICK, Ind. (UP)—Officials at French Lick High School today announced that Marvin W. Blemker has been named head basketball coach for the coming season.

Blemker, who coached at Otwell last year, will replace Noble Katter, who was promoted to principal at French Lick.

Former Purdue Star Joins Rough Riders

OTTAWA (UP)—Dick Barwegan, a former star at Purdue University, has joined the Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four Football League for a tryout, it was announced today.

The 235-pound guard has played the pastnineyearswithanum -ort for the past nine years with a number of clubs in the National Football League.

Strike Could Affect Many Shows Produced For TV

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—A scheduled nationwide strike by the Screen Actors Guild against producers of television entertainment films posed a threat today to big name shows produced purely for video.

It was believed the strike, scheduled to start Friday at 12:01 a.m., could effect up to 70 per cent of the shows produced only for television.

Most producers have film backlogs, some of them with shows filmed up to 12 weeks ahead. Also, producers affected could switch to "live" shows since the strike would be only against films especially made for TV.

The Guild said other industry unions, including Actors Equity, the Screen Extras Guild, and American Guild of Variety Artists, have pledged full support to the walkout called Monday.

The strike will not affect production of theatrical motion pictures, filmed TV commercials or non-TV industrial and educational pictures.

John L. Dales, national executive secretary of the Guild, said the strike was called because producers refused a union demand for pay to actors for the second run of films on television. Under a three-year contract which expired July 27, actors collect residual payments on the third to sixth runs of the films but not the second one.

Story Of Modern Enoch Arden Told

SODA SPRINGS, Calif. (UP)—The red-haired wife of a modern Enoch Arden said today she loves the man she married in the belief her husband, to be freed Thursday by Red China, was dead.

Mrs. Una Schmidt, 20, disclosed she married Alford D. Fine a High Sierra lumberjack, last September without divorcing her husband, Daniel, one of 11 U.S. airmen jailed by the Peiping regime as "spies."

Mrs. Schmidt admitted she will have a "great deal to discuss" with her husband when he gets home—her second marriage.

Like Enoch Arden, the central figure in Alfred Lord Tennyson's poem, Schmidt faces the problem of deciding whether to terminate the second marriage of his wife or go his own way alone.

"I thought Danny was dead,' Mrs. Schmidt said. "I didn't find out he was still alive until two months after I married Alford.

"Now I dont know what I am going to do. The only one who knows is the good Lord himself."

Mrs. Schmidt had no idea what her husband's reaction to the news of her second marriage would be. But she added:

"I think it's better to come home and find your wife is happily married than to come home and find she's been running around with everybody."

Mrs. Schmidt is the mother of a 2-year-old child, born two months after she received word in January, 1953, that her husband's B29 had been shot down over North Korea.

She married Schmidt, a childhood sweet heart in their home town of Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, five weeks before he went overseas.

Mrs. Schmidt said she was convinced Daniel was dead when she married Fine. However, she admitted making a "mistake" in failing to get the second marriage annulled when she learned he was alive.

I made a big mistake,' she said. "I dont think there's a person in the whole wide world who doesn't make a mistake once in a while."

She said she wrote now and then to Schmidt after learning he was in prison, but she did not tell him she had remarried.

"I figured he'd gone through hell without me putting a little more on him," she said.

"Alford and I talked about it a long time last night. We love each other very much, and he says my decision in the matter will be final."

She said she will meet her husband when he returns home.

"We have a great deal to discuss, including the future of our son. I believe we can straighten out all our difficulties.'

Fine said he would go along with whatever his wife felt was right.

"We are very much in love and we have faith that everything will work out satisfactorily,' he said.

Too Many Fullbacks

RENSSELAER, Ind. (UP)—The Chicago Bears have so many fullbacks that Coach George Halas has switched one of them—rookie Rick Casares—to halfback.

In addition to Casares and No. 1 fullback Chick Jagade, Halas has Joe Furtunato and Andy Kozar, both of whom have been giving Jagade a keen battle for the regular job.

Garrie D. Skinner Dies Unexpectedly Tuesday Evening

Noble County Man Was To Enter Hospital

Garrie D. Skinner, 59, Noble county farmer, died unexpectedly of a heart attack at his home in Noble township, ten miles northwest of Columbia City at approximately 6 o'clock Tuesday evening. He had been in failing health for the past three months and had completed plans to enter the hospital on Tuesday night where he was to undergo X-ray examinations and possible surgery for a peptic ulcer.

He was born February 23, 1896, in Whitley county, a son of Thomas and Phoeba Winebrenner Skinner. His early years were spent in Columbia City, and on November 29, 1916, he was united in marriage to Wilda Fay Pressler. They started housekeeping on farm between Merriam and Wolfe Lake and at the time of Mrs. Skinner's death on July 7th, 1941, they were operating the Skinner farm northwest of Big Lake.

Mr. Skinner later was married to Mable Bombardie who preceded him in death on February 22, 1952. He was a member of the Hecla IOOF Lodge at Etna.

The surviving relatives include one son, Bernard G. Skinner, Noble township, Noble county; four grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Ruby Winebrenner, of Noble county. He was preceded in death by a son, Eugene, one brother and a sister.

The body has been removed to the Smith and Sons Funeral Home where friends may call after 7 o'clock this evening. At 9 o'clock Friday morning it will be taken to the Christian Chapel Church at Merriam to lie in state until the hour of the service. The Rev. Volie Pyles of the Ormas Baptist Church and the Rev. Franklin Orr of the Christian Chapel Church will officiate at the memorial rites to be held at 10:30 a.m. Burial will be in the Christian Chapel cemetery.

Morning Rites Held Mrs. J. F. Brenneman

Memorial services for Mrs. J. Forrest Brenneman were held Tuesday morning at the Smith and Sons Funeral Home with the Rev. Robert W. Crosby, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating. Mrs. Helen Slagle Aker played a prelude and postlude of hymns as the musical portion of the service.

Members of the Lost Poem Club, the Coterie, and the trustees of the Peabody Free Library attended the services at the funeral home and at the graveside in the South Park Cemetery. Friends of the Brenneman family who served as the pallbearers were Benton and William Bloom, David Walter, Dr. Lowell Grant, Paul Morsches, Harry Yoder and Spurgeon Markley.

Russia Proposes Adenauer Visit Moscow Soon

PARIS (UP) — Russia proposed to West Germany, in a note delivered to the German Embassy here today, that Chancellor Konrad Adenauer visit Moscow either at the end of August or early in September.

Informed German sources said Moscow accepted Adenauer's conditions for his visit.

The Soviet note arrived just as the Bonn government was expressing irritation with Russia's failure to respond to Adenauer's note of last June 30 agreeing in principle to the earlier Moscow invitatiton but setting forth his prior conditions.

The West German chancellor had demanded that it be understood before he visited the Soviet capital that the Russians would announce, while he was there, the release of all German war prisoners and civilians still held by the U.S.S.R.

It also was demanded that the Russians agree in advance that the Moscow visit would not be construed to mean West German recognition of the East German Communist regime and that both sides clearly understand that the visit implied no acceptance by West Germany of the Oder-Niesse line which gave to Poland a part of pre-war Germany's eastern territory.

Man Electrocuted At Fairgrounds

DECATUR, Ind. (UP)—Marion McKean, 42, Monroe, was electrocuted Tuesday when he touched a 7500-volt high tension line while installing wiring at the Adams County 4-H fair.

Flash Floods In Albuquerque 3 Times In Week

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UP) — Flash floods tore into northeast Albuquerque for the third time in a week Tuesday night, destroying a Santa Fe Railway spur and driving about 50 persons from their homes.

Several hundred airmen from nearby bases were rushed into the area to sandbag water "more than three feet deep.' It ran through homes and turned streets into canals.

Police said there were no casualties. The evacuees — some of whom had just moved back to the area after last week's flood—were co dormitory.
housed at a Red Cross emergency base in a University of New Mexico dormitory.

The rains boiled up out of the Sandia Mountains and sent torrents raging down the Embudo Arroyo although precipitatioin in Albuquerque itself barely totaled an inch.

Last week, the worst flash floods in years routed some 1,500 persons and caused more than one million dollars in damage as they ripped up roads and destroyed lowland farms.

AAA Will Sever All Connections With Auto Racing

WASHINGTON (UP)—The American Automobile Association has decided to sever all connection with auto racing after this year and withdraw its sanction from all contests including the 500-mile Memorial Day classic at Indianapolis.

This was disclosed today by Col. Arthur Herrington, chairman of the AAA Contest Board, who said the new policy was adopted by the association's executive committee because of the disastrous accident at Le Mans, France, in June, and the tendency of juries "to give excessive damage awards" to persons hurt in racing accidents.

Cal Niday Now Off The Critical List

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Cal Niday, 39, who was injured in the 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway race May 30, was taken off the critical list in Methodist Hospital Tuesday.

Niday was hurt in a wreck while he was on the 178th lap of the 200-lap race. He was burned on his face and ankles.

Democrat And Republican Give Views Of Session Of 84th Congress

Editor's Note: No two men are better able to judge the work of the 84th Congress than Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California. Here are their appraisals of the session prepared exclusively for the United Press. Johnson's statement was dictated from his hospital room where he is recuperating from a heart attack.

By LYNDON B. JOHNSON
Senate Democratic Leader
(Written For United Press)

The first session of the 84th Congress can be summed up in two words — unity and achievement.

Under Democratic leadership, a policy was forged which allowed the United States to speak with a strong and single voice in world councils. For the first time in many years, the voices of discord —which sought to divide America in the face of world Communism— were reduced to a minimum.

This unity was achieved by eliminating narrow partisanship from the life and death issues of national security and exploring the facts in the light of patriotic reason. The result was unity by agreement— not unity by coercion.

The Democratic Record

The record of Democratic leadership speaks for itself.

The Formosa resolution drawing the line against Communist Chinese imperialism — passed with only three dissenting votes (in the Senate).

The Paris accords placing the keystone in the free world's Western bulwark against Communism —approved in a matter of hours.

The Austrian treaty setting the stage for the Big Four conference at the summit — ratified quickly and with only minor dissent.

The McCarthy resolution seeking to tie the President's hands at Geneva — firmly rejected with only four approving votes.

On this basis, the President, in sharp contrast to his predecessors, was able to go to Geneva secure in the knowledge that partisan knives would not be hurled into his back as he sought to represent America. For this achievement alone, this Congress deserves a special place in history.

Hammered Out Solid Program

But the first session of the Democratic 84th Congress did not confine itself to one achievement alone. It hammered out a solid program to promote the prosperity of the United States and laid the basis for further accomplishments in the next session.

Looking at the picture statistically, the record is impressive. This session passed more bills in less time than any other in recent memory. The credit for this smooth functioning should go to the able and experienced committee chairmen — men like Senators Clements of Kentucky, George of Georgia, Fulbright of Arkansas, Hayden of Arizona, Hill of Alabama, Magnuson of Washington, and others.

Through their experienced and able leadership, the bills that were passed were not only numerous but of high quality. These include:

A long range trade program geared realistically to the needs of our times and seeking to promote the prosperity of the United States.

A reserve bill placing America's military manpower in a more effective posture than has existed previously.

A housing bill that seeks to meet the needs of a rapidly expanding America.

A minimum wage bill raising the floor on wages to a level that is in accord with modern realities.

Farm legislation to reduce the interest rates on farm loans and cushion the shock of natural disasters on agriculture.

Anti - trust legislation increasing the penalities for the first time in 64 years.

Tax legislation closing a loophole that would have cost the Treasury at least one billion dollars.

Pay legislation placing federal employees in a better position to meet the high cost of living.

Scores of other measures were passed to protect the nation's commodity exchanges from speculation; to control water pollution; to aid small business and to step up medical research.

In short, this is a session of which every member can be proud and every American can be proud. The Democratic leadership has produced a record of solid achievement, based on a desire to promote the national security and welfare, which is unmatched in many years.

By WILLIAM F. KNOWLAND
Senate Republican Leader
Written For United Press

Taking into account the whole of the Eisenhower legislative program for this session, the performance of Congress was moderately satisfactory in view of the close division that prevailed between the two major parties in both the Senate and House of Representatives. If Republicans had been in control of the Congress and its committees, much more of the President's domestic program would have been enacted and more of it in accordance with his recommendations.

In contrast to practices in the previous Democratic New Deal administrations, President Eisenhower followed the spirit of genuine bipartisanship in foreign policy with excellent results in the promotion of peace and safeguarding of the nation's security.

The cooperation that did exist should not obscure the fact that the Democratic - controlled Congress failed to enact many important domestic measures recommended by the President. Major administration legislative recom mendations not considered or rejected included: Highway bill; atomic peace ship for international good will; omnibus health bill; federal aid to public school construction; a group of water resource projects including the uper Colorado; Taft-Hartley Act amendments; Refugee Relief Act amendments; Hawaiian statehood; comprehensive program of aid to low-income farmers; and customs simplification.

Democrats Embarrass President

Democrats in Congress acted in many cases to embarrass the President and sought to sway public opinion against him as part of their strategy for the 1956 political campaign. Among these instances were the ill-considered attempt to force a $20 income tax reduction, the solid Democratic vote in the Senate (with the single exception of Thurmond of S.C.) against the atomic peace ship, the passage of a postal pay bill which compelled a presidential veto, and the use of investigating committees to try to create political issues.

Republicans, for the most part, in contrast to many of the Democrats, strongly supported the President's program, and made a record outstanding for its insistence on legislative policies recommended by President Eisenhower to serve the best interests of the nation.

GOP Support More Solid

For example, Republicans supported measures requested or supported by the President and the administration far more strongly than did Democrats in the following instances: To eliminate the irresonsible $20 income tax reduction, to uphold the sale of government-owned rubber plants, to support the President's recommendation on postal pay, to uphold his veto on the postal pay bill, to support the President's highway plan, to support the President's public housing request, to prevent unbalancing of the defense establishment, to uphold the President's proposal for returning to private interprise of certain commercial-type enterprises in the Defense Deartment, to carry out the President's request for funds for an atomic peace ship, to support the President's request for home rule legislation for the District of Columbia, and legislation to permit persons of experience and ability to serve government without compensation.

The Republican administration has placed in operation many of the improvements suggested by the Hoover Commission during the 83rd Congress, but the Democratic controlled 84th Congress has not enacted a single Hoover proposal.

The Republican administration has brought peace and prosperity. The outstanding fact of two and a half years of Reublican administration is the changed atmosphere the administration helped to bring about in the world and in domestic affairs.

Cost Of Living Holds Unchanged

NEW YORK (UP)—The cost of living last month held unchanged from May and ran 0.1 per cent below June 1954, the National Industrial Conference Board said today.

The board's all-items index for June stood at 100.2 (1953 equals 100) compared with 100.3 a year ago.

The purchasing value of $1 last month was 99.8 cents, based on the 1953 dollar as 100 cents.

However, using the dollar of January 1939 as the base period, the buying power of $1 in June was only 54.9 cents.

United States To Fire Sodium Vapor Rocket

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States plans to fire a sodium vapor rocket 60 miles into the skies over New Mexico in an experiment expected to produce a ball of light equal to a full moon at twilight.

Dr. Homer Newell, an official of the Naval Research Laboratory, confirmed that the experiment will be undertaken after a scientist disclosed the project in London.

The London rocket expert, Prof. D. R. Bates, said the sodium rocket probably will be shot into the heavens this September. But Newell said he was uncertain about the timing.

Newell said it is hoped the experiment will clear up some of the mysteries about a layer of sodium which scientists believe hovers in the ionosphere 60 miles above the earth.

He added that the sodium moon project also may supply important data for the man-made earth satellite vehicle which the United States hopes to hurl between 200 and 300 miles above the earth in 1959.

Scientists have long observed that sunlight entering the atmosphere produces a glow high in the skies that suggests the presence of a layer of natural sodium.

One of the problems of upper-air research in the government's rocket program has been to determine the exact altitude and other characteristics of this layer.

11 American Fliers Have Reached Canton

Officials See No Hitch In Return

HONG KONG (UP) — The 11 American fliers being freed by Communist China were reported today to have reached Canton in South China, and U.S. officials saw no hitch in their return to freedom Thursday.

The Royal Observatory here predicted rain and fog for Thursday but American officials said any decision to delay the men's immediate flight home for a reunion with their families would be made that afternoon.

American sources said the 11 men would spend the night in a Canton hotel and come to Hong Kong by train from the Kwangtung Province capital in the morning. The train usually arrives near the border at 1:30 p.m. (12:30 a.m. EDT).

Lt. Col. O'Wighton D. Simpson, Air Force liaison officer and the official American greeter in Hong Kong, planned a trip to the new territories adjoining Red China late today to make a final check on arrangements for receiving the airmen.

The men's contact with the press will be limited in Hong Kong to answering such questions as "how does it feel to be out?" and on their health.

Maj. Ralph Bryant, a Far Eastern Air Force information officer, flew to Hong Kong in one of the two planes to handle press arrangements. It was believed the fliers would be allowed to grant interviews at Clark Field after the Air Force has briefed them on what and what not to say.

The Red Cross office in Tokyo dispatched one of its representatives, Richard Tomlin of Santa Fe, N.M., to Hong Kong to extend "every usual and extraordinary service" to the released men.

The Red Cross said the fliers would be allowed to telephone their families in the United States at Red Cross expense even before the Air Force flies them to the U.S. West Coast for a reunion with their families. They also may send cables.

County 4-H Fair To Feature Free Talent Show

The Whitley County 4-H Fair will feature a talent show with cash prizes to be given winners and finalists.

This will be a free show, staged at the 4-H Fair Grounds, on Thursday evening, August 25. The public is invited.

A 4-H Fair committee, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pontzius, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Gale Harris, Mr. and Mrs. James Sherwood, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith, has been appointed to audition and plan the show.

Auditions will be Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evenings, August 8, 9, and 10 at the REMC Building in Columbia City.

This will be the 31st annual 4-H Fair here and rates as one of the oldest in the state as an exclusive 4-H exhibition. It was started on the court house square and now has expanded to the fair ground with permanent buildings.

The audition is open to anyone, with the blank for entry appearing another portion of this paper.

Savings Bonds Are Held By Owners For Long Periods

Clarence A. Feist, chairman of the Whitley County U. S. Savings Bonds Committee, has been sent a report showing that a large percentage of the Savings Bonds being purchased are held for long periods by their owners. The Treasury Department says that the reports frequently circulated to the effect that most Savings Bonds are cashed in shortly after their purchase are not true.

Approximately 72 per cent of the Savings Bonds that have matured since their sale was started in 1941 are still held by their owners.

As of June 1, 1954 Bonds issued are still outstanding. For 1955, 94 per cent are being held, and half of the Savings Bonds sold in 1955 are still retained. Even 31 per cent of the Bonds sold during 1941 are in the hands of their purchasers, although these Bonds became available for redemption in 1951.

Release Of U.S. Civilians Hits Sudden Hitch

Red China Insists It Has Rights Over Chinese Students Here

GENEVA, Switzerland (UP) — Negotiations for the release of American civilians in China ran into a sudden hitch today when Communist China insisted it had rights over Chinese students in the United States.

The meeting between the United States and Communist Chinese ambassadors was adjourned until Monday to give the Red envoy time to confer with the Peiping government in hopes of finding a face-saving formula.

The meeting between U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson and Chinese Wang Ping-nan began on schedule with agreement believed near on exchange of American prisoners held by Communist China.

But a hitch quickly developed when the Reds insisted they had rights over the thousands of Chinese students in the United States and insisted many of them were being prevented from returning to their homeland.

A recess was called and Wang huddled with his advisers for 15 minutes in a nearby office. He returned to the meeting room and soon the two ambassadors agreed to call it quits until Monday.

The dispute was reported to center on insistence on third party mediation to rule on the case of the students. The United States was opposed on grounds most of the students did not want to return to Red China and those who wanted to could.

Nazarene Church Camp Meeting To Start Friday

The camp meeting of the Church of the Nazarene opens Friday at the district camp ground at Marion. It is expected to draw capacity crowds, according to the local pastor, the Rev. Merle Bright.

Mr. Bright also said that the Columbia City Church of the Nazarene is dismissing its morning worship service at 10:30 a.m. and the evangelistic service at 7:30 p.m. on both August 7 and 14. Sunday school will be conducted at the regular time, 9;30 a.m.

Special workers for the 10-day meeting include Dr. R. V. Delong, of the radio program Showers of Blessing. An author and educator, Dr. Delong is also an evangelist.

Dr. Mendall Taylor, dean of the Nazarene Seminary in Kansas City, Mo., is also an author and a professor. He and Dr. Paul Updike, district superintendent, will also lead at the meeting.

Boyce and Cathyrine Pierce will furnish special music.

Amorous Inmates

SONORA, Calif. (UP)—Sheriff Donald L. Vars reported today he caught two amorous inmates trying to dig their way out of their cell in Tuolumne County jail.

He said the inmates, Earl William Bucy, 35, Wellsburg, W. Va., and Robert M. Barber, 24, Binghamton, N.Y., were trying to dig a tunnel into an adjoining cell occupied by Wanda Mae Friend, 30, of Wellsburg.

Noble County Fair At Kendallville Opens August 15

Board Plans 6 Days Of Exhibits, Racing, Amateur, Queen Events

Plans for Noble County's 93rd annual fair have been completed on the confident note that records for entertainment and attendance will be shattered when the big show opens August 15 for a six-day run at Kendallville.

Weather co-operating, this year's exposition—one of Indiana's best, biggest and oldest—promises to draw legions of tri-staters to see and enjoy a program which touches almost every area of entertainment.

Noble County Fair Association officials have endeavored to find something new for their 1955 event, and they are presenting a three-night "Cavalcade of Stars."

The fair will start Monday night with a professional wrestling program.

Three bouts have been carded matching Bull Montana and Geno Angelo, and Bill Savage and Billy Fox. Still another event will involve four young women in a no-time-limit tag team match in which Carol Cook and Jane Mull tangle with Mae Weston and Lee-Chona LaClaire.

Tuesday night's grandstand program will be reserved for amateur entertainment in which dozens of contestants will seek cash prizes. Jay Gould, WOWO will emcee the production.

Fair officials have booked for Wednesday night only, Ward Beam's International Auto Daredevil Contest. Three thrill shows, wrapped into one, will bring to the fairground track the skill numbers which are hand-picked to satisfy the tastes of every grandstand patron.

Horse and tractor pulling contests are scheduled for Tuesday afternoon, there's an antique and modern car parade Thursday night, a "popularity queen" contest Friday evening, and stock car races are carded for both Saturday afternoon and night.

All these are grandstand events, but they are not by any means the only attractions of the week. Scores of 4—H Club boys and girls, representing every corner of Noble County, will move onto the grounds to demonstrate their handiwork.

The Northeastern Indiana Dairy Association, will have it's Holstein, Guernsey and Jersey Days. Concerts by Avilla, LaGrange, Auburn and Kendallville high school

Indiana State Police Junk Radar Speed Devices

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Indiana State Police have junked radar devices they used to catch speeders.

But they still are using electrical timers and are getting ready to test other kinds of radar equipment.

Supt. Frank A. Jessup said today three radar units borrowed from the State Highway Department were returned "after exhaustive tests proved they were not suited to law enforcement in rural areas."

For one thing, Jessup said, the equipment "was found not sufficiently selective or with enough range for open highway operation."

Another shortcoming was the lack of a recorder to make a permanent record of an infraction for use in court.

"We'll use radar when we can get machines which guarantee fairness in enforcement," Jessup said.

He added that tests of other radar equipment will be made in a few days.

Fourteen electrical timers are still in use, Jessup said, and more may be added.

Bandit Escapes In An Abortive Brinks Robbery

Eludes Reinforced Police Battalion

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UP)—A machine gun bandit who broke into a Brinks, Inc., stronghold with two companions and wounded a guard before escaping in an abortive $498,500 holdup attempt today eluded an armed and heavily reinforced police battalion.

All exits from the city were sealed off in a strenuous effort by authorities to find and capture the bandit, identified as James Salermerio, 35, alias Jimmy Sheridan of New York.

His two companions, Anthony Pettinato, 39, of Baltimore, Md., and Sylvester Mazzella, 46, of New York, were captured a few minutes after they fled from the scene of the robbery with heavy boxes of cash.

Police said the two captured gunmen were cornered in a residential district and surrendered when tear gas bombs forced them from concealment.

The loot they had was recovered and additional cash was found, untouched, at the Brinks garage where the abortive robbery at-

Blue Lake Man Catches Large Bass Wednesday

PRIZE CATCH — Howard Markey, who resides at Blue Lake, proudly holds the 6-¾ pound black bass which he caught in the west bay of the lake Wednesday evening.

Howard Markey, a resident at Blue Lake, has decided that he will stick to fishing Indiana waters after catching a near 7-pound bass at the west bay of the lake, Wednesday evening.

Markey said that he used to spend his vacations fishing in Canadian lakes, but since he had an accident with his house-trailer last year, he decided it would be safer to fish closer to home. He is now on vacation from General Electric Company, Fort Wayne, where he is employed.

Markey, who with his family lives in a trailer at Rapp's Landing on the shore of Blue Lake, said that he caught the bass at about dusk last evening.

The fish weighed 6¾ pounds and measured 23½ inches long. He said that he had caught a 5-pounder last year and it was 24 inches long.

Markey said that the catch was the result of the only strike which he had during two and one-half hours out in the boat on the lake. He said that he caught the bass with a four-pound spinner line using a Headon Chugger as bait.

He fought with the bass for about 10 minutes, he recalls. He doesn't believe he could have brought it in with so small a line had the fish not tired itself by swimming into weeded areas in the water.

Markey said that he stopped fishing Wednesday after he caught the bass, "because I didn't want to press my luck."

21 Years Ago The Mercury Hit A High Of 105

So you think it's hot today, huh? Granted that it is not exactly cool outside, but Henry Phend has informed us that just 21 years ago on August 5th, the mercury read 105 degrees.

That was in 1934 when the city light plant was having considerable remodeling and Mr. Phend worked all day out in the 105 degree temperature.

And to think those were the days before air conditioning and Bermuda shorts!

11 United States Airmen Return To Freedom Today

After 2½ Years In Red Chinese Jails

By WENDELL MERICK
United Press Staff Correspondent

HONG KONG (UP)—Eleven U.S. airmen returned to freedom today, after 2½ years in Red Chinese jails, and told a press conference that the Communists deserved "not a damned bit" of credit for their release.

They crossed the barbed-wire barricaded Communist frontier shouting "To Hell with People's China."

And within 5½ hours of their release they were aboard an Air Force plane on the fiirst leg of their return to the United States.

They arrived at Clark Field, the Philippines at 9:40 p.m. 7:40 a.m. CST;. Newsmen were not permitted to talk to them. They will leave here early Saturday for Tachikawa Air Base, near Tokyo and from there will be flown to Hawaii and home.

They told the brief and carefully supervised press conference at the swank Hong Kong Jockey Club that the Red Chinese lied when they told the world their plane was shot down over Chinese territory.

Col. John Knox Arnold Jr., the senior officer aboard the B29 plane when it was dwned, said the airmen entered China from North Korea by train, while in Chinese custody.

They were charged with espionage, the fliers said, and were "treated like criminals" for all except the first two or three days of their captivity.

Arnold, when asked about their espionage trial, told newsmen: "I would not have recognized it as such until they told me it was a trial."

Wear Cotton Clothes

They wore nondescript cotton clothes and carried only personal possessions. Schmidt wore Chinese shoes and socks.

After the brief formalities at the bridge they were driven to the swank Jockey Club, three miles from the border where beds with clean sheets in air-conditioned rooms and clothing brought by the Red Cross awaited them.

While news photographers shouted at them to come back for more pictures, the airmen, laughing now, entered the Jockey Club.

Minutes later, waiters filed past with 11 foaming glasses of beer.

At the Jockey Club the men were shown their rooms—four men in two rooms and three in another.

There they tried on their new hats and tested the beds.

"An honest to goodness bed' said Baumer.

Then came the steaks and milk.

The floors in the kitchen and bath are of tile with the other floors in natural finish.

Government Puts Another Brake On Credit Today

To Keep Nation's Economy From Booming Into Inflation

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government put another mild brake on credit, effective today, as part of its program of keeping the nation's economy from booming into inflation.

Four federal reserve banks increased their loan discount rates in the government's second recent move to hold inflationary factors in line. Federal reserve loan discount rates tend to increase interest rates generally and thus curb borrowing.

The Federal Reserve Board action came five days after the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration increased down payment requirements on homes and shortened the terms of FHA and GI home loans.

The Federal Reserve Board's move, announced Wednesday, was prompted by the record rise of loans. Businesses borrowed 2 billion dollars the first six months of the year for a new January-June record. The Federal Reserve Bulletin also reported bank loans to consumers through June totaled a record $32,471,000,000. Real estate loans, the Bulletin said, were swelled by about $1,300,000,000—a new high for the first half of any year since World War II.

An increased discount rate means that member banks borrowing from federal reserve banks will have to pay higher interest. This was the second boost of the year.

The discount rate went from 1¾ per cent to 2 per cent in Atlanta, Boston and Chicago and to 2 per cent in Cleveland. The other eight banks in the Federal Reserve System were expected to follow the lead of the four in hiking the discount rate.

The federal reserve's move was aimed at "preventing inflation," a government official said, 'and is not to be interpreted as a recognition of existing inflation.

It was pointed out that the consumer price level has been stable the past six months after a decline from the peak reached in 1953. Bureau of Labor statistics officials reported a slight gain in the price index in June but expect little change the rest of the summer.

Officials hope the tightened credit will have greatest effect on the so-called "fringe borrower," particularly those buying automobiles on credit. Automobile loans rose to an estimated record $12,561,000,000 in June — the largest single item in consumer debt.

Kiwanis Club Inducts 5 New Members Wednesday Night

Five new members were inducted into the Kiwanis Club at its meeting Wednesday night by Errol Schuman, chairman of the Education and Fellowship Committee.

New members are James Faulkner, the Rev. Verlin O. Vernon, pastor of the First Methodist Church; Hugh Rheinhold, assistant county agent; Robert Weir owner of the Columbia City Freight Lines; and Marshall Van Campen, an employe of South Whitley Industries.

Following the induction of new members, Dr. Otto Lehmberg showed colored movies and explained some of the sights of his trip to Hawaii in April.

Among the pictures were some of the volcanic area and included views taken by the Forest Rangers of the Colcano Mauna Loa, which erupted in February.

Dr. Lehmberg and his party had Hawaiian guides while touring the Islands. Because of his own interest, he said that he asked the Hawaiians how they felt about statehood. He said they wanted no part in becoming one of the United States. Their explanation was that the majority of the Island population consists of Japanese and Chinese and the Hawaiians would be in the minority when state government and congressmen were elected.

Wrong Number On Phone Perplexes Laud Fire Department

The Laud Fire Department has been having difficulties with persons evidently dialing the incorrect number, and when the fire departments answers hanging up without informing it was an incorrect dialing.

Paul Raber, fire chief, has requested that those who dial the fire department in error inform whoever answers that it is a wrong number. In this manner, he said, the department will know there is not a fire someplace.

The Laud fire department number is Laud 2191.

Report 1,037 New Cases Of Polio In The Nation

Last Week Raising 1955 Total To 6,529

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Public Health Service announced today that 1,037 new cases of polio were reported in the nation last week as the disease hit epidemic proportions in Massachusetts and struck hard throughout the Northeast.

The new cases marked a 27 per cent increase over the previous week — not an abnormal rise for the nation as a whole at this time of year. They raised the national total to 6,529 for the year so far. This is nearly 3,000 fewer cases than were reported during the same period last year.

Polio hit savagely in Massachusetts where 204 cases were reported last week alone, including 79 in Boston. This was nearly three times the number of cases reported in any other state.

The health service said polio cases increased everywhere in the country except the west south central and mountain areas. Sharp increases were reported last week in New England (40 per cent), mid-Atlantic states (50 per cent) and the east north central section 50 per cent)

It also said there is a small localized epidemic in ee County, in southeastern Iowa where there have been nine cases and two deaths.

The service said 247 cases of polio now have been confirmed among children who received Salk shots. But it emphasized that no conclusions"can be drawn from these reports with respect to the efficacy of polio vaccine." A great deal of other data is necessary, it said.

The states reporting the greatest number of new cases last week were, in addition to Massachusetts, Texas 71, New York 65, California 57 Wisconsin 56 Illinois 24 and Michigan 50.

Russia Answers Proposal Made By Eisenhower

At Big Four Summit Conference

MOSCOW (UP)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin today rejected President Eisenhower's proposal for an exchange of military secrets to prove a mutual desire for peace.

Bulganin told an extraordinary session of the Supreme Soviet (parliament) that "I do not believe the proposal can have any great real significance."

President Eisenhower proposed to Russia at the Big Four summit conference in Geneva that the two nations trade their arms and military blueprints and throw both ountries open to unlimited aerial reconnaissance and aerial photography to prove their mutual desires for peace.

The proposal was the sensation of the summit conference and, until today, had not been answered by Russia.

Bulganin's rejection of the plan was made during a 1 hour and 35 minute report to an extraordinary session of the Soviet parliament on the results of the Geneva conference.

He said that in priavte conversations with Western leaders at Geneva, Russia had pointed out that the terrain and topography of the U.S.S.R. and U.S. "would permit camouflage of anything desired." Thus, he said aerial photographs would not give satisfactory results.

The comment was greeted with loud laughter.

Bulganin said "We believe that our proposal of the 10th of May is much more realistic.'

In that proposal Russia asked for progressive disarmament in two stages: Reduction of armed forces, a step-by-step reduction of arms leading finally to a complete ban on hydrogen and atomic weapons.

But Bulganin said the Geneva conference with its accomplishments was a success and "marked a turning point in relations between the Soviet Union and the West.'

Backstairs At The White House

By RICHARD E. MOONEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Backstairs at the White House:

The backstairs at the White House are made of marble, but the floors are made of wood. Those floors have creaked under almost 3 million tourists in more than three years since a real finishing job was last done on them.

Tourists leave chewing gum wherever they go, even in the White House, and cigaret butts, just plain wear and tear has also taken the varnish off in some spots, and the wood beneath shows scuff marks. And on the walls, thumbprints.

That's why the six-week shutdown for repairs, starting August 15. It's taking that long because the job will be handled by the small resident crew of craftsmen and painters, instead of an outside contractor. It won't bother the Eisenhowers, who will be in Denver.

Tourists can't get near the President's farm home at Gettysburg, Pa., but one has managed to leave his mark anyhow. Someone named "Harrington" has scribbled his name in pencil on the gleaming white wooden gate at the entrance to the driveway.

No autograph leavers at the White House, but an occasional seeker. There was an unidentified man collecting the John Hancocks of several ranking administration officials after the swearing-in ceremony for Marion B. Folsom, the new secretary of health, education and welfare.

Preservation of the President's privacy at Gettysburg has advanced anoher step. There's a point on the road, where it curves around behind the Eisenhower acres, from which you can get an unobstructed view of the farmhouse, at a distance of about 300 yards. Newly planted on both sides of the road in this area are a set of "No parking at any time" signs—bearing striking similarity to the type in use on Washington streets.

The machine got the better of the man's golf game the other day. President Eisenhower uses a battery-powered vehicle to get around the Gettysburg Country Club golf course. On a recent Gettysburg weekend the batery died at the end of the President's twenty-first hole, and there the game stopped.

White House yard workers were trying to protect the President's putting green from a horde of distinguished visitors the other day, but they were stopped in their tracks by Mr. Eisenhower himself. The Chief Executive spotted workers planting stakes around the green as he walked from his office to a backyard ceremony to launch a new issue of "atoms for peace" postage stamps. The guests were cabinet officers, diplomats and other VIP's hardly likely to trample the trim turf, and the President shooed the workers and the stakes away.

Clothing will be exhibited at the State Fair by Kathy Brennan, Columbia City; Beverly Matson and Monica Fleck, Cleveland, Paula Cotterly, Delores Shriver and Linda Knisely, Columbia; Janice Hindbaugh, Jefferson; Beverly Harrold, Smith, and Marlyn Beeching, Union.

Albert Esterline, Jimmy Hartley, and Janice Hindbaugh, Jefferson; Linda Knisley, Columbia; Joy Lynn Murbach, Columbia City, and Karlene Ray, Cleveland, will exhibit handicraft at the State Fair.

State Fair exhibits in canning will be shown by Ladonna Ness, Brenda Ross, and Amanda Stoner, Richland, and Roseann Ness, Columbia.

Other Seniors Listed

Other A-group winners in the senior dress revue, in addition to the nine honor group members, are Marlyn Beeching, Betty Wherry, Emalou Ness, and Karen Palmer, Union; Nancy Stampe and Darlene Walker, Smith; Amanda Stoner, Georgia Cummings, and LaDonna Ness, Richland; Myra Hatter, Jefferson; Beverly Mishler, Cleveland, Jerrylou Hosler, Columbia City; Nancy Smith, Thorncreek, and Jane Kethcart, Washington.

B-group winners in the senior revue were Donna Krider, Washington; Roseann Ness, Columbia, and Sneilla Hill, Etna-Troy.

Participants in the junior revue are not eligible for State Fair competition, but compete at the local level mainly for experience. Juniors modelled dresses, skirts, and aprons, and were judged by Miss Smith.

Winners in the A group of juniors showing dresses were Sue Binkley and Cathy Bockelman, Union; Jean Marker, and Darlene Tuggle, Etna-Troy; Beverly Egolf, Smith; Judy Willey, Washington; Myra Herriot, Jefferson, Rita Pittenger and Janet Ressler, Columbia City; Cynthia Miner and Linda Ross, Richland; Susan Smith, Thorncreek, and Sharon Nix, Washington.

Group B Juniors

Dresses in the B group were shown by Sandra Krider, Etna-Troy, and Nancy Cormany, Thorncreek.

All junior entrants in the skirt division were placed in the A group. They were Sarah Binkley, Union; Ruth Ann Adams, Thorncreek; Anita Dygert, Jefferson, Sharon Hull, Columbia; Lois Sheets, Washington; Denna Marks, Smith; Judy Baxter, Richland; Janice Garley, Cleveland, and Donna Burkett, Etna-Troy.

As in the skirt division, all junior aprons were put in the A group. Winners included Glenda Crume, Cleveland; Jeanne Auer, Union; Susan Krider, Etna-Troy; Rita Hinen, Jefferson; Betty Gibson, Thorncreek; Joyce Hull, Columbia; Jo Ellen Hull, Richland; Mary Lou Argerbright, Washington, and Judy Sievers, Smith.

Throughout the judging Miss Smith was assisted by various 4-H leaders.

Old Time Threshers To Exhibit Equipment At Whitbey Farm

FORT WAYNE — The fifth annual Old Time Threshers and Sawmill Operators show is getting under way on the James Whitbey Farm on road 13 between state roads 3 and 33.

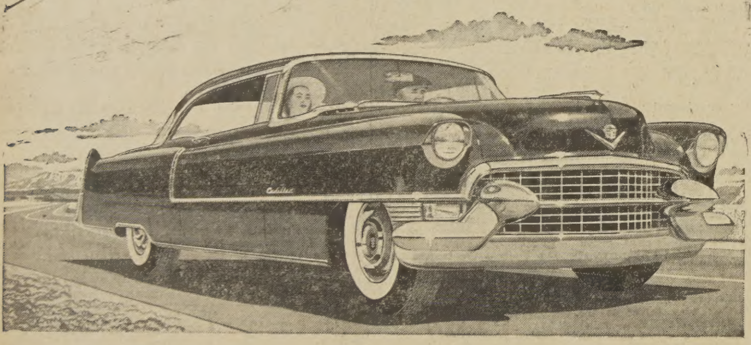
Equipment is being moved in and the whole place is beginning to look like a museum in a natural setting. The show is being held August 11-14 from 9:30 to 5:30 daily. Jay Gould, WOWO is in charge of the events.

Among the exhibitors of old steam equipment will be Eiffiel Plasterer, Huntington, a retired professor. He will bring a Kitten engine which has a return flue and water tank mounted ahead of the engine—about a 1920 model. He will also bring an Ann Arbor baler, belt power and a steam engine to run it. It is about a 1925 model.

John Harper, New Haven, found an old Rumely M-1 engine in a woods near Logansport. This is about an 1885 model, 12 horsepower. He will bring this along with a 1918 Buffalo Pitts engine.

There will be reenactment of old time threshing days, with the threshing machine being hauled into the farmyard drawn by a yoke of oxen, the pleasantries of the "willing workers" who will thresh the wheat; the hustle and bustle inside the house where the food is prepared.

Cadillac



The Great Practical Luxury!

This message is addressed particularly to those who have been thinking about purchasing a Cadillac—but who, for one reason or another, have not considered acting on the impulse this year.

For you, there is interesting and valuable information in the paragraphs which follow.

In the first place, there is no reason why anyone should ever put off ordering a Cadillac—once the decision for ownership has been made. For a Cadillac represents one of the soundest and most practical investments in the automotive world.

You can become the owner of a 1955 Cadillac for little more than you would pay for many so-called medium-price cars.

And this is only half the picture, insofar as cost is concerned. For when the time comes to sell your Cadillac, you will find that the car has held its value far beyond anything you could logically expect.

Authoritative price figures, based on year-after-year studies, reveal that a Cadillac may be expected to return its owner a larger share of his original investment than any other motor car built in the land.

And then consider Cadillac's economy of operation.

The car will run as far on a gallon of gasoline as most standard automobiles—and it is so soundly built and so soundly engineered that it is all but free from any save routine service requirements.

And here is the most interesting news of all: If you act quickly, the chances are that you can get early delivery of a 1955 Cadillac!

True, we have a backlog of Cadillac orders—but many of these are for future delivery or for special combinations not now available.

So—if you have thought of owning a Cadillac—come in now. Because of our low used car inventory, we are in an excellent position to make you a liberal allowance on your present car.

We have a Cadillac waiting to give you the most thrilling demonstration of your life. Why not make it today?

Banks Puts Name In Baseball Records

CHICAGO (UP) — Shortstop Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs put his name in baseballs record book alongside sluggers like Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig Tuesday when he walloped his fourth grand slam homer of the season.

Banks was the fifth National Leaguer and 10th major leaguer to hit that many bases-loaded homers in one season. No one ever has hit five.

Banks' clout also put him within range of another record. It was his 32nd of the season. The all-time record for homers by a short stop in one season is 39, set by Vern Stephens of the Boston Red Sox in 1949.

10-Year-Old Girl Is 21st Polio Victim In Massachusetts

BOSTON, Mass. (UP) — A 10-year-old girl today became the 21st victim of Massachusetts' staggering rise of hot-weather polio cases.

Sylvia Carrier of North Attleboro died in a Providence, R.I., hospital less than two days after being stricken with bulbar polio.

Her death came as state and city health officials opened an emergency "clearing house" in Boston to coordinate the fight against the onrushing incidence of the disease.

The outbreak already has reached a record state total of 612 cases—nearly eight times the number reported on the same date last year.

Officials Reach Agreement On New Contract For Workers

MOLINE, Ill. (UP)—Union and company officials reached agreement Wednesday night on a new contract for 12,500 CIO United Auto Workers at eight strike-bound Jonn Deere & Co. plants in Iowa and Illinois.

Pat Greathouse, regional director of the UAW, announced the settlement,butsaidi bb b bb b b settlement, but tsaid it must be formally ratified by union members before the three-day strike is officially ended.

Details were not immediately available.

"Both sides are working from notes right now," Greathouse said.

The union went on strike against the farm equipment firm Monday but negotiations continued.

The UAW had sought a guaranteed annual wage, improved hospital and pension benefits and a liberalized vacation plan.

Grim Three-Way Battle For Power In Argentina

Participants Are Peron, Army, June 16 Revolt Organizers

SANTIAGO, Chile (UP)—A grim three-way struggle for power is being fought out behind the scenes in Argentina.

Trustworthy advices from Buenos Aires said today that:

1. President Juan D. Peron is trying to regain the prestige he lost in his fight with the Roman Catholic Church.

2. The army is trying to ease Peron out gently.

3. The remnants of the men who organized the June 16 revolt against Peron have not given up. The original movement against Peron was not restricted to the navy, as was indicated at the time. It was more widespread than is generally realized.

Peron evidently believes he is gaining strength. This is shown by the bolder tone of the editorials in the Peronist newspapers.

The army is plagued by jealousies and other difficulties. Its top brass lacks a candidate for leadership who is capable of organizing and maintaining support.

The army also is handicapped by the fact that some of its leaders have been pretty well bought by Peron. Some of them own big estates and have enjoyed various kinds of rakeoffs.

There is a third force in the army. It consists of the younger men who have no ranches. They are dissatisfied over the delay in Peron's exit.

Refugees from Argentina expect developments from this third group.

An indication that Peron feels stronger is his refusal to grant radio time to Dr. Jorge Perkins, a leader of the Radical Party, after granting time previously to another opposition leader.

Another indication is in the report that the Workers Federation, the Peronist Labor union, and the Nationalistic Alianza Nacional are heavily armed.

Pictures of Peron, which for a while practically disappeared from the official press, are now appearing again daily.

Diplomats who have seen Peron report that he is acting cocky again. He was somewhat subdued for the first five weeks after the June 16 revolt.

There Are Symptoms Of Pennant Fever In Tiger Town That Could Develop In Epidemic

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

Detroit's famous five-year flag plan fizzled in 1950 but there are symptoms of pennant fever in Tiger Town once again in this 1955 campaign and if the race stays close they could develop into an epidemic.

For there are two things typical of Tiger pennant contenders. They are at their best in a dog-eat-dog scramble such as the current five-team brawl. And since the 1935 race, they have been the team to beat in years divisible by five.

They won in 1935 in a hot stretch fight with the Yankees that wasn't decided until the final weekend when the Tigers emerged on top by three games. It was even closer when they beat out Cleveland's famed "cry-babies" in 1940 by just one game with the Yankees third, only two games off. In 1945 Detroit had to win in the rain in the final day of the season against the Browns in St. Louis to clinch over second place Washington by 1½ games. In 1950, when the Tigers missed in the final week after leading the race through most of the season, they wound up second, three games behind the Yankees.

This year, even though they are on the fringe of the fight, 6½ games back today in fifth place, they are close enough to be authentic dark horses.

Detroit, Boston, and Cleveland cut in on Chicago's first place margin in Wednesday's battling. The Indians went back into a second place tie, one game behind Chicago by topping the Yankees, 2-1 ,while Boston upset the White Sox, 6-4, to move within three games of the top in fourth place. Detroit closed in by topping Washington, 3-0, on the two-hit pitching of their 24-year-old rookie right hander, Frank Lary.

In the National League where it really doesn't matter any more, Brooklyn again went 14½ games in front by beating second place Milwaukee, 9-6. The Phils ended a five-game losing streak and Cincinnati's seven - game winning streak with an 8-4 victory, No. 17 for Robin Roberts. The Giants topped the Cardinals, 5-3, and Pittsburgh beat Chicago, 3-2, then lost 5-4 in 12 innings. In the "also ran" sector of the American League, Kansas City topped Baltimore 5-1 after losing 4-3.

Lary, whose six brothers and his dad, Milt, all were pitchers down in Northport, Ala., gave the family a chance to cheer again when he set back the Senators, Detroit's "cousins" by yielding only singles to Roy Sievers and Ed FitzGerald. It was Detroit's 14th victory in 19 meetings with Washington. It was Lary's 11th win, tops for the Tiger staff. Fred Hatfield hit a homer and Frank House drove in the other two Detroit runs with a single and infield out.

Jack Jensen drove in two runs with a double in the eighth to give rookie Red Sox reliever Tom Hurd his seventh straight triumph with 2 2-3 innings of hitless relief work. Minnie Minoso hit two homers for Chicago.

Garcia Wins Eighth

Ex-Yankee Gene Woodling blasted a two-run homer to give Cleveland a series-tying triumph and Mike Garcia won his eighth game with sharp relief help from Don Mossi and Ray Narleski in a trouble-filled ninth. Narleski struck out pinch-hitter Eddie Robinson to end the game.

Pinch-hitter Bob Hale's two-run double in the ninth gave Baltimore its opening triumph and Alex Kellner pitched a seven-hitter for Kansas City's victory in the nightcap. Hector Lopez homered for K.C. in the second game.

Gil Hodges, who already has hit more grand slam homers than any other National Leaguer, got his 11th in the Dodger victory. He also hit another homer and Don Zimmer also drilled two for Brooklyn.

The Phils picked up all their runs in one inning, the sixth, and seven of the eight were unearned a s13 men came to bat and Cincy contributed three errors. Roberts scattered nine hits in the come-from-behind triumph.

The Giants made it three in a row over the faltering Cardinals on Windy McCall's seven-hitter. Rookie Bill Virdon hit two St. Louis homers. Hank Thompson homered for the Giants.

Jerry Lynch hit a two-run pinch double in the ninth for Pittsburgh's triumph while Harry Chiti's single broke it up for the Cubs in the extra inning game. Ernie Banks hit his 33rd homer for Chicago.

Withdrawal Of AAA Support Will Barely Affect The 500

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP)—The American Automobile Association's decision to withdraw support of all auto racing after this year will have little or no effect on the famed 500-mile Indianapolis speed classic.

That was the concensus of speedway officials today following a formal statement by AAA President Andrew J. Sordoni that the decision was made partly because of raceway tragedies.

Speedway Treasurer Joe Cloutier said, "We intend to go right ahead with plans for next year's Memorial Day classic."

Anton Hulman Jr., millionaire sportsman from Terre Haute, Ind., who is owner and president of the Indianapolis Speedway Corp., said, "I don't see any reason why the Triple-A action should affect the '500.' "

Harry McQuinn, chief steward for the 500-miler for the past few years, said, "Auto racing doesn't need the AAA."

All agreed, however, that a regulatory board must take the place of the AAA's contest board, which has judged races and set up safety standards.

But they apparently had no worries about finding such a board.

In Washington, D.C., Col. Arthur W. Harrington, Indianapolis industrialist and chairman of the contest board, said the Sports Car Club of America appeared to be best qualified for appointment as the new governing body by the Federation Internationale Automobile.

The FIA, headquartered in Paris, France, is the overall governing body for all big-time auto races.

Speedway officials said the AAA's decision Wednesday "came as a surprise to us."

Sordoni said the AAA's executive committee decided to act after the recent tragedy in Le Mans, France, where a racing car hurtled into spectators, killing 79 and injuring 1 .

Jackson Upsets Ezzard Charles

United Press Sports Writer

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UP)—A return match instead of retirement was considered today for 34-year-old Ezzard Charles despite the ex-heavyweight champion's upset defeat Wednesday night by Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson at War Memorial Auditorium.

Matchmaker Billy Brown of the International Boxing Club said, "It was a great television fight, and I'll ask Jim Norris to rematch them some place in September or October."

Gangling Jackson of Far Rockaway, N.Y., the third - ranking heavyweight contender, said, "I'll fight anybody my manager picks. Charles fought good last night, but I didn't let him land any solid shots."

Jackson, 23, won a unanimous 10-round decision over Ezz, who was favored at 2-1 because of his 16 years experience in 104 previous bouts.

Charles declared today, "I underestimated Jackson. He's a lot better than I thought—very hard to nail, and very tough when you do nail him. And he keeps throwing at you all the time."

Whether Charles retires or does fight Jackson again, Wednesday night's defeat certainly shattered his dream of getting a fourth chance to recapture the heavyweight title which he lost on a knockout to Jersey Joe Walcott in 1951.

Charles, ranked sixth among contenders, hurt Tommy several times, but lacked the fire to finish his man on some occasions and missed with "Sunday" punches at other critical times.

There were no knockdowns, but Ezzard suffered a thorough battering in the last minute of the 10th round as his tireless young opponent rained blows on him from all angles.

Jackson, winning his seventh straight bout, suffered a slight cut on his right brow and lumps under both eyes. Ezzard's right eye was nearly closed in the eighth round, and he began bleeding from the nose in the sixth.

Jackson, weighing 191¾ pounds to Ezzard's 191½, was "in the best condition of his career" according to trainer Freddie Brown.

The three ring officials favored lanky Jackson on rounds as follows: Referee Ruby Goldstein, 6-4; Judge Ted Shields, 6-2-2, and Judge Richard Fazio, 8-2. The United Press agreed, 5-3-2.

It was Ezzard's second defeat in six fights this year, an dhis 14th loss in 105 bouts.

The Hurricane scored his 23rd victory in 27 fights.

Little Joe O'Brien Drives Scott Frost To Victory Wednesday

By RAY AYRES
United Press Sports Writer

GOSHEN, N.Y. (UP)—Little Joe O'Brien, the most pessimistic driver in harness racing, forgot his worries temporarily today after driving Sol A. Camp's brilliant Scott Frost to a straight heat victory Wednesday in the 30th running of the $86,863 Hambletonian Stakes at Good Time Park.

Twice Scott Frost was challenged in the stretch, by Leopold Hanover in the first heat and by Galophone in the second. But each time he had the speed he needed to win a $51,075.63 purse for owner Camp of Shafter, Calif.

Camp paid only $8,200 for Scott Frost at the Lexington yearling sales, and he had two more "valuable" horses in the 1955 renewal of the trotting classic. But his $25,000 Butch Hanover was fourth and his $20,000 Home Free was last in the field of 11 three-year-old trotters.

It was a hectic week for O'Brien, who is a natural worrier even when things are going fine. For, during a workout Monday, Scott Frost appeared to have lost the fine keen edge which stamped him as one of the strongest favorites for the Hambletonian since no betting was permitted on Titan Hanover in 1945.

O'Brien warned all who would listen that Scott Frost was not the sure thing he appeared and moaned that he was worried by every starter in the race.

His worries were groundless although the heat finishes were much closer than anyone expected. Even when hard pressed, Scott Frost failed to equal the Hambletonian record of two minutes flat set by Hoot Mon, his sire, in 1947.

With Leopold only a half length behind him the first time, Scott Frost finished the mile in 2:01 3-5, but then, with Galophone pressing hard only a head behind, he turned in the second fastest mile in Hambletonian history, a 2:00 3-5 clocking.

O'Brien planned to ship Scott Frost to Roosevelt Raceway at Westbury, N.Y., Friday when the five-day grand circuit meeting here closes. Then he will take the colt to Wolverine Raceway at Detroit to compete in the Victory Song Stakes Aug. 11. Long range plans call for running in the $74,000 Yonkers Futurity trot Sept. 1 and the $70,000 Kentucky Futurity trot at Lexington Oct. 6.

Scott Frost, after his Hambletonian victory, now has earned $102,654.75 and if he can sweep the remainder of the races for which he is eligible, O'Brien can forget his worries for the rest of the year.

Galophone was third in the first heat and Leopold Hanover third in the second. Thus Mrs. Charlotte S. Devan collected $14,897.06 for Leopold Hanover's effort while Wilia mT. Maybury received a like amount for Galophone. Butch Hanover's fourth was worth $4,265.30.

Dairy Club Meets

A Churubusco veterinarian spoke on diseases among dairy cattle and answered questions about health rules for the 4-H fair at the last regular meeting of the Whitley County 4-H Dairy Cattle club Tuesday.

"What Equipment to Take to the Fair" was the topic discussed by Eugene Platter.

The group, meeting at the 4-H shelter house, was led in the pledge to the flag by Albert Esterline. Royce Ruckman read devotions and singing was led by Lois Boner and Dick Kyler.

Court Martial Trial Of Sergeant James Gallagher Continues

NEW YORK (UP)—A witness at the court martial of Sgt. James C. Gallagher testified today that he would have attacked the Brooklyn soldier because of pro-Communist statements he made in a Korean prison camps "if I thought I could have got away with it."

The witness was John H. Byrd, a punch press operator, of Detroit. Byrd said Gallagher took the side of the Chinese Communists in a discussion which followed a lecture by Gallagher alleging that the Americans had waged germ warfare in Korea.

Gallagher is accused of the unpremeditated murder of fellow American prisoners in the Korean camp and of collaborating with his Communist captors.

The first phase of the court-martial, which began Monday, was confined to the collaboration charge and four witnesses, close associates of Gallagher in the Korean prison camp testified Wednesday.

Trial counsel, Maj. James J. Jenkins, said he planned to take up the "unpremediated murder" charges against Gallagher by Friday. The sergeant is accused of throwing three "sick and feeble" men from their prison camp shelters into the extreme cold of a Korean winter, causing their deaths.

Among the spectators in the tiny Ft. Jay courtroom was the mother of one of Gallagher's alleged victims, Mrs. Loretta Jones, 53, and his sister, Mrs. Zenith Tucker. They came here from Detroit for the court-martial. Also present was Gallaghers mother Mrs. Mae Gallagher, and three of his five sisters.

In addition to Cpl. John William Jones, Gallagher is accused of the murder of Cpl. Donald Thomas Baxter of Waukon, Iowa, and a third man, not identified.

Martin H. Spangler, Albion Attorney, Dies Wednesday Morning

Martin H. Spangler, 76, well-known attorney at Albion, died Wednesday at his home. Mr. Spangler remained active in his law practice until he became seriously ill a number of weeks ago. He was the senior member of the law firm of Fraze and Spangler at Albion.

He had practiced law in Albion since his graduation from law school at Valparaiso University in 1907. He served as prosecuting attorney of the Noble-Whitley Circuit court and was active in Democratic politics.

He had long been active in the Albion Presbyterian church and active in the Noble County Red Cross. He served as chaplain for many years of the Masonic order and was trustee of the IOOF lodge and was a member of the Rebekah lodge.

Mr. Spangler was a past president of both the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary at Albion.

He is survived by his wife and four children, also six brothers and sisters.

Funeral services will be held at the Albion Presbyterian church at 2 p.m. Friday and burial will follow in Rose Hill cemetery in Albion. Friends will be received at the Bonham & Miser Funeral Home in Albion.

Stassen Says Inspection Plan Must Be Devised

As First Step To Disarmament

By WILLIAM GALBRAITH
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Harold E. Stassen, special disarmament adviser to the President, said today an adequate operating inspection system must be developed as the first step to international disarmament.

He acknowledged that no system—no matter how good—could detect all atomic materials already produced. So, he said, an inspection plan must be devised which approaches the problem in another way, such as by checking means of launching atomic attacks.

Stassen, one of the leaders of the U.S. delegation to the forthcoming meeting of the U.N. Disarmament Commission, said "we will be putting our emphasis on the kind of international inspection system that can be worked out." The meeting with Russia, Britain, Canada and France opens in New York August 29 under a directive from the Big Four heads of state.

Four Basic Conclusions

Stassen discussed the disarmament problem in an exclusive interview with the United Press the first granted by an American participant in the recent Big Four summit conference at Geneva. He disclosed that he and associates tussling with the disarmament problem have reached these four basic conclusions:

1. An adequate effective inspection system "in place and in operation is an essential prerequisite for any sound disarmament plan."
2. Such an inspection system can be carried out in vast nations like Russia and the United States only by reciprocal use of a complete aerial survey with the aid of photographic and other scientific equipment.
3. No inspection method has been discovered by the United States or, as far as it knows, by any other nation which would account in full for nuclear weapons material already produced or in production.
4. Any disarmament agreement that does not include an adequate inspection system would add to the danger of war and would not help the cause of peace.

President Eisenhower was guided by these conclusions when he told the Geneva conference "the priority attention of our combined study of disarmament should be upon the subject of inspection and reporting."

The President also won world acclaim with his proposal that nations provide each other with "a complete blueprint" of their military establishments and permit each to make aerial photographs of the other's territory.

New Avenue Opened

Stassen, asked what he thought of chances for reaching agreement with the Soviets, replied:

"I would not want to estimate chances of agreement. But there was a new avenue opened at Geneva."

Stassen said he thought the United States unquestionably has gained the initiative in pressing for disarmament. He said Mr. Eisenhower took that lead when he announced to the world he was creating a special post with cabinet rank to study the disarmament picture and search for a solution to this No. 1 world problem.

Mr. Eisenhower, he said, maintained that lead when he unveiled his dramatic "blueprint" plan at Geneva. Stassen said reports from the world over indicate people everywhere "recognize it as a significant turning point."

tempt took place.

Guard In Fair Condition

The wounded guard, Eugene Colhessy, was reported in fair condition at a Buffalo hospital with a bullet wound in the chest. Hospital attendants said the slug did not penetrate the rib casing and the patient was expected to recover.

Colhessy was wounded by a burst from a machine gun handled by the missing bandit. Three other guards escaped the flying bullets and gave the alarm which brought squads of police racing to the Brinks garage and in pursuit of the three gunmen.

Police said Salermerio still may have the machine gun he blasted at Colhessy. It was never recovered.

Salermerio was believed to be very dangerous and police were prepared to shoot it out with him if necessary. All three of the bandits were said to have police records but the details of their previous arrests were not divulged.

There was every indication that the attempted robbery had been well planned.

Four guards were on a Brinks armored truck which was carrying boxes of cash and a change bankroll from the Fort Erie, Ont., racetrack.

11 American Airmen Arrive At United States Air Base In Japan

DETASSELING CREW — Earl Pettigrew (right) poses with other members of his hybrid corn detasseling crew around the framework of the machine which stretches across eight rows.

The workers stand on wire racks mounted on the machine as it moves up and down the field. Note the metal bars which enclose the girls (at right) to keep them from slipping or falling from the machine.

CONTROLLED POLLINATION-Hybrid seed parent corn which has had its tassels removed can be seen in left foreground growing beside two rows of pollen parent corn with tassels still intact at right.

On the opposite side of the two rows of pollen parent corn are eight other rows of seed parent corn whose tassels also have been pulled off.

The de-tasseling will allow the seed parent corn to be fertilized only by the pollen from the pollen parent corn.

Growing Of Hybrid Seed Corn On Pettigrew Farm In UnionTownship Is Intricate Process

The growing of hybrid seed corn is an intricate process of controlled planting, pollination, and harvesting at the Earl Pettigrew farm in Union township.

At the present time at the Pettigrew farm, located about three miles southeast of Coesse, the corn is undergoing the second stage in the process. Pettigrew and eight helpers are removing the tassels from four-fifths of the corn in one 70-acre field in order to control the pollination.

With the removal of the tassels, the corn will be fertilized by the pollen from the other one-fifth of the corn in the field, but it will not do any pollinating itself.

Pettigrew and his crew are now going over the field removing the tassels for the third time this season. It may require yet another trip over the field.

Only One in County

Pettigrew, who is believed to be the only grower of hybrid corn for seed purposes in Whitley county, finished the first stage in the process when he planted the corn in the spring. At that time, the two types of corn were planted in the same field. The scheme called for planting eight rows of seed parent corn then two rows of pollen parent corn alternately thruout the field.

The eight rows seed parent on each side of the two rows pollen parent are the ones which must have the tassels removed to allow pollination only by the later. All hybrid corn is a cross between two types of corn grown in the same field.

Hybrid corn seed will be obtained only from the ears grown on the seed parent corn. The corn in the other two row sections will also fertilize itself and will produce ears, but it will be of only secondary quality. "Such corn is

Scattered Showers To Bring Slight Relief This Weekend

By UNITED PRESS

Scattered showers will bring sight relief to northern Indiana during the weekend, forecasters said today, but for the rest of the state there's nothing in sight but five more days of hot and humid weather.

While most of the state baked, Shelbyville dried out from a freak shower that flooded the city with a 3.5-inch deluge of rain in a two-hour period Thursday night.

Weathermen said cooler air has begun drifting across the northern part of the Midwest, but it won't make much more than a dent in the stifling heat and humidity that has gripped Hoosierland since early July.

Mostly fair skies were expected over Indiana today, boosting temperatures to 94 upstate and 97 in the south. Overnight lows will range from 70 to 75.

The extended forecast called for readings to average four to seven degrees above normal highs of 87-91 and lows of 64-67 through next Wednesday. Precipitation will average only .2 to .5 inch in scattered thundershowers Saturday and early Sunday.

Most of the showers are expected upstate, holding temperatures to the near 90-degree mark in the extreme north Saturday. The downstate high will be 97. Sunday will be fair to partly cloudy with scattered thundershowers and continued hot and humid.

South Bend, Fort Wayne and Evansville had the highest readings Thursday with 95. It was 93 at Lafayette and 92 at Indianapolis. The overnight low was 67 at Goshen.

The prolonged heat wave was blamed for a walkout of telephone workers at Gary where employes demanded some sort of air conditioning.

Surprise Offer Now Passes Next Move To Russia

President Eisenhower Offers To Combine American, Soviet Inspection Plans

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — United States officials said today President Eisenhower's surprise offer to combine American and Soviet arms inspection plans leaves it up to Russia to make the next move toward world disarmament.

Officials said the combination offer may be included in new formal U.S. disarmament proposals to be made to Russia and other major powers during the next 10 weeks.

President Eisenhower made public Thursday for the first time that he had told Russian leaders during

Freewill Baptist Plan Organizational Meeting August 14

The Freewill Baptist church will hold a revival meeting in Columbia City beginning Sunday, August 14, and continuing nightly at 7:30.

The meeting is scheduled to be held in the former VFW Hall located on the corner of Hanna and Whitley streets.

Roy Burkhart, Warsaw, who is pastor of the Freewill Baptist church at Claypool, will conduct the services.

It is hoped to combine the revival with an organizational meeting to form a new church in this area.

Ray Turner, Big Lake, is general chairman of the organizational movement. He is superintendent of the Sunday School at the Claypool church.

Tropical Storm Builds Up To Full Hurricane

Wind Estimated At 125 Miles An Hour

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—A tropical storm in the Atlantic built up to roaring hurricane strength today with a wind velocity estimated at 125 miles an hour.

The Miami Weather Bureau said the fast-moving storm was headed west-northwest through the Atlantic 325 miles northeast of the island of Antigua. It still was far off the Atlantic seaboard but the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico were warned to be on the alert for possible hurricane warnings later today or tonight.

Hurricane hunter planes found the big blow whose name was "Connie".

The storm has reached full hurricane strength, the daring plane crew reported back to shore stations.

Connie, third major tropical sttorm of the year, was first reported two nights ago by a ship which radioed it was lashed by winds of 40 to 50 miles per hour in the Atlantic.

"We have never had such early reports on a tropical storm before," a Miami Weather Bureau spokesman said.

The storm report came on the heels of the year's second tropical tempest, Brenda, which sprang up suddenly in tthe Gulf and invaded the Louisiana shore.

Brenda was unofficially clocked at 75-miles per hour just before it moved inland and blew itself out but was never officially designated a hurricane.

The first storm, Alice, arose and died in the Atlantic last January without reaching hurricane strength.

Horse Shoe And Checker Tourney To Decide County Champ Old Settlers' Morning

At least a dozen horse-shoe pitchers of Whitley County who have reached the half century mark in age are all set for the championship tourney on Old Settlers Day, Thursday morning, August 11. And as many checker "sharks" who have reached the age of fifty years are lined up to see who will be the checker champ of Whitley county for 1955.

The horse-shoe championship tourney will be held on the parking lot at the rear of the Presbyterian church, starting at nine o'clock on Old Settlers Day, and the checker tourney will be held in the courthouse corridor near the county clerk's office.

Official tourney horse-shoes have been secured for the event by the committee and a regulation sized pitching court will be prepared.

For the horse-shoe tourney, Ernest Cotterly will be the official score keeper, while Jesse DePoy, George Fry, Ira Plummer will be the official umpires. Officials for the checker tourney are city clerk Franklin Dillman, Willis Goble and Woody Jones. Entrants in the checker tourney are requested to bring a set of checkers with them and a checker board if convenient.

Tables and chairs for the checker players are being furnished by the Hollingsworth Memorial Chapel.

The frame for the horse-shoe tourney is being furnished with the compliments of the Columbia City Builders Supply Company.

The Old Settlers Association is putting up the cash prizes for the champions; $4 each for members of the winning horse-shoe team; $2.50 each for the members of the runner-up team and $1.00 each for the third highest team.

The cash prizes for the checker champs will be $7.50 for the County champion, $5.00 for runner-up and $2.50 for the third top in the tourney.

The cash awards and ribbons will be presented from the band stand at the afternoon Old Settlers meeting.

Slim Gunman Admits Holdup Of Paragon Bank

Authorities Think He May Be Involved In Other Robberies

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Authorities investigated the possibility today that a slim, bespectatcled gunman who admitted the $4,000 hold-up of a small Paragon bank also had a hand in two other Indiana bank robberies.

Held in Marion County jail pending a hearing before a U.S. Commissioner was Jack Frank Franklin Britt, 55, Hardinsburg, who admitted holding up tthe Paragon branch of the Indiana Bank & Trust Co. of Martinsville Thursday "because I needed the money to pay debts."

Britt, who said he was "ashamed" he committed the crime, was captured at a state police roadblock, slightly more than two hours after the bank was held up for the third time in 9 months.

Taken here for prosecution, he was turned over to federal authorities Thursday night. A complaint charging him with bank robbery was to be filed today.

Becomes Remorseful

The bank in the small village of 500 was held up during the early afternoon "lull." Wearing coveralls and brandishing a revolver, Britt approached teller Mrs. Marilyn Wilson, the only person in the bank, and demanded money.

He forced Mrs. Wilson to lay down while he scooped up cash and fled in a maroon auto reported stolen at Spencer. Later, when identified by Mrs. Wilson as the

Wholesale Food Prices Reflect General Up-Trend

NEW YORK (UP)— Wholesale food prices as measured by the Dun & Bradstreet index on Aug. 2 rose 4 cents to $6.21 — reflecting a general up-trend in commodities, the agency reported today.

The latest price, highest since $6.25 on July 12, compared with the 29 month low of $6.17 in the previous week and was 12.5 per cent below the $9.10 in the corresponding 1954 week. It was 4.2 per cent above the pre-Korea $5.96.

On the index, reflecting the sum total of the price per pound of 31 foods in general use, 11 advanced, 9 declined and 11 remained unchanged.

National Guard Armory To Be Built At Rockville

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—The Indiana Adjutant General's office today announced that a $190,000 National Guard Armory will be built at Rockville this fall.

Col. John W. McConnell said the armory, also designed for use as a civic center, would be a one unit building with facilities for 200 men. It will replace a temporary armory now being leased by the Army.

Bids for the armory will be advertised starting Thursday and construction is expected to begin about Sept. 15.

Reds Stalling On The Civilian Release Problem

Red Envoy Would Like To Take Up Item Two

By KENNETH MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

GENEVA (UP)—U.S. efforts to win the early release of 40 American citizens held by the Peiping government were reported bogged down today by Communist stalling.

Informed sources said Communist envoy Wang Ping-nan was trying to skip over the civilian repatriation problem and take up the second item of the agenda—problems of common interest.

The meetings themselves were in adjournment until Monday while Wang consults with his government in Peiping on the latest hitch.

Wang and U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson have met together a total of three hours and 15 minutes, half of which time was taken up by translation. Informed sources said they had made little progress.

The source said Red China was stalling on the question of American civilians held by Peiping while seeking some means of winning control over Chinese in the United States.

Informed sources said the Chinese made no secret of the fact they were most anxious to get on with the problem of arranging a meeting between Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Communist Premier Chou En-lai.

But the agenda agreed upon by the Communists calls for settlement of the civilian issue first. Peiping promised the matter could be disposed of quickly but apparently was taken by surprise when the United States refused to attach conditions.

Unconfirmed reports said Johnson had countered the Chinese stalling by bringing up the question of several hundred million dollars worth of American investments seized by the Communist regime in China.

These reports said the United States was trying to force the talks back to the subject at hand rather than actually trying to get compensation for the investments.

Water Flows Under 'Dry-Land' Bridge

DECATUR, Neb. (UP)— Water flowed today under Decatur's crazy mixed-up "dry land" bridge.

And Decatur Mayor W.W. Small said it's about time.

He's a little tired of all the jokes about the bridge.

The whole unlikely situation came about shortly after the bridge was built several years ago.

Seems the Missouri River switched its course, leaving the $200,000 structure high and dry.

Monday, Army engineers finally dynamited a channel to divert a part of the river flow under the bridge.

The project will continue until the entire river flows under the bridge in about three months.

Small said the project is "quite an accomplishment."

But, he said, it presents another problem.

Shirting of the channel westward, he said, will put a 2,000 acre portion of Nebraska on the Iowa side of the river.

Small said he doesn't know what will happen to this orphan land.

"Maybe it will have to be homesteaded," he said.

U. S. Stands Firm Against Change In Its Policy

To Oppose Recognition Of Red China

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower says the United States is standing firmly against any change in its long-standing policy of opposing recognition of Red China despite current U.S.-Communist Chinese talks in Geneva.

He told a news conference Thursday that the United States has no alternative but to withhold recognition "as long as Red China is branded as an aggressor by the United Nations." This apparently also refers to continued American opposition to seating Communist China in the United Nations.

A twin goal of the Peiping regime long has been U.S. recognition and a seat in the United Nations.

Nationalist China charged in a statement issued by its embassy here today that Red China's effort to intervene on behalf of Chinese students in this country is part of a "sinister" attempt to win tacit U.S. diplomatic recognition.

The question of a possible shift in U.S. policy arose when a reporter noted that the United States and Red China seem to be acting more cordially toward each other at the current Geneva meeting than in the past. He asked the President if that meant the United States was getting ready o shift its policy of withholding recognition.

Mr. Eisenhower replied, "Now, several times I have stated that as long as Red China is branded as an aggressor by the United Nations, which it still is due to the fact that its armies are in North Korea, we have no choice of our own, and I don't know how the United Nations has a choice of its own. There are other outstanding complaints which I have outlined time and again, and I have no idea that under existing circumstances there would be a change of the kind you indicated in our policy."

Both American and foreign diplomats recognize, nevertheless, that pressure for recognition and seating of Red China in the United Nations is building up. They said that pressure could mount still further if Red China should make sweeping concessions to the United States in the Geneva talks.

Stock Sale Exceeds $7,500 Goal By $350 As Of Thursday

Money received for sales of stock in the new high school in Columbia City totaled $7,850 as of Thursday, it has been reported by Robert E. Gates, atorney for the Joint High School Board.

The amount represents an increase of $480 over the $7,30 which was reported one week ago. Thursday's total exceds by $350 the original goal of $7,500 set by school officials before the stock went on sale. The final total is expected to reach at least $8,000.

Gates said that a final breakdown of the amount of shares of stock sold will be made Monday when the township chairmen submit their final reports. He urged that all reports of stock purchases be made by that time at the Farmer's Loan and Trust Company offices so that the issuance of stock certificates to subscribers may begin.

The breakdown of sales in Columbia City and the townships affiliating in the new high school is as follows: Columbia City $4,050, Columbia township $1,060, Washington $950, Thorncreek $650, Union $620, and Jefferson $520.

Police Seeking Bandit Who Shot Brink's Guard

In Abortive Armored Car Holdup

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UP)—A phantom-like bandit who shot a Brink's guard in an abortive armored car holdup apparently slipped through a police dragnet and fled into Canada, authorities said today.

Police said a man answering the description of the bandit had crossed the International Peace Bridge into Ontario.

The report was the only clue police had on the whereabouts of James Salemerio, 35, alias Jimmy Sheridan, the machine gun outlaw who engineered the Wednesday night Brink's holdup.

It was the third time that Salemerio had slipped through police nets to freedom. He escaped in a hail of bullets immediately after the $498,500 holdup attempt failed. A short time later he evaded police who had bottled up the West Side neighborhood where he was hiding. It seemed likely today that he had eluded guards posted to seal off all exits from the city.

Salemerio's two companions, Anthony Pettinato, 39, of Baltimore, Md., and Sylvester Mazzella, 46, of New York, were captured a few minutes after the holdup attempt. They are being held for grand jury action on charges of first degree robbery.

All Legion Members Urged To Assist In Platform Erection

Edwin Pugh, commander of American Legion Post 98, has issued a call for all Legionnaires to assist this Sunday in the erection of the platform and benches on the courthouse lawn for Old Settlers week.

Commander Pugh has requested all who possibly can to meet on the courthouse lawn at 8:30 a.m. Sunday.

In DC4, Former Private Plane Of MacArthur

Men Taken At Once To Base Hospital

TACHIKAWA, Japan (UP) — Eleven U.S. airmen freed Thursday after 30 months of Communist imprisonment arrived here tonight on their way home.

The plane, a DC4, which was formerly Gen. Douglas MacArthur's private plane, landed at the U.S. air base here with the airmen at 10:55 p.m., 10 hours and 40 minutes after leaving the Philippines.

The airmen were taken at once to the Tachikawa base hospital, where they will be housed during a stopover in Japan. They will receive "full physical examinations," expected to last three or four days.

The fliers still were flashing the broad grins with which they have greeted everyone since they returned to freedom in Hong Kong Thursday.

Airman Daniel C. Schmidt, Portland, Ore., rushed to a telephone to call his wife, who remarried after he was reported missing in the crash of a B29 in January, 1953.

Air Force officers who had been wondering whether to tell Schmidt about his wife's remarriage decided to break the news to him during the flight here from Clark Field.

The airmen's departure from the U.S. base in the Philippines was delayed today because the men, overjoyed at their first hours of freedom, stayed up late Thursday night. All 11 overslept, and the flight which had been scheduled after breakfast was postponed until after noon.

Lt. Col. James Davin of St. Louis, Mo., who is attached to the Far East Air Force's surgeon's office, said a physical checkup given to the men "revealed they are in very fine condition and well able to continue on the trip."

"They are the finest bunch I ever traveled with," said Davin who accompanied the fliers from Hong Kong.

Newsmen were prevented from talking with any of the released fliers, but the airmen appeared to be in good health and good spirits.

Lt. John W. Buck of Armathwaite, Tenn., one of the 11, received his promotion to captain, effective Feb. 15, just before they left Clark Field for Tokyo. Col. John Knox Arnold, leader of the released men, pinned the captain's bars on his shoulder.

The fliers crossed the border to freedom at 12:37 a.m. EDT Thursday at Hong Kong when Peiping made good on its promise to free them after holding them since the end of the Korean War in defiance of terms of the armistice.

Officials Seeking Cause Of Plane Crash Which Caused Deaths Of 30

FORT LEONARD WOOD, Mo. (UP)—The families of 30 persons killed in the flaming crash of an American Airlines twin - engined Convair stood by today, waiting for the bodies of the victims to be identified so they could claim them.

At the same time, officials of the Civil Aeronautics Authority and the airline poked among the ashes of the charred wreckage in an effort to learn what caused the plane to crash. All of the bodies were recovered.

The plane crashed Thursday while attempting an emergency landing with an engine in flames on the airstrip of this big Army installation. It lost a wing and fell, a half mile short, into a ravine of hickory and tangled vines.

Capt. R. D. Sinex, Army public information officer, said it was the right wing that burned off. He said the pilot, Capt. Hugh C. Barron, of Macon, Ga., was making a perfect approach. A few seconds more, he said, and Barron would have made it.

Seconds before, the plane had passed, at 200 feet, over an on-post housing development where the families of military personnel lived. Linex said "hundreds" lived along the path and it fell three miles beyond the housing area.

The plane, carrying 27 passengers and a crew of three, had just taken off a short time before from Springfield, Mo. Twenty-one of the passengers had gone aboard. The plane was en route from Tulsa to New York City, at Springfield.

Shortly after taking off, Barron radioed the Springfield tower that his No. 2 (right) engine was on fire and he was unable to extinguish the blaze.

Sinex arrived at the scene about 20 minutes after the plane had crashed. He said the plane was "nothing but a bunch of ash and molten metal."

"It could hardly be recognized as a plane," he said.

Two or three of the passengers were thrown out 25 or 30 feet from the plane. The others for the most part were "just piled up," Sinex said.

"He didn't clip off any trees or anything. The wing fell off. Then the plane just plunged into the ground. The area it covered wasn't any bigger than your living room.

"When I got there it was burning like hades. There wasn't anything we could do about going into the plane. When we finally did get things so we could bring fire trucks in, the fire had pretty well burned itself out," Sinex said.

Corn

of little use except as corn fodder", Pettigrew explained.

The seed which Pettigrew plants in the spring are types which he has obtained from C. E. Troyer of LaFontaine, with whom he has been associated for several years. Both the seed parent and the pollen parent types are each the result of crossing two in-bred types developed by Troyer.

Takes Five Years

Troyer at one time received the Corn King crown with his exhibition at the International Grain and Livestock Show at Chicago. About 20 years ago, before the development of the modern hybrid corn, Troyer produced a type of hybrid seed corn known as Whitley County Yellow Dent, Pettigrew revealed.

In the early stage of the in-breeding process, Troyer begins with ordinary non-hybrid corn of good quality. During a controlled breeding period of about five years, only the best grains are kept at the end of a season for use as seed. After two types each with a desired quality have been developed, they are crossed to form the hybrid. Both the seed parent and the pollen parent each is the result of the breeding of two of the in-bred types.

The breeding of the two in-breds to form the hybrid grain is known as the "single cross". The breeding of the two hybrid corns in the same field is the "second cross".

A strand of silk, which is hollow, leads to each grain on a cob. Pollen falling upon the silk passes down its tube-like center to the kernel which in turn is fertilized.

90 Acres of Hybrid

In the development of the in-bred types the corn plant loses much of its physical attributes, because of the concentration upon the grain. In the crossing of the two hybrids by controlled pollination, this vitality of the plant is returned, Pettigrew said. The hybrid corn also develops stronger roots.

The Union township farmer has 90 acres of hybrid seed corn, 70 acres in the home field and 20 in Jefferson township. The corn in the Union field, where he is de-tasseling now, is of types known as E-17 and E-10. He also has a small field of a type known as E-5. In the symbols, the "E" stands for "early" and the numbers designate a certain type, which has a growing season of from 110-115 days. ¼

The above types were developed by Troyer and Pettigrew has used seed from them for the last four years. The E-5 and the E-10 vary as leaders in yield per acre. Both average from 70-80 bushel per acre on his farm, Pettigrew said.

De-Tassel By Machine

From such a yield, about 40-50 bushel of seed corn will be realized. The E-10 ripens faster than the E5 and also has a longer ear and smaller cob, both of which are preferred characteristics.

Pettigrew has another field of 135 acres of hybrid corn which is not being grown for seed purposes and all of which is of the E-10 variety. The average yield of such open-pollinated corn is 100 bushels per acre, however it has produced as much as 130 bushel.

The corn-detasseling in the Pettigrew fields is now done with the use of a machine and a crew of nine workers, including Pettigrew himself. Before he purchased the machine about three years ago, the de-tasseling project required the services of about 20 persons, he recalls. He used to advertise for men or youths who were over six feet tall, or "who can reach the net on a basketball hoop".

Now, one man operates the machine and each of the other eight helpers removed the tassels from a row of corn. The tassels do not require cutting, since they pull off easily when tender.

Some of the corn in the hybrid field is sterile and does not require removal of its tassels. It will fertilize itself but produces no pollen to pollinate the other corn in the field. "It was planted so that there would some that we wouldn't have to de-tassel," Pettigrew related.

Equipment Worth $20,000

The de-tasseling machine resembles the framework stand for playground swings moving down the field. As the apparatus moves along, the workers remove the tassels while standing on wire racks mounted on each side of upright metal posts forming part of the framework of the equipment.

Pettigrew said that the tassels on the pollen-parent corn should be removed as soon as is practical. However, the tassels will not release their pollen until they have turned brown (or ripened).

Whitley County's only hybrid seed corn grower estimates that he has more than $20,000 invested in equipment for growing and caring for the corn. The equipment includes the machine for de-tasseling, planters, graders and treating equipment.

The grader sorts the grain according to three characteristics: thickness, width, and length. In the treating process, the seed grain is placed in a liquid slurry solution which protects it against disease and insects. The grain was formerly dusted but this proved to be too much of an annoyance to those doing the work, Pettigrew said.

Pettigrew said that there used to be several other hybrid seed corn growers in Whitley county, but as far as is known, he is the only one who still does it. He said that the increased scale on which it is grown today probably discourages many farmers from producing hybrid corn for seed purposes.

President Is In Good Health For His Age, Job

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's doctor said today the Chief Executive "is in better condition than the average man of his age."

The presidential physician, Maj. Gen. Howard McN. Snyder, said the strains of the past few months' heavy traveling and work schedule have not shown in Mr. Eisenhower's health.

Health is one of the year-from-now factors which the President says may influence his decision on running for a second term.

He told his news conference Thursday there would be "no great use" for putting off the decision if he were "such an infallible prophet" that he could speak now for next year "all about the world situation, the domestic situation and my own situation." Elaborating on his own situation, the President mentioned the way he felt, and possibly health "and everything else."

"I have not that gift of prophecy," he declared.

Snyder joined him in not wanting to predict what the situation might be a year hence. Sticking to the present moment, Snyder said Mr. Eisenhower's health "is certainly as good as could be anticipated in a man of his age in the job he is doing."

Political observers were interested in the news conference remarks for two reasons—the fact that the President spoke at all on the subject, and the broad implication that he still is undecided on this burning question.

Shower Given In Honor Of Infant Son Of The Wallaces

The two-weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wallace of Dunfee, David Wallace, was honored at a recent yellow and blue shower given at the Carl Enz home near Tunker. Mrs. Enz and her daughter, Mrs. William McVay, West Lafayette, were hostesses.

The pretty gifts that came from the guests and from those that could not be present, were found in a prettily decorated bassinet. A game similiar to bingo formed entertainment and each guest wrote a story about the baby which will go into his baby book.

A lovely dessert was served during the evening.

The guests present besides Mrs. Wallace and her son were the two grandmothers, Mrs. John Wallace and Mrs. Henry Hollman, and the Mesdames Russell Lancaster, Earl Emerson, Ed Menzing, Trauty Briggman, O.A.F. Germann, Ralph Mink, Ronald Miller and daughter Virginia, Arthur Harley, Adolph Auer.

GROUP FOUR TO HAVE CARRY-IN MONDAY EVENING AT THE CHURCH

West Point Church Women Hold Dinner Meet, Friskney Home

Fifteen women of the Evangelical United Brethren church at West Point were guests, Wednesday, at a dinner meeting at the home of the Misses Marie and Evelyn Friskney.

A picnic dinner was served at noon and a business and social meeting was held. It was voted to pay one dollar per member as a benefit to the Aid Society treasury.

Mrs. George Chambers and two children were guests at the dinner meeting.

Harry Jagger Family Makes 11-Day Trip Through Middlewest

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jagger and two daughters, the Misses Joann and Ardith Jagger of Thorncreek township, and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Chapman of Allen county, returned this week from a 11-day trip through the middle-west.

The Yellowstone National Park was their main objective of the 3530 mile trip through Illinois, Iowa, South Dakota, Minnesota, Wyoming, Montana and Nebraska. They visited the Corn Palace at Mitchell, South Dakota, and while in Mitchell attended an Indian show.

The party drove through the Black Hills, the Bad Lands and the Big Horn mountains, and attended a rodeo at Cody, Wyoming and they report seeing bears, moose, elk, antelope, and a number of buffalo.

Washington Township Club Enjoys Book Report By Mrs. Eby

"Song of Ruth," written by Frank Flaughter was reviewed this week by Mrs. Ed Eby before the Washington Township Home Demonstration club at its meeting held at the home of Mrs. Howard Krider.

The book report delighted 25 members of the club, also three guests, Mrs. Wilcox, Mrs. Jesse Jackson, and Mrs. Edison Faudree, who received the door prize.

The club sang "Holy God We Praise Thy Name" for which Mrs. Ronald Miller played the accompaniment. Reports were given of the Purdue Conference by Mrs. Roscoe Robbins and Mrs. Therman Martin.

Mrs. Ed Willey and Mrs. Martin co-hostesses, assisted Mrs. Krider at serving time.

The Zumbruns Make Western Trip; Travel Through Snow Storm

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Zumbrun, Columbia township, and Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Zumbrun, Thorncreek township, have returned from a 6,500 mile trip through the West. They traveled Road 66 to Flagstaff, Arizona. En route they visited the Will Rogers memorial at Claremore, Olka., and visited the oil wells in Oklahoma.

They report driving in a dust storm at Albuquerque, New Mexico. They visited Meteor Crater in Arizona and at Phoenix visited with Mr. and Mrs. Alton Beeching and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Weeks, former local residents, whom they found in good health.

The local people visited the Painted Desert, Petrified Forest, the Grand Canyon, Boulder Dam, and Sequoia National Park. While in Yosemite National park they traveled over the Tioga Mine Road which is the last remaining section of the old Tioga Road completed in 1883 when machinery and supplies were freighted in horse-drawn wagons to the Tioga Mine.

On the Tioga Pass, the Zumbruns were in a snow storm. They stopped at Reno, Nevada, Lake Placid and at Cheyenne Who., got on Road 30 and followed it en route home.

Mrs. Jackson Hostess, Meeting Of Eberhard Church Women

Mrs. Clarence Jaekson, West Spencer street, was hostess Wednesday afternoon for a meeting of the church women at Eberhard Lutheran. Guests included Miss Fanny Maxwell, Miss Sandra Heinley, Mrs. Ottie Foster, Mrs. Alma Keisler, Mrs. Leonard Wolfe.

Mrs. Elmer Heinley read from Proverbs 14 for devotions. The program of the afternoon included a poem read by Mrs. Myron Kessler titled "You Will Find" and a reading entitled "Lessons of Experience" by Mrs. Elmer Heinley.

Mrs. Jackson served ice cream, cookies, mints, and orangeade.

Israel Rabbinate Announces Burial Plans For Victims

JERUSALEM (UP)—The Israel rabbinate has announced it was making an exception and permitting the burial of Jews and non-Jews in a common grave at funeral services for the 58 victims of the Israeli airliner shot down by Bulgaria.

The bodies of the victims were so mangled identification was virtually impossible and there was no request by relatives to send the remains of non-Israelis home for burial.

VATICAN CITY (UP) — The Vatican City newspaper, Osservatore Romano, today charged that Israel's decision to bury all 58 victims of the El Al airlines disaster in a common grave is "blasphemous, uncivil and inhuman."

The Vatican newspaper said the proposal for a common burial for the victims must have come from "a thoughtless or false-hearted person."

Osservatore predicted the plan would be repudiated.

Boxing Commission Suspends Sugar Ray

BOSTON (UP) —Ray Robinson, former middleweight champion who is staging a comeback, has been suspended by the Massachusetts state Boxing Commission for failing to pay off a $2,500 expense tab in connection with a cancelled 10-round bout with George Small of Brooklyn, N.Y., March 5

Russians Have 'Weapon' Against Midwest Heat

By RICHARD McFARLAND
United Press Staff Correspondent

ABERDEEN, S.D. (UP) — The visiting Russian farm experts' iron self-discipline was their best weapon against the searing Midwest heat wave this week.

The Soviet tourists set out on more tours of South Dakota wheatlands with the temperature climbing steadily towards the 100s.

South Dakot ranchers, who are pretty good at taking the heat themselves, were frankly impressed with the Russians' dogged refusal to acknowledge the blazing temperatures.

The Russians enthusiastically tramped through acres of farmlands and climbed over complicated machinery, no matter how hot the weather.

Farmers noted that, even though sweat streamed down their faces, the Russians scorned to lift a hand to brush it away. At a ranch Tuesday, three of the Russians turned down a ride in a farmers' truck, preferring to walk a quarter-mile under the baking sun.

However, the Russians were not above going out of their way to insure their nighttime comfort.

They sent an advance man to Aberdeen Tuesday night to make sure that the rooms reserved for them at the Alonzo Ward Hotel were air conditioned.

Change Hotel Reservations

When hotel officials apologized that all the air-cooled rooms were taken, the advance man promptly cancelled the reservations. Instead the Russians spent the night in air-conditioned comfort at the Sherman Hotel.

They had a two-hour visit to the South Dakota Wheat Growers Assn. terminal here and stopovers at the Lincoln Ranch 12 miles northeast of Aberdeen and the Chester Gullickson farm near Bath, S.D.

John Strohm, the American in charge of the Russians' tour, said he believed the Soviets were gradually coming to realize what an independent man the U.S. farmer is.

Strohm has been constantly pointing out to the Russians that American farmers operate on their own and don't take orders from collective farm straw bosses or even their local county agents.

"I think they pretty well realize that there is no big boss," Strohm said. "It is important to get this across, but they have to make their own decision. I think progress is being made."

Echange of Laughs

The Russians, meanwhile, were having a little fun at the expense of their American hosts.

At the Geldon T. Frericks farm Tuesday, Aleksandr Ezheviski asked why Frericks had three types of wheat combines. He suggested that maybe the manufacturers of the combine helped Frericks with his farm chores and he therefore bought combines from three firms.

Frericks looked puzzled until an interpreter explained "he's pulling your leg."

Frericks got in a dig at the Russians a few moments later when Ezheviski asked how much electricity he used.

"Doesn't your wife use most of the electricity?" the Russian said.

"Yes," answered Frericks. "Don't the women spend all the money in Russia, too?"

The Russians threw back their heads and roared with laughter.

If Yankees Don't Snap Out Of It, That Hot Five Team Pennant Race Will Be Four

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

If the Yankees don't snap out of it, that hot five team pennant race in the American League will be reduced to four and the once proud Bronx Bombers will be in the second division.

They have fallen apart since July 4 when they went into that traditional pennant yardstick date leading the league by 6½ games for their biggest margin of the year.

Since then they have won 11 games and lost 18. Now look at what the other pennant hopefuls have done over the same period. Boston has traveled at the fastest pace with 20 wins and 9 losses, Cleveland is almost as hot at 20-11 and Chicago, on top by two percentage points, is 20-12. Detroit's pace is 19-13.

During their prolonged slump the Yankees were 0-3 against the Tigers, who come in for a three-game series tonight, 2-3 against the Indians, 2-4 against the White Sox and 0-2 against the Red Sox. Even the second division teams hold no terror. The Yankees are 0-1 with Baltimore and 4-4 with Kansas City in that stretch, holding an advantage over only one club, Washington, at 3-1.

Yankees Drop To Third

The Indians dropped the Yankees to third place with a 6-3 triumph Thursday on a three-run homer by Vic Wertz, while the rambunctious Red Sox climbed to within two games of the top with another victory over Chicago, 7-3. Detroit missed an opportunity to gain by dropping a 9-6 slug session with Washington while Ed Lopat won his first game for Baltimore, 8-1, an eight-hitter.

Ernie Banks, Chicago's incredible shortstop, led a home run spree in the National, getting three for a total of 36 in an 11-10 win over the Pirates in which there were eight route clouts. The Dodgers and Braves each had three homers in another 11-10 triumph, Brooklyn putting over five runs in the ninth to win and go 15½ games in front. Cincinnati topped the Phils 4-3 and the Cardinals defeated the Giants, 3-0.

The homer by Wertz came after Gene Woodling singled and Al Rosen walked. Ray Narleski picked up his seventh victory without a loss in relief of rookie Herb Score. Mickey Mantle's ninth inning homer was the only run Narleski yielded.

Jack Jensen bated in four runs with a triple, single, and sacrifice fly as Boston made it two out of three over Chicago. Jim Piersall hit a homer and double and rookie Norm Zauchin hit a homer as Willard Nixon gained his 11th victory.

After Detroit tied the score at 6-6 with three runs in the eighth on Ray Boone's two run triple and Jim Delsing's scoring fly, Washington laid down a barrage of four singles and a walk for three runs and the win margin.

Lopat Misses Shutout

Lopat walked no one and missed a shutout only on Joe Astroth's homer. Vic Power had three singles and a double. Dave Pope and rookie Bob Hale each drove in three Baltimore runs.

Banks drove in seven runs with his three homers which tied him with Duke Snider for the major league lead. Ed Miksis also homered for Chicago and Dale Long, Dick Groat, Frank Thomas and Gene Freese hit Pittsburgh homers.

Roy Campanella hit a three run homer and Carl Furillo a bases empty one in Brooklyn's final rally. Don Zimmer also had a Dodger homer while Bobby Thomson, Johnny Logan and Andy Pafko of Milwaukee all hit for the distance.

Cincinnati won its eighth game in the last nine and handed the Phils their sixth defeat in the last seven when Bob Thurman singled home the winning run in the eighth. Wally Post homered for Cincy and Del Ennis and Jim Greengrass hit Philadelphia round trippers.

Tom Poholsky became the second pitcher to shut out the Giants this season, holding them to four hits, striking out four and walking only one.

Ernie Banks Needs Four More Homers To Break Record

CHICAGO (UP)— Twenty-four-year old Ernie Banks needs only four more home runs to become the greatest homer-hitting shortstop of all-time.

At the rate he's been slamming homers over the left field fence in Wrigley Field this week, the Chicago Cubs' sensational shortstop could break Vern Stephens old record any day.

Banks belted his 34th, 35th and 36th Thursday off three Pittsburgh pitchers to tie Duke Snider of the Brooklyn Dodgers for the major league lead. He needs only three more to tie Stephens' 1949 record of 39.

With less than two years of major league experience, Banks joined illustrious baseball greats Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig when he walloped his fourth grand slam homer of the season Tuesday. He has 43 games left in which to become the first player in history to hit five grand slammers in one season.

Banks, who claims he isn't even swinging for the fences, credits his home run splurge to a lighter bat he's using this year.

Davey Williams To Quit Baseball

ROCHESTER, Minn. (UP) — Davey Williams, New York Giant second baseman, will quit baseball on the advice of doctors at the Mayo Clinic here, it appeared today.

The 27-year old infielder, suffering from spinal arthritis and a possible slipped disk, has been advised to retire because of the possibility of serious complications, it was learned Thursday night.

Williams, under treatment here for several days, could not be reached immediately for comment. But id Hartman, columnist for the Minneapolis Morning Tribune, quoted Williams as saying he had donned his uniform for "the last time."

Hartman said Williams told him the news "came as a real blow," but as something of a "relief" as well. He quoted Williams as saying he played last year only by "taking pills" to deaden the pain.

Eisenhower Makes Vacation Plans

WASHINGTON UP — President Eisenhower plans to leave the nation's sweltering capital today for the better part of a week at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm. An extended work-and-play vacation in Colorado will follow.

Mrs. Eisenhower is undecided about her exact vacation plans. She will accompany the President to the farm but may wait until after the President has made a brief return trip east to leave for Denver.

Mr. Eisenhower still has a mountain of congressional legislation to plough through; 300-plus bills which have been passed by the Senate and House and await his signature or veto.

He is spending most of next week at Gettysburg to concentrate on this work, and he will try to finish the job before he leaves for Colorado in nine or ten days.

The President will come back to Washington from Gettysburg next Friday for his regular meeting with the cabinet. He will leave the following Sunday or Monday for Denver.

In Denver, the President and his wife will presumably stay with her mother, Mrs. Elvira Doud, as has been their practice in past summers.

The President's customary work-and-play schedule provides for his putting in several hours of work at his Lowry Air Force Base office each morning, with a round of golf at the Cherry Hills Country Club in the afternoon.

If he gets a complete rest, it would probably be on a favored trout stream in the mountains near Fraser, Colo.

The length of the Eisenhowers' Colorado trip is still unknown, but it might run to six weeks or so, if former years can be taken as an example. He will make a quick trip east to address the American Bar Association in Philadelphia on Aug. 24.

Science Has New Way Of Making Salk Vaccine Safe

NEW YORK (UP)— Science has come up with a new and easier way of making the Salk anti-polio vaccine safe and surer. It may speed the perfection of vaccines against other virus-caused diseases.

By the new way, live viruses can be all but completely separated from the substances in which they are grown. What you get are concentrations of viruses which contain just about nothing else.

The three scientists who performed this amazing feat made a kind of emergency report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science. They wanted to get an outline of the method to other scientists, especially those involved in making the Salk vaccine, as quickly as they could.

Has "Many Applications"

These scientists — Joseph Smolens, Lewis Coriell and A. Greene, of the School of Medicine, University of Pennsylvania — said the method's "many applications" were "obvious."

For one thing, it can be used as a comparatively simple "safety test" of the Salk vaccine. For another, it can greatly simplify the "killing" or deactivation of the live polio viruses used in the vaccine. For still another, it can assure the "antigenic stability" of the vaccine—in other words, any given "shot" of vaccine would be just as effective as any other "shot" in stimulating blood chemistry into producing anti-bodies against polio viruses.

Their feat was based upon the discovery of Dr. E. J. Cohn of Harvard that heavy metals will assist in separating various components of blood plasma. The Cohn techniques had been used to concentrate and purify influenza viruses. Smolens, Greene and Coriell adapted them to polio viruses.

Method Utilizes Zinc

To monkey tissue cells in a nutrient bath in which polio viruses

Analysis of the solution, after the viruses and zinc were whirled out of it, showed that it contained 0.1 per cent viruses, which meant that 99.9 per cent of the viruses it contained originally had been removed. Further tests showed that the viruses had not been changed or affected.

British Firm Has New Product

LONDON (UP)—A British firm announced a new product today: A built-to-order atomic power station.

There's just one hitch: The customer has to provide his own uranium.

Associated Electrical Industries, Ltd., one of Britain's largest corporations, said it would start its sales campaign at the International Atoms-For-Peace Conference opening in Geneva Monday.

Lord Chandos, chairman of the corporation, said one foreign nation had already expressed an interest in buying an atomic power station. He declined to identify the country, however.

Dr. T.E. Allibone, chief of the AEI Research Laboratory, explained at a press conference that the corporation can build the stations, but law prohibits supplying uranium fuel to run them.

If the customer has no uranium, he must make his own arrangements with uranium-rich governments like the United States, South Africa, Canada and Belgium, Allibone said.

The research chief said his corporation would need about four years to fill an order for an atom station.

Carp Note

ANNAPOLIS, Md. —(UP)— State Senator Thomas F. Dempsey is seeking to amend a law so it will be all right in Maryland to shoot carp in non-tidal waters with a bow and arrow.

Announces Plans For Better Rural, Urban Understanding

INDIANAPOLIS (UP) —Indiana Kiwanis leaders and officials of the state Farm Bureau have announced plans for a program of better rural-urban understanding through agricultural discussions in each of the state's 110 Kiwanis clubs.

The program was arranged late Tuesday at a meeting sponsored by the Farm Bureau. The project will be held as part of National Farm-City week, Oct. 23-29, with Kiwanis International the coordinating agency.

Jackson A.Raney, recently elected president of Kiwanis International and head of the Indiana School for the Deaf, said success of the program would depend on individual Kiwanis clubs.

Hassil E. Schenck, state Farm Bureau president, promised Indiana farmers would cooperate because they are "vitally interested in promoting better understanding.'

Also taking part in the meeting were Merle H. Tucker, Gallup, N.M., national chairman od the Kiwanis committee on agriculture; L.A. Hapgood, Chicago, Kiwanis director of activities; Wayne Guthrie of the Indianapolis News, Indiana district Kiwanis governor, and Associaite Dean V.C. Freeman of the Purdue University school of agriculture, district Kiwanis agriculture chairman.

"Indiana's state parks pay their own way. Those who use them pay for their operation and maintenance," reports the conservation department.

Nancy Gephart Files Complaint For Divorce

Nancy Gephart filed a complaint for divorce against Richard C. Gephart, Tri-Lakes, in Whitley County circuit court Wednesday.

According to the complaint, the couple was married July 3, 1954 and separated August 2, 1955 and one child was born of the marriage.

The plaintiff charges the defendant with cruel and inhuman treatment, requests custody of the child and alimony.

Judge Pro-Tempore Ralph F. Gates approved a temporary restraining order enjoining Gephart from destroying or disposing of an automobile. The hearing on the permanency of the order and on the plaintiff's request for supoort is scheduled for Saturday.

Polio Outbreak 'Epidemic' or 'Not Too Alarming'

BOSTON (UP) — The polio outbreak was described by a federal official as an "epidemic" and by state officials as "not too alarming, but life went on much as usual tod ay in acit ytha th asr eported 271 of the state's 699 cases.

During the corresponding period last year, there were only 80 cases in the state. There were 22 deaths from the dread disease this year.

City officials took no steps to close city beaches or other gathering places for children or adults. Movie operators reported the usual seasonal slump during hot weather, but the pennant - hungry Red Sox continue to attract capacity and near capacity crowds.

Boston Health Commissioner John H. Cauley advised tourists it was "advisable to delay visits of children to Boston from other sections until the incidence of polio subsides.

"The number of cases of adults with polio in the city is extremely small. There seems no occasion to restrict the visits of adults to the city."

But Cauley said, "We're not going to put a gate around the city.'

Health Commissioner Alexander Witkow of Worcester, a city in the central portion of tthe state, has advised residents "There is no logical reason . . . to skip swimming, baseball games or anything else because B ston and other parts of the state are experiencing a heavy incidence of polio."

The situation in Boston was described as having reached "epidemic proportions" by Dr. C.C. Dauer of the Public Health Service in Washington.

Dr Joseph Reardon of tthe state Health Department said the situation "is not alarming."

"We are running many more cases than usual this year, but the ratio of paralytic to non paralytic cases is about normal," he said.

There were 82 cases reported in the state Thursday, a record number in one day. Of these cases, 47 were paralytic, 29 non-parlytic nd six not clssified.

State Health Commissioner Samuel Kirkwood said Boston would enter a "real epidemic" if the total in the city reached 320, or 40 cases per 100,000 population.

Hold Memorial Rites For J. A. Travelbee

Funeral services for John A. Travelbee were held Thursday afternoon at the Smith and Sons Funeral Home with the Rev. Graham L. Kleespie, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, officiating. Mrs. Helen Slagle Aker played a prelude and postlude of hymns as the musical portion of the service.

Those who served as the pallbearers were Granville Miller, Harvey Lawrence, Ralph Grant, Tom Hood, Walter Meyers, and Therol Black. Committal services and burial followed the funeral home rites in Greenhill cemetery.

Ralph Helfrich and Hartwell Giles, Worshipful Master of Columbia City Lodge 189 F & AM, conducted the ritualistic service of the order at the graveside.
